Caterpillars In New Advance

TORONTO, June 15 (CP) — Tent caterpillars have invaded large sections of Ontario and are stripping leaves from trees, the Lands and Forests Department said Wednesday.

Latest outbreak of the destructive pests was reported east of Sault Ste. Marie, in a 30 mile wide stretch of forest land. They were reported also in the western part of Manitoulin Island.

The department predicted the caterpillars would spread to the region surrounding Bracebridge and Huntsville. Earlier reports located infestations to the south in a 150-mile stretch from Parry Sound to Peterborough.

A third area affected is in the Gatineau Hills in Quebec, north of Ottawa, the department said.

Department specialists said the caterpillars are difficult to control over large areas, but landowners can effectively combat them with hand-operated sprays or DDT.

Frank MacDougall, Deputy Lands Minister for Ontario, said Monday the province cannot help with spraying because it is already fighting "far more destructive" forest worms and insects that do not die off every few years as tent caterpillars do.

HOME SWEET HOME — The Henry Hebers, one of thousands of families which fled before the flooding Red River in Winnipeg's greatest crisis, relax in their home after a strenuous week's work. There still is much to be done, but the family, after an evacuation of three weeks, is back home and happy about it. With Mr. and Mrs. Heber are their four children, in the BACKGROUND, Luther, 11, and Marie, 12, and in the FOREGROUND, Wesley, 8, and Walter, 13.

Lights In Flooded Streets Brings Winnipeg Back To Normal

By ELLY HEBER

WINNIPEG, June 14 —(CP)— The lights are shining in our street again.

I guess that's the thing that really makes the place look like home.

One by one, the houses down Stephens street have been reconnected with the hydro. The friendly twinkle in the evening dispells that feeling I used to have that this little point of land was a huge graveyard for ruined homes.

Now you can walk down the street and smell the trees—leafing as though nothing had happened — hear the murmur of people talking on their front verandahs, and see the lighted windows.

Two weeks ago it didn't seem possible.

Piles of Rubble

In the daytime, of course, there's still the piles of rubble in the street, the caked mud, broken fences and gates, dirt and ruined furniture tossed outside. And in the early morning, just before you tackle the new day's clean-up task, there's that horrible sense of unreality about everything.

But on the whole the flood is over. The fear is gone, our house is liveable, and we feel a sense of pride that we have taken all the river could hand out and still kept going.

We're closer to our neighbors for this experience we have shared; closer to each other as a family; closer to the whole huge city caught up in the same disaster.

Our home is in pretty good shape. We still have only a small coal heater in the living room to cook on, but the neighbors have been very helpful. The place is clean, the smell is gone and we've got rid of most of that clammy, damp feeling that hung around so long.

Now we're beginning to make plans again. Henry says that in a couple of months the whole thing will have been cleaned away, including that awful mess of wood and junk that floated into the back yard.

Most of us here in Point Douglas feel that the flooding could have been prevented. The water came about seven feet over the river bank, and probably a dike about six feet high and three-quarters of a mile long would have stopped most of it.

We know that dikes are expensive. But then, so are houses, repairs and all that goes with a flood. And people would feel so much more secure in the springtime.

Big Stone Falls

TORONTO, June 15 — (CP) — A 40-pound piece of stone fell 30 storeys from the Bank of Nova Scotia building to the pavement at the downtown corner of King and Bay Streets Wednesday. No one was injured. A official in the city building inspector's office said the stone apparently was loosed accidentally by a workman.

WINNIPEG, June 15—(CP)—Manitoba's flood relief fund Wednesday night stood at $4,672,522, or nearly half of the $10,000,000 objective.

Blame Jaundice On Water Supply

TORONTO, June 15 (CP)—An army medical expert said Wednesday that studies of epidemics of a type of jaundice at Kingston suggest that the outbreaks may be caused by impurities getting into the water supply.

Maj. R. D. Barron of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps told the Canadian Public Health Association that Kingston water, drawn from Lake Ontario, is chlorinated but not filtered. The city discharges raw sewage into the lake and it is possible that high wind carries sewage sediment inshore towards the water system's intake pipe, he said.

The epidemics of infectious hepatitis have been occurring for at least two years among soldiers in the Kingston area, university staff members and prisoners in the Federal penitentiary, Maj. Barron said. They were the only ones of the kind reported in Canada.

Dr. A. E.Young of the Toronto public health department said that tuberculosis among children appeared to increase following the Second World War. He said TB among children under 15 years in Toronto has been three times as prevalent as health authorities expected.

Canadian Violinists' Performance Highly Praised By London Papers

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON (CP)—A slim, young Canadian violinist—Sidney Humphreys of Vancouver and Toronto—has been given the nod by London's stiffest critics.

They have followed up the storm of applause which met the 23-year-old virtuoso's Wigmore Hall debut—from which he was not released until he had obliged with two encores—with reviews confirming the audience's discrimination.

After five years' intensive work at the Royal Academy of Music, and long hours of practice with teachers in Canada, it is the green light to what the Times called a "promising" concert career.

Humphrey's debut program embraced the schools from the classic Corelli and Bach to today's Benjamin Britten. He was weighed and not found wanting except in tone. This, though beautiful and clear, was not quite strong enough.

At the piano throughout most of the recital was Harry Isaacs, one of London's more prominent accompanists, but in a group in each half of the program the violin played alone.

Nice Sense

The Bach Sonata in G Minor for unaccompanied violin calls for an intellectual approach which can lay down the theme, then lead the listener through the development of a composition in which the solo instrument provides theme, variations and background.

The Daily Telegraph's "M.C.," a strict reviewer, said his interpretation here was "cool rather than impassioned and his playing of the fugue revealed a nice architectural sense."

"Phrasing Niceties"

The Times, as severe a reviewer, spoke of "many niceties of phrasing in his unaccompanied Bach."

Equally as demanding, in the second half, were two unaccompanied Paganini caprices, notably the second—No. 17 in E Flat.

Then, while his Corelli sonata was held by the Telegraph to show him endowed "with a fine sense of classical style," and his progression through the later stages of musical thought was equally praised, he won unstinted admiration for his reading of Benjamin Britten's noisy "Suite, Opus 6."

The result, in the words of the Times:

"To Britten's suite, Opus 6, he brought a quality even more necessary than virtuosity—a sense of humor."

Both newspapers mentioned his "pure," "clear" and "sweet" tone.

Humphreys, with three other artists, including Gerald Jarvis, also of Vancouver, is being sponsored by the Arts Council of Great Britain in a recital series in Germany later in the summer.

Investigate Monster At Loch Ness

INVERNESS, Scotland (Reuters)—The fabulous Loch Ness monster, who has been lying low since before the war, faces a hectic summer—the Rover Scouts of Oxford University are hot on his track.

Armed to the teeth with scout knives, poles and ropes, searchlights and binoculars, the Rover Crew of the university's Boy Scout movement plans to materialize the monster or know the reason why.

But he may be dead—of boredom or neglect. Since his heyday in the middle '30s the monster has been shamefully ignored in the world newspaper headlines that made him famous.

If he lives, he takes a fearful risk in showing himself now—for a hungry nation like Britain which has already whetted its rationed appetite on whale steaks—might not be content to retain him as a national showpiece.

The monster—first "raised" in 1934, when British newspapers were bigger and the problem of filling them greater—has been "seen" under a variety of circumstances.

That was before the days of spectacles, which may have corrected former vision faults or a tree trunk into a marine horror of mammoth proportions.

But the Scouts will give the monster every chance to rebut these slanders by a personal appearance. They propose to camp beside the Loch throughout August.

Hitler's Escape Baseless Rumor U.S. Judge Says

By J. R. TRIPLET

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Russians are suppressing certain material evidence, but Adolf Hitler "is as dead as Attila and Ghengis Khan," Michael A. Musmanno says in a book recently published.

The book is "Ten Days to Die," (Doubleday) a 264-page study of events in the Fuehrer's air-conditioned Reichschancellory bunker as the Russians battled their way into Berlin five years ago. The title refers to the 10 days following Hitler's 56th birthday April 20, 1945.

A human jaw-bone taken by the Russians from the shell-churned garden above the bunker is described as the most positive physical evidence supporting German testimony that Hitler died a suicide, broken in the defeat he regarded as a personal betrayal by his generals.

Hitler's dental technicians said the jaw-bone was his, but the Russians repeatedly have denied proof of his death.

"Russia's attitude on the subject warrants the observation she is not willing that the entire truth about Hitler's disappearance be known," Musmanno writes, suggesting the facts are withheld for some propaganda purpose.

Rumors Baseless

Musmanno contends the evidence from other sources proves baseless recurrent rumors that Hitler escaped. His book goes into detail, citing accounts by scores of Germans from Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz to Hitler's chauffeur Eric Kempka:

The evidence indicates that Hitler feared the Russians would seize him for exhibition and torture. He made a suicide pact with Eva Braun, and married her 48 hours before the end. They killed themselves in Hitler's study shortly after they learned two German armies ordered to relieve Berlin had retreated westward to the Elbe River. Staff members burned the bodies with gasoline and buried the charred remains in the garden.

Hitler is described as "one of the greatest mass orators of all time," but a self-centred coward who never visited a fighting front or a military hospital.

Musmanno is a Pittsburg judge who served in the Second World War as a naval captain and later was a member of a US war crimes tribunal in Germany. He is the author of seven books.

Council Regulation Outlaws Television

BRIDLINGTON, Yorkshire, England —(CP)— Tenants of a corporation housing estate at West Hill, Bridlington, are entering a complaint against the council.

The council has forbidden fences, gates and hedges. They ordered tenants to keep their gardens tidy and at one time stated that they must not grow flowers higher than nine inches tall.

Now they have ordered that tenants must not have outside aerials.

"What happens if we want TV?" ask the tenants who are appealing to the Bridlington Corporation Tenants Association.

The president of the association, James Hawthorne of Warsaw, then took charge. Miss Helen Tedford was the secretary.

The slate of officers for 1950-51 is as follows: President James Hawthorne, Warsaw; secretary Miss Helen Tedford. The superintendants of the different departments are: juniors, Mrs. Harold Payne; intermediate, Mrs. Trevor Watts; young peoples, Mrs. Chester Hamilton; adult, Russel Greystock; temperance, Mrs. Milton Drain; missionary, Miss Neville.

Britain Small But Has World Outlook

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

It is probably good for a Canadian's soul, a sort of slimming for his ego, to visit London once in a while. In three weeks there I couldn't figure out what swath Canada cut or whether it cut any swath at all.

And before we get mad, let us consider a few things.

We are accustomed to thinking of ourselves as a people of great spaces whose thoughts are as boundless as our many miles. From this side of the ocean we even think a bit superciliously of the tiny British distances.

However: we might consider whether or not our day-to-day concern with our own distances doesn't tend to turn us inward.

In London an executive of a large company took me to lunch, and before we could sit down he had to stop to pass the time of day with men just in from parts of Africa and Asia. Yesterday he had lunch with a man from Australia—today it was a Canadian.

Equal Concern

Throughout a tour of Rolls-Royce plants one could see that the people there were certainly thinking of their customers in Canada, but they were thinking at the same time of their customers in a score of other countries.

Altogether, being in London is rather like sitting at table with the rest of the world around you.

Canada House on Trafalgar Square, is ably manned and impressive; but as you wander along the Strand you wonder whether the average Londoner regards it in any different light than say, the office of Tasmania, or any one of the scores of houses of Commonwealth and Empire. After all, in that old city, it is only yesterday that we were a colony, and it takes time to adjust one's thinking.

Seems Goodwill

There seems to be a great goodwill for us, though perhaps in a negative and unknowledgeable sort of way.

If I volunteered the information that I was a Canadian, it would bring a greeting like this:

"It's nice to hear the Canadian accents again." Or, "it's like a fresh breeze to talk to you fellows."

And, as stated before, there is a tremendous fund of goodwill for Canada, as there seems to be in most parts of the world, and perhaps it is as well they don't know us better.

The show that seems to be opening up here for the next 25 years should go far to cure any important lack of knowledge.

Falls Off Tower

WINDSOR, June 15 — (CP) — Albert Bedenham, 51-year-old employee of the Horton Steel Company, Fort Erie, Ont., died in hospital Wednesday night from injuries received when he fell 100 feet from a water tower during the afternoon. The accident occurred when a rope supporting Bedenham on the steel tower of a water tank broke, plunging him back-first to the ground.

7 Cattle Die Within Week Lead Poisoning

Seven head of cattle died within a week before Harry Preston, whose farm is in Manvers township, discovered that lead poisoning from a worn-out battery discarded from a truck was responsible. Mr. Preston lost seven one-year-old heifers, two of which were registered Holsteins. He estimates he has suffered a loss of approximately $1,300.

The trouble started on May 27, when Mr. Preston discovered three heifers dead in the field. Not knowing the cause, he called in Dr. Ronald Lawrence, veterinarian of Lindsay, who sent one of the carcases to O.A.C., Guelph, where lead poisoning was diagnosed. The day after the first three were found, two more died and two more died within a week.

Mr. Preston had seen the discarded battery but it was not until the diagnosis was known that he realized the cattle had been licking the battery, possibly to get salt and secured lead poisoning.

$1,471 Suit

Peter Campbell, Woodville, who was sued for $1,471.08 damages by Milton Webster of Oakwood and for $285 from Morley Suggitt, Oakwood, after an accident on Highway No. 7 three miles west of Lindsay in October, 1948, was Wednesday ordered to pay $617.58 damages to Webster and $35 to Suggitt. The civil action was heard by Judge S. L. Smoke and a jury at the Court House Tuesday and Wednesday. Campbell lost his counter claim for $537 and was ordered to pay court costs. A. W. S. Greer, KC, was counsel for Webster and Suggitt, and Emmett Sheehy acted for Campbell.

Summer Jobs For Students Said Scarce

Summer positions for high school students are scarce this year, Howard Moebus, head of the vocational guidance department of PCVS, said today. This is the first time since the war that there is a surplus of students wanting summer employment.

Mr. Moebus explained that a large number of girls have been placed in positions in summer resorts even as far away as Banff. They will be working as waitresses, cabin girls and kitchen help.

The boys are the hardest hit. Only a few have been taken on by summer resorts as general workers. They want higher wages than those being offered, said Mr. Moebus.

In the city, girls as well as the boys have been disappointed. Only a few girls have been able to find suitable jobs while some boys have found construction work but nothing to compare with last year. The small stores and some trucking-wholesale businesses have hired students.

Mr. Moebus explained that the school had a surplus of commercial openings (15) this year for students graduating from the commercial department. Trained typists and stenographers are still in good demand, some being able to accept employment May 1 while others started this week.

About 95 per cent of the Industrial Arts department boys have been placed in apprenticeship, Mr. Moebus said. Most of these boys were working May 1.

Girls of the Home Economics side of the school, are not working because the majority of them will be entering nursing courses in the fall. They have the same obstacle as the academic students no employment openings.

Mr. Moebus explained that he has several permanent positions available, such as clerks in stores and drug store apprentices.

Germany In Council

BONN, June 15 (AP)—Western Germany agreed today to join the Council of Europe, made up of representatives of non-Communist governments. By a vote of 220 to 152 the Bundestag, lower house of the West German parliament, insured Germany membership in an international political organization for the first time since Hitler bolted the League of Nations.

Fire Brigade Training For Smithtown

Organization of a volunteer fire department with Noble Hicks as Chief is beginning to take shape in the Smithtown community immediately north of the city.

Residents were sending a deputation to a meeting of the Utilities Commission this afternoon to enquire into details of hydrant use and water supply.

Chief Hicks has begun lining up a staff of men, and has consulted Fire Chief George Smith of the city Department for a period of practical training.

"Our Department will be glad to help them any way we can," Chief Smith said. "They are expecting delivery of their motor truck and booster pump any day, and they want to be ready. Their men work in the day time, so we'll have to put on some night training classes for them."

This is a progress report on the action of the Smithtown people, a new suburban section, following the decision of the council last winter that it could not continue fire protection to the new areas across the city's borders.

The council agreed to help them until they set up their own volunteer brigade. It may be that there will be some further arrangement of co-operation when the details of organization are completed.

Three essential elements are emerging: staff, water supply and effective equipment.

Chief Smith said the suburban department was buying 1,000 ft. of 2½-in. hose and another 1,000 ft. of 1½ in.

County Requests Action On New Causeway

County Council would like preliminary work on the proposed Gannon's Narrows causeway to be completed by fall so actual construction could go ahead this winter.

Wednesday afternoon a resolution was passed in council that the Hon. H. R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, be approached to arrange a meeting between the special committee and Arthur Sedgwick, chief bridge engineer for the Department of Highways.

Before work can commence, Mr. Sedgwick must take soundings so an accurate estimate can be made on the cost of the project. It is reported that there is a rock bottom across the narrows but departmental engineers must first confirm this before work proceeds.

At present there is a floating bridge at Gannon's Narrows which is in such a bad state of disrepair that signs warn motorists to use it at their own risk.

Recently two Toronto men were marooned on the wooden bridge when heavy waves splashed into their car and stalled it. They were rescued by several nearby residents who saw their plight. Reeve Melville Johnston, North Monaghan, called the present bridge a "hazard."

"The county is already threatened with a lawsuit," he said, "and there could be a serious accident there."

Sound Through Ice

Ewart Marston, district engineer for the province, said Mr. Sedgwick felt that borings should be taken in the ice this winter. He stated this would allow a more accurate estimates to be made than by soundings in an open boat.

"Disappointing news," was the reaction of James Gifford, Ennismore. He said he didn't think any members of council expected construction work to go ahead this year, but they hoped preparations would be made.

"If nothing were done earlier than next winter then perhaps six months or even a year would go by before the causeway would be open for traffic."

Next summer's tourist trade was an important consideration, he felt.

Work During Winter

The best season for construction work (i.e. putting in the rock fill) is winter, said Mr. Gifford. The roads are not damaged by the continuous traffic of heavy trucks and there is a surplus of local labor in the winter months.

"Repairing the floating bridge is just throwing money away," he added.

"Borings are more satisfactory than soundings," said Mr. Marston. "We believe there is a rock bottom there but we would like to make sure."

Gale Elliott, Harvey, said that even in mid-winter a man can only walk about half way across from the north shore and the whole south side is treacherous. This is because of the strong current.

"Some work would have to be done by boat in any case, so why not the whole?" he asked.

"You couldn't get a dog across that narrows."

"And certainly not machinery," commented Mr. Gifford.

Council members then asked Mr. Marston to tell Mr. Sedgwick he had been misinformed on the condition of the ice, and if possible take soundings at an early date instead of waiting for winter.

First Cedar Strip Boat Built In Lakefield In 1849

BOBCAYGEON, June 15 (ENS)—Three generations of the Gordon family have been managers in the Gordon Boat Works that is now a thriving industry in the tourist town of Bobcaygeon. In 1849, Thomas Gordon established the Lakefield Canoe Company, in a centre where extensive lumbering was carried on and as a result an increasing number of canoes and skiffs were turned out every year. It was in Lakefield that the first cedar strip boats made in Canada were built.

High honors were won by Mr. Gordon's workmanship, when in 1886 he was awarded the Prince of Wales Medal for craftsmanship at the British Empire Exhibition in London. Further awards were won by Gordon boats at Philadelphia in 1876 and at Chicago in 1893.

In 1912, one of Thomas Gordon's three sons, Gilbert, moved to Bobcaygeon and established the present thriving business. He was joined six years later by a second son, Charles, when his father retired from business. Under his management, the Gordon Boat Works turned out many of the finest cabin cruisers and launches seen on the Kawartha Lakes.

This industry made an important contribution during the war when over 40 motor tenders and approximately 100 other craft including whalers and life boats were built for the Canadian navy.

E. T. Gordon, son of the late Charles Gordon, has been manager of the Bobcaygeon Boat Works since 1945. Since then the plant has constructed between five and six hundred outboard motor boats. The Gordons now plan to turn back to the production of custom-built runabouts and cruisers. It is expected that the plant will turn out about 20 power boats this year.

Five men are employed in small thriving industry which also provides a rental service and overhauls boats that are left at the works during the winter.

Dr. Cam. Craig Graduate From Ontario Dental College

"A man never stops learning"—so goes the old saw. And he can't, if he's like Dr. Cameron Craig, 21 Conger St., who was graduated in dentistry this year at the University of Toronto.

Dr. Craig, who will open his office here in August, is 40, married, and has one daughter, Barbara, who is 12. His wife has worked at Peterborough Civic Hospital for the past six years as secretary to superintendent John Hornal.

Dr. Craig, who was born in Verona, a village near Kingston, taught public school at Sharbot Lake for one year, and at Fenelon Falls for seven years. When he left the teaching profession to join the army, he was principal of the Fenelon Falls School.

"It was hard for him to start studying again," said Mrs. Craig. But it was something he really wanted."

At present, he is working in Kingston, replacing a dentist who is ill in hospital there.

After some time as a member of the reserve army in Lindsay, he transferred to the permanent force and went overseas with Canada's only railroad unit. Before he was called to Petawawa, where he took his training with the railroad unit, he worked in Peterborough in the wage rate department of the CGE.

The railroad unit he was with took over English railroads for the Canadian army, and with it, he gained the rank of Lieutenant. In 1945, he returned from England and was given his discharge that year.

On his discharge, he worked in the CGE again for several months until he was accepted into the pre-dentistry course at Toronto.

In his university summers, he worked at the CGE and picked up subjects missing from his BA, for which he worked several summers at Queen's University before the war.

His university training during the past five years has been financed by DVA, and he is one of 170 who were graduated in dentistry at Toronto—one of the largest graduating classes Toronto has seen.

Dr. Craig took his normal school training in Toronto, where his family moved from Verona, and while he was at university, lived with his parents.

Mrs. Craig says the six years she has spent with the hospital have moved by quickly—she hardly noticed them going.

Dr. Craig is a keen hunter, his wife says, although he has had little time for it in the past 10 years. Both the doctor and his wife are fond of Peterborough, and consider it an ideal place to live.

When, after five tough years of study and learning to study again, Dr. Craig hangs up his shingle here, the Craigs will heave a triple sigh of relief.

Last Saturday's tag day sponsored by the IODE chapters of Peterborough for the Manitoba Flood Fund raised a total of $783.54. Lakefield members raised a total of $110 on a quilt raffle Saturday.

CAR DOOR CRUMPLED

The door of a parked car was buckled when hit by a passing car as the parked car's driver, Leo Copp, 592 Waterford St., opened the door. Driver of the other car was Harry Fife, RR 1, Indian River. His car received a dented right rear fender.

CANCELLED TRIP

Junior farmers cancelled Wednesday their proposed week end trip to Ottawa, Montreal and the Eastern Townships. Some of the members had paid for tickets, but their number was too small. The decision was left largely to John Edmison, and Wednesday morning he notified Colonial Coach office that the trip was off. Probably the $22.50 fare put a damper on interest in the educational outing.

FINED $5.

Pleading guilty to a charge of vagrancy, Joseph Heffernan, 220 Munroe Ave., was fined $5 and costs in police court today.

FIGURES RELEASED

Clearing house figures for the past week, released today, show a total of $2,987,902. The amount has been about the same during the past month.

WINDOWS SCRATCHED

George St. store owners are complaining about vandals who have scratched their initials, and other marks on display windows. One window bears a mark about 10 inches long. The scratches show up white on the windows.

NORWOOD REEVE ILL

Missing from this June session of the county council were the salty comments of veteran councillor Rork Ferguson, reeve of Norwood. Mr. Ferguson is ill in St. Joseph's hospital. Council on Wednesday moved a vote of symnathy and today Mrs. J. Spurway, county clerk, sent flowers on their behalf.

Bans Swimming Below Bridge

Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, is renewing the ban on swimming in the local waters south of the CPR bridge, including Little Lake, the mouth of the canal and the river below the Lansdowne St. Locks.

"Tests of the water for colon bacilli confirm our findings in other years," Dr. Kelly informed the Examiner today.

Samples recently taken by Sanitary Inspector R. MacPherson generally recommend the swimming places from north of Lakefield to the CPR. They were examined in the local laboratory of the Ontario Department of Health.

The number of colon bacilli per cubic centimetre is reported as follows at each place from which samples were taken:

The report also gives the figure of one for the sample of water taken at the little canoe dock on the east side of the river immediately south of the CPR.

However, that does not affect the general warning issued by Dr. Kelly against swimming south of the bridge.

It should be noted, too, that the highest colon bacilli count was two miles down the river.

Improvement of the lake cannot be expected until the effluent from the Ashburnham septic tank is diverted across the river at Burnham's Point to the main sewer on the west side.

The MacPherson samples were taken June 9.

Strike Settlemnt Prospects; New Meeting

Prospects of an early strike settlement at the Peterborough Lock Co. seemed brighter today with the announcement that the company and the negotiating committee of Local 527, United Electrical Workers, would meet Chief Conciliation Officer Louis Fine in Queen's Park, Monday.

The 170 striking production workers have been out since May 4. Picketing has continued but there have been no incidents.

Right from the first day the management and office staff moved to a suite of rooms at the Empress Hotel and conducted business there. The plant has been deserted except for the daily checkup by a maintenance man complying with fire prevention regulations.

4-Hour Meeting

After a four-hour meeting Wednesday night between company and union officials agreement was reached on one point—time-study matters.

Still to be ironed out are union demands for a 42½-hour week with the same take-home pay, senority, retroactive pay and a hospitalization plan.

When the parties conferred with Labor Minister Charles Daley on June 7 the union claimed that company figures showed a 4.6 cents an hour loss suffered in 1949 by the employees. They pressed for an extra 4½ cents an hour and say they are still demanding it.

Company Books

Robert Maybee, company managing director, told the Examiner that Wednesday night the negotiating committee put forward a proposal agreeable to the company.

"The company would open its books to the conciliation officer and if he reported inability to pay then the negotiating committee would recommend to the membership that all cost-items be withdrawn."

"There was no such understanding," C. R. Sullivan, UE representative told the Examiner. "The union demands are the same as before; the only matter cleared up at Wednesday night's meeting was time study."

The meeting with Mr. Fine will be 10.30 a.m., Monday.

Wants To Know How Police Estimate Speed

"I'm here to see the process of law and how the police prove these approximations of speed," A. J. Bonney, 162B Parkhill Rd., appearing in police court today on a charge of speeding on Water St.

He said he may have been going a little over 30 miles an hour at the time, but he was pleading not guilty in order to see how the charge could be proved.

"It's a matter of interest from a technical point of view for me," Bonney said.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said the officer who had laid the charge was not present and the case would have to be adjourned to some date convenient to both Bonney and the constable before evidence to be given.

If he had to appear in court again to settle the matter, Mr. Bonney said, he would plead guilty and get it finished.

The magistrate explained that the speeds of cars are checked with a stopwatch over a measured distance, but said the police could supply more technical information if Bonney wanted it.

He suggested that the case be adjourned to next Wednesday. In the meantime Bonney could learn the details of the clocking operation from Deputy Chief John Naples. If he were satisfied with what he learned, he could send in the usual written plea of guilty and pay his fine. If not he could reappear Wednesday, plead not guilty, and get the evidence of the officer.

Charged Excessive Rent For Room

Found guilty of five charges under the Wartime Leasehold Regulations in police court Wednesday, Carmen E. Deck, 694 Water St., was fined $15 and $21.80 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC.

Deck faced three charges of collecting room rent higher than was reasonable and just and two of failing to apply to have a rent fixed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

It was brought out in the trial that Deck had made full restitution of the amount of the overcharges to the people who had rented the rooms from him.

Court House Justice Costs Rise For City By $8,2893 Annual Share Now $22,974

The cost of everything seems to be up these days. And that goes for the administration of justice as well. For the next five years the city of Peterborough will have to make annual payments of $22,974.72 as its share of the costs of administering justice and the use and upkeep of the county building. This is $8,283.36 more than the previous agreement. Every five years, according to statute, county and city legal committees meet to work out a fair sharing of these costs. The 1950-54 figures are based on actual costs for the previous five years.

Appearing for the county were W. C. Grant, chairman of the legal committee; Warden Norman Wilson; F. D. Kerr, KC, county solicitor; James Gifford, and Mrs. J. Spurway, county clerk.

The city was represented by Mayor Max J. Swanston, Alderman Hugh Waddell, finance chairman, Alderman James Gillespie, and Harry Hamley, assistant city clerk.

Formula for payment is based on the populations. The city claimed 33,947 residents and the county, 18,094.

Use of buildings will cost the city $2,200 while maintenance and administration of justice are set at $20,774.72—a total of $22,974.72. Quarterly payments will be $5,743.68.

Previously the city was billed for $14,691.36 a year.

The 1950-54 share borne by the county will be $11,073.88 a year. The levy for use of buildings does not enter into the county's costs.

75 Miles Roads In County Being Improved

Six township roads, totalling about 75 miles, are now included under the Department of Highways' "development road scheme."

Three of the roads were previously taken over and should be finished this year, Ewart Marston, district engineer for the department, told Peterborough county council Wednesday afternoon.

And work will start soon on three new ones — the 10-mile stretch of road between Highway 28 and McCracken's Landing, known as the Clear Lake road; six miles of road in Chandos, from the postoffice north around Chandos Lake; and the 20-mile "Church Line road", the 11th concession of Galway-Cavendish.

(Under the department's "development road scheme," agreements are made with the municipality so the department can take over a specified road for a period of time, improve it, and then hand it back.)

Three roads must still be finished:

The Havelock-Lasswade road, some 25 miles in length of which half is already completed.

The half-mile connecting link between Buckhorn and Highway 36. Work on this link will finish shortly.

Merchants Find Customers Harder To Sell

Customers, a much-disparaged class of people during wartime and the two or three years after the war, are coming back into their own.

Peterborough merchants report that customers are tougher propositions than they have been for some time. They say that if a customer doesn't like a thing, he looks in other stores until he finds something that suits him.

"They're worrying more about value," said one store-keeper. "They seem to be more careful with their money."

Not Buying As Much

Asked if people were buying as much, one merchant said they weren't. "But they're buying quality goods they wouldn't touch before," he added.

As an example, this same merchant said he had a customer two weeks ago, who spotted an article he liked. Pressed discreetly for an order, the customer said he wanted to look around before he did anything.

Finally, said the merchant, he came back, and ordered the article.

During wartime, customers would see something they wanted, and would buy it without waiting, afraid that somebody else would get it if they let it go by.

More Cautious

Another merchant, who has a heavy volume of trade in normal times, said customers weren't coming in as often as they had been.

"I'd say the strike that threatened down at the CGE not long ago had a lot to do with it," one said. "I noticed shortly after, that people were a good deal more cautious."

Consensus was that more cautious buying, and more purchases of quality goods, would continue and lead eventually to better customers and better products.

Politicians Can't Agree If Festival Good Or Bad

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, June 15 — (CP) — Something mighty spectacular is going to take place in Britain next year, but politicians are of two minds whether it will be good or bad for the country.

From May to September 1951, this tight little island will officially and somewhat self-consciously signal its peacetime recovery with a project known as the Festival of Britain. A minimum of £10,000,000 ($31,000,000) will be spent to put Britain on parade before the world.

Centrepiece of the exhibition will be a 30-acre site in the centre of London, a stone's throw from Waterloo Bridge, at a cost reported to be £6,000,000. This will tell Britain's story in various kinds of exhibits. Among other things, there will be a dome of discovery, a pyramid and a concert hall.

A mile or so up the River Thames will be a pleasure garden in Battersea Park, with 37 acres devoted to open-air cafes, fireworks, fun fairs and, says an official announcement, "all sorts of entertainments." Special river craft will link the two sites.

Special Section

In the badly-bombed East End, right in the heart of teeming dockland, there will be a £1,600,000 development scheme eventually to be named Lansbury, after the late George Lansbury, a celebrated labor leader. Visitors will see aparments, houses, schools and a shopping centre forming what is called the "live architecture" section of exhibition.

Special attractions are planned by cities, towns and villages throughout Britain. Two travelling "exhibitions in miniature" will cost £830,000.

By next year the show may become a first-class political controversy. The Conservatives already claim that it is a fantastically extravagant idea at a time of relatives impoverishment.

But the work goes on, and the latest pamphlet from the festival council claims that the festival will make 1951 a landmark in British history.

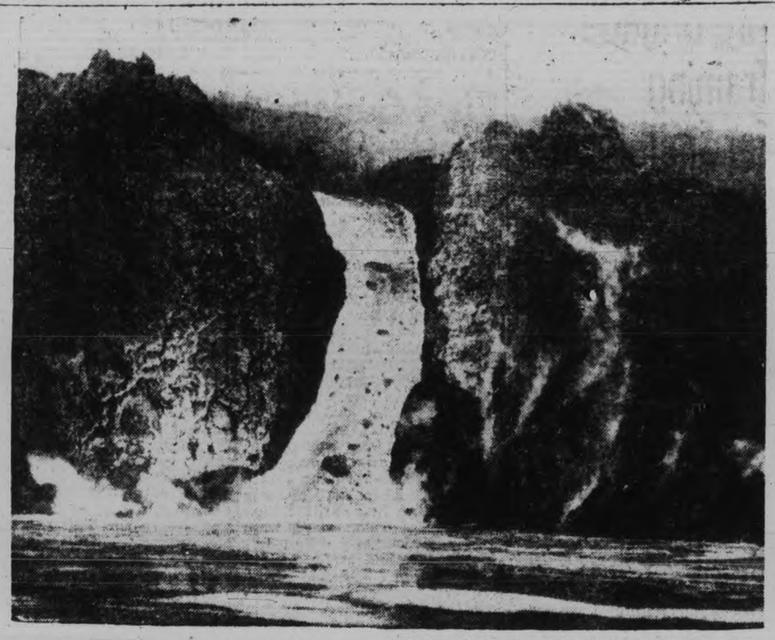
Bubble Trouble Strikes Town

STOCKPORT, Cheshire, England —(CP)— This town has an epidemic of bubble trouble.

So many homes and factories in the district are using soap substitutes that the plan disposes of the waste water can't "break it down."

Instead the machine is blowing bubbles—"as big as this," said Alderman A. Foukes, waving his clenched fist.

It's the size of the bubble that's causing the trouble. And there are hundreds of them. Some of the spheroids are two feet in diameter.



Said the disposal plants deputy manager, E. R. Jones:

"They're likely to terrorize the countryside for miles around. Besides, they're liable to be reported as flying sausages."

Meanwhile as bubbles gurgle gaily from the plant, experts are experimenting on how to (dis-) solve the problem.

Comforts of Home

AUCKLAND, NZ —(CP)— Resumption of conscription in New Zealand has brought beds in army camps made "as mother makes them." But recruits are novices in the art of bed-making and tough sergeants have been reduced to giving lessons in elementary housework.

THIS MOLTEN STREAM OF LAVA from erupting Mauna Loa in the Hawaiian Islands pours down a cliffside into the sea June 8. The volcano started erupting June 1. The stream here averages about 50 feet wide. Photo was taken about 75 feet from the cascade.

Bugle Blowing Said Barbaric

LONDON —(CP)—Bugles will still be blown at British army barracks despite parliamentary protests, says war secretary John Strachey.

He was replying to members who described the blowing of bugles in barracks as a "barbarian uproar."

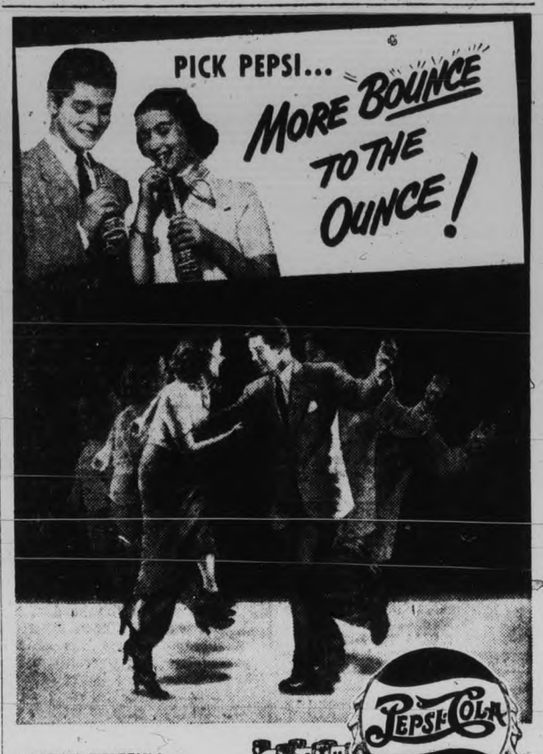
Group Capt. C. A. B. Wilcock, Labor member for Derby North, said in the Commons that at Wellington Barracks in London bugles were blown at reveille, at dinner time, and on going to bed.

Strachey, denying that there was any bugle-call at bed time, said "People often need to be reminded when it is time to get up, and they like to hear when it is dinner time."

The Perfect Policeman

ALDEBURGH, Suffolk, England —(CP)— Chief inspector A. J. Allison's ideal policeman: "Tall, well-educated, with small feet, the strength of Hercules, the judgment of Solomon, the patience of Job, the wisdom of an arm-chair critic—and a house."

British Writer Flays Adjudicators



CARLISLE, England, June 6—(CP)—Drama adjudicators who indulge in "cheap witticisms" were criticized at the annual meeting of the County of Cumberland Drama League.

Ronald Bowman, amateur playwright speaking for Carlisle Theatre Guild, said adjudicators making such cracks got a cheap laugh, but did no real good.

Bowman suggested that adjudicating be done privately.

"When the adjudication is done in public, does not the adjudicator play too much to the public?" Bowman asked.

The meeting took no action on Bowman's suggestion.

School Board Engages New Teacher

HAVELOCK, June 15 (ENS)—The application of Miss Shirley Dolden of Toronto for the position of teacher for grades two and three in the public school was accepted by the Board of Education Monday. Miss Dolden will fill the vacancy on the teaching staff caused by the resignation of Miss A. Gillies.

On motion by trustees Smith and Calnan the caretaker's salary was raised at $1,500 a year, retroactive from June 1.

Trustee R. Williams was authorized to hire J. Jacobs to repair eave troughing at the school cost of the work not to xeceed $75.

On motion of trustees Calnan and Williams, a wire fence will be erected from Oak St. to the corner of the playground north of the school, the old fence around the playground to be repaired and chicken wire to be placed above the board fence. The roof is to be checked, drain piped and redecorating is to be left to the property committee.

Garden Prizes

The Board decided to give three prizes for the best garden plots in the school garden as follows: first $3, second $2, and ten $1 prizes.

Principal R. D. Buchanan suggested to the Board that parents be requested to register beginners this month for the September class. Mr. Buchanan reported the local school softball team had won two games out of three against Norwood. They played one with Lakefield and lost the game, the return game to be played in Lakefield today.

Mrs. G. Buchanan had served for two and a half days as supply teacher.

Attendance Poor

School attendance had been low, Mr. Buchanan said owing to a number of pupils having chicken pox.

The truant officer reported the school open 22 days in May with an enrollment of 170 and average attendance of 159.18. Perfect aggregate attendance 3726, actual aggregate attendance 3502, percentage 93.99.

Selwyn WA Plans Strawberry Festival

SELWYN, June 15—(ENS)—Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyl entertained the Woman's Association for the June meeting, when a strawberry festival for June 30 was planned. The festival will be followed by the presentation of a play.

The north group is also sponsoring a bingo in the church hall on June 16.

The suggestion that a silver tea be held in celebration of the church's silver jubilee was made but this was left over for further consideration.

The next meeting will be held in September at the home of Mrs. Seymour Sweeting. Refreshments ended the meeting.

Bailieboro Hamlet Ask For Street Light

MILLBROOK, June 15—(ENS)—Cavan council is making application to the Hydro Commission for an extra light to be placed on the west side of Highway 28 in the hamlet of Bailieboro. The council was asked on Saturday that the extra light be placed in front of the residence of James Roddys, the cost of installation and service to be borne by Bailieboro Orange Lodge.

MONTREAL, June 15th.—Weddings—showers—birthdays . . . all red letter days are "right" days for cake decorated to suit the occasion. But make sure it's the best cake ever—by using the finest ingredients! Ingredients such as SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR, the cake flour that's sifted over and over again until it's 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. Not party cakes alone—but all cakes—are better made with Swans Down. Don't just take my word for it that Swans Down is a wonder-worker (though I've proved it to myself over and over again!). TRY Swans Down—the very next "gala occasion" cake you bake!

Don't Let Dreams of your first June jaunt to the country be spoiled by blackflies and mosquitoes! FLY-TOX is the perfect answer to this pest-problem! It's certain death to insect nuisances, yet though it's so powerfully effective, it has a scarcely noticeable odour. You'll be glad to know, too, that although FLY-TOX is extra long-lasting, it won't stain blankets or clothing. Yes, the quickest, surest way I know to kill blackflies, mosquitoes and other insect pests is to spray pleasant-smelling FLY-TOX. But don't accept substitutes, ask for it by name at better stores everywhere. Available in 3 sizes—the 8 oz. tin at 29c; the 16 oz. tin at 50c; and the 32 oz. tin at 85c.

A Happy Job Suggestion For Your Daughter! Interesting, well-paid work in the BANK OF MONTREAL offers just those advantages that a girl most appreciates when she's starting out to earn her living. There's a good opening salary and all members of the B of M staff enjoy the benefits of Group Accident and Health Insurance. Hours are good, too—and the bank is a clean, pleasant place to work in. But what your daughter will probably enjoy most is the personal nature of the job. In most B of M offices, she'll be in constant contact with the public—meeting people and helping them all the time! She'll be working, too, with other women who enjoy their jobs and take a pride in their profession. Speak to your daughter about this wonderful job opportunity . . . If she likes the idea, she should step inside your nearest branch of the B of M and have a word with the manager. He'll be glad to tell her more about the work and its opportunities.

Here's A Salad your husband will rave about—particularly when you make sure of its good taste with HEINZ MAYONNAISE! Heinz Mayonnaise—a skilful blend of vegetable oils, vinegar, eggs, salt and spices—is the flavour "star" of many a salad. Try it with this one:—

Best idea, of course, is to make a daily habit of Murine. Don't wait 'til your eyes complain . . . keep them rested with two drops of Murine in each eye—night and morning. I've found this is a particularly good idea these summer days of sun-glare and wind! You see, Murine's skilful blend of 7 ingredients cleanses and soothes eyes that are tired . . . relieves that weary, used-up feeling! That's why I urge you to ask your druggist today for Murine!

Dollar Controls Handicap Trade With Fiji

Written for the Canadian Press
By MARGARET E. FRANCIS

SUVA, Fiji —(CP)— Canadians who once thought of the Fiji Islands as merely a romantic, tropical part of the south Pacific, peopled by frizzy-haired natives and beachcombers, are awakening to the importance of the Crown colony to Canadian trade and business.

Since the end of the war, trade with the Fijis has increased steadily until in 1949 Fiji did 17 per cent of her total trade which amounted to £13,835,000 ($38,738,000) with the Dominion. Only two other countries exceeded this: the United Kingdom, 32 per cent; New Zealand, 18 per cent.

Canadian trade with Fiji in 1945 was £405,501; in 1947, £830,056; in 1949, £2,212,593; in 1949, £2,315,748.

At present Fijian exports to Canada are approximately six times as great as Canadian imports to the colony. In 1949 approximately five per cent of the island's imports, valued at £330,172 came from Canada. Items imported included fish, machinery, and whisky.

Fiji exported to Canada goods valued at £1,985,491—31 per cent of the colony's total export. Items included sugar, fruits and fruit juices, rubber and curios.

London Control

Lack of balance in trade is due to rigid control from London of the islands' dollar credits. Fiji is now one of the few parts of the British Empire with a dollar balance. British government policies however prevent the country using them to purchase much-needed Canadian vehicles and machinery.

"Fiji is starving for the things Canada has," said a leading Suva businessman, head of one of the large copra companies, naming cars, machinery, tinned fish and lumber.

"If controls go," he went on, "there will be a large volume of trade between Canada and Fiji. It is unfortunate we cannot use dollars we have earned. Some of our industries are seriously hampered by lack of machanical equipment."

Need Mining Machinery

Discovery of gold in Viti Levu, largest of the Fiji Islands, in 1931, was an important addition to Fiji economy and now the export of bullion is second in trade importance only to sugar. The colony exports annually about £1,013,000 in gold, mostly to the United States. Efficient operation of the rich mines requires at present thousands of dollars worth of machinery which the country is prevented from purchasing.

In 1949 Fiji imported from Canada machinery of various types, including oil engines, mining machinery and machine parts, valued at £13,889, which was only a fraction of its needs.

Coal, 17,386 tons valued at £120,178 was Fiji's largest import from Canada in 1949. Second was 30,921,120 board feet of timber at £94,869, which businessmen point out is less than half of what they could use. The £19,099 worth of motor vehicles and parts purchased from Canada was only a fraction of what could be absorbed.

Other imports included newsprint and paper products, fish, electrical goods, clothing, agricultural tools, drugs, manufactured goods, whisky and one fire engine

The present low value of the Fijian pound, $2.80, has given Canadian consumers price benefits on goods exported, by the colony to the Dominion. In 1949 these included sugar valued at £1,968,552; pineapples, canned and as juice, £14,827 and bananas £1,795. Smaller quantities of ginger, rubber and curios were also exports.

MOTHER'S HELPERS — Mrs. Henry Heber, her once-flooded Winnipeg house becoming ship-shape after a week's hard work, has lots of help with a monster wash. Marie, 12, and Wesley, 8, dig in to wash bedding and clothing stored in the attic during the Red River flood. Although untouched by the muddy water, the clothing was damp when the evacuated family returned.

Just Wants Quiet Honeymoon But Ghost Won't Co-operate

BRACQUEGNIES, Belgium, June 15.—(Reuters) — All the young man wants is a quiet honeymoon, but the ghost won't let him have it.

Each night Hector de Roeck-Bonvarlet, 22, and his 20-year-old bride of three weeks barricade themselves into their simple working class home and steal off to bed. And each night, they say, the ghost pummels them and tears at the bed covers.

"I'm going nuts," Hector said today. "I live in constant sweat and change my pyjamas three times a night.

Others claim to have seen the ghost, which Hector's wife, Maria, described as an old woman with "saucer eyes, a hooked nose and crooked chin."

Priest Has Experience

The village priest, Rev. Joseph Guilmin, who spent a night in the house, said next morning he had been scratched by "an invisible hand." He has twice blessed the house in hopes of ridding it of the intruder.

Maria, whose aunt says she has seen "the shadow of a human figure close to the door of the bedroom and a head on top of a wardrobe," said the ghost had torn her nightgown.

"I have tried to sleep with a sheet over my face, but the hand tears it down and then grabs my neck," said Hector.

"I am convinced this is black magic played on me by some one in the neighborhood who either wants to retaliate for some harm I have done him unwittingly or someone else who is jealous of my happiness.

"All I crave is a quiet honeymoon."

Hector said the ghost walks from twenty minutes after midnight until 4 a.m. It grabs their throats and kicks them.

The local policeman is watching the house but the milk and bread delivery men refuse to go near it.

Oppose Licences

TORONTO, June 15 — (CP) — Board of Control Wednesday decided to oppose the issuing of any more licences for cocktail bars and beverage rooms here except in the case of licensed hotels. It instructed the city solicitor to ask the Ontario Liquor Licence Board to adhere to a similar decision made two years ago by city council.

Viscount Alexander Wears Fewer Ribbons

LONDON (CP).—Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, on a visit to London, intrigued decoration-minded Britons by appearing in uniform wearing only half as many service ribbons as he is entitled to.

When Lord Alexander first sailed for Canada in 1946 to become governor-general, he wore 34 decorations, arranged in 10 rows. Back in London for a short visit, the field marshal recently was photographer wearing only 17 ribbons, stacked in four rows.

"What Lord Alexander has done is to drop his foreign decorations," commented The Daily Telegraph. "Characteristically, he prefers, five years after the war, on the rare occasions when he wears uniforms, to reduce the display to modest dimensions."

Irish Smugglers Have Field Day Border Jobs Net Big Returns

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON.

LONDON, June 15 — (CP). — Irish border parols are waging an unrelenting, but none-too-successful, battle against smugglers and cattle rustlers operating along the 350 miles separating the Republic of Ireland from the six Northern Counties.

In the ceaseless war of wits, usually against heavy odds, preventive officers on both sides are daily rounding up an increasing number of "runners" with the value of seized goods running into thousands of dollars. But despite the tireless pursuit, it is estimated that about 75 per cent of the illicit traffic eludes the hard-pressed customs patrols.

In a game where the stakes are high and the risks great, clashes between the smugglers and law-enforcement agents are a common occurrence.

Only recently when a patrol surprised "runners" trucking hundreds of cases of contraband eggs to the north, along the Monaghan-Tyrone border, the unarmed customs men were suddenly pounced upon and assaulted by "lookouts" who had been lurking in the darkness. The smugglers got away after seriously wounding three of the officers.

More Protection

This attack led to organized agitation for increased officer protection, particularly on all-night patrols in lonely areas. But hunter and hunted alike are dead against use of firearms.

Said one of the operators after his arrest: "We don't want any bloodshed. If one side starts shooting anything can happen. We are out to make a few pounds but it is not worth risking dead bodies. Our fellows won't use guns."

Bruising Battles

But the traffickers can get plenty tough with staves, blackjacks and iron piping, when they decide to resist. Usually, however, they abandon their cargoes or submit quetly to arrest when trapped.

While the illegal traffic flows on a large scale in both directions, most of it moves to the north. From there the goods are trans-shipped in large consignments to England where "black market" prices are high.

The contraband is mainly confined to cigarettes, nylon stockings, eggs, meat, sugar, confectionery and automobile spare parts. To get these through the customs lines, the smugglers resort to novel and cunning tricks.

Many of the larger operators employ scouts to report on the movements of patrols. Another dodge is to send out a fleet of lorries during the night. Several are used as decoys to lure the patrols from the points where the cargo-laden vehicles will make their run across the border.

Five Cars Seized

Five cars carrying contraband were recently seized in a northern town. The smugglers had removed the back set of one of the cars and under a false top hidden 100 lbs. of confectionery and 20,000 cigarettes. In the spare tires of another car officials found 10,000 cigarettes, stripped of their packets, as well as other articles.

A considerable haul, considering cigarettes retail in the English market for about 55 cents a packet of 20.

15,000 Pairs of Nylons

A light truck, which outwardly appeared to be engaged in the legitimate business of transporting carcasses of meat in sacking, was found to contain no fewer than 15,000 pairs of nylon stockings which retail for around $3.00 a pair in the Northern Counties and even more in England.

Sugar is frequently found in specially-constructed tanks attached to the underframe of cars and trucks or packed in the upholstery.

The heaviest traffic is in eggs, smuggled through in colossal quantities. The operators usually have a farm on the southern side of the frontier, where hens are kept in large numbers. To these points the eggs are delivered and stored until a suitable opportunity comes to get them away.

Cottages or cabin hide-outs also are scattered along the border for concealment of goods to be run across the line when customs men are not looking.

Canadian Collection Wins Stamp Contest

Gilbert, now 15, won the prize with Canadian stamps, which he started collecting while a war evacuee in the west coast city.

Stories Differ On Efficiency Of CBC Staffs

OTTAWA, June 15 (CP)—The Commons committee on radio broadcasting yesterday heard the operations of the CBC in Toronto both criticized and defended.

Joel Aldred of Toronto, former CBC announcer, appeared before the committee at his own request and said that in his opinion there was wastage in the Toronto offices because of a large staff turnover and the uneconomical use of recording discs. He also criticized the handling of a promotional campaign started a couple of years ago to win more listeners for CBC station CJBC in Toronto, but confessed he did not know whether the campaign was profitable.

Dr. Augustin Frigon general manager of the CBC, said that for salary purposes the CBC deducted the time worked by announcers for commercial sponsors. The agency fee of 15 per cent was charged because announcers had use of CBC staff and facilities.

Dr. Frigon said that in 19 8 the CBC staff turnover in Toronto amounted about 30 per cent. The turnover now totalled about 18 per cent.

Mr. Aldred estimated that between $15,000 and $20,000 a year could be saved in Toronto if the recording studio used both sides of expensive discs. John Kannawin, in charge of the CBC's record library in Toronto, said that less than 10 per cent of the discs are used on one side only.

Mr. Aldred, who clashed several times with members of the committee, indicated he felt he had not been given a fair hearing. It was evident that what he would say would be classified as hearsay unless he was willing to name CBC employees as the sources of his information. That he would not do now or in the future.

Spanish War Casualty Sends Thank-You Note To WI President For Clothes Sent In Bale

HAVELOCK, June 15 (ENS) —Mrs. Charles Ellis, president of the Belmont Women's Institute, placed her name and address in one of the pockets of a man's suit which she sent in a bale of clothing for Europe.

Mrs. Ellis has recently received a letter of thanks from Jose Gonsales of Biarritz, Bses, Pyrenees, France.

The letter states: Dear Madame, I hope that, when you receive this letter, you and your family will be in excellent health. I, for the moment, am in good health.

My gratitude toward you is very great for having sent me a suit of clothes and other articles all of which suit me very well.

I am a casualty of the Spanish war in which I fell wounded and lost the use of my left arm.

Madame, what troubles me is that I see the world proceeding swiftly toward another war after the millions of lives lost in the last one. People are dying of hunger and jails are full of political prisoners, confined for the sole reason that they think a different way from dictators.

Enclosed I am sending a postcard with the view of the seashore of this city. When I have a photograph of myself in the clothes I will send it to you.

Without my saying anything further, please accept a cordial greeting from one who will never forget your kindness."

Bear Down Harder

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP) —The word has gone out to Washington officialdom to bear down harder, in "cold war" speeches, on American desires for peace. Officials who related this said Western European leaders at the London foreign ministers meeting last month advised that the United States was sounding too belligerent.

Nab 7 Suspects In Surprise Raid

MONTREAL, June 15 (CP) — Five men and two women, suspected of being members of the United States underworld, were arrested Wednesday in a surprise raid at nearby Place Laval, Que.

Acting on a tip-off from Chicago relayed here through Toronto police, a squad of provincial detectives swooped on a summer home at Place Laval early in the morning and arrested the seven unidentified persons.

Police said the seven were at first believed to be linked with the May 25 shooting of RCMP constable Alexander Gammah during a bank hold-up attempt here. Later they were transferred to the custody of city police.

Police said the seven are believed to be wanted in the US, one of the men being suspected of jumping a $40,000 bail recently.

Urge Baptists Spur Work Across Quebec

MONTREAL, June 15 —(CP)— With "tens of thousands" of French-Canadians without any religion, Canadian Baptists Wednesday were told that there is an "insistent call" for evangelization in Quebec province.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec holding afternoon sessions in the village of Grand Ligne, Que., heard officials of the Baptist Mission there report on the situation in the district and the whole province.

Appealing for more missionaries and more money to carry on the evangelization work, the Rev. H. C. Wilkinson, general secretary of the mission, said in his report that Communism, Jehovah's Witnesses and other like groups were working hard in the interests of their movements in Quebec.

"Should not Baptists be even more energetic than they in proclaiming the gospel" he asked.

"As long as there is a French soul in need of the gospel of Christ our duty and obligation as your board for French evangelization calls us onward.

Need Anchorage

"Especially insistant is this call when we know there are literally tens of thousands of French-Canadians who have lost faith in their old religion and are today drifting, spiritually, with no anchorage."

The Grande Ligne Mission is in a village 150 miles from Montreal on the St. Lawrence River's north shore.

At the morning sessions the Federal government was asked to pass legislation to "safeguard forever these cherished rights."

The assembly also said that the appointment of a Canadian envoy to the Vatican would imply that the Roman Catholic church was "a temporal power and would create serious division among the people of Canada."

W. D. Burden of Ottawa was elected convention president.

Dr. E. Sheldon Dies

Of Interest to Women

Wins Lottery, Calls It Manna

VANCOUVER —(CP)— News of good fortune—$7,500 worth of good fortune—has been received from far-off Australia by Mrs. James B. Ward.

She said a telegram informs her she won the money in the Western Australia Charity Consultation lottery draw. Not only that, her husband, now at sea, is eligible for a money prize for selling her the ticket.

"It's like manna from heaven," said Mrs. Ward, who never before has held a lucky ticket.

Manicures Popular With Alberta Men

EDMONTON —(CP)— More and more men are falling in line with women in the professional care of their fingernails, says Edmonton manicurist Ruth Natichak.

Nearly one-third of her clients are men, she says. Most are business and professional men getting a manicure "for a special occasion."

Miss Natichak attributes the trend mostly to less conservatism in today's males.

"Younger men go in for brighter colors, more daring styles. They take more pains to be completely turned out."

Transparent Model Used In Lectures

LONDON —(CP)— A transparent statue of an anonymous 29-year-old German girl will be exhibited at the British Food Fair in September.

German scientists are making the model, described as "an exact reproduction of the female body."

"Within the figure is reproduced every organ, blood vessel, bone, gland and nerve of the human system," said a press release.

"The exterior is a new substance, plastic and fully transparent, which reveals every detail of the wondrous mechanism of the human anatomy."

The figure, lit by electronically operated lights, will be used to demonstrate lectures of health, diet and hygiene.

A spokesman for the Central Council for Health Education said: "Looked at in the right way, this model is a work of art. If anyone comes along with a dirty mind it is not our fault."

Leslie V. Hewitt Is Married At Mount Forest

A wedding of interest here took place in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Mount Forest, on Saturday when Mr. Leslie Vernon Hewitt, son of Mrs. Jessie Hewitt of Peterborough, and the late Mr. Robert Hewitt, took as his bride Dorine Phyllis, daughter of Mr. Douglas Brandon of Mount Forest and the late Mrs. Brandon.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Sherring in a setting of spring flowers. Music was played by Mitchell Neill and the soloist was Mrs. G. H. Cutmore of Peterborough who sang "A Perfect Love" during signing of the register.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of nylon lace designed with a hooped skirt and long train, a Peter Pan collar and long pointed sleeves finishing the bodice. Her nylon veil with floral design was caught to a crown of seed pearls and her bouquet was of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Matron of honor, Miss Theresa Hewitt, and bridesmaid, Miss Betty Bottrill, were in pink and blue frocks of net over taffeta, and flower girl Lynda Brandon was in yellow. They wore heart-shaped halo hats of net and carried bouquets of pale pink carnations with sweet peas.

Attending the groom was Mr. Grant Sharpe and ushers were Robert Brandon and Howard Hewitt, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception was at Pike Lake Lodge where the groom's mother assisted to receive, gowned in flowered sheer nylon with navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Leaving on a trip to eastern Ontario and Quebec the bride was wearing a pink silk monacord suit, white and navy accessories and pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt will live in Toronto.

250 Attend OES Lawn Tea At Mrs. Walter Dyer's Home

The beautifully-kept garden surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dyer, 608 Homewood Ave., presented a colorful and busy scene Wednesday afternoon during progress of a most successful tea held by the members of the Order of the Eastern Star of Peterborough and Lakefield.

More than 250 guests came in and enjoyed their hospitality. Current conversation centred on the weather which favored the tea with a rainless, lightly clouded sky, though numidity was high.

Gay pennants hung in vee formation over the fresh, green lawn where small tables were placed for the guests. Hostesses who supplied them with tea and dainty refreshments were Mrs. A. Knott, Mrs. G. Ireland, Mrs. E. McIlraith, Mrs. B. Smith, Mrs. L. McLaren, Mrs. W. Beggs, Mrs. D. Davis, and Mrs. Roth of Lakefield; Mrs. A. Watkins Jr., Mrs. F. C. Frost, Mrs. S. Hope, Mrs. J. V. Weyer, Mrs. A. Bromley, Mrs. R. Goodfellow.

Making the tea and replenishing the plates was done in the house by Mrs. B. Jones, Mrs. W. Terrace, Mrs. W. Beggs, Mrs. R. Hutton and Mrs. F. Dellar.

In arranging this event, general convener Mrs. Keith Armstrong planned a variation of the fish-pond with a bran-filled tub in which small parcels were hidden. Curiosity of the guests soon exhausted the supply and Mrs. G. Webb, Mrs. R. Merrett and Mrs P. S. Keeting were relieved early of their jobs as attendants.

A chenille scatter rug and a crocheted one were offered as draw prizes and Mrs. T. Rose was selling the tickets. Winner of the former rug was Miss Margaret Munro and of the latter, Mrs. A. Newton.

An iced cake was raffled at the bake table and this was won by Mrs B. Jones. Tickets were sold by the ladies selling the home-cooked goods, displayed in tempting variety, Mrs. M. Ward, Mrs. A. Newton, Mrs. W. Butcher, Mrs Brown of Lakefield and Mrs. F. Merrett.

Aprons for young misses and their mothers, oven mitts and other household helps were sold at the bazaar table by Mrs. H. Green, Mrs. Richardson, of Lakefield, Mrs. Orville Kidd and Mrs Walter Wheeler.

Worthy Matron Mrs. A. A. Munro, was receiving with the hostess Mrs. Dyer. Attending the treasurer's table were Mrs. G. Nimmons and Mrs. W. Anderson.

Diocese Re-elects Miss Agnes Grant To Head Council

Miss Agnes Grant of Peterborough was re-elected president of Peterborough Diocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League at the 28th annual convention held Wednesday in Bowmanville.

In direction of the 23 sub-divisions of the Council her executive assistants this year will be: Mrs. Gus Torpey, Peterborough, first vice president; Mrs. Joseph Smith, Campbellford, second vice president; Mrs. Joseph Powers, Hastings, third vice president; Miss Anne Sullivan, Ennismore, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Collins, Hastings, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Rupert Barr, Cobourg, treasurer.

Before business sessions commenced, mass was celebrated by Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, assisted by the Rev. John Coughlan, Peterborough, the Rev. Vernon Perdue, Port Hope, and others. The Rev. Father Collins of Cobourg preached a sermon on the general topic of making the home what it should be.

Bishop Berry's convention address emphasized the importance of women's role in character formation of youth, and asked that they see to education of minds and hearts to develop loyalty to right ideals and to create stability. "People can amass a great deal of information, but it is not properly chosen it is of very little use", he said.

Provincial president Mrs. W. A. Walker of Toronto brought greetings to the Diocese and gave a short talk on aims and work of the CWL, urging further effort.

Reports of all conveners and from all sub-divisions were presented.

Delegates were welcomed to the town when the Mayor spoke briefly at the noon-day luncheon and to the district by Mr. John James, MP, for Durham.

The day concluded with a social hour when afternoon tea was served by the Bowmanville sub-division members.

Younger Princess More Actively In Public Life

LONDON, June 15.—(CP).—An increasing number of engagements suggests that Princess Margaret is officially coming of age.

Although she will not be 21 for 15 months—she is 20 next Aug. 21—she is becoming as active at official functions as any other member of the Royal family.

The vivacious princess now makes several speeches a week.

A year ago, she was making what might be called instructional visits to the House of Commons, the financial district of London, and other places. That phase of her public life appears to be over and the princess now is on her own.

A spokesman at Buckingham Palace meanwhile said that as far as is officially known Princess Margaret has no definite plans for visiting Canada and the United States. Such reports were current a year ago and were current again today.

"There was no truth in the reports then, and as far as we know there is none now," the spokesman said.

Some of Princess Margaret's duties as a member of the Royal family are associated with her own particular interests. She now is colonel-in-chief of three regiments and patron, president or commodore of many different voluntary organizations.

DOROTHY DIX

Should Man Marry Widow Whose Children He Dislikes

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am in love with a widow who has two girls, one 12 and the other 15. They are under very poor control and do just as they please. I just simply can't stand the way they act, though I don't say anything. But if I married their mother I would have to change from that and I am afraid that it would cause her and me to get along badly. I feel I can't give the mother up, but I can't endure the kids. Please give me your advice.

M. R. H. A.

ANSWER: You certainly have a prophetic soul when it warns you that you will have trouble with the mother the minute you begin to try to control her undisciplined children.

Dorothy Dix

Don,t deceive yourself into thinking that if you marry this woman with her halfgrown girls, she will side with you and hold up your hands when you try to discipline them. She won't. She will go over to the enemy's camp every time and align herself with the children. In practically every family it is mother and the girls against father, even when it is their own father, and what happens to a stepfather when he faces that consolidated opposition is too horrible to think of.

Being a stepfather is the toughest job that any man ever tackles. It is really harder for a man to be a good stepfather, than it is for a woman to be a good stepmother, because most women have some maternal instinct that makes them fond of children and gives them some intuitive knowledge of them but few men are endowed by nature with much paternal instinct. That is something that has to be acquired in them by their own children. Children are an acquired taste with men, so to speak.

Hence no man should marry a woman with children unless he feels within himself the call to be a real father to them, unless he is determined within himself to use tact and diplomacy and kindness in dealing with the children whose lives he has taken into his hands.

So, Mr. Man, think a long time before you marry this woman whose children you already dislike. You'll hate them worse when they devil the life out of you and you and your wife will quarrel continually over them. But remember, if you do assume the role of stepfather to them, that you will make or mar their lives.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a business woman of 39. A man who is seven years younger than I am and who was the husband of my sister, who died several years ago, wants to marry me. We were always very good friends and our grief over her loss has drawn us very close together. What do you think we should do under the circumstances? Marry, or give each other up? Is the fact that this man was my sister's husband a bar to our union? And what about difference in age?

A CONSTANT READER

ANSWER: There is no reason in the world why you shouldn't marry and be happy. In fact, I should say that your marriage stands a better chance for happiness than most because you and the man know each other so thoroughly that you should be able to judge of your congeniality and suitability to each other.

Of course, in the past there has been a prejudice against a man marrying his deceased wife's sister, but we have happily outgrown that now. For common sense has shown us that in thousands of cases there was no other woman in the world who was so ideal a mate for a bereaved widower as his wife's sister. She was more likely to have the characteristics that he had loved in his wife than any other woman, she would know his habits and his ways and could fit into his life almost without a ripple. There would be no need of adjusting himself to her as to a strange woman.

As for the difference in age, seven years means nothing after a man is past 30, and especially after he has gone through the sobering grief of widowhood.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have adopted a baby girl. She is so very bright and happy and precious to us, but she is an illegitimate baby and our problem is what to tell her when she grows up. Of course, we can satisfy her with most any explanation while she is small, but we realize we must tell her one story and stick to it. Would you destroy the papers concerning her parents or would you tell her the whole truth?

MRS. C. P. W.

ANSWER: Tell her she is an adopted child while she is too little to understand enough about it to have any curiosity on the subject, but don't tell her that she is illegitimate until it becomes necessary to do so.

If she asks any questions about her parents, just tell her that they were situated so that they couldn't take care of her and that she was given to you, and that some day when she is a grown-up girl you will tell her all about it. Possibly she will never have to know the sad truth about her birth.

Present Alleged Confessions In Napanee Stabbing

NAPANEE, June 15 (CP)—The defence today opened its case in the murder trial of James Fosbraey, charged in the knife-slaying of his wife last November, following conclusion of the crown case which included two alleged confessions of guilt.

Letters written in jail by the 29-year-old veteran of the Royal Air Force, a native of Sittingbourne, Kent, England, were admitted as evidence Wednesday by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer. One of the letters said "June is dead; now I must pay the penalty of death by hanging."

The final crown witness, Phillip Tice, 25, of Napanee, was a cellmate of the accused in the Napanee jail. He testified that the accused told him on Dec. 8: "I'm the guy who murdered his wife."

Hear 60 Letters

Altogether the court heard read 60 letters written by the accused to his wife, his wife's parents and his friends in England. He married the Napanee girl while training at Kingston during the war; served overseas and returned here. He went back to England last October, but returned in November.

One letter from Fosbraey, written to Mrs. John Currans, mother of the slain girl, was dated Dec. 8 and said: "Yes, she gave me $30. Five days from the day I hit town I know she was going to die for her mistake. No one in this world will know why I murdered my wife June Marie Fosbraey. What June told me that night in her own words with her own mouth hurt the most of all. She never smoked, drank or ran around with other men, but does them all now. June and the other fellow were afraid of what the doctors would find out at the autopsy. That is why she died and now I want to die."

This letter contained the words: "Her life was in danger ever since I hit town. I knew five days before the murder I would hang for it."

Reported Threats

Cpl. W. E. Smith of the Provincial Police testified that Mrs. Fosbraey had brought him letters from the accused in which she was threatened. He had picked up Fosbraey on the street and warned him to keep away from his wife. Cpl. Smith said he had warned Fosbraey to stay on the north side of the Napanee River; his wife lived on the south side.

Defence counsel R. E. Nourse of Picton asked Cpl. Smith if he considered the letters sufficient to arrest Fosbraey. Cpl. Smith said he thought it sufficient action to read part of the criminal code to Fosbraey and warn him to keep away from his wife.

The chain of letters included one in which Fosbraey mentioned that he had met a girl in England who was "more his style" and another saying that he had won thousands of dollars on a football pool.

Right-of-Way For Cut-off Under Dispute

More school board members should attend the OEA convention, Warden Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther said Wednesday in his address to the Peterborough county council.

"I feel that more members of school boards from the areas in our county should attend the OEA in order that all may benefit and act upon the wealth of information to be had there," he said.

Such information is obtainable in no other way and is of primary importance "because we are making secondary education available to all children in the county."

He said new educational methods and facilities are on the way and that Peterborough county is facing the same problems of expansion as other counties.

More money is being spent on secondary education, he stated. Major expenditures are for transportation and accommodation.

This year council is working on "an austerity budget. "Major expenditures of money are out of order." Only in this way would council reduce or wipe out its deficit.

"We regret that up to the present we have been unable to arrive at a settlement regarding the right of way at Hamblin's Corner, on county road No. 4, Dummer township. When this is settled we feel that the traffic hazard will be greatly reduced at this point."

"Road construction work in the county is greatly curtailed this year because we must pay for the large amount of work accomplished in 1949."

He paid tribute to the work of county assessor Stewart G. Sparling and the township assessors. Reassessment of the whole county, now going ahead, he described as "a tremendous undertaking."

"The old land marks of the early surveyors are fast disappearing," said Warden Wilson. "There are still those who know the whereabouts of such marks and before all is forgotten we should endeavor to have better and more substantial marks placed at the corners of lots."

"Surveyors will then be able to present a proper picture in describing property holdings."

Chatham Rejects Sunday Sports

CHATHAM, June 15 (CP) — Electors of Chatham Wednesday voted against Sunday sport by a majority of 374 in a light vote, 2,400 opposed Sunday sport, with 2,026 in favor. Only 37.8 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots.

City council sent the question to the electorate after the Ministerial Association had protested against Sunday afternoon skating at the arena which they claimed interfered with Sunday school attendance.

Ministers and laymen campaigned strongly against the by-law which they interpreted as meaning a question as to whether the city favored commercialized sport. There was no organized campaign for the bylaw.

Denies Breaking Into Gas Station

COBOURG, June 15 (ENS) — Charged with breaking into Wakely's service station at Port Hope on Jan. 14, Frank Battaglia of Toronto pleaded not guilty in county court Wednesday. At the conclusion of the Crown's case, the trial was adjourned until the next day in order to permit the defendant to bring some witnesses from out of town.

Lloyd Coughlin, Port Hope constable, testified that around six a.m. on January 14, he noticed a car, licence No. K-124, with two men in it, driving in a suspicious manner on Walton St. He got the police cruiser and when he next encountered the car it was parked in front of Wakely's garage. The constable said that he got close enough to get the number, K-124 and also to see the driver, whom he said he later identified as Battaglia. As he drew up in the police cruiser, the car drove off rapidly from the service station.

Sid Wakely, owner of the garage, said that a few cartons of cigarettes and $3 in silver were taken. Entrance was gained by breaking a glass in the door and reaching in and unlocking it. Gordon Kellogg of Hope Township said he found the same car, abandoned near his farm, the same morning around seven o'clock.

Provincial Constable Don Nicol said that after he arrested the accused, the latter said that he had last seen his car on Jan. 12 and had left it in a parking lot. The licence number checked with the car owned by the accused, the constable said. While searching the car, Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine found a grocery slip from a Syracuse, N. Y., store dated Jan. 13.

As a result of the ensuing investigation, information was received that the Battaglia car had come from the US on the Ivy Lee bridge. In that connection, Hoyt Mitchell, inspector of US customs, identified Battaglia as the man driving a Buick car, K-124 over the bridge at one a.m. January 14.

Poor Health, Stomach Disorders For Years

Spent Small Fortune in Vain Search For Relief, Says Syntona Gave Better Results Than Anything Else. "Eat Better, Sleep Better, Feel Better."

MR. R. V. FENTON

Mr. R. V. Fenton, 349 Barton St. East, Hamilton, Ont., is glad to pass his experience along to others because he knows what it means to get relief after suffering with poor health which followed a rheumatic attack during his Army service many years ago.

"It seemed there were so many things wrong that I hardly knew where to start. My stomach was especially bad, causing gas, indigestion, cramps and sour acid risings no matter how careful I was of my diet. I would get very bad headaches and my nerves were often so on edge I couldn't get my proper sleep at night. Actually, I never felt well, was always tired, and had no energy.

"During those years I tried just about everything I heard of, but I can truly say I have received more relief and satisfaction through taking Syntona than anything else I ever used. I eat better, sleep better, and have less trouble with my stomach now than for many years before I also feel better generally, nerves are calmed down, and I don't get tired so easily as I used to.

"I certainly can recommend Syntona very highly to any person who suffers as I did."

Why not give this Pure Herbal Medicine which has helped so many people a chance to help you, too? It is pleasant to take and the results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Town Not Liable For Fire Damage

MONTREAL, June 15—(CP)—Towns have the discretionary power to organize fire protection, but are not under legal obligation for this protection under the municipal code, according to a superior court decision.

The decision came with dismissal of a $70,000 action by the Stonewill Clothing Co., of St. Lin, Que., against the municipality of St. Lin after their textile plant was destroyed by fire Jan. 13, 1948. Damages were sought on the grounds that the factory owners paid taxes to the municipality for fire protection.

In handing down the judgment, Mr. Justice Theodule Rheaume said ineffective or inadequate fire protection given by a municipal fire department cannot be made a liability to the municipality in the event of loss by fire, regardless of the fact that the department is maintained by taxes.

Company spokesmen said firemen arrived in time but due to shortage of hose and pumping difficulties didn't get at the fire until the plant was destroyed.

TWO YOUTHS DROWN IN TRENT CANAL

Say Sabotage Suspected On Destroyer

Report No Lives Lost As Inquiry Starts On Machinery

DEVONPORT, Devon, England, June 16—(Reuters)—Suspected sabotage in the destroyer Urania was under investigation by Admiralty police, it was announced today.

Interference in the electrical machinery of the battleclass vessel occurred Thursday.

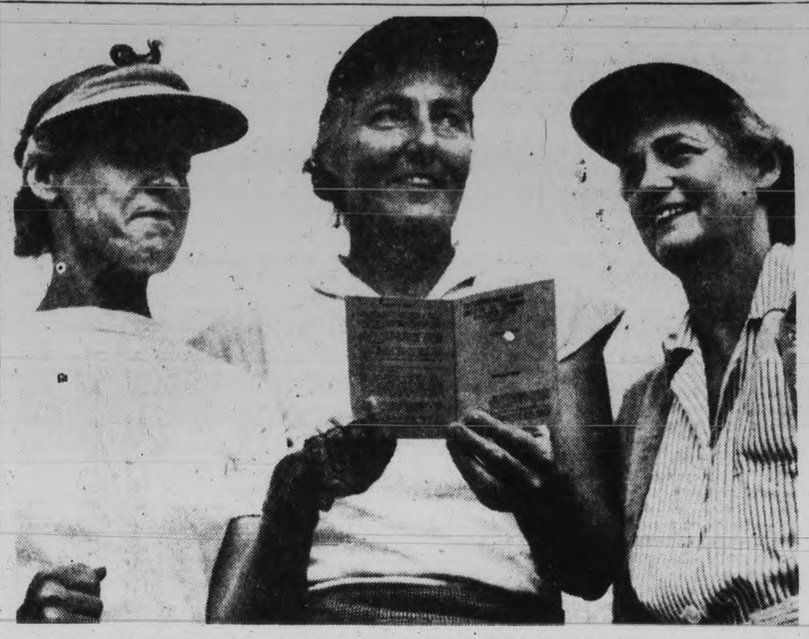
A signaling error caused first reports to link the suspected sabotage with another destroyer in reserve at Devonport, The Matapan.

The investigations are intended which no lives were lost or into reveal whether the damage, injury caused, was intentional or due to negligence.

Passes Issued

Shore leave for the ship's personnel was stopped temporarily, but later today weekend leave passes were being issued.

Meanwhile a check was being made on identity and movements of all civilian personnel who had worked on the Urania.



The inquiry now under way is the third in 18 months into irregularities at the Devonport yards.

Amplifying today's announcements, made by spokesmen both at Devonport and London, the Admiralty said no one had been injured as a result of the interference.

An Admiralty official, slightly qualifying the sabotage element, said, "Sabotage is always a possibility on such occasions but it could have been negligence; we do not have enough information yet."

Two incidents at Devonport dockyard in January last year were investigated.

An oilpipe in the steering gear of the submarine was found blocked with a piece of oily rag, and a 60-ton motor boat sank when a valve opened.

ON THE FIRST TEE of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club, LEFT to RIGHT, Mrs. C. Menzie, Toronto Golf Club; Mrs. K. Shakespeare of Scarboro Club, and Mrs. A. B. Clark, Kawartha Club, prepare for the first drive early today. Winner of the meet will receive the Marjory DeGraw Trophy in the ladies' open tournament.

Coboconk Relics Bear Out Theory

COBOCONK, Ont., June 16 —(CP)—It's beginning to look as though Champlain and the Jesuits knew what they were talking about.

Their opinions on what has developed into a 300-year-old controversy are being borne out by students from McGill and University of Toronto currently digging up the site of an ancient Indian village in the area 45 miles northwest of Peterborough.

Prof. Norman Emerson said the archaeological expedition is making some headway in settling the question of whether the Huron Indians came to Huronia from the southwest or from the Iroquois country as suggested by the French explorer Champlain and the Jesuits.

"Judging by the pottery we have dug up here so far, it looks as though the Jesuits and Champlain were right," Prof. Emerson said today. "We are making some very interesting finds. The pottery, at first glance, can probably be dated about 1450. It is of the Iroquois type. I should say that the Indians who left it were Mohawks."

Toronto's Mayor McCallum had something to do with inspiring the present expedition. He set off a charge of dynamite on the front lawn of his summer home near here and was showered with Indian relics dating back more than 500 years. Now the place is swarming with students attempting to fill in some of the blanks in history of Indians in Ontario.

Jaw, Chest Crushed As Truck Ditched

GALT, June 16—(CP)—Arthur T. Linton, driver for the Hamilton Towel Co., of Hamilton, is in the hospital with a crushed chest, crushed jaw, several broken ribs, upper lip split, cuts around the eyes and a fractured left ankle, received when his truck was wrecked last night. The machine rode the shoulder of the road for 200 feet before piling up in the ditch near Sheffield.

More Suspects Arrested In Fuchs Ring

NEW YORK, June 16—(AP)—A former United States army noncommissioned officer at Albuquerque, N.M., was arrested today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a charge of giving atomic secrets to Harry Gold, Philadelphian accused of passing atomic secrets to the Russians.

The FBI identified the arrested man as David Greenglass, 28, of New York City.

Greenglass' arrest came less than 24 hours after the seizure in Syracuse, N.Y., of another suspect in the Klaus Fuchs spy ring, and within hours of the arrest of a scientist at Pasadena, Calif.

The arrest at Pasadena of Dr. Sydney Weinbaum, however, was not immediately tied in with any espionage charge. Weinbaum was charged with perjury and fraud in that he testified he never had been a Communist "when in fact he held membership in the Communist party," the FBI said.

FBI agents said that Greenglass' explanation for his alleged action was that Russia, as an ally during the war, was entitled to the information.

Thursday night FBI operatives linked Alfred Dean Slack, 44-year-old Syracuse chemist, to the Fuchs spy ring which slipped atomic secrets to the Soviets. They said Slack admitted giving samples of a secret high explosive to Gold, the Philadelphia biochemist.

Slack, a native of Syracuse who claims he is "violently" opposed to Communism, was arrested on Thursday night by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a charge of espionage. He was jailed at nearby Utica on $10,000 bail.

The $75-a-week paint firm chemist worked in the wartime years of 1943-44 at Kingsport, Tenn., where the explosive RDX was manufactured.

Dalton Butt Of Anger After U.K. Commons Clash

LONDON, June 16—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee today visited Ernest Bevin in hospital and, it is believed, gave his ailing foreign secretary an account of yesterday's stormy cabinet meeting at which a clash is said to have developed over the Labor party's manifesto on European unity.

Political quarters think Attlee also discussed the rough handling he received yesterday from the Conservatives in parliament. The opposition was strongly critical of the apparent conflict between official government policy on the Schuman plan and the manifesto's rejection of present schemes for European union.

It is not clear how much Attlee knew beforehand of the contents of the manifesto.

But some newspapers suggested his first inkling was from the papers themselves Tuesday and that he is bitterly angry over the affair. The foreign secretary also is believed angry about publication of the manifesto.

The wrath of both the prime minister and the foreign secretary is believed directed mainly at Hugh Dalton, minister of town and country planning, who headed the committee which drew up the party statement.

Meanwhile British newspapers call on the Labor government to convince the world of its desire to take part in European economic co-operation, short of complete federation.

Soo Locks Saved In Mock Battle

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., June 18 (AP)—The battle to defend the vital Sault Ste. Marie locks has been fought and won.

Six days of mock warfare—an elaborate United States army manoeuvre to test defences—wound up yesterday with army umpires declaring the locks had been kept out of "enemy" hands successfully.

Theoretical damage was done, however, in land and air raids.

The MacArthur Lock, one of four Soo installations, was put out of commission. The Michigan Bell Telephone Company exchange was "demolished."

Through the Soo locks comes iron ore for North America's great steel-producing centres. Should an enemy force knock them out, the continent's defence might be crippled.

Shot Robbing Bank After Day's Freedom

PORTLAND, Ore., June 16 —(AP)—A convict just one day out of prison robbed a bank Thursday, then walked into the arms of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. A wild gun-battle followed.

Bullets flew about a busy intersection, cracking windows and hitting automobiles.

The battle ended with the convict, Wayne Long, 26, wounded twice, not critically. It was a running battle, and the convict got about a block before eight F.B.I. agents converged to shoot him down.

The F.B.I. men were trailing Long in hope he would lead them to a prison friend, Omar Pinson, a life-termer who escaped from the Oregon penitentiary.

'Butterleggers' Police Target

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Federal officials are preparing to crack down on an expected country-wide wave of phoney butter sales next month.

The United States Food and Drug Administration, it was learned today, has asked Congress for nearly $1,000,000 to enlarge its enforcement staff for a drive against "butterleggers."

The request was prompted by fears that when Federal taxes on margarine end June 30 there will be widespread substitutions of colored margarine for butter by "unscrupulous people."

There will be a price spread of nearly 40 cents a pound between the retail prices of butter and margarine when the Federal taxes are lifted.

Watchmaker Committed For Trial On Murder Charge

QUEBEC, June 16 (CP)—Genereux Ruest, crippled Quebec watchmaker who made part of a time-bomb that caused an air disaster, today was committed for trial on a charge of murder.

Judge Achile Pettigrew ordered that the 51-year-old paralytic stand trial at the next term of the Criminal Assizes which opens Oct. 10.

Ruest has previously admitted that he built a detonator for the time-bomb which wrecked a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane at nearby Sault Au Cochon last Sept. 9, killing 23.

Judge Pettigrew's decision today brought to an end Ruest's preliminary hearing which began Wednesday.

Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion closed his case Thursday after Mrs. Pitre, Ruest's 41-year-old sister, testified that her brother told her to commit suicide after the plane crash.

Mrs. Pitre later was freed on $2,000 bail on a charge of intimidating witnesses. Judge Pettigrew ordered the woman arrested Wednesday after two witnesses said in court they were "threatened." Mrs. Pitre's preliminary hearing was fixed for June 21.

Mrs. Pitre related how she visited Ruest. She quoted him as saying: "Since the police are looking for you, since it's like that, you might as well turn on the gas jets and let yourself go."

4,000 Bus Operators Strike In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, June 16 (AP)—Four thousand operators of buses and street cars in Los Angeles went on strike early today.

Representatives of the Transportation Union (AFL) walked out of negotiation shortly after midnight despite a personal appeal by Mayor Fletcher Bowron for a 15-day truce during the forthcoming National Shrine convention. Some 200,000 Shriners are expected here next week.

Lose Lives As Onlookers Sit On Banks

Swimmers Locate Bodies For Firemen Help Comes Too Late

A double drowning, the first of the summer season, claimed the lives of two Peterborough youths in separate accidents, Thursday night. They are Ernest Chase, 16, of 693 Hawley St. and Fergus Joseph Scott, 19, RR. 10, Peterborough.

While about 50 swimmers played on the banks of the Trent Canal near the CPR bridge, Chase lost his life.

His 14-year-old companion, Ken Corbett of 668 Hawley St., twice grappled with him in rescue attempts and narrowly escaped being dragged to the bottom as well.

Near Lakefield

Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Scott, RR 10, Peterborough, drowned while swimming in the canal near Lock 24 three miles south of Lakefield. He was swimming across a 30 foot stretch of the canal when he called to his friend Virgil Neil, RR 10, Peterborough, that he couldn't make it and then disappeared under the water.

Corbett's shouts for help in finding Chase were either not heard or not taken seriously. It was not until firemen arrived nearly 20 minutes later that diving began in an organized way.

"I guess the fellows on the bank thought I was just fooling," said Corbett ruefully as he watched an inhalator crew work on his chum.

North of Bridge

The two had gone to the canal for an after-supper swim. Chase told Corbett he would try to swim from the west bank to the middle of the canal. He chose a spot about 60 feet north of the Maria St. bridge.

"Ernie told me to push one of those big logs out to him when he got so far. I was on the west bank and started to get the log. Just then some girls came swimming up the canal between us so I waited for them to pass."

"When I turned around finally to send him his log all I could see was foam—some bubbles on the water where he had been."

Corbett said he yelled to some bathers who were loiling about on the bank within hearing range, but they didn't pay any attention.

Dives Twice

"I dived twice to try and get him. Once I caught hold of his hair but he grabbed me both times and nearly strangled me."

At no time did the drowning youth break surface to Corbett's knowledge.

He then went to the home of Samuel J. McCauley, 220 Rogers St. to phone for assistance. The fire department reported they were informed Chase had been in the water 12 minutes when the phone call came.

When the inhalator crew consisting of Chief Mechanic Budd Cruikshank and Firemen Bill Torrence and Bill Bloom arrived they directed several of the swim-

Say Instruments Faulty On Plane

BAHREIN ISLAND, Persian Gulf, June 16 (AP)—A survivor of Wednesday night's second French airliner crash here says crew members told him the plane's instruments were faulty, showing the plane still 300 feet above the ground when it hit the water.

The survivor, Jacques Sangnier of Paris, and his wife were among 13 persons saved from the crash. Thirty-nine persons died in Wednesday's crash.

(There were five survivors and 46 persons were killed in the mishap to the other Saigon-to-Paris airliner late Monday.

(Air France officials in Paris and other sources hinted strongly that the two planes were sabotaged by Indo-China's Communist-led native rebels.)

TWO YOUTHS were drowned Thursday night in the Trent Canal. Fergus Joseph Scott (top), R.R. 10 Peterborough, and Ernest Chase (lower), 693 Hawley St., were victims in separate tragedies which occurred only a short time apart.

Student Pilot Bails Out, Killed In Jump

CENTRALIA, June 16 (CP)—Bailing out from a burning aircraft 400 feet over the RCAF station here, a student pilot was killed today when his parachute failed to open until he was a few feet from the ground.

RCAF officials withheld identification pending notification of next-of-kin.

In an ironical twist to the first fatal accident at the Cetnralia station since it re-opened in 1947, FO. W. J. Wilson of Grand Bend, pilot of the single engine Harvard training plane, landed the aircraft a few seconds after the student had bailed out.

An RCAF spokesman said the engine of the plane caught fire while it was on a routine training flight.

FO. Wilson landed the plane on the edge of a runway. The fire in the plane's engine was out when the aircraft rolled to a stop. RCAF officials said the pilot was shaken up but uninjured.

PRAGUE, June 16—(Reuters)—The Czechoslovakian government today demanded that British diplomat Adrian Leigh McLaughlin, vice-consul and third secretary at the British Embassy here, leave the country within 14 days.

Three Children Drowned In Muddy Swimming Hole

MATHESON, Ont., June 16 —(CP)—Searchers early today recovered the last of the bodies of the three children of Mr. and Mrs George Heavens, district farmer, from a pond in a meadow about five miles south of this Northern Ontario centre.

Drowned while playing in the swimming hole were 11-year-old Edith Heavens and her two younger brothers, Alfred, nine, and Freddie, seven.

Discovery of the latest body after midnight last night ended a five-hour search by neighbors and friends and left the Heavens family childless.

Until the last body was recovered, Mr. Heavens had held some hope that one of the children might have fled after seeing his brother and sister drown yesterday. Mrs. Heavens was taken first to hospital and later to the home of her mother, suffering from shock after the first body—that of her daughter—was found about dusk.

The children, none of whom could swim, apparently met their death during the afternoon. They were first missed by their mother about 6.30 p.m. Searching the area around the farm, she found a bicycle and some of her children's clothing at the edge of the murky pond, which was 10 to 18 feet deep.

Edith was found clad in her underclothing, leading to a theory she may have seen her two brothers disappear when they stepped off the steep bank and plunged into the water to save them.

Called by his wife, Mr. Heavens flagged cars to a stop on No. 11 Highway while neighbours dived into the muddy water in an attempt to recover the bodies.

Soon about 200 persons had gathered at the scene and began dragging the pond. When the first body was recovered, Mrs Heavens collapsed and was taken to the Red Cross hospital at Matheson for shock injections.

Miners Find Grim Evidence One Of Five Trapped Perished In Mine Flood

38 Truckloads of Muck Taken Out But Hope Fading Fast; Men Working in 6-Hour Shifts To Clear It

CADOMIN, Alta., June 15—(CP)—Grim evidence that one of five miners trapped in a Rocky Mountain coal mine may have been crushed to death was unearthed today by a rescue party. The five-man party brought a broken miner's lamp to the Cadomin Coal Co. office when they came off shift early today, 36 hours after five other miners were entombed by tons of water-washed silt and coal. One of the miners, Joe Fedynak, also disclosed that a man's leg wearing a heavy shoe and dismembered below the knee had been found by a rescue party earlier.

Thirty-eight truckloads of muck have been taken from the mine as parties work clock-round, six-hour shifts to clear the mud clogged passage way.

Mechanical muck digging machines are to be put to work later today. Mine officials said clearance work would be speeded but refused to speculate when the imprisoned miners could be reached. They are given little chance of survival.

May Be Weeks

It may be hours. It may be weeks. It depends which of the many channels the mud came down, said one official.

As the fate of the missing still remained unknown, residents of the town said their hope of finding some alive is fading.

The rescuers are working shoulder to shoulder in a narrow tunnel where the men have been imprisoned since Wednesday night by a fall of silt and soft coal brought down by a flash flood.

Water from a surface drainage canal plunged through a cave-in carrying hundreds of tons of debris into a tunnel. The spot is a mile from the shaft opening and 270 feet below the surface.

The shaft is slanted at an angle of 37 degrees. Rocks, mud, timbers and other debris periodically slither down the slope. Rescue workers have ignored the danger to tackle the clearing job.

Towers Sees No Slump For Canada And States

HALIFAX, June 16 —(CP)—Graham F. Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, said today he is confident Canada and the United States are not headed for a depression.

"The whole world," he said in an interview, "and especially Canada, is greatly influenced by the economic standing of the United States."

The U.S. had become such a tremendous and wealthy country that it can probably steer clear of depression. However, public feeling had been influenced by "the fears of 1930" and "Russian propaganda to the effect that capitalism will kill itself."

Scaffold Falls 7 Men Plunge 20 Ft. To Ground

GUELPH, June 16—(CP)—Seven workmen were rushed to hospital today when a scaffold collapsed and sent them plunging 20 feet to the ground below.

The mishap occurred about 10 a.m. when the men were placing a 16-foot, 350-pound steel beam in place on a new extension of the annealing department of the Federal Wire and Cable Co. plant at Suffolk Street and London Road. The beam was the last one to be placed and would have completed the erection of the structural steel.

Too Much Weight

It is believed that the combined weight of the men and the beam caused a four inch piece of steel, fastened to a four-by-four inch timber and bracing the scaffold floor, to bend and let the load plummet to the ground.

Injured were James Aspell, Louis Veroni, Carmen Godfrey, Fausto Scroccorro, Thomas Evans, Donald McEwen and William Reuber.

Seriousness of the injuries is not yet known, but reports are that at least four were badly hurt. The men were working on a construction job under Contractor A. Balconi.

Here's One Bill Opposition Likes

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP)—The government today introduced in the Commons a bill to remove obstacles to legal suits against the crown. The official opposition was so happy Justice Minister Garson had to intervene to slow their headlong acceptance.

The bill, containing an important legal principle, was given not only the customary first but second reading as well. As Progressive Conservative members stood up gleefully to debate it in committee of the whole, Mr. Garson arose and asked that the study be delayed until the bill has been distributed.

A Speaking House agreed.

Mr. Garson said, in a one-sentence explanation, that its purpose is to "provide that corporate crown agencies may sue and be sued in provincial courts of competent jurisdiction" without first obtaining a fiat from the government.

Members of the official opposition have long said the fiat clause has virtually ruled out such suits against government agencies.

Arrests In Peru End Short, Bloody Revolt

AREQUIPA, Peru, June 16—(AP)—Peru's military government today claimed complete control of Arequipa and said leaders of a short, bloody revolt here have been arrested.

(A broadcast by the official radio Continental at Lima, heard in La Paz, Bolivia, said more than 120 persons had been killed and about 300 were wounded.

Nearly all the city's businesses were closed by a general strike. Paving block barricades, thrown up during the fighting, still made many streets impassable.

Censorship, lifted for a time yesterday, was reimposed last night.

(The Army-controlled radio Landa at Arequipa indicated that fighting still might be threatening or continuing.)

British Exports Doubled To North America Wilson Tells Commons

8,800 U.K. Cars Sent To Canada In May Compared With 1,200 In Pre-War Year; Old Country Imports Jump However

LONDON, June 16—(Reuters)—Britain's exports to North America last month were more than double the monthly average in the third quarter of 1949, it was revealed Thursday. Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, told the House of Commons in a monthly report that efforts to increase exports to North America are showing encouraging results, particularly those to Canada. In May, 8,800 British automobiles were sent to Canada, compared with a prewar yearly total of between 1,200 and 1,300, he told a press conference.

Provisional estimates showed that during May £20,600,000 worth of exports were sent to North America, compared with a monthly average of £10,000,000 during the third quarter of 1949 and £14,500,000 in April, 1950.

Exports to Canada in May were valued at £12,400,000, compared with £8,200,000 worth of goods sold to the United States in the same period.

Wilson said the value of all British exports in May was £183,000,000, an increase of £5,400,000 over the March record after adjustments in the different number of working days in the respective months.

He revealed, however, that Britain's imports of £228,800,000 in May were higher than any previous month. The May imports raised the total for the first five months of 1950 to 14 per cent more than the same period last year. After deducting re-exports, there was a £40,000,000 excess of imports over exports for May.

Expressing satisfaction with engineering exports to Canada, Wilson told reporters that further increases may be expected.

Textiles had maintained their position in Canada, cotton was up a little, and wool was selling at the same rate as in recent months.

Pottery and glass sales to the United States and Canada had risen to record figures, and chemicals had shown a considerable rise.

More whisky had been sent to both countries. Canada took 67,700 gallons in May, compared with 30,000 in April. Some 371,000 gallons went to the United States last month, compared with 210,000 in April.

Police Hold Husband For Kidnapping Baby

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 16 (CP)—A police search across western Ontario for a 19-year-old husband and his infant daughter ended here Thursday night when Carl Schug of Goderich was arrested on charges of desertion and intimidation of his wife, Ilene, 18.

Provincial Police said that after a quarrel with his wife Schug left their home at Goderich on Wednesday night with the seven-weeks-old baby and disappeared.

Schug told police he brought the baby to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schug of Niagara Falls. He said he rode a transport from Goderich to Kitchener and there took a bus for Niagara Falls. The baby was reported to have been given milk and to have suffered no ill effect from the trip.

Evacuation Begins Along Fraser River

VANCOUVER, June 16 (CP)—Evacuations, minor but reminiscent of the floods of 1948, were reported today as the Fraser River prowled above the flood-danger level.

At least six families have fled from their low-lying homes They included two families near Agassiz and three families in the Dewdney area. Agassiz is 70 miles east of here; Dewdney 48.

The Fraser's latest reading was 20.6 feet.

Boatmen said logs and other debris carried down the river from its boiling headwaters, swelled by a prolonged hot spell, are making navigation "pretty tough."

Patrols now are on duty along the $11,000,000 dike system, strengthened since the $30,000,000 floods of two years ago.

Bank Messengers Get New Uniforms

The Bank of Montreal on the corner of Simcoe and Water Sts. is receiving a face-lifting. Contractors are Guppy and Hall, painters and decorators. The base coat of light cream will be followed by a second coat of dark cream.

The job was started, on June 12 and it is expected that it will be completed, including the grey and green trim, by June 23.

As well as giving the outside of the bank a face-lifting, the bank has outfitted its messenger staff with smart new summer uniforms. These uniforms are powder blue and the lightweight caps are decorated with silver badges. Since donning the uniforms, two weeks ago, the messengers have closely resembled air force officers.

New safety precautions have been taken by the installation of new cash vault steel door. This three and a half ton door is the only one of its kind in the city and is similar to the doors used in the large city banks.

Lose Lives

mers to start looking for the missing youth.

Finds Body

Maurice Charon, 18, High St., volunteered to dive off the cement pier and almost immediately discovered the body.

"At first I thought it was some tin cans on the bottom," he said, "the water wasn't clear. Then I realized it was the boy they were looking for."

Two other swimmers, 12-year-old Bob Malby of Rubidge St., and Charles Staves, 16, Elm St., then reached the spot. Together they dived to the bottom and brought the body to the canal bank.

Chase was about 20 feet from the bank lying in about 10 feet of water.

Too Late

The inhalator crew worked on him from 15 to 20 minutes and then death was pronounced shortly after 8 p.m. by Dr. J. Wishart. Coroner Dr. Herbert Young estimated Chase had been in the water about half an hour.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chase; two brothers—Gordon at home, and Douglas, Antrim St. Also four sisters—Mrs. Jack Edwards, King George St., and Mrs. Clarence Nelson, also a Peterborough resident; Marjory at home, and Mrs. Claude Gray, RR. 2, Lakefield.

Although young Chase was a drummer in the Sea Cadets, he was not a good swimmer. The Sea Cadets give no swimming lessons or tests to their members.

He was also a member of St. John's Boy Scouts. He attended Queen Mary School and was a member of St. John's Anglican Church and St. Alban's Mission.

The funeral service for Ernest Chase will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church, with Archdeacon W. P. Robertson and Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Anglican Church officiating. The body is resting at the Comstock Funeral Home. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Not Good Swimmers

In the Lakefield drowning Neil, who afterwards said that neither he nor Scott were good swimmers, had completed the swim across the canal but Scott was about 10 feet from the west bank when he went under.

"I went over to him and held him up for a while" Neil said, "but then I couldn't hold him any longer and he disapeared.

Roy Mounce, 474 Rogers St., who had just dressed after swimming in the canal, heard Neil calling "I'm all played out" and, sensing something was wrong, ran over to see what the trouble was.

He hurriedly took off his clothes and searched in the water several minutes, unable to find Scott. Then some people standing nearby went to Roy Breaker, the lock master, who brought out two long poles.

Discovers Body

Following Neil's directions, Mounce continued his search and was successful in bringing Scott's unconscious body to the surface. He put him on a boom, about five feet from the west bank of the canal and applied artificial respiration. This had no effect and after a few minutes, he was lifted to the bank but he never regained consciousness.

Members of the Fire Department were the first to arrive from Peterborough and they worked with the inhalator for more than an hour with no results.

Dr. Herbert N. Young, Peterborough coroner, pronounced Scott dead some two hours after he was rescued from the water.

Came With Friends

Scott had gone to the canal with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Neil and their son and daughter aged four years and 10 months and also his younger sister, Julia Marie, 13.

Brought up on his father's farm Scott was educated at School Section No. 3 Douro and was working on the farm. His brother Kevin, 18, is employed at the CGE.

Scott had been under the care of Dr. J. M. O'Brien because he had a weak heart.

Members of the fire department who tried to revive Scott with the inhalator were Master Mechanic Bud Cruikshanks, Firemen W. Torrance and W. Bloom.

Cpl. L. A. McClure and Constable Archie Eadey of the provincial police investigated.

Mr. Scott was a member of St. Joseph's Church, Douro, and belonged to the Holy Name Society at the church. Requiem mass will be said there on Monday at 9 a.m. and burial in St. Joseph's cemetery will follow.

The funeral will take place from the Duffus Funeral Home.

These were two of six persons drowned in widely-scattered parts of Ontario Thursday.

Three children lost their lives while swimming in a pothole near Ramore, 125 miles north of Sudbury. Discovery of a bundle of clothing near the boat slip at Point Edward led to belief a man missing since Wednesday had been drowned.

Reports to the provincial police at Matheson, south of Cochrane, on No. 11 Highway, were that three children of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heavans lost their lives swimming near Ramore. The children were Fred, 10; Gordon, 9 and Anna, 7. Anna's body was recovered from the deep muddy pond on the Heavans farm where cattle are watered.

At Point Edward, on the St. Clair River near Sarnia, police found a bundle of clothing belonging to Clayton J. Willis, missing since Wednesday from his uncle's home at Sarnia. Dragging operations were to start today.

U.K. Flow of Immigrants Currency Problems Reduce

OTTAWA, June 16—(CP)—Immigration Minister Harris told the Commons Thursday that little can be done to increase the flow of immigrants to Canada from the United Kingdom until currency problems are solved. Speaking after representatives of various parties urged acceptance of a greater number of immigrants, Mr. Harris said currency restrictions are preventing many persons from coming to Canada.

Britain permitted emigrants to take out £1,000 over a four-year period. He had seen press reports which indicated that the British government soon may consider allowing emigrants to take out a larger portion of the £1,000 in the first year. Mr. Harris said he could not comment on the reports.

Speakers in the debate on the Immigration Department's estimates for 1950-1951 included E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamloops), P. E. Gagnon (Ind, Chicoutimi), H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West), H. A. MacKenzie (Lambton-Kent) and George Murray (L, Cariboo).

The day brought these other developments:

1. Justice Minister Garson obtained first reading of a bill that would give the government broad new powers under the Official Secrets Act and authorize a doubling of the act's top penalty—from seven to 14 years—for espionage and related activities.

2. Members adopted a bill giving Trade Minister Howe wide powers to make defence purchases in peacetime. Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC, Nanaimo) indicated his disagreement with his party's criticism of the measure by saying that he believed the current situation made wide powers necessary if Canada is to be ready for war at any time.

No Cleavage

Later, outside the chamber, Gen. Pearkes told reporters that his remarks were made "in anger . . . at the way things are going," but denied that there was a party cleavage.

In the immigration debate, Mr. Fulton said no time should be lost in convening a Dominion-Provincial conference to discuss immigration. Any immigration scheme should be worked out in conjunction with the provinces

Western Oil Again Leads On Exchange

TORONTO, June 16 (CP) — Western oil and industrial stocks again held most of the attention on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Demand continued heavy in leading western oil stocks and the list again climbed to new peak price levels.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,912,000 shares.

Gains ranged up to 20 cents over a wide list of western oils. Signs of profit-taking appeared in mid-session and a few gains were reduced. This was the sixth successive session of advance for the western oil list.

Industrials started slowly but picked up steam in mid-session. A handful of selected issues showed gains ranging from fractions to more than full point.

Interest slackened in golds and the list continued recent declines into new low price ground. Junior producers showed losses ranging up to 10 cents.

Ascot Corp., and Anacon lead held the limelight in base metals.

Shaft Cleared

The shaft, seven feet high and nine feet wide, has been cleared by pick and shovel to within 150 feet of the mucking machines.

When these are dug out and put in operation the hard hand labor will be ended.

"We should not give up hope that two and possibly three of the men may be alive," said Arthur Lister, District Mine Inspector. But Joe Henderson, pit boss, and D. B. Young, manager of the Cadomin Coal Company mine, said they had little hope.

Lister gave no reason why he believed some of the miners may be alive. Trapped are: Peter Morris, 66; Rade Kasanovich, 62; Mike Kapasconski, 53; Roy Carr, 38, and Tom Lenovich, 55.

The tunnel was plugged late Wednesday when water from a surface drainage canal plunged through a cave-in, flooding the mine shaft and carrying hundreds of tons of debris into the tunnel leading to the outside. The mine is 200 miles southwest of Edmonton.

Stinging Attack On Russia By St. Laurent

OTTAWA, June 16 — (CP).— Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a stinging attack on Russian imperialism, charged Thursday night that the whole Communist press is a "vast apparatus of falsification."

He charged, too, that Russia's imperialistic power is wielded by an "autocrat" through the "slave-labor" methods employed by a small group of "ruthless" men.

"Though it masquerades behind the doctrine of revolutionary Communism, which it employs for its own imperialistic purpose," Mr. St. Laurent told the Seventh Imperial Press Conference, "Russia remains the typical empire of the past."

Its ruling "autocrat"—presumably a reference to Prime Minister Stalin — exercised control through the "repression of individual liberty and stifling of national traditions" in all the countries Russia has absorbed.

Jealous of Sovereignty

"Yet there is no country more jealous of its sovereignty, more determined not to yield an inch to the new forces of international co-operation, than is Soviet Russia, inspite of the fact that the words peace, democracy, and progress are ever on the lips of Soviet political leaders."

Mr. St. Laurent spoke at a dinner given by the government to the conference delegates. The dinner was closed to the press, but texts of his speech and that of George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, who joined him were made available early today.

Mr. Drew, proposing a toast to the guests, expressed the hope that through their deliberations may come the inspiration to build the idea of an "ever stronger partnership, based not on force, but on all that is decent and good."

Preceding Mr. Drew, Mr. St. Laurent flayed the propaganda-type of news that marks the Communist press machine. He said:

"One has only to open a Communist publication in any part of the world to see on it the heavy imprint of the Kremlin. The whole Communist press is one enormous government handout, and this dreary conformity, this vast apparatus of falsification seems to be the only access which many millions have to what is going on in the world today."

Democracy could not "afford to underestimate the challenge which Soviet propaganda represents, nor to underestimate the success which, unfortunately, it often achieves."

How was democracy to meet this challenge?

"Certainly not by the methods

Gets Two Years For Robbing Service Station

COBOURG, June 16 (ENS) — Frank Battaglia, who conducted his own case on a charge of breaking and entering with theft was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge M. A. Miller in County Court Thursday Battaglia, whose home is in Toronto, was charged with robbing Wakely's service station on the outskirts of Port Hope on Jan. 14 this year.

On Wednesday, constable L. Coughlin of Port Hope, said that he saw Battaglia pull away from the service station around six a.m. Jan. 14 and that it had been broken into. Hoyt Mitchell, US inspector of customs, testified that he had cleared Battaglia and his car at 1 a.m. Jan 14 as they passed over the Ivy Lee Bridge.

Defence witness Harry Laverton of Oakville said that on January 14, just past midnight, Battaglia came to his farm and spent the night. He was joined next day by Mrs. Battaglia and the couple lived on the farm for two months. Battaglia mentioned that his car had been lost. Mrs. Laverton testified that Battaglia came to the farm around midnight, Friday, Jan. 13 in a taxi and next day phoned his wife about his car being stolen.

Hartly Smith, who also stayed at the Laverton farm, said he was going home from a dance late Friday night, Jan. 13 and saw Frank Battaglia get out of a taxi at the Laverton farm. Next day he heard him telephone his wife and say that his car had been stolen.

Battaglia's wife testified that they lived on Toronto Island and when her husband didn't come home on the night of Jan. 13, she assumed he had missed the boat. It was his custom to leave his car in a parking lot near the island boat docks. Next day the police called and asked her where the car was and if she knew where her husband was. Later in the day she received a phone call from her husband who told her to come to the farm at Oakville.

Used Wrong Name

Crown Attorney Deyman called Magistrate R. B. Baxter in reply The Magistrate recalled that at the preliminary hearing, the defence had produced a traffic violation ticket made out in the name of "Rheynus" at Tampa, Florida, on Jan. 14 and the inference was that Battaglia had been using that name as an alias.

Asked by Judge Miller why he used this at the preliminary, Battaglia said that he realized he was in trouble and was "clutching at any straw." He insisted however that the correct story was that he was at the farm when the robbery occurred.

However, Judge Miller disbelieved Battaglia's story and sentenced him to two years in penitentiary.

Recommend Sale Four Acres To Industry

Sale of four acres of industrial property west of High St. to Canadian Timber Structures Ltd. at $500 an acre was recommended to the council by its property committee Wednesday.

It is also proposed that the company be given an option for five years to buy the remaining four acres of that block for $1,300 an acre. This option would simply confer first opportunity to buy at the agreed amount.

The committee with Ald. E. C. Braund presiding recommended that this arrangement be framed in a bylaw.

This land is the site of the old Sandstone Brick Co., and was sold to the city for industrial location by the estate of Robert Harstone.

The committee suggests that a deed be prepared when approval has been obtained from the Minister of Municipal Affairs.

Governors Meet In New Hospital

First people to put the new civic hospital building to practical use were the Board of Governors who on Thursday, for the first time, held their monthly meeting there.

Melville Johnston, who represents the county council on the Board, asked that a better approach to the hospital for traffic from the west be made, by extending Alexandra Ave. across the front of the hospital to join Sherbrooke St. At present traffic from the west had to drive nearly a mile to the dangerous corner at the junction of Highway 28 and Alexandra Ave. to approach the hospital from the east.

Chairman J. R. Marshall pointed out that it would be undesirable to have a road cutting through the hospital property from east to west. Ninety-nine per cent of the traffic would be people not using the hospital at all and for the comfort of the patients it would be better that Alexandra Ave. remain closed.

Mr. Marshall pointed out to Reeve Johnston that there was an approach to the hospital from the west side of the building near the boiler house.

After several members endorsed Mr. Marshall's opinion that there should be no through road in front of the hospital, Reeve Johnston said he would not press his point to the extent of asking the committee to investigate the matter. He did, however, want the Board to remember the people who approached the building from the west.

The following donations were acknowledged by the Board: $500 from the Kiwanis Club; $500 for the furnishing and maintenance of a room to be named after Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser; $1,000 from the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite to furnish two rooms, one for men and one for women, and $130 from St. James' Church Hospital Fund.

He went to the edge of the cement wall and found the dog, its energy almost spent, frantically trying to clamber out of the water. Mr. Smith leaned over the edge of the wall and managed to pull the dog to safety.

The current is quite swift in this spot and Mr. Smith had some difficulty in rescuing the frightened animal. The dog is owned by Earl Gillespie of Campbellford.

Improvements To Cost $46,000 Victoria Road

LINDSAY, June 16—The 1950 road construction and improvement program now underway in Victoria County is expected to cost $46,000. County Engineer Wilford, in his report to the County Council claimed that a great deal of heaving and other damage caused by the continually changing weather conditions has been the reason behind this year's high maintenance cost.

Harvey Construction of Kingston have been given the contract of supplying crushed stone. Mulch pavement is to be applied to five and one half miles of county road to fill in gaps that are not paved.

The Provincial government will assume 80 per cent. of the cost of the bridge to be built on the Ops-Manvers boundary at a cost of $6,000. The remaining 20 per cent. of the cost will be divided between Victoria, Northumberland and Durham.

Due to the inadequacy of the bridge on the county road at the C.N.R. crossing, west of Lindsay, to handle all motor cars, because of a two ton load limit, Victoria County is trying to have a new overhead bridge built. The C.N.R. which owns the bridge stated that a new bridge would cost $52,000. The railways seems to be trying to avoid the cost of this bridge and is anxious that the county assume the financial obligations in this regard. There are no immediate plans for the construction of the bridge.

Swimmers In The Canal

The first drownings of the season in Peterborough happened last evening after supper. A boy of sixteen floundered in the canal at the East City entrance; a few miles farther north a young man, aged 19, with a weak heart, met death, also in the canal. These two unrelated fatalities have a common warning: it is dangerous to swim in the canal. The Trent Canal authorities do not countenance swimming in the boat channels but they cannot of course police the whole length. On warm days young people want to swim. The canal is inviting, for it is handy, there is no current, the water is fairly clean, and there are many miles of it. In contrast, Little Lake and the Otonabee below it are polluted and declared by the Medical Officer of Health unfit for swimming. Above the lake the river current is strong and there are few safe bays. Nevertheless, there are other swimming places; two indoor pools; two civic beaches both with guards; the new outdoor pool erected by the Lions Club; and ror those with bicycles or cars, several lakes and good stretches of the Otonabee within a dozen miles of the city. Swimmers and parents of young swimmers must beware of the canal with its depth, its vertical cement walls, and few places where one can climb out of the water easily.

* * *

This sad double fatality is the first drownings of the season; they will, unhappily, not be the last, unless all swimmers avoid the dangerous places and follow the precautionary rules: not to swim alone; not to swim after eating; not to swim when over-heated; not to go into water over their depth unless they are good swimmers and there are capable alert attendants within reach.

Britain Cold-Shoulders The Schuman Plan

The national executive of the British Labour Party last Monday rejected economic co-operation with European governments which are not Socialist, which "have not yet shown either the will or the ability to plan their own economies". That was a general statement preparatory to Prime Minister Attlee's announcement in the House of Commons on Tuesday that the Schuman plan as a sketch was a great idea, but that Britain was not ready to join it. The Prime Minister said that Britain would not agree in advance with the idea of setting up a high authority with power to dictate basic industrial policies to member countries.

The Schuman plan, which has the support of his French government, would establish such a power over the iron and steel industry of western Europe. It is a proposal to operate the mines and the smelters co-operatively, and with a view to their efficient production, and equitable distribution. It means essentially, the setting up of a huge cartel or pool, operated on behalf of the participating nations by a special authority. Next week France, Italy, Western Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg will begin negotiations to make the pool more than Mr. Schuman's theory. Britain will not share in the negotiations.

It is notable that the British Government abstains not because of flaws in the Schuman plan, and flaws there are. Britain does not approve of it. It is a matter of principle. This is rather astonishing, in view of the Labour Government's record of co-operation for European betterment. The Schuman plan is an attempt to revive fully and advantageously the basic industry of western Europe, in a co-operative way; a way which may prevent discord in the future which in the past has been near the heart of Franco-German wars. The Schuman plan involves the surrender of a certain amount of national sovereignty to a supra-national or international authority. Is it this surrender to which Britain objects? The record points otherwise. Britain has espoused the Western Union, and the North Atlantic treaty powers' defense plans which involve military co-operation. The principle of a "balanced collective force" which Britain has accepted means some surrender of sovereignty in a significant way: the disposal of its own armed forces.

History and an amplifying statement by Mr. Attlee help to explain Britain's apparent rejection of the Schuman plan. Britain has never fully commited herself to being a European power. She has stood between two worlds, and played a part in both: the world of Europe, and the world of Empire. Nor has Britain ever allowed her economy to get out of her own hands. She has created her own industry, is proud of her industrial position, and will not play second fiddle, or even first violin in a European industrial orchestra. Does Britain believe that by allowing her basic industry—coal and iron—to be subjected to an outside international authority she is limiting her stature economically? Does the Labour Government believe that a coal and steel pool, the majority of whose member-nations are fervently capitalistic, would upset its socialist experiment in industry?

There are these factors. There is Prime Minister Attlee's reported pledge of full support for an even greater pooling of western resources under the Atlantic pact. He is thinking, it seems, in terms of a gradual surrender of sovereignty, not in the narrower field of European union, but in the broader pattern of the Atlantic community. Is he, in effect, saying: "If this European pool is a good thing for us, then it is a good thing for the U.S.A. Let the U.S.A. and Sweden, and Canada, join the pool, and Britain will also join"?

Whatever the Labour Government's motives, the rejection of the Schuman plan before its details are even gone into has been a shock to many people of good will who see in it a prime hope for the economic stability of western Europe.

$5,000 Rental

The Senate, many members of Parliament, and a good many of their fellow citizens are shocked by the proposition that the Prime Minister should pay $5,000 annual rental for the official residence now being prepared. We consider that the Bill now before the legislators making statutory an annual rental at a fixed sum is unwise, ungracious and not the wish of the Canadian people.

The intention in providing an official residence for our Prime Ministers is that they may be able to live and entertain in a manner suitable to the status of the country of which they are the elected head, and in accordance with the dignity and pressure of duties of the office. It is the country's hope that this mansion would combine the characteristics of a Canadian family home, where the Prime Minister could feel at ease; and of an official residence where he could suitably receive distinguished visitors. We are asking the Prime Minister to live in this Sussex Street mansion, and should not demand rent of him. It happens that Mr. St. Laurent has private means to supplement his not generous Prime Ministerial emoluments. What will happen if a successor is not able to afford an annual rental, or indeed, to maintain his household in the mansion at all? There is a constant drain on the resources of men in public life, apart entirely from the income tax levy, and their salaries are not great. Private means should not be a prerequisite to public service in Canada.

Mr. St. Laurent himself has wished to pay the suggested rental, as a partial contribution to its maintenance. Government spokesmen have explained that the Prime Minister has insisted on this on the ground that he should not benefit financially from being provided with an official home and its upkeep. He has calculated his present costs of maintaining his Ottawa apartment to be $5,000. This is surely one case in which the Prime Minister's wishes could have been overruled with "friendly firmness" as the Montreal Gazette suggests. The point of view of the Gazette, which is usually a supporter of the Progressive Conservatives, is widely shared. It is a delicate matter but the Canadian people do not want to haggle about price, or attach strings to their provision of a home for their Head of Government.

NOTE AND COMMENT

After four years of marriage an 80-year-old woman and her 22-year-old husband in Cat Hollow, Kentucky, declare themselves to be blissfully happy. Well, there's a good deal to be said for maturity in a woman.

A new definition of sanity appeared in Peterborough police court this week, when an accused fisherman said: "I wouldn't be crazy enough to admit to a game warden that I was fishing when he didn't catch me". The magistrate countered with a sane fine of $20 and costs; the warden had seen the rod and man, even if he had, not caught him catching a fish in forbidden waters.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: You beat around the bush in your answer to the question about the incorporation of cities (June 9). When did Peterborough become a city? The centenary we are celebrating this year is the incorporation of Peterborough as a town.

ANSWER: January 1st, 1906. The population was then 10,960 — which rather goes against the theory I propounded last Friday that 15,000 is ordinarily the minimum population for the incorporation of cities. But all figures have grown bigger in the last fifty years—cost-of-living, wages, even human figures, and 10,000 was a respectable size for an Ontario community in 1906.

ALPHA: Why the use of the two words together: "bachelors and benedicts." What is the origin of 'benedicts'?

ANSWER: The terms are used facetiously—and to my mind dully—to indicate single men and married men—the latter being the traitors from bachelordom. It is an American usage. Benedict Arnold was an American general who with Richard Montgomery invaded Canada in 1775, to capture Montreal. (Montgomery took it that November.) This was during the American Revolution, and Carleton was Canada's defending general. Later Arnold deserted the American cause, and came to Canada where he was given military employment. He is thus called a traitor by Americans.

It is odd that Canadians do not think General Montgomery a traitor. He was an ex-soldier who had assisted Wolfe in the capture of Quebec. He offered French-Canadians who would join his ranks 200 acres of land in any of the American colonies, and an additional forty acres for each wife and child. He was killed on December 31, 1775 at the outskirts of Quebec which he had been trying to capture, and for forty years his body was retained there. Then it was transferred to St. Paul's church, downtown New York, where it now is.

DEAR ALPHA: I subscribe to a Chicago magazine and each year I have to pay an additional 50c for Canadian postage. Why is this? Is there not some sort of international agreement whereby one country honours another's postage? When I send a letter to the U.S.A. I do not have to add additional postage. Is this just a slick trick of milking me for 50c?

ANSWER: There are such agreements, but they seem usually to apply only to first class mail (i.e. the four-cent letter rate). You will notice that one-cent cards coming in from the U.S.A. are surcharged with Canadian postage, or a note to the effect that "Canadian postage paid" is printed on them. Newspaper and magazine postage rates are very low, and in second and third class categories. There are no reciprocal arrangements about these. Therefore, you pay extra postage—the U.S.A. third class rate to the border, our own third class rate (or equivalent) from the border to your home. When our magazines are shipped to the U.S.A., American subscribers to them have to pay extra.

Usually such postage rates, and the extras to foreign countries, are worked out in bulk, and the publishing firm sets its extra postage rates in accordance with the bulk contract price which it has with the central post office authorities.

SIR: How many bishops have there been in Peterborough, and who was the first?

ANSWER: The Roman Catholic See of Peterborough, established 1882, has had seven bishops: (1) Rt. Rev. John Francis Jamot, 1882 to his death in 1886; (2) Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Dowling 1887-1889 (when he went to Hamilton); (3) Rt. Rev. Richard A. O'Connor 1889 to his death in 1913; (4) Most Rev. Michael J. O'Brien 1913 to his translation to Kingston as coadjutor Archbishop, 1929; (5) Most Rev. Denis O'Connor 1930 to his death in 1942; (6) Most Rev. John R. MacDonald 1943 until 1945 when he was translated to Antigonish, N.S.; (7) Most Rev. Joseph Gerald Berry, consecrated June 1st, 1945.

I have already written in this column about the first Bishop, Rt. Rev. Jean Francois Jamot. He was a Frenchman, not a French-Canadian. A man who was resident in Peterborough at the time (1886) has written that he died, after some months of illness, from hiccoughs. Experts came from near and far, this person relates, but could not stop the trouble.

MORE EPITAPHS: Several readers have referred to the epitaph on a grave in Peterborough's Little Lake Cemetery, which I remarked on in this column last year, and which is well-known. However, here it is again for the sake of getting its words right:

O weak beware, here lies the strong,
A victim to his strength;
He lifted 1600 pounds
And here he lays at length.

The words are on the tombstone of Daniel McDonald who died at the age of 33 in Ashburnham in 1871 from "a burst blood vessel", so cemetery records say.

A correspondent mentions the grave in St. Peter's cemetery of this city of David Fitzgerald, who was born in Lyreforme Hall, Tiperary, Ireland, and died June 22, 1874 in Peterborough. My correspondent says that this man came from an old and titled family, and that a brother was one of the first judges appointed in Picton for Prince Edward County. He asks if any reader can give further information about this Fitzgerald family.

A gentle reader has given me this sad epitaph from St. John's parish church in the village of Hockly, township of Mona, near Orangeville (Ontario):

One year a wife,
Four hours a mother
She departed this life.

My attention has been called to a recent advertisement in the London (England) Times classified columns:

QUEEN ANNE BOLEYN — The Martyr Queen of England, beheaded May 19, 1536. 'The Gospel Light first beamed from Bullen's eyes' (Gray). 'That most holy Queen' (Aleese). 'Whose soul I doubt not but is in blessed felicity with God' (Archbishop Parker). 'Another Hester for England's salvation, both in her selfe and royal Bud succeeding, as the Heavens and World doe witnesse to this day' (Speed). In gratitude for the Open Bible she procured for the people of England.

The advertisement was inserted by one G. E. Connor. Anne Boleyn was Henry's VIII's second wife and the mother of Queen Elizabeth. She was judiciously executed. The Encyclopedia Britannica describes her as "a weak, giddy woman of no stability of character".

FOR THE RECORD: In the seventies in Peterborough a good six-room house rented for four to five dollars a month. Labourers earned fifty cents to a dollar a day. School boys would drive a butcher's wagon all day Saturday for ten cents. Other boys would work in the shops on their Saturdays and bring their lunch with them, for ten cents. It is said that in those days not many lads went to school after they reached the age of twelve. They began work in shops or factories at $2.00 a week.

.....TRY, TRY, TRY AGAIN

Mr. Bevin Hangs On

(NEW YORK TIMES)

ERNEST BEVIN is one of those Englishmen who can qualify as an example of John Bull. He looks the part and has what it takes. The news that he is not going to retire because of health from his position as Foreign Secretary is gratifying. If Britain has a better candidate he has not yet come up.

"Ernie" Bevin was never one to be tortured by doubts or self-criticism. He is a man who has received and dealt many a hard knock. From a youth in the Dockers Union to the middle-aged creator and leader of the largest trade union in the world, the Transport and General Workers Union, Ernie Bevin was a fighter, tenacious, ruthless, shrewd, and an administrator of the highest order. He always was a Socialist, but not of the intellectual, Fabian type. It was the emotional, humanitarian, egalitarian approach that appealed to him, fair shares for the worker in industry, moderation and democracy in politics.

He was no diplomat, either by background or training, and he still isn't one, but he is a statesman of high order. His career made it certain that the yardstick of British foreign policy would be economics, which is well in the English tradition. But his prime interest is not trade. See that everyone in the world has a job, a house and enough to eat and this would be the millennium for Ernest Bevin, a world contented and at peace.

To be sure, he sees international economic progress through British eyes that are partly Socialist and typically insular. Hence the reluctance to join an economically integrated Europe. His years as a trade union leader made him appreciate the necessity of power, and now as Foreign Secretary he works hand in glove with Sir Stafford Cripps to make Britain as powerful a nation as possible.

By and large, the rest of the democratic world should have no complaint. The necessity for creating power obstacles to Russia's expansion is Secretary Acheson's policy as well as Mr. Bevin's. Great Britain is as firmly democratic and anti-Communist as the United States or any other Western country.

For all the disagreements over Palestine, China, devaluation, integration and other day-to-day developments, the union of policies and sentiments between America and Britain has been singularly strong in the past five years of the British Labour Government. Ernest Bevin is to be thanked for that as much as any one man.

The Practical Viewpoint

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Experiments conducted at the University of Alberta indicate that before long little pigs will grow into big pigs at a much faster rate of speed, thus cutting feeding costs. The researchers point out that it is possible that humans might be affected by use of the growth-inducing "animal protein factor". Parents of young children will not look forward to this with much delight. The task of providing clothes and shoes for the average child is tough enough now, let's not coax them to grow any faster.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea....

There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the most High. God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, and that right early.

The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted. The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah. He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire.

Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth. (Ps. 46: 1, 2, 4-7, 9, 10.)

Jimmy and Bobby were in beds side by side in the children's hospital, and the visiting hour had just passed.

"I'm not crying for my mummy," Bobby answered, "I'm crying because ma wee doga' died."

"Well, my granny's died," answered Jimmy, "and I'm not crying."

"Maybe you hadna your granny since she was a wee pup," Bobby sobbed out.

The Same Pound

(A.R.F. in London Free Press)

The old belief that the Scots are without a sense of humour was belied by Maitland MacKie, president of the Scottish Farmer's Union, who has been giving a number of addresses in Ontario. Speaking at Stratford recently he had a number of most amusing stories and most of them on his own countrymen. He told of a Scotsman who got married. His pals later asked him how married life was going.

"Fine", he replied, "but it is expensive. My wife asked for a pound on Monday, and again on Tuesday. Then she asked for a pound on Wednesday and again on Thursday."

"What in the world did she spend the money on?" some one asked.

"Oh, I hae nae given her any yet", replied the canny Scot.

Three Churches Unite For 25th Celebration

NORWOOD, June 16 (ENS)— Congregations of Hastings, Havelock and Norwood United Churches held a joint service in the Norwood Church on Sunday evening to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the United Church.

Find Television Gobbling Up Older Movies

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD, June 16 (AP) While the cinema side of Hollywood is turning out seven or eight crisp new pictures a week, television is sopping up 60 oldies.

The feature films you see at home have lost their box office appeal. They're strictly from the archives. Otherwise TV wouldn't get 'em. And yet these venerable flickers are earning higher fees for third and fourth TV showings than they did for first video runs.

People will still look at them—if they don't have to buy tickets.

Such is the paradox that has developed from the refusal of major studios to provide television with reasonably recent pictures. But can you blame the movie producers? Film companies have fortunes invested in cinema houses.

None of the networks makes its own feature films for television. They may, later. A couple have acquired old movie studios. Independant movie producers can't begin to meet the demand, at prices today's sponsors will pay.

Old Stars Popular

That's why vintage pictures (with a few slightly newer British films) are populating the parlor with such resurrected luminaries as Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, Dolores Co Tello, Mary Astor, Tim McCoy, Hopalong Cassidy (sometimes known as Bill Boyd) and Hoot Gibson.

Some sources hint that film fare ultimately will cost more than live TV shows. Movies are that popular. And already certain cinema producers are asking: "Why should we rent even the old pictures to television when we can re-release them in theatres?" They are re-releasing some of them.

Old comedies are running close to westerns in popularity. Charlie Chase, Laurel and Hardy and Billy Gilbert are building new audiences among the generation which followed their heyday.

New Minister At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, June 16 (ENS) —The Rev. Arthur Abel Chote, B.A., L.Th., was inducted Tuesday into the parish of Cavan by the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, M.A., D.D., Bishop of Toronto, who was assisted by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, B.A., of Peterborough, the Rev. H. Hesketh, L.Th., rural dean of Victoria County, and the Rev. Maurice Flint, B.A., L.Th., Toronto.

A congregation from the three churches in the parish filled the church and baskets of white syringa decorated the altar.

Lewis H. Winslow, People's Warden, presented the new rector with the keys on behalf of the wardens of St. Thomas,' St. John's, Ida and Christ Church, Bailieboro.

The Rev. B. W. Horan, M.A., D.D., of Wycliffe College, Toronto, delivered a sermon in which he spoke of the dignity and privilege attached to the office of rector. He asked members of the congregation to do their part by assisting in every way possible and by regular church attendance. Dr. Horan mentioned the industry and brilliance of Mr. Chote when he knew him as a student at Wycliffe College, and of his having served with distinction in the armed forces for 5½ years.

Charles Farr sang the solo part in the anthem, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," by Caleb Semper. Miss Mamie Collins was at the organ.

Reception Follows

The parish hall was decorated with peonies, lemon lilies, syringa and iris for the reception which followed, when Bishop and Mrs. Beverley received with the Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Chote.

Bishop Beverley said that he felt the one lack in the induction service was that while the rector made pledges, none were made by the congregation. He felt that when a new prayer book was made there should be promises of diligence and loyalty on the part of the congregation as well as the rector. He was sure the present congregation would give this support to the new rector nevertheless.

Visiting Clergy

Other visiting clergy were: the Revs F. Lockwood and B. Smyth, of Toronto; Jas. Harvey, Whitby; F. W. Pooley, Omemee; P. C. Howard, Bobcaygeon; the Revs. T. G. Husser and Walter Patterson of Millbrook, and B. Heywood of Bailieboro; Canon W. J. Macdonald Wycliffe College, Toronto.

The Women's Guild served refreshments.

Mutuals Trim The Sails Of UEW 17 to 6

Fattening their batting averages at the expense of UEW, the Mutuals remained undefeated in the men's softball circuit by pounding out a 17-6 victory in a so-so affair before a fair-sized crowd at the Bowl last night. Menzies, Dalton, Giardino, Foster and Harrison each had three hits, including two doubles by Harrison and one by Dalton and Giardino. Pagett got two in three for the losers and Mackness three in five, one being a homer. White hit a triple and McCarthy a double. The losers kicked in with five miscues and Birch gave up eight walks. Greenlaw pitched steady ball and had good support. Each side reeled off a double play, and Conlin came up with a neat pickup as Mackness and Legrow roped in five catches.

Wings Humble Giants 9-3; Leafs Triumph

By The Associated Press.

Russ Derry, hard-hitting outfielder of Rochester Red Wings, once again is terrorizing International League pitching.

The veteran outfielder drove home six runs Thursday night to lead the first place Wings to a 9-3 victory over Jersey City Giants. He homered with the bases loaded in the third inning, his 13th homer of the season and doubled across two more runs in the sixth in his only official trips to the plate. The six runs batted in boosted his total to 48.

The victory boosted the Red Wings' advantage over the second-place Springfield Cubs to two games as the Cubs bowed 7-4 to the seventh place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Steve Ridzik stopped the Cubs on seven hits and drove in three runs with a bases loaded double to record his fourth victory without a setback. Jack Wallaesa socked two homers and Ben Taylor one to account for all of Springfield's runs.

Bounce Orioles

The tail-end Buffalo Bisons defeated Baltimore Orioles 4-1 behind the five-hit pitching of rookie Sandy Silverstein. The Bisons played under the temporary leadership of outfielder Coaker Triplett.

Frank Skaff, deposed as Bison manager before the game in favor of Ray Schalk, watched the game from a roof top seat. His successor, Ray Schalk, takes over tonight. Three of Buffalo's runs off Joe Payne were unearned.

Montreal and Syracuse were not scheduled.

Orphans Fail By Plenty To East City

East City socked the Orphans 18-1 at the Bowl last night in a men's softball tilt as one-sided as it sounds. The losers—shy three regulars—kicked in with nine errors and had trouble hitting Lefty Doris. The winners teed off on Hinton and finished in the eighth on Riches. East City played good ball and had plenty of plate power with Courneyea and O'Heron leading the way, each having four hits in five times up. Sullivan, Scriver and Doris had two each, Scriver hitting a homer, Courneyea a triple and O'Heron and Sullivan getting doubles. Turner had two in three and Lewis two for four for the Orphons, Turner conking a triple, Lewis and Thompson doubles. Byers made a nice catch on one blow.

Ralph Kiner Having Trouble

BOSTON, June 16 — (AP) — Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirate home run slugger, says he can't relax at the plate.

The man experts believe is the most likely to beat the late Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season admits he's worried—he's collected only 15 homers and is batting only .268.

Kiner admits he has been swinging at bad balls, something he didn't do last year or the year before.

"I get real anxious up there," Ralph said, "especially when pitchers don't give me an opportunity to hit."

So far, Kiner has received 45 walks.

His biggest trouble, when he connects with the ball, is that he's sending booming drives to centrefield which are caught for easy outs. Last year he was noted for his snappy wrist action which enabled him to hit power drives to left field and account for 54 homers.

Last spring Kiner injured his wrist in a collision during an exhibition game. He was out of action for more than two weeks and favored the wrist when he got back into the line-up.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Breathing hotly down the necks of the first and second-place OLA senior "A" squads, the hungry Petes seek their fifth win in six starts at Miller Bowl tonight. They're playing Weston Lions at 8.45 and stand a good chance of racking up another victory before a hefty crowd. While the Creighton crew didn't get quite as many imports as they wanted, the ones they got are real good—and the homebrews carried are playing first-class lacrosse too. They're all doing okay so far in a stiff schedule, and should finish well up from their position at schedule's end a year ago. It'll be another sizzling scrap down George St. way this eve.

* * * * * *

Lou Vitarelli's junior OLA crew will tackle Toronto Maitlands at 8.30 tomorrow night in Doug Miller's box. First fray for this new squad in a group including Toronto, Fergus, Owen Sound, Mimico, Weston, St. Catharines and Brampton. All good OLA centres for minor as well as major lacrosse. Young Petes have seven homes games—including one four-pointer—and have season ducats to offer. It should be an interesting opening joust. Jerry Fitzgerald will commence daytime drills for the PMLA-ers Monday from nine to 12 and from two to five, as a lot of the school kids are out now for the summer.

Oshawa And Petes

* * * * * *

Oshawa Merchants fired some more of their USA ball imports, as the guys wanted pay but no work. However, they still have several good ones—including catcher George Ticcony of last season when they were COBL champs. They'll be here tomorrow aft at three in Riverside for their first local appearance of the Viaduct Major League series. And they'll be tough to take. But Doug Plunkett or Bill Edger are hard to beat, too, and the Petes are ahead of Oshawa at the moment. It'll be a dandy diamond duel, with probably lots of arguments betwixt the old ball rivals. A good gallery expected, if the weather acts anyway reasonable for a Saturday change.

* * * * * *

Secretary Al Watkins of the Peterborough Minor Baseball Association says there'll be no organized minor ball here at all this summer unless the council supplies some playing parks for the boys. There's only Riverside available now, no work having been done on the two Morrow Park diamonds or on other prospective fields. An executive meeting will be held Monday e'en at seven in the "Y" and it'll be decided whether or not to carry on—depending on playing space. Recreation Commission has been trying to get action, we're told, but no soap so far. Parks workmen no doubt are busy now but the young ballsters haven't a long season and they should be swinging into action right away.

* * * * * *

Concerning Golfers

Gordon Munro, property committee chairman, and Len Lawrence, who heads the house committee, along with their members, have done a good job at the Peterborough Golf Club, a lot of improvements having been made this season. Frank Jobbitt's bunch have enrolled many new comers, and Milf Hardill reports a fine response to members to become shareholders. Another hundred could be accommodated. Ladies held a big tourney on the course today. Prexy Bert Cutmore asks all golfers to observe the etiquette governing the game. We hear they have a lot of new members, too, at the Kawartha Club, where many improvements have been made under presidency of Alex MacGregor. Nice work.

* * * * * *

As one-sided as an argument with the missus, that's what the men's softball twin bill proved last p.m. at the Bowl. A fair crowd, too, but East City trounced the Orphans 18-1 while Mutuals kept unbeaten with a 17-6 licking of the UEW-ers. Plenty of hits and steady twirling by the winning teams—with the fielding good—while sloppy defence work and impotent plate efforts by the losers in each case. Orphans remain shorthanded with players working nights, taking exams or being sidelined for injuries, but they still need plenty of bolstering, else it'll be East City and UEW in semi-finals, the leading Mutuals likely hitting the bye for the loop finals.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

St. Louis Browns have closed a deal with New York Yankees in which they secured pitchers Duane Pillette and Don Johnson, infielder George Stirnweiss and outfielder Jim Delsing in exchange for hurlers Joe Ostrowski and Tom Ferrick. In addition, the Browns sold infielder Leo Thomas outright to the Yankees' farm club at Kansas City and optioned right-hander Sid Schacht to the Blues.

President Bill Dewitt said the deal had a player value of approximately $500,000. He estimated the value of Ostrowski and Ferrick at $250,000 and figured the worth of the new players $50,000 each.

Failure of the Yankees to snare pitchers Ned Carver or Cliff Fannin occasioned surprise in baseball circles. Both were sought by Yankee general manager George Weiss.

Ostrowski has been a starter for the Browns. He injured his back sliding into third base June 1 and has not pitched since. He won his first two starts and lost the next four. Last year he had an 8-8 record.

Ferrick, a cool veteran, may be what the Yankees need when the starters falter. A husky right-hander, with previous service at Philadelphia, Cleveland and Washington, Ferrick will give New York a much-needed right-handed bullpen helper for Joe Page.

Danny Gardella said Thursday he was 'paid something" to drop his $300,000 suit against organized baseball. The husky little outfielder was questioned on the suit's abrupt ending as he packed his bags to return to his New York home after being placed on the active list by the Houston Club of the Texas League.

He told a reporter: "You might say in the papers that Gardella was paid something to drop his suit: That is all."

He would not reveal the amount involved but he did say he had to pay his lawyers more than half of the amount received.

Find Kell No Freak Hitter Sparks Tigers In 7-3 Win

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

George Kell of Detroit seems determined to erase the "freak-hitter" smudge from his American League batting crown.

They said it was a mistake when the Tiger third baseman nosed out Ted Williams of Boston for the title on the final day of the 1949 season. It's no mistake this year.

Kell's average now is .386, best in the majors. Williams, moving up gradually after a slump, is hitting .326.

Kell has a peculiar style of holding the bat. But nobody is calling him a "freak hitter" this year.

Kell slashed two singles and a double in three trips against Philadelphia Thursday as the Tigers thumped the A's 7-3. The victory, coupled with a New York defeat, gave Detroit a 1½ game lead.

Freddie Hutchinson racked up his seventh victory for the on-rushing Tigers who have swept 17 of their last 21 starts.

Finally "Arrives"

Chicago's Billy Pierce seemed to have finally "arrived" with his 5-0 one-hitter against the Yankees Thursday the best-pitched game of the season. Only a single by Billy Johnson in the fifth inning robbed Pierce of a no-hitter.

The value of a hitting pitcher was emphasized at Cleveland where Bobby Lemon homered in the Tribe's 3-1 victory over Boston.

St. Louis Browns came from behind twice to trounce Washington Senators 16-9. Dick Kokos paced the Brownie attack with his ninth home run and two doubles.

Billy Southworth's Boston Braves knocked off Cincinnati in both ends of a doubleheader — 5-3 and 6-5. It was the only action in the National League. Rain washed out the St. Louis at Philadelphia night game and the Chicago at Brooklyn and Pittsburgh at New York day games.

Sid Gordon hit his 13th homer, a double and two singles to help lefty Warran Spahn win the first game. The second game went 10 innings before Tommy Holmes singled home the winning run.

The double win boosted the Braves into fourth place ahead of the idle Cubs.

7 Confirmed In Omemee Church

OMEMEE, June 16 (ENS) — The congregation of Christ Church, Omemee, witnessed the ancient and impressive rite of "The Laying on of Hands" on Sunday evening when the Rt. Rev. A. R Beverley, the Bishop of Toronto, confirmed seven candidates presented by the rector, Rev. F. W. Pooley.

The church was beautifully decorated with haw blossoms and spirea.

The anthem, "Holy Art Thou" set to Handel's Largo, was ably rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. Milburn Jones, the organist and choirmaster.

Those confirmed were: James Alfred Bannan, Ralph Edward Oakes, Sharon Darlene Toland, Mary Anne Pooley, Inez Joan Pooley, Sylvia May Laidley, Marion Hazel Easton.

A sterling Communion set in loving memory of Charles and Elizabeth Bent, presented to the church by their children, was dedicated by Bishop Beverley.

Hardest Tasks Still Remain For Government In Burma

(Special to Examiner and London Observer.)

RANGOON, June 16. — The main government gains from the rebels during the last few months are the recapture of Toungoo and Prome and clearance of the main roads and railways between Rangoon and these centres, which are both upwards of 200 miles northwards from Rangoon.

Communications in this area remain precarious and subject to attack by numerous rebel gangs sheltering within the jungle and remote villages.

The Government forces have done excellently in this dry season, which is now ended, but a heavy task is still ahead. Many rebels are hiding between Pegu and the Yomas, the forest-clad hills which divide the Irrawaddy and Sittang valleys. From the Yomas the rebels threaten communications in both valleys.

Rebels hold the Irrawaddy valley between Prome and Minhla, their headquarters being at Thayetmyo. Government forces face a big job in clearing up this area. The oilfields are nominally free from rebels but remain unsafe whilst rebels dominate the surrounding areas, notably westward from Pakkoku.

Mandalay Free

Mandalay, which the rebels held for a period last year, is now with its neighborhood, fairly free but the insurgents are active in the Shwebo district and northwards and in the Chindwin valley. In the northern Shan States an elusive Kachin leader named Naw Seng, an ex-army officer, is troublesome near the Chinese frontier.

Although the main routes northwards from Rangoon are cleared, the city still has Communist-dominated areas within twenty miles to the west and south-east. The Irrawaddy delta is generally much quieter, and communications are easier, but Communist and Karen rebels are still fighting the Government troops hereabouts. The overall picture shows that Burma is still infested by rebels. The fairest estimate is that the Government has made a good beginning, but the hardest work is ahead, and it cannot claim that the situation is really controlled. At present most of the big centres are held, but all the main communications suffer from sabotage.—Copyright.

Find Average Briton Enjoys Betting Like Good Cup Of Tea

By JOHN E. CARLOVA

LONDON, June 16.—(Reuters) The average Briton enjoys a good bet almost as much as a good cup of tea.

Statistics recently compiled indicated that every second person in Britain bets, which bears out the verse:

"The Latin is saucy
"The American likes to bet.
"But the Englishman is horsey,
"And dearly loves to bet."

During a Labor party rally at Huddersfield, Herbert Morrison said that "on an average, something like 10 shillings ($1.55) a week out of the pay packet goes in a flutter on a horse or the dogs or the soccer pools."

He verbally spanked Britons for this expenditure and advised them to sink it instead in National Savings Certificates.

Suggestion Unpopular

The gamblers are not likely to heed Morrison's words. betting in Britain, like tea-drinking, is definitely here to stay.

This however, does not mean that Britain is a country of neurotic gamblers. On the contrary, Britons in general ponder a bet in the same cozy, comfortable, uncomplicated way in which they sit down to a cup of tea.

By far the greatest bulk of the £650,000,000 gambled yearly goes on such "sporty" bets as the horses, the dogs and soccer pools.

The actual split is about £350,000,000 on horses, £210,000,000 on dogs and £69,000,000 on soccer pools — but even this is misleading. Although more money is spent on horses and dogs, more people take part in the soccer pools.

Big Business

These pools are a respectable "big business—Britain's seventh largest industry. Under these circumstances, it is understandable that many people taking part in the pools have no clean realization that they are "gambling" in the moral sense. Rather, they regard the pools as a sort of poor man's stock exchange.

Many families even set aside a weekly sum in their budgets for the pools. Despite Morrison's "10 shilling" cry, this is generally no more than a half-crown (about 39 cents) and is usually regarded in the light of an insurance premium.

There is always the chance of hitting the jackpot for a fortune — even if it is only a chance in a million — and most Britons are sporting enough to take that chance.

Two Youths Fined $25 For Playing Police

VANCOUVER, June 16 (CP)—Two Ontario youths Thursday were fined $25 each for impersonating police officers.

Frank Guthenberg of Toronto and David Dale of Alexandria, both 18, were arrested Saturday after a United States naval shore patrol told police the pair identified themselves to them as special American operatives looking for fugitives.

They flashed metal badges and a toy gun and worked with the patrol two days before it caught on.

"I believe these boys were just playing a game on these officers and had no criminal intent," said Magistrate Oscar Orr.

CANADA GETS FAMED PAINTING—This rustic scene by the famous Dutch painter, Meindart Hobbema, (1638-1709), now hangs in the National Gallery in Ottawa, the gift of the Netherlands Government as a token of gratitude of the Dutch nation for Canada's part in liberating that country from the Nazis.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

We have already discussed the general principle of freezing when the opponents make their initial meld before your side does. As with any early freeze, there are three rules to keep in mind.

The first rule is: Think before you freeze. The second rule is: Think again. And the third rule is: Keep a-thinking.

The reason for all this caution is that during the early stages of a hand you can choose from among several different lines of play. One way is to sit tight, meld when you can, make a canasta quickly, and meld out. Another way is to compete for the discard pile without freezing it. A third way is to go all out for the pile by freezing it.

Once you freeze the pile you don't have much choice any more. In a very short time you will either have the pile in your possession—or you will be fighting desperately to get it. If it gets away from you, and the opponents have also melded while you haven't, the hand will probably be a major disaster for your side.

That is why you think so hard before freezing. You can afford to take a small loss on any hand. You don't want to take a really big loss.

This does not mean that an early freeze is always unsound. It does mean that such a freeze is a dangerous two-edged weapon. Don't use it unless you are quite sure that you are not going to cut yourself.

For example, suppose both sides need 50 points for the initial meld. The player at your left makes the first meld for his side by putting down three aces from his hand. The discard pile is quite small. Your partner discards a black three, and the next player discards a five.

After the draw, you hold the following cards:

Joker K-K Q-Q 10-10 9-9 7-7 4.

Should you freeze the pack by discarding your joker?

No. This is a very poor freeze. It is true that you are discarding to an eight-card hand, but you have no assurance that you can discard safely. Moreover, you do not know whether or not your partner can discard safely. To clinch it you have no reason to suppose that you can get the pack quickly.

Your better play is to meld the joker with one of the pairs. This puts you on even terms with the opponents. If you lose the pack soon, the chances are that you could not have saved it by freezing.

Q.—I asked permission to go out, and my partner said "Yes." I made a canasta and got down to one card, which I was going to discard. The opponents then pointed out that I had not drawn. I drew, and then had two unmeldable cards in my hand. I could discard only one of them, so could not meld out. What should be done?

A.—Discard one of those two cards and continue the hand. Your side must pay a penalty of 100 points when the hand is scored.

Q.—I already have a canasta and I have in my hand two black threes and an ace. I draw another black three. I now want to meld my black threes, discard the ace, and thus meld out. The opponents say I cannot discard when I go out with a meld of black threes. Is this right?

A.—No. You are allowed to discard when you go out with a meld of black threes. Also, you are allowed to meld the black threes and go out without a discard. The choice is up to the player, and the opponents have nothing to say in the matter.

During the first three months of this year estimated labor income rose to $1,878,000,000 from $1,818,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1949.

GALT, June 16 (CP). — Between 50 and 75 employees of the Canadian Brass Co., members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), are on strike. Their action followed a vote taken at a meeting Wednesday night.

The only information as to the cause of the strike available was a statement by a union representative that "the company had seen fit not to coincide with a majority vote of the Conciliation Board." Company heads refused to comment. At 7 a.m. a picket line assembled in front of the plant.

Laxity At Jail

TORONTO, June 16 — (CP) — Recommendations aimed at improving the efficiency of guards at Toronto's Don Jail have been made by provincial inspectors investigating an attempted escape two weeks ago. Their report said there was "definite laxity in the failure of the guards to discover convicts sawing through the bars and in a hacksaw being smuggled into the jail in the clothing of a convict."

Canadian Ships Needed For Ore

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —Great Lakes ship and iron-mine operators Thursday told the United States Congress that steel mills may have to curtail output unless emergency steps, including use of Canadian vessels, to speed shipment of iron ore are renewed.

The CIO Maritime Committee opposed proposals to continue federal permission to overload ore-carrying ships and to permit Canadian vessels to haul ore between United States ports.

Urging continuation of the two steps were M. D. Harbaugh, vice-presidet and secretary of the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association, and Lyndon Spencer, executive vice-president of the Lake Carriers' Association.

They told a House of Representatives maritime sub-committee the United States Great Lakes fleet, even by overloading, probably could not haul enough ore to feed big American steel mills at their present needs, and that the help of Canadian vessels also will be needed.

Permission to overload ore carriers with consent of the Coast Guard is expiring. Canadian ships' right to haul ore between United States ports expired in December. Both authorizations would be renewed under a bill being considered by the committee.

Few Canadians Without Radio Licence

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP)—G. C W. Browne, controller of radio in the Department of Transport, said Thursday a recent survey indicated that only 6.35 per cent of Canadians do not obtain licences for their radio receiving sets.

Testifying before the Commons committee on radio broadcasting, Mr. Browne said 48,117 radio homes were visited. Only 3,058 homes were found to be without licences for radio receiving sets. If one took into account the number of indigents who could not afford to pay the anual $2.50 licence fee, the percentage of unlicensed homes would amount to only 4.72 per cent.

William Benedickson (L. Kenora-Rainy River) urged extension of CBC service to the Rainy River districts. He also outlined a request from Trade Minister Howe for improved service in the constituencies of Port Arthur, which the minister represents in the Commons. Mr. Howe was prevented from appearing before the committee because he was piloting a bill through the Commons.

Mr. Benedickson urged the committee to recommend a special vote by parliament to enable the CBC to extend its coverage to outlying areas.

NO SUMMER FOR SUSAN—No more effective plea for traffic safety can be found than this picture of 3-year-old Susan Lee Vargo of Cleveland, O., whose tricycle, doll buggy and other toys are stored for the summer and perhaps longer while she recovers from serious auto injuries. Months of careful nursing will be required to mend her broken leg, concussion and possible skull fracture.

Guard Ceremony Shows Precision

LONDON, June 16 (CP)—Military-minded observers agreed that this year's trooping-the-color ceremony reached standards of precision rarely achieved.

Queen Mother Mary is understood to have telephoned congratulations to Col. E. R. Hill, who commanded the traditional ritual honoring official observance of the King's birthday.

Guardsmen in scarlet tunics and bearskins paraded from 9 a.m. until noon. They marched, counter-marched or just stood stock still under a broiling sun.

Five men fainted, but only two fell. In the other cases fellow marchers closed in, unseen by the spectators, and kept the groggy Guardsmen going until they came to.

Newspapers reported two possible reasons for the performance. The Daily Express said Guardsmen were given "energy pills" before the ceremony. The Daily Mirror, in a pre-trooping story, said the men might wear dry ice in their hats.

Only one thing went wrong during the spectacle. A television commentator, in what was described as "just a slip of the tongue," referred to "trooping of the color." Englishmen insist it should be just "trooping the color."

Sussex Street Home

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP)—The official name of the residence for Canada's prime ministers will probaly be "24 Sussex Street," it was learned Thursday. In future years "24 Sussex Street" may be as much associated with the Canadian prime minister as "10 Downing Street" is associated with the British prime mintster in London.

Accidental Hanging

WINNIPEG, June 16—(CP)—Coroner Dr. G. A. Law Thursday advanced the possibility that a 10-year-old boy may have been "trying to imitate crime comic stuff" and accidentaly hanged himself. Body of the youngster, a pair of toy handcuffs clipped to one wrist, was found hanging in the second-storey hallway of his parents' home.

To Leave Navy

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP)—The man who directed construction of the biggest and most important naval transmitting station in Canada is going to leave the navy July 18 after a quarter-century of service. Naval Headquarters said Lieut. Douglas V .Carroll, of Ottawa and Victoria, prominent naval radio engineer, will retire next month.

Financial Plighty Of CBC Studied, Drafting Report

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP)—The Commons committee on radio broadcasting Thursday completed hearing of evidence and made plans for drafting a report to the Commons.

The report, expected to deal largely with the financial plight of the CBC, will be considered first by a steering committee and then subnitted to the committee as a whole for approval before it is presented to the Commons.

How far the report will go in the way of recommendations is not quite clear in the minds of many committee members. Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) said at the final public meeting the committee, which last met in 1947, finds itself this year in an abnormal situation.

Drafting Survey

The Royal Commission on Arts and Science has conducted a survey of radio and television fields and now is drafting a report. There is some feeling in the Commons committee that it should not try to anticipate the recommendations of the commission, expected to be presented to the government sometime this fall.

Throughout much of their evidence, officials of the CBC stressed the need for additional revenue if existing services were to be continued and improvements made.

A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, said the corporation would need the equivalent of $5 a radio home annually to continue existing services and extend and improve coverage.

The present licence fee is $2.50 a year for radio receiving sets in homes and in motor cars. Last year the licences provided $5,321,006 in revenue.

Rescue Squads Being Trained

EDMONTON —(CP)— Canada soon will have another 15—to make 36 in all—men qualified in the art of para-rescue, bush-and-wilderness survival, first aid and general air search and rescue work.

The class of 14 RCAF members and Chief Petty Officer Hugh Clark of Dartmouth, NS, are more than half through a five-month course here at Northwest Air Command.

The idea of air rescue personnel is said to be the brainchild of famed northern flier Capt. W. R. (Wop) May who started para-rescue instruction when he was in charge of wartime air training here. The RCAF picked it up in 1945.

Air rescue bases have been set up at Trenton, Greenwood, NS, Sea Island, BC, Fort Nelson,BC, Whitehorse, YT, and Edmonton.

Before being qualified each student must make seven parachute jumps in the open and three satisfactory jumps in bush country. He must be a first-class woodsman; know how to survive Arctic cold and exist on its bare supplies. He must be experienced in first aid; be able to splint a broken limb, administer a transfusion or give a shot of "dope" to deaden pain.

THE HOSE HEADED FOR HADES — Whooping it up at a mud-pie party on a vacant lot in Washington, D.C., these kiddies had a strange tussle with a garden hose that insisted on going underground. Jammed in a hole and turned on, the hose was caught in its own suction and just kept digging. Unable to pull it out, one of the four-year-olds ran to tell his mother, "The devil's got it." After police and photographers tried, two husky men were able to out-pull "the devil."

Find Austerity Shadow Lifts A Little In Britain

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The word is "optimism" in Britain today.

The shadow of austerity has lifted a little. Devaluation has worked out beter than expected; inflation has not yet become a menace; exports are good; gasoline is unlimited and food rationing has been eased.

In the long run, however, Britain's position depends upon efficient production, and that rests upon the "know-how" of her workmen and of her top industrialists.

The only industry at which I had an extensive look was Rolls-Royce, Ltd., and it is a big one, extending in several plants from the Midlands to Glasgow. It is impressive and effective.

Perhaps it is worth while telling something of Rolls and Royce. for big industries don't just happen. Some one, at some time, must have set them in motion, and many persons must have carried them on.

Initial Spark

I had known, of course, of "Rolls-Royce"—it was the name of an automobile or of an airplane engine, and that seemed enough.

One day, however, I started to think about engines. I imagine it was because I was looking at four of them which, at the time, were 19,000 feet above the Atlantic and hundreds of miles from land.

I began to feel rather grateful there, far over the ocean, and it occurred to me that there must have been some one who gave the initial spark to all this precision.

It was then I began to wonder about Mr. Rolls and Mr. Royce. Later, I found out that the earnest mechanic to whom I was feeling grateful was Mr. Royce (later Sir Henry Royce) who teamed up his mechanical genius with the business ability of Hon. Charles Rolls.

I found that probably there should have been another hyphen to bring in the name of Claude Johnson who may have done more than any one else in developing the firm's policy and organization.

Still Showroom

In there, too, might have been others: Henry Edmonds, who, early in the century, brought Royce in touch with Rolls and Johnson, automobile agents in London whose place still stands as a Rolls-Royce showroom;

On Earnest W. Hives, present managing director, with the firm since 1908 and its driving leader in the Second World War.

Of the men commemorated in the firm name, Rolls was the third son of Baron Llangattack, and has been described as "typical of the small band of gallant adventurers whose exploits enlivened the 'gay nineties' and the Edwardian decade."

He turned to aviation and in 1910 at the age of 33 was the first British pilot killed in an airplane accident—killed trying to avoid crowds on his landing field.

Royce's is a longer story; despite long years of virtual invalidism he lived to 70 and died in 1933.

Says Atom Arms Will Keep Peace

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., June 16 (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton urged that Canada and the United States continue to develop and make atomic and other armaments to prevent any aggressor from attacking North America.

"Unless we make adequate preparations, the masters of Soviet Russia are going to carry out their pledge of world domination" the former Canadian Army commander said.

Gen. McNaughton, now a member of the International Joint Commission which handles boundary water problems, was addressing a Chamber of Commerce dinner here.

He said there should be a free exchange of raw materials and technical skills between Canada and the United States. And there should be joint development of vast transportation systems to carry supplies speedily to any part of the continent.

These systems should include huge highways and development of the St. Lawrence seaway project, including more power at Niagara Falls.

Maple Cattle Breeders' Association Refunding $15 to Each Member — Peterborough Farmers Going to Woodstock Wednesday, June 21 — Victoria County Group Left Friday for Malabar Farm — N. W. McConkey Finds U.S. Farmers Keener Than Canadians in Boosting Own Products.

Two hundred Peterborough members of the Maple Cattle Breeders Association will share in a capital distribution of approximately $33,000, as announced at a recent fifth anniversary field day at the association headquarters.

Each member will receive a cheque for $15, thereby placing him on an equal cash footing with new members whose applications are to be accompanied by $25 instead of the previous $40.

This announcement confirms sooner than was expected the promise of G. W. Keffer, secretary-manager, at the local annual meeting last March that repayments on the membership loans would be made when the financial position of the association recommended the disbursement.

The Maple fee remains at five dollars, but the loan that is asked of new members is now $20 instead of $35.

Each new member has been paying $40, of which $5 was the membership fee and $35 a loan. From now on the new member pays $25, of which $5 is the membership fee and $20 a loan to the association.

Membership recently was 2,200 in eight counties: York, Simcoe, Halton, Peel, Ontario, Victoria, Peterborough and Dufferin.

The Peterborough membership is now in excess of 200, as compared with 74 two years ago.

Harry Falkner of Fowler's Corners, George Richardson and Rufus Redden of the Norwood area accompanied Gordon La Plante, technician, to the field day at Maple.

Mr. La Plante has been with the Maple group since its extension into this county, and now has an assistant, Gerald Blackwell.

"We have had in our district as many inseminations for the first five months of this year as we had in the corresponding eight months last year," Mr. La Plante told The Examiner. "The average for the first ten days of June was 25 daily, and the biggest day we've had so far was 32 on Friday the 9th."

Getting Good Calves

"Ninety per cent of our farmers say the calves they are getting are the best they ever owned. We already have bred a few of our first Maple heifers. Our experience with Shorthorns is turning out well.

The conception rate in that breed is 75%, and that is even better than the dairy breeds. The Association bought another Holstein bull two weeks ago, Rowsdale Rag Apple Pat, a son of Rowsdale R.A. Sovereign and a Marksman daughter. A full sister of this bull sold for $1,800 at the recent National Holstein sale at Oakville.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, commented that farmers of this area have been gradually increasing the membership, joining up after their own enquiries and decisions. The Peterborough membership was 106 at Jan. 1, 1949, and 140 at the beginning of this year. The total passed the 200 mark this month.

"I think that artificial breeding has done more to improve commercial livestock than all the extension methods of the Ontario Department in the previous 30 years," Mr. Peterson said. "Rating of the Maple unit places it high in comparison with any others in Canada and the United States. From all the indications and reports I think it is outstanding."

Mr. Paterson said it was especially interesting to him to observe and know that the Maple unit was built up by farmers themselves, demonstrating once more their ability to do things successfully.

Farm Forum Enterprise

The Maple unit grew out of a suggestion that was put forth at a Farm Forum meeting. It gradually developed during the winter and spring of 1945, and the first cow was bred at Maple on June 6 that year. It was organized for farmers within a radius of ten miles of Maple, but in less than six months other sections of York became interested, and the area was extended to include the whole county by March 11, 1946.

"When our farmers have done a big constructive job, and done it well, let us recognize it. Total membership in the Maple unit was 1,870 at the first of this year. It is now more than 2,200. It will be good news to the farmers who paid the $40 on joining to know that within the next month or two they are each going to get back $15."

Mr. Paterson said the Ontario Department had given support to the Maple Association from its beginning, and was naturally keenly interested in its progress and good management.

TO WOODSTOCK WEDNESDAY

Reports from F. C. Paterson yesterday indicated that the Federation of Agriculture bus was filling for the trip to the Grass Silage Day near Woodstock next Wednesday June 21. Tickets are $5.50. The bus leaves the King St. terminal at 7 a.m. This outing will afford an opportunity to see the Holstein breeding premises of the Oxford county unit. Farmers thinking of taking this trip are requested to decide by Saturday or not later than Monday. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Evelyn Scott at the Department of Agriculture office, W. W. Dawson, John Kitney or Harold Lewis.

TRIP TO ALISTON

Two other Victoria groups are each going on a day's journey this week. Holstein breeders are leaving Monday morning for the J. J. E. McCague farm at Aliston; and the Shorthorn breeders are going on Thursday to visit selected farms of that breed in the Toronto and Weston area.

TO MALABAR FARM

Twenty-nine Victoria county farmers took off Friday at 7 a.m. for a trip to Louis Bromfield's Malabar Farm at Mansfield, Ohio. They are going by Detroit and returning Sunday night by way of Buffalo. This expedition was organized by Victoria Federation of Agriculture of which Clayton Taylor of Bobcaygeon is president.

N. W. McCONKEY'S TOUR

"The United States farmer is doing a far livelier job in public relations and advertising than we are," said Norman McConkey in the course of relating impressions of his recent trip from Syracuse, NY, into Kansas and almost to Nebraska.

"Over there you see billboards set up on farms, advertising farm products. Around here, they are set up on farms but they are advertising some garage, hotel, restaurant, or clothing store. You notice the difference over there, and the multiplicity of the advertising.

As a community we are not thinking about ourselves as we ought to, or perhaps we are not doing the right kind of thinking. Our people have had luncheons in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel. In St. Joseph, Missouri, the Hotel Robidoux has a black cattle room. They call it the Angus Room because the town is the centre of Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

The Empress has a large wall paining of the liftlock. The Robidoux has its walls painted with rural scenes featuring Angus cattle, and the lighting effect is wonderful. I'm no authority on art, but I know that it is well done, attractive and interesting.

Can you imagine us getting a Holstein Room at the Empress or anywhere else in Peterborough, —Oshawa, Ottawa?

I noticed on their announcement board the day we were at St. Joseph there were three farm commodity meetings or luncheons posted for the Angus Room.

From the evidence that I saw, I could not help but feel that we are behind them in publicity."

Mr. McConkey was accompanied by his wife and son John. They went down to the national Holstein convention at Syracuse. Thirty-five breeders attended from Canada. One of the memorable incidents was a clambake at Harden Farm at Camden, NY, with around 3,000 people there, and a parade and identification of 60 of the 180 Holsteins at the Harden farm.

"Their highest record animal was bred near Kingston," Mr. McConkey said. "It makes you feel good to hear that kind of tribute down in the heart of New York State.

They were through haying in Kansas, and the wheat will likely be ripening this week. I think the States have a great average grain crop.

Another impression is that Americans go all out on things,—more than we do. Everywhere you go you see contour plowing,—strip farming. How many of our people have adopted it? They've been told about it repeatedly. We have the government's interest at the Blewett farm.

While we are thinking and hesitating, they are doing,—at least in contour farming. You motor hundreds of miles and the only fence you see is the electric fence. No fence bottoms to collect rubbish and hedges and that sort of thing. Up here we must have tight wire fences. The corresponding fence there, along highways, too, is electric.

In field after field I saw two hay-balers instead of one. And they were keeping three wagons busy shuttling back and forth to the barn. New drying systems must be quite general in the barns, at that rate.

Mr. McConkey said he came home with the impression that beef herds were comparatively few. "You see many, of course, especially Angus and Herefords, but you don't get the impression of number and quality as from dairy herds through Iowa, Ohio and part of Illinois. Apparently half the whole crop in Missouri, Ohio and Illinois was corn,—a tremendous acreage, and the rows planted straight as a gunshot. From this part of Ontario you are more likley to notice their soybeans. They are planted in circles."

Mr. McConkey said he saw a big population of hogs, most of them being fed on pasture and from corn hoppers. I think they are keeping a closer line to pure breeding than we are, but that is just an impression. Certainly, they do go all out on the things they start. They tie everything into a particular program or undertaking to the point of getting most efficient methods and best results."

Mr. McConkey saw several milking parlors, barns of glazed brick walls, and so on. And that clambake down at the Harden Holstein farm was something to remember.

HOLSTEINS AVERAGE $462

Values were strong at the dispersal sale of the Holstein herd owned by Mrs. Dorothy Fairbanks, Ingersoll. Twenty-nine head brought $13,410. The general average was $462.

250 AT BRANT MEETING

Denmark impressed Alex McKinney of Brampton as the most prosperous country seen on his trip with Ontario plowmen to the United Kingdom and western Europe, he told 250 farmers and their wives at a twilight meeting of Brant district Holstein breeders' club Monday.

The Danes process 80 per cent of their dairy products and 90 per cent of hog products in farm-owned plants, Mr. McKinney said.

"Their method of identification is so complete that it is possible to trace a piece of bacon sold in England back to its producer in Denmark. They are quality conscious."

British cattle breeders are swinging from dual purpose to dairy types, and hope to get some testing policy going.

JUNIORS BROADEN HORIZONS

Four junior farmers left last week to represent Ontario in international livestock judging competitions in Great Britain. They are: Bruce Whitmore, vice-president of Waterloo county junior farmers and a director of the Ontario junior farmers association; David Pelleterio of Halton; Pat O'Leary of Simcoe and Bruce Kirk of Renfrew.

They will compete with teams of British and United States juniors in judging beef cattle at the Royal Highland Show at Paisley, Scotland; and in dairy cattle judging at the Royal show in Oxford, England. They are under 22 years, the maximum age for contestants in the rings overseas.

The Ontario boys will be six weeks in the Old Country and will learn at first hand something of British farming methods and also of British agricultural problems.

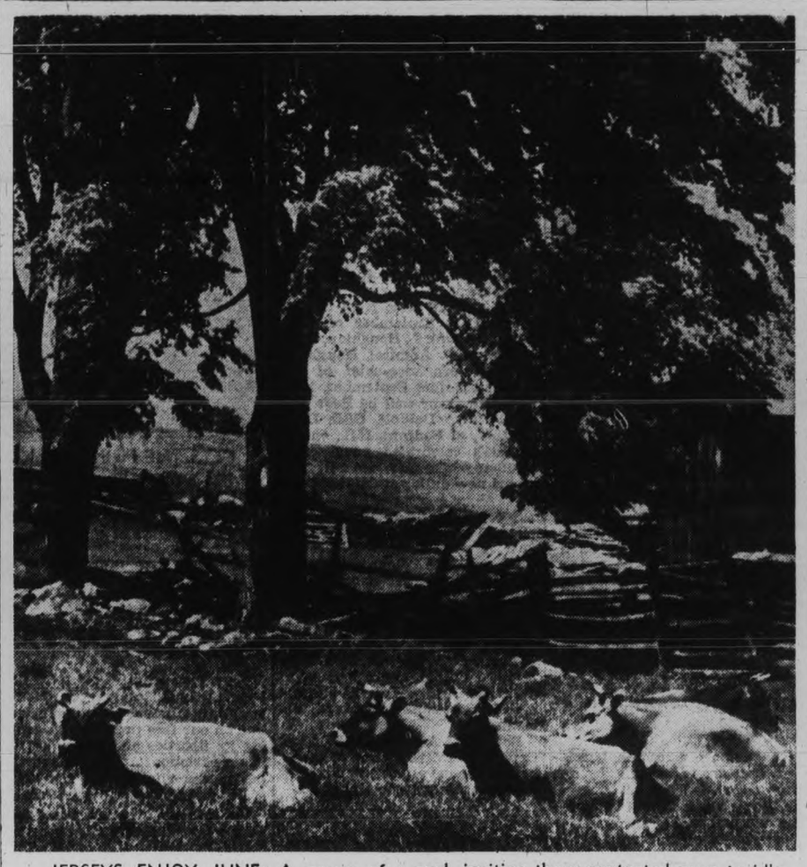
While these young folks of Ontario farms are pushing back their horizons, forty US rural boys and girls left early this month to live and work with farm families in Europe until October.

They are between the ages of 18 and 25 years, high school graduates with a background of agricultural work and life, experience in farm organizations and knowledge of educational activities. Their expenses are underwritten by individuals, groups and organizations interested in rural youth.

Each delegate will have devoted considerable study of geography, history, culture and agriculture of the USA and the country to be visited. He will live on assigned farms to which he has been invited in the country to which he is sent, sharing in the daily work and social life of the family, doing his part in a program intended to contribute toward a better understanding by his hosts and himself of the customs, life and culture of his other's country.

Returning home, he is expected to remain out of college or school during the fall, and devote considerable time to speaking and extending to others the benefits of his experience.



This is part of an International Farm Youth Exchange Project which began in 1948 when 17 delegates from the USA went to Denmark, France, Great Britain, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and Sweden. In 1949 there were 31 delegates representing 22 States. In return, farm families in the US have been hosts to 39 young people from European countries.

The objectives of the project are to aid in the development of an informed junior farm leadership and help to young people in understanding more of international relationships and the problems of world peace.

These are evidences of the steadily broadening outlook of the young people of agriculture in various countries. This spirit is reflecting itself in the first place right in home communities, and elders are more disposed than ever to provide the opportunity for its questing.

Juniors are "putting themselves out" to do things, to assume leadership in many directions and take an active part in local affairs. And as they find a place for themselves in their communities with youth of their own age, probably that is one answer to the question of recent years as to how farm life is to become more attractive to them.

The "youth movement" has been encouraged by the elders of the Federation of Agriculture and its offshoot organizations, by Department of Agriculture, and primarily by the intelligent responsiveness of farm homes and family life.

JERSEYS ENJOY JUNE: A group of the purebred herd of 40 head rest ruminantly in early afternoon siesta on the Bamforth-Kelly farm on old town hall road of North Monaghan. The air was pleasantly cool, inviting these contented cows to idle in the sunshine. The more interesting part of this scene was the six standing close behind The Examiner's camera man, Nick Nickels, curious about his intrusion upon their pasture.

because the immigrants became residents of the different provinces once they were brought to Canada by the federal government.

Mr. Gagnon said all immigration should be cut off until there are enough jobs for all Canadians.

Mr. MacKenzie said he believed that a target of 100,000 to 200,000 immigrants a year would be a fair figure. The government might consider subsidizing immigration.

Brisk Battle

The defence purchase legislation was fought briskly by the three opposition parties. It gives Mr. Howe wide powers to stockpile strategic materials and requisition—in certain cases at his own price—supplies which are needed for defence projects.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) sought to amend the bill to keep in operation the profit-control sections of the old "defence purchases, profit control and financing act of 1939," now being repealed. His motion was defeated by a standing committee vote of 60 to 31.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, quickly introduced a motion to retain the whole of the 1939 Act and saw it defeated by a second vote of 62 to 34.

Mr. Howe, opposing the amendments, said the profit-limiting provisions of the 1939 Act had proved unworkable.

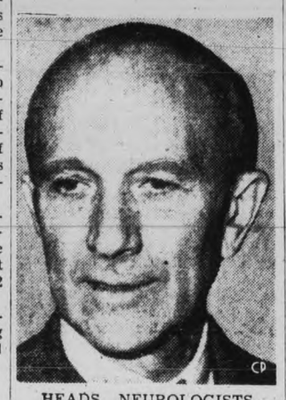
Navy Shuffle In 3 Top Posts Dept. Announces

OTTAWA, June 16—(CP)—A shuffle affecting three of the top administrative posts of the Royal Canadian Navy and four of Canada's senior naval officers was announced today by the Defence Department.



The changes stem from the retirement in September of Rear Admiral Frank L. Houghton, CBE, of Ottawa. Admiral Houghton, 52, has been vice-chief of the naval staff since September, 1947.

His successor will be Rear Admiral Harry DeWolf, CBE, DSO, DSC, 47, of Bedford, N.S., one of Canada's celebrated naval commanders of the war. He will take up his new duties at Ottawa Sept. 11.

Succeeding Rear Admiral DeWolf on the Pacific Coast will be Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery, CBE, 50, of Vancouver and Ottawa. Now chief of naval personnel at headquarters he will take up his new post Aug. 30.

Capt. James C. Hibbard, DSC, and bar, 42, of Hemison, Que., and Victoria, B.C., will succeed Rear Admiral Creery as chief of naval personnel Aug 5 and will be promoted to the rank of Acting Commodore.

Both Rear Admiral DeWolf and Capt. Hibbard will serve as members of the naval board when they assume their new appointments.

HEADS NEUROLOGISTS—Dr. Wilder Penfield, Montreal brain surgeon and head of the famed Montreal Neurological Institute, has been elected president of the American Neurological Association at the association's annual convention in Atlantic City.

GETS THE POINT—Col. the Hon. J. J. Astor, chairman of the seventh Imperial Press Conference now being held in Ottawa, took a keen interest in the affairs of the RCMP during a tour of the Rockcliffe barracks this week. Here he tests the point of a sword while Cpl. H. J. Allen looks on.

of our opponents," said Mr. St. Laurent. "Certainly not by attempting to impose a propaganda line on our free press or by curbing its liberties and swamping it by restriction . . . Our strength lies in the vitality and diversity of our informed public opinion."

But democracy could not altogether take for granted the principles on which its civilization rests.

"Those principles need to be restated in terms which capture the imagination of new generations. The policies of governments need to be explained in language which keeps public interest alert and active, whether the explanations be favorable or unfavorable to the policies propounded by the government."

The Prime Minister was certain that the Commonwealth Press Union "is performing an inestimable service, and one which is doubly necessary in these days when our free institutions are facing a grave challenge."

Step Up Campaign

TORONTO, June 16 — (CP) — Alarmed at a sudden increase in child traffic deaths the Toronto Traffic Safety Council held a special meeting Thursday to step up its safety campaign. Inspector Vernon Page, head of the police traffic squad, told the meeting that three children have been killed since May '24 and urged that parents should stress safety to their children with the school holidays approaching.

Even Pigs Hit By Order-Farmer

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP) — A prairie farmer protested Thursday that the government is arming Trade Minister Howe with defence purchasing powers that would even allow officials to come out west and count snouts among his pigs.

Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) thought it was going pretty far to allow the Minister to go poking into the affairs of his hogs, but Mr. Howe snorted right back that he wasn't interested in his old hogs anyway.

Horses maybe, said Mr. Howe, but not pigs, at least not until they're called up for active service.

The pigs protruded their noses into the Commons discussion as Mr. Harkness and his Progressive Conservative colleagues protested anew against "dictatorial" powers being given Mr. Howe under a bill to put defence purchasing on a peacetime basis.

Smith To Pay $200 A Year Use Of Hydrants

For supply of water and use of eleven hydrants at the north border of the city by a suburban Smith fire brigade, Utilities Commission fixed the charge at $200 a year Thursday.

Application for this accommodation provided by the city was made by a deputation composed of Reeve Ross Harrison, Deputy-Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald, Smith township Clerk A. I. Edmison and Noble Hicks, chief of the new department.

The only restriction mentioned by the Commission was to the effect that only trained men should be allowed to operate the hydrants in the event of fire.

G. S. Matthews, chairman of the Commission, said the charge to the city was $70 a hydrant. He suggested one-quarter of that rate to be paid by the suburban group. His associates, G. A. Macdonald and Fred Hills, endorsed this charge, and the township deputation was asked to make formal application for the water service as a matter of record.

"Don't be tough on us; we're just groping around at this stage," said Mr. Edmison when introducing the subject.

City council's proposal for the laying of an 8-inch main on Lansdowne St., east of the locks bridge, raised the question of cost and revenue.

When this project was proposed two years ago, R. L. Dobbin, manager, said the cost was estimated at $20,000. Today it is approximately $44,000. The suggestion has been put forth that the cost might be spread over a period of years, and the charge of new services be credited against the expenditure.

Commission decided to ask the council for a more definite proposal of financing the balance of the cost.

U.S. Company Opens Mine Near Marmora

MARMORA, June 16 (ENS) — Action has followed an aerial survey carried out in this part of the province a few months ago by the Department of Mines to ascertain what bodies of iron or magnetic ore are situated here.

Maps were issued and showing the results of the survey. Among the American iron and steel companies examining these maps was the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, which was sufficiently interested to decide to investigate.

As a result an option has been secured on a number of properties close to Marmora and these options have been registered in the County Registry Office in Belleville.

A diamond drill commenced operations on Wednesday. Dr. Wahl is in charge of the operations.

WATER-COASTER SPIN

Occupants of an outboard motorboat on the Otonabee river Thursday night claim a boat can fly. Zipping up and down the river between the Auburn and London dams, the boat hit an old pier submerged in the water just off Elcombe Crescent and Antrim St. The craft was sent into a spin through the air and water. After a quick five seconds the boat settled upright with the passengers breathing once again.

Two Juveniles Caught Stealing

Two juveniles, aged 10 and 15, were arrested by city police Thursday night after being seen taking chocolate bars and cigarettes from Jerry's Inn at Romaine and George Sts.

The boys also admitted breaking in to the same store a few nights before and into a service station about a week ago.

The police received a phone call from a neighbor near Jerry's Inn who said he saw two boys carrying merchandise out of the rear of the lunch bar.

Constables Jack Morrow and Grant Gillespie went to the scene in a cruiser and saw the younger boy running from the rear of the building. He was caught and taken to the police station by Constable Claire McGillen.

The other boy evaded police, but later in the grounds of King Edward School, Constables Morrow and Gillespie cornered him. He had 22 chocolate bars and 11 packages of cigarettes as well as more than $4 in cash on him.

The boys had broken in by tearing off a screen on a back window of the lunch bar.

They will be charged in juvenile court.

Cyclist Crowded

Police are searching for the driver of a car which it is believed crowded Barbara Luther, 593 Park St. N., riding a bicycle, into a parked car on Reid St. Wednesday shortly before one p.m.

The teen-age girl was riding her bicycle to work south on Reid St. between Sherbrooke and Dalhousie streets.

She received a badly bruised face; one of her teeth was broken and two stitches were required to close a cut on her lip. She also suffered considerable shock.

12-Hour Parking Meters Recommended For Market

Purchase of twelve-hour parking meters to be set up on the market square is recommended to the city council by its property committee. It was proposed Wednesday to order one hundred of these longer operating machines from E. A. Horton-Sales,—"and that they be placed on the market square when the market has been located elsewhere".

That recommendation is a broad hint of the deepening conviction of members of the council that the city should do something to get adequate revenue out of its central property instead of leaving the advantage entirely to a few farm producers, gardeners and the odd huckster.

Sentiment is plainly veering to realistic use of the market at a time when the city has been expanding its various services at costs which demand additional revenue from available sources.

The indifference of producers to the market is a lingering memory in the aldermanic mind. A few years ago when Mr. James Dutton was a member of the council a serious effort was made to obtain the views and opinions of farmers and gardeners about the best use of the market.

City council gave a dinner at the Empress Hotel, sent out invitations and only a handful of the market vendors turned up.

From time to time some citizens have been suggesting that the market be left to the farmers themselves; that if they wish to continue it, they should buy their own property and set up whatever building they want.

Another opinion is that the consumers of Peterborough should demand of the council that all produce sold on a public market be government inspected and graded.

Peterborough has now some of the finest retail outlets in the province, taxpaying businesses that operate on a competitive basis. It is felt that producer selling, on the market, with the elimination of the middleman, offers little if any price advantage to the consumer.

Persons who seriously consider the market are inclined to doubt that it justifies the allocation of a central block of city property to its half-a-day a week business. County council virtually ignores it, and the great majority of farmers of this district are not interested in selling on the market.

At any rate, the property committee metering proposal is an indicative straw pointing the direction of official thinking about means of increasing revenue from that market block.

A father and his son appeared in police court today, the father charged with being drunk while in control of a car and having liquor illegally in his car and the son with being drunk.

They were Ben F. Wright and his son Wesley, 21.

The pair were arrested after Herb Sherwin, 188 Douro St., reported to police he had had a collision with a car driven by Wright as Wright was driving out of the hotel parking lot and Sherwin was driving in.

Wright was arrested in the parking lot of another hotel a short time later. His son, Wesley, was picked up on Hunter St. Wesley had been in his father's car at the time of the accident.

Both were adjourned to Monday.

When asked to plead guilty or not guilty to a charge of being intoxicated, Wesley said "I had a few drinks alright, but I wasn't too tight."

"You're not accused of drinking. You're accused of being intoxicated," Magistate W. R. Philp, KC, said.

"You mean being drunk?," Wright asked.

"That's right," the magistrate said.

"Then I'm not guilty," Wright replied.

Lions Club Has Completed Most Ambitious Program In Building Swimmng Pool

In building a community swimming pool, the Peterborough Lions Club has achieved the biggest project ever undertaken by a service club of this city. The swimming pool, situated in the attractive surroundings of Riverside Park, stands as a landmark of what can be achieved by hard work, careful planning, perseverence and true community spirit. Two years ago, the club decided that an outdoor pool was needed in the city and plans were made for its construction. A committee consisting of J. Douglas Anderson, Chairman; T. F. Doughty, George Hildenbrand, Don MacGee, Fred Jennings, Ald. Hurrel Dodds and Simpson Gledhill were appointed to go ahead with this project. Cities and towns in Quebec and Ontario were visited to find out what success other communities had attained in building outdoor swimming pools. Tillsonburg, in western Ontario, was found to have the most up-to-date pool and it was decided to use it as a model. Riverside Park was chosen as the site to be used.

Became Playground

This park was allotted to the Lions Club by the council in 1942 for playground and since then they have installed swings and slides and other recreational facilities. Until two years ago, when it was taken over by the Recreation Commission, the Lions operated a playground here for the children during the summer months. For the past six years this service club has tried to maintain a wading pool in the river as well, but it was found almost impossible to keep the pool clear of rocks.

The excavation for the new pool started a year ago last spring. These operations were directed by T. F. Doughty, Peterborough. Two bulldozers and two deisel hoes were used. The general contractor for the whole project was George Heffernan, Peterborough.

Once Brewery

Some difficulties were encountered during the excavation. This site had at one time been that of the Calcutt Brewery and digging operations revealed a sunken well. A great deal of scrap and refuse that had been used for fill was also uncovered and had to be carted away.

The concrete pool is 100 feet long and 50 feet wide with a 20 foot catwalk surrounding it. The depth is three feet at the shallow end and 10 feet at the deep end. Four steel ladders have been placed at the four corners for the convenience of the swimmers. Black racing lines have been painted on the bottom of the pool and a one metre and a three metre diving board installed. The 175,000 gallons of water in the pool is piped from the city mains. The pool is continually emptied and refilled to

Local Prospector Bullet Wounded '25 Shots At Me'

George (Bud) Collins who lives on Highway 28, just north of the city limits, is in Civic Hospital with a .22 calibre bullet wound in his left forearm.

How the wound occurred is still a mystery.

A prospector who last fall discovered a small deposit of gold in the Apsley region, Collins on Thursday night told a passing motorist who stopped for him that about 25 shots had been fired at him by an unknown party.

Provincial Police are investigating Collins' story.

W. S. Edwards of Cobourg said he was driving along the Lasswade-Havelock road near Lasswade Thursday night when he was flagged down by Collins who was standing on the road.

Bleeding Badly

"A farmer was with him," said Mr. Edwards. "I think they had come out of the bush. Collins said to me: 'I've been shot.' He was bleeding pretty badly."

Collins added: "They fired about 25 shots at me in the bush." When Edwards asked him to identify his assailants he replied he didn't know.

Edwards took Collins to the Red Cross hospital at Apsley where first aid was given. Then Collins was taken to Civic Hospital by taxi.

Dr. J. E. Howes and Dr. H. E. Gastle of Lakefield attended him.

NEXT MAINS TO BE LAID

Want Attlee Clarify Position

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) Paul Hoffman, Marshall-Plan chief, Thursday promised United States Senators to seek an explanation from Prime Minister Attlee of the British government's position on the French plan to pool Europe's steel and coal.

Hoffman, head of the Economic Co-operation Administration, was before a joint session of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee to discuss military aid for Western Europe.

Several members said they think Attlee should clarify his government's position in view of the British Labor party's rejection of the pooling plan.

Hoffman said he was informed reliably that the Labor party statement was issued without the knowledge of Attlee or Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin.

Institute Sponsors Turkey Dinner

The regular meeting of the Buckhorn WI was held in the Parish Hall, Tuesday evening, with a splendid attendance of members and visitors. The roll call was "A step to happiness." After the routine business, plans were completed for the turkey supper to be sponsored by the WI at the Buckhorn Lodge June 21 in aid of the Manitoba Relief Fund." The guest speakers were Dr. Ralph Honey and Dr. J. J. Craig of the Public Dental Health committee who spoke on the care of teeth, especially in the children.

A picture of the International Park, from the Canadian Film Board, was much enjoyed by all. The meeting closed with the repeating of the Institute Creed.

Discover Process For Moth-Proofing

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP) — A textile scientist told the National Research Council committee of the Commons Thursday night about a promising Canadian process of permanent moth-proofing which is already in use in some textile mills.

Colin Braley, chief of the textile laboratory of the National Research Laboratories, said the process was developed in his laboratory after sifting scores of formulas. The research was begun because the Defence Department was worried about the moth threats to huge amounts of wool service clothing it had stored after the war.

TAKEN AS THE STEEPLE of Lauzon parish church, across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec, toppled from its base and crashed to the ground, 125 feet below, this photo makes a striking picture. It was no accident. Workers had cut the steeple at its base and pulled it over with ropes. It's part of a $200,000 face-lifting job for the church.

Man Surrenders In Murder Case

MONTREAL, June 16—(CP)—Gerard Royer, 36, is in police custody today, held as a material witness in the strangulation death Tuesday of Helen Bowmer, 37, in a dingy downtown Montreal hotel.

Inquest into Miss Bowmer's death was scheduled for today.

Police say she was strangled. City police also reported Thursday night that Royer had surrendered to the RCMP and admitted slaying the woman.

"I was too drunk and I got at her," police quoted Royer as saying. Royer, an ex-convict who was a cook for a religious order, walked into RCMP headquarters Thursday afternoon and gave himself up.

"She turned me down because I had no $2 left in my pockets," police said he told them.

Police described Miss Bowmer, a native of Lauzon, Que., as a woman of many aliases who was "a well-known street walker."

Police said they had checked Royer's finger prints against those left in the hotel room and they matched.

"We have no doubt this is our man," said Lieupt. Senecal.

Witness Gets Payoff Favors

GROTON, Conn., June 16 (AP) —Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) Thursday night accused John Peurifoy, Deputy Undersecretary of State, of arranging secret "pay off" favors for a witness in the investigation of alleged Communists in United States government.

McCarthy said the "pay-off" deal consisted of a pledge to provide free legal advice and loyalty clearance to a man who five years ago was fined in the Amerasia secret documents case.

The witness was Emmanuel Sigurd Larsen, a former State Department employee who testified last week in closed session before a committee headed by Senator Millard Tydings (Dem. Md.) investigating McCarthy's charges of Communist influences in the department.

McCarthy alleged that the "pay-off" deal was for testimony favorable to the department.

Larsen, in Washington retorted:

"It's all lies. There was definitely no deal and no payoff."

Non-Red Workers Strike Against Paper

LONDON, June 16 (AP)—Non-Communist warehouse men went on strike Thursday night against the Daily Worker, Britain's Communist party newspaper, because they said the paper brought in a party member as their foreman.

Fred W. Downs, spokesman for the strikers, said the warehouse men proposed two of their own members as candidate for the foreman's job. But the management, he said, gave the job to an outsider who is a Communist party member.

Senate Changes Act Grudgingly

OTTAWA, June 16—(CP)—The Senate Thursday gave final passage to a bill amending the War Veterans Allowance Act but only after Senators debated for an hour the advisability of decentralizing the administration of the act.

Approval was given "on division"—a way of showing objection without forcing a vote.

A number of Senators said establishment of 16 regional boards with power to make decisions on applications for war veterans' allowances did not seem justified.

The Senate also gave final readings to amendments to the Canadian Wheat Board Act.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, Senator Reid, Senator W. M. Aseltine (PC, Saskatchewan) and Senator J. H. King (L, British Columbia), who was responsible minister when war veterans' allowances legislation first came into operation, all criticized the WVA amendments.

Senator J. K. Hugessen (L, Quebec) and Senator Thomas Farquhar (L, Ontario) spoke in defence of the measure.

Senator Farquhar said he had had a great many complaints about delay at the central board in Ottawa. This was designed to speed up decisions which could now be taken regionally.

Psychiatrist Says James Fosbraey Completely Sane

NAPANEE, June 16 (CP)—The murder trial of James Fosbraey, 29-year-old English veteran of the Royal Air Force, neared its close today with further evidence of mental experts concerning the state of mind of the man accused in the knife-slaying of his wife here last Nov. 29.

A late witness Thursday, after the defence had closed its case was Dr. Charles S. Tennant, superintendent of the Ontario Mental Hospital at Langstaff, near Toronto, who had twice examined the accused.

Dr. Tennant testified that he found no evidence of insanity or mental illness on the part of the accused. He will be cross-examined by the defence today, and after that the Crown may call another psychiatrist before counsel sum up their arguments and Chief Justice J. C. McRuer presents the case to the jury. It was uncertain whether the jury would receive the case today or whether the trial might continue Saturday.

Dr. Tennant told the court that no psychiatrist could base an opinion on such scanty evidence as was submitted at the English Commission. Dr. C. E. A. Shepherd, superintendent of a mental institution in Kent, England, had testified there that Fosbraey could be suffering from an excited type of schizophrenia.

No man with a mental condition could go through six and a half years of service with the armed forces without the mental condition becoming evident, said Dr. Tennant. Fosbraey's service record was good, according to all evidence.

insure the best sanitary conditions.

Also a Wading Pool

The tiny tots have not been forgotten in this project and a wading pool complete with fountain has been constructed beside the larger pool. The wading pool is 40 feet square and holds 10,000 gallons of water.

An attractive cement block building covered with white stucco and trimmed with blue, houses two dressing rooms, locker space, a refreshment booth and the filtration plant in the basement. The inside of the building is decorated in blue and yellow. A foolproof locker system has been installed which will prevent even the most absentminded children from loosing any part of their clothing. The dressing rooms are 40 feet wide and 80 feet long and both are complete with four showers.

Landscaping has been begun by the members of the club. The filtration equipment was supplied by Francis S. Hankin, Montreal, and installed by George W. Hutchinson, Peterborough. The Architect was J. F. Weston, Tillsonburg.

An adequate lighting system has been provided so that the pool will be able to be used at night. Nine, 1,500-watt underwater lights and six, 1,000-watt floodlights have been installed, by Grant and Loucks, Peterborough.

An eight foot steel fence surrounds the pool and building.

A staff of 10 people have been employed to operate the pool during the summer. The swimming instructor will be Bill Lech, whose swimming prowess is well known by the people of this city. The four lifeguards who have been employed are: Garth Joppling, Ted Nobbs, Joan Strickland and Jerry Armstrong. Doug McKee will be the manager in charge of the pool equipment. The clerks and supervisors of the wading pool are Connie Hildenbrand and Barbara Blachford. Harry Adlam has been employed as janitor.

Free swimming classes will be held from 9 until 12.30 every morning except Sunday. Four hundred have already applied for these classes and the club cordially invites everyone who wishes to learn to swim to join these classes. There is no age limit.

The pool will be open to the public during the afternoon and 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. has been set aside for adults. The admission charge for Public School children will be 10 cents and they may purchase a season's ticket for $2.50. High School students will be charged 15 cents and $3.50 for a season's ticket. The charge for adults will be 25 cents and $6.00 for a season's ticket.

In order to encourage the whole family to come out and swim, the Lion's are offering a special rate of $10.00 for family season tickets.

The pool will be open at 1 p.m. on Sundays.

The overall cost of this project was $50,000. In addition to the general maintainence of the pool, the Lions will pay $300 in salaries every week. It is estimated that between $10,000 to $15,000 was saved by the work done by club members in the construction of the pool. Two nights a week, approximately 20 members willingly gave their time to help in this project. For the past six months, the club was divided into teams consisting of 10 men each. The team which has put up the most manpower will receive a prize. The winners will be announced at the opening on Saturday.

Ways of Raising Money

In order to raise money for this project, the Lions have held bi-monthly bingos, a Donkey Baseball game and sponsored an exhibition by Lucky Lot and his Hell-drivers. Their largest sourse of revenue is their carnival which is held annually in August.

Despite the cost of the swimming pool, the Lions have continued to carry on their usual activities in providing tonsilectomies for the underprivileged and have donated money to both hospitals, the Community Chest, the Food for Britain Fund and the YWCA.

Offical Opening

A gala celebration has been planned for the opening of the pool. Preliminary swimming races will take place on Saturday afternoon, but the grand opening is scheduled to take place at 7.30 p.m. and will be broadcast over station CHEX. The finals in the swimming races will take place and 75 medals will be awarded to 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners in each of the races. The club has planned to make these races an annual event.

Corky Kellan, the world's champion swimmer will perform acquatic feats and the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club and the Hamilton Acquatic Club have been engaged to provide entertainment. Evelyn Buchanan, Canadian three-metre diving champion will test the new diving-boards and there will be a game of water polo between Hamilton and West End Y, Toronto.

The climax of the evening will be the official opening of the pool by the Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

Woman Delegate Impressed by Broadening Scope

Mrs. Wm. Steinkrauss president reported Thursday to 22 members of Local Council of Women on the 57th annual meeting of National Council of Women, held recently at London, Ontario.

She said she had been much impressed by energy and progressiveness of the delegates who came from all parts of Ontario. They seemed to be sharing similar problems to the women of Peterborough and doing everything possible to overcome them They represented 52 Local Councils and 27 National organizations which are affiliated.

"There is a vein of wonderful talent in this generation of women, and there is a decided broadening of their scope" said Mrs. Steinkrauss. "They are supplementing better ways for the old ways, the positive for the negative, and endeavoring to put in better legislation rather than criticizing the government."

Women of all organizations are showing new interest in civic affairs she found and convention speakers urged becoming better informed in such matters by getting into things and being interested in politics.

Mrs. Steinkraus attended an educational discussion on many items of public interest.

A move to ask a Canadian ban on Dr. Kinsey's forthcoming report on women's sexual behavior was left for consideration by each Local Council. The group took a stand against increasing the radio licence fee, believing this is a means of educating people. They also advocated no shortening of the term of teacher training to overcome the teacher shortage in Canada, and expressed the feeling that textbooks in use should be written by Canadian authors.

A resolution went through recommending that a survey be made with a view to making provision for secondary education for the deaf.

The president also took note of proper council procedure for executive members and conveners, and said she had marvelled at the amount of work handled by those of National Council whose time is also given free.

She reported that a great deal had been said about United Nations and the need for the women to take an interest in it. As Peterborough Council has joined the local United Nations Study group, she intends stressing this further when meetings are resumed in the fall.

Citizenship convener, Mrs. E. B. McWilliams read several excerpts from newspaper accounts of convention sessions under this heading.

A history, compiled by National Council and printed by the London Free Press, was made available to members for a small fee on which there is a profit for Local and National Councils, and Mrs. K. Simpson was asked to take charge of copies

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Grafting Teen-ager Demands Expensive Gifts from Boy

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a son who will be 17 next month. He goes with a girl who is also going to have a birthday during that month. The girl started a campaign for a diamond ring right after Christmas and my son insists he is going to get her one, which is absurd, considering that we are in very moderate circumstances. What can be done when Son threatens to join the navy, quit school or do something equally ridiculous when he is denied anything he wants? How can we impress upon him the necessity of his pursuing his high school course without buying this girl whatever she demands? She already has his watch as well as numerous articles of less value.

WORRIED MOTHER

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: It seems to me that you have a couple of hold-up artists to deal with and that the thing to do is to call their bluff. The girl is holding up your son for a diamond ring and everything else she can get out of him by making her favor the price of his standing and delivering, and your son is holding up you and his father by threatening to leave school and join the navy if you don't give him what he asks. That, incidentally, would be a good thing for him, for he sadly needs the discipline that he would get in the service, and to be delivered out of the hands of the little grafter for whom he has fallen.

Don't Pay For Ring

Of course, you cannot do anything with the girl except indirectly to block her game, but you can certainly stop the boy's giving her a diamond ring by refusing to pay for it. It takes money to buy jewellery, and if you absolutely refuse to supply it you automatically save your boy from his folly, for no merchant will be silly enough to sell a schoolboy without a job a diamond ring if he knows that his parents will not pay for it.

Have a heart, but also have a backbone in dealing with him, and don't be moved by his raving nor by his threats of the direful things he is going to do. He won't do them and, oh, how grateful he will be to you for teaching him early in life how little worth the price are bought kisses and the affection that has to be continually stimulated with gifts.

And, if by refusing to give your son the money to buy a ring for his grasping sweetheart you can make her throw him over for some boy who is better off, you will have done him a favor that he can never repay.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married nine years and have one child. I was a very pretty girl and he was much in love with me when we were married, and we were very happy for the first year. I am a good cook and housekeeper and very affectionate, but our trouble is that I have very little education. Don't like to read, while my husband is a brilliant man, has a college degree and a wonderful position. Now he is tired of me, never speaks to me except to tell me how dumb I am. He has no affection for me, for the physical attraction is gone. Tell men to marry in their own class and not break some poor girl's heart by marrying her and then being ashamed of her.

A WOMAN WHO KNOWS

ANSWER: When we speak of a man who has outgrown his wife, our sympathy is always for the man who has lost touch with his wife because he has gone forward while she has stayed put. But if we have tears to shed, the one whom we should bedew with them is the outgrown wife, the woman who has lost the little hold upon her husband that her physical appeal once gave her, the woman who knows that her husband is tired of her and ashamed of her, not because of anything that she has done, but because she is just as God made her and as she was at the time that he picked her out for a wife.

The man who married a girl who is his intellectual inferior just because he is temporarily caught by her pretty face does her a greater wrong than he does himself. He ruins her life more completely than he does his own. For the time comes when her face loses its prettiness and her youth is gone and he turns to women of his own class for companionship. Then none so poor and none to be so pitied as the lonely, dumb wife who could have been so happy married to some man on her own intellectual level, who would have had the same interests and liked the same things that she does.

DEAR MISS DIX: It has been said that every woman is some man's rib. Do you believe that for every man there is a special woman who was meant to be that man's mate?

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Probably, but if so, few men find them. The tragedy of the world is the mismated, the good men and women who guessed wrong about their ribs and who would be such good husbands and wives to the right mates and are such poor husbands and wives to the wrong ones.

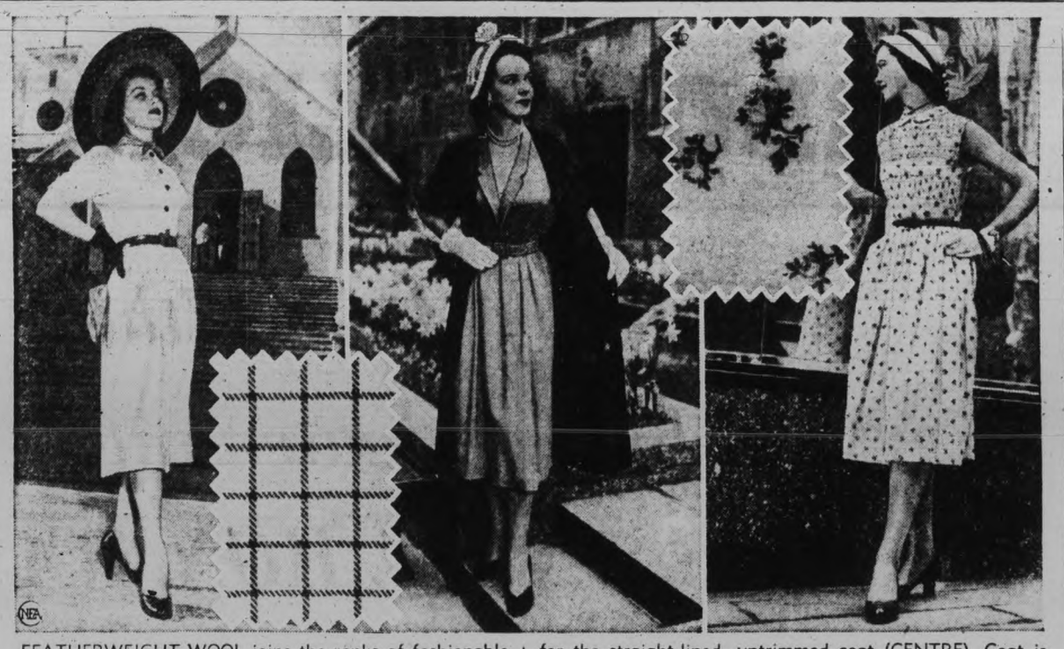
Older Women Proven More Intelligent

MONTREAL —(CP)— Mrs. Nora E. Arnold, former mayor of Prince Rupert, BC, thinks the idea of the older woman being undesirable as an employee is logically unsound.

In the first place, says Mrs. Arnold, the older woman is steadier. Her mind is developed and she is more intelligent than the "youngster just out of school."

There was a day when a woman's place was in the home, she added, but nowadays she is considered an indispensible part of industrial, political and commercial endeavors. Women's contributions are essential and the high cost of living often makes it necessary for them to keep on working after mariage.

Mayor By Accident



Mrs. Arnold, chosen as "woman of the year" in 1948 by the Business and Professional Women's Federation of Canada, said she became mayor of Prince Rupert more or less by accident.

There wasn't anyone to stand as a candidate, she explained when here on a visit, so she volunteered. She contemplated entering provincial politics last year, but an illness intervened and she "just forgot about it."

In addition to her political activities, Mrs. Arnold is president of an insurance and real since her husband died in 1936. A nephew, who is a partner, runs the concern when she is away campaigning.

Booklet Tells Housewives How to Save Food Dollars

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, June 16 —(CP)— Any advice on stretching food-dollars is music to the ears of budget-conscious housewives.

The consumer section of the agriculture department gives just this in "Food for the Family," a new booklet containing everything from the correct way to cook cheese to what to buy at the corner grocer's.

Time and money can be saved by shopping lists and shopping regularly.

Fruits and vegetables should be bought in season when they are most reasonably priced. Housewives should buy by weight or quantity. They should never ask for "so many cents worth."

When buying meat, the bulletin notes the cheaper cuts are every bit as nutritious as steaks and chops. Beef and pork liver are as good as calves' liver.

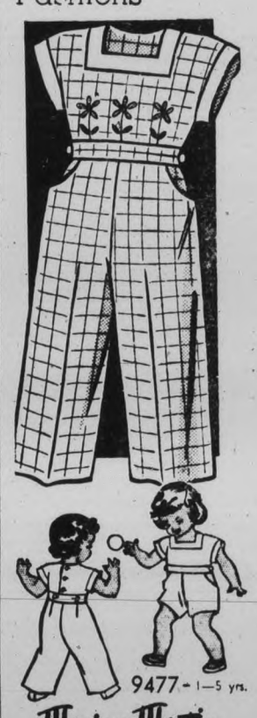
Cooking Hints

"Food for the Family" contains several cooking hints which may show housewives where they have gone wrong in preparing some of their dishes.

Cooking cheese at a high temperature toughens proteins and makes cheese less easily digested. It should be cooked at a low temperature. When making cheese sauce the cheese should be added at the last and cooked only until melted.

Cook Fruit Slowly

Fruit should be cooked slowly, either simmered, steamed or baked in a small quantity of water. Less sugar will be required, the fruit will be more tender and the flavor better if the sugar is added after the fruit is cooked. Dried fruits should be washed thoroughly before cooking.



The booklet says that baking and steaming are the best ways to prepare vegetables. If boiling vegetables (except potatoes), they should be cooked, tightly covered as quickly as possible, in a minimum amount of boiling salted water and until just tender.

Finally the booklet recommends planning meals "at least two or three days in advance as the best way to keep the family well fed and at the same time to cut down on food costs.

Monotony can be avoided by varying the methods of preparation and serving food.

Color, texture and temperature of foods should be varied in the meal. Color attracts the eye and adds interest to the meal. Contrast can be created in the meal by interspersing cold dishes with a hot one or by serving something cold, in the way of a salad or dessert, in a meal otherwise made up of hot dishes.

Workers Allergic To Bathing Suits

LONDON —(CP)— A London factory imported French tissue for green cotton-fabric swimsuits.

When the tissue went into production the workers started sneezing and went on sneezing. Eighteen sneezed themselves into sick-leave and the factory manager had the tissue analysed.

"Mangesium aluminum silicate in the fabric", was the report.

Just French chalk, to which many are allergic.

Owner John Miller now has 7,000 yards of material he doesn't know what to do with. Some two-piece swimsuits have already been made, but Miller doesn't know what would happen to the wearers if they were sold.

"I've never known anything like it in 35 years experience," he said.

King and Queen At Preview Of Flower Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— The Royal Family recently attended a preview of London's Chelsea Flower Show, biggest annual event for British gardeners.

Queen Mary walked with interest through a tiny garden of peas, cabbage and flowers, designed for fronting prefabricated houses.

A rock garden was the contribution of the oldest exhibitor, 83-year-old Robert Wallace.

As Queen Elizabeth posed for photographers, the King asked Wallace: "How long did it take you to do this?"

"Ah, your Majesty, your father once waved his umbrella over my garden and asked just the same question," was the answer. The King laughed.

Keen gardeners, the King and Queen were also interested in the show of cacti.

"We were given some in South Africa," explained the King.

Practical Minded

He left the Royal party, which included the Duchess of Kent and the Duchess of Gloucester, to tour the implement section where he bought pruning saws, lopping shears and lines garden gloves.

Key-note of every design this year was economy. One rock garden showed how to include existing trees in the design.

The most brilliant splash of color, comprised of massed azaleas, was exhibited by Edmund de Rothschild to show how entrance drives can be made vivid.

A novelty called pink bizarre is said to be a revival of the streaked gillyflower of Elizabethan days. A peony, named Bowl of Beauty looks, when closed, like a pink bowl filled with Devonshire cream.

One of the prettiest sights of the show was a tiny rose garden planted on a table with miniature roses less than a foot high.

Women outnumbered men as spectators and showed interest in the revival of herbs for cooking. Lectures were given on such little-known herbs as the golden-flowered moly (a decorative onion), apple mint, eau-de-cologne mint and white-flowered orris root.

WOMAN JUDGE — Helen Kinnear, judge of the county and surrogate courts of Haldimand County and local judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario, is believed the first woman to be appointed to the Bench within the British Commonwealth. She was formally sworn in in 1943. A King's counsel in 1934, she had a practice in Port Colborne, Ont., before her elevation.

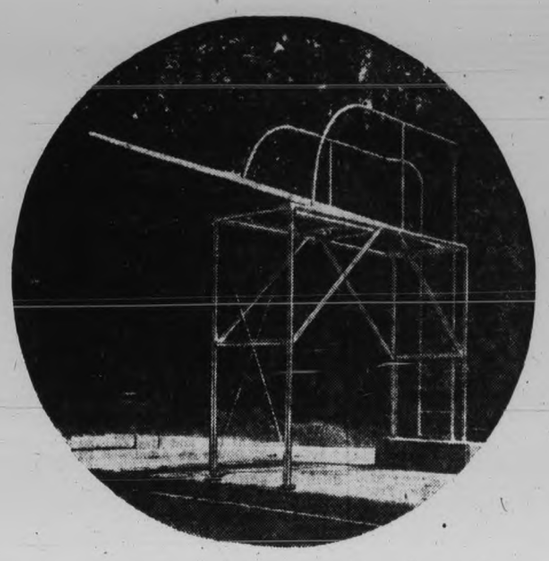
PETERBORO' LIONS OPEN THEIR

Saturday, June 17th at 2 p.m. and 7.30 p.m.
by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario
RT. HON. RAY LAWSON

THE LIONS CLUB OF PETERBOROUGH has worked untiringly for the past eight years to promote swimming in the city of Peterborough. Our first venture was the taking over of Riversi de Park, which we fully equipped with playground equipment and a wading pool in the river near the bridge. The pool was o perated and supervised by the Club for a number of years until the Recreation Commission came into being and carried out th e supervision. We were pleased with the pool because it brought much happiness to many children in the city, but by the same token we realized they were worthy of something better, so we decided to build an inland pool which is now in ex istance, and incidentally one of the finest equipped in the country. It is our intention to maintain and operate this pool f or the youth of Peterborough and, therefore, we have selected the best Supervisors and Life Guards available to assure the s wimmers of absolute safety at all times. Free swimming classes will be held each morning and already we have our 300 appli cants—our slogan is "Learn to swim."

THE COST OF CONSTRUCTION and equipment will run well over the $50,000.00 mark and we hope to have it completely paid for in one year. However, we must not overlook the fact t hat such a project just isn't possible without the full support of our citizens and this I am proud to say we have enjoyed fully. You have supported our Bingos, carnivals, donkey baseball and any project we have endeavored, to the fullest extent.

THE CITY COUNCIL CO-OPERATED FULLY with our locatio n and project, which necessitated many extra meetings on their part and last but by no means least, our suppliers gave us prompt service—yes, when materials were short and it was difficult to lay these supplies on the line. George Heffernan, G eneral Contractor, Sub Contractors and Suppliers including Kingan Hardware, Peterborough Block, George Hutchinson, M cCarthy & Johnston, T. F. Doughty, Moldaver Bros., Scarfe's, Grant & Loucks, Rehills, Peterborough Printing, J. T. W olstenholme, and Trent Valley Roofing, did an outstanding job and contructed a pool and building that we can be doubly prou d of: The Lion members themselves put in many a hard working hour which cut down costs considerably and showed th eir willingness to give Peterborough a new recreation facility that will be a definite asset to the community. And so, as Chair man of this project and on behalf of the Club as a whole, my very sincere thanks to all our contributors and to everyone who assisted in any way to make the project a reality.



See you at the opening.

B.C. RIVERS RISING, NEW FLOOD THREAT

Dam Breaks, 2 Families Said Missing

Huge Kiln Explodes 2 Factories Destroyed By Flames

CROOKSVILLE, O., June 17 —(AP)—Disaster swept into this pottery-making community of 3,000 today when a sudden flood broke a nearby dam, exploded a huge kiln and set off a fire which burned two potteries to the ground.

Two families were missing after their homes were swept away.

The dam-bursting flood followed a terrific cloudburst which cut a wide swath through Ohio from southwest to northeast.

Official damage figures were not available. But a member of the Crooksville fire department, Calvin Ross, said he believed it was at least $1,250,000 at three plants alone—$750,000 at the potteries and $500,000 to the big Ohio Power Company station here.

The cascade of water gushed up a narrow valley from the broken Misco Mine Company dam five miles southeast. Residents of Crooksville's low-lying areas scrambled to their rooftops.

Five houses in the tiny community of Rose Farm near the dam were washed away by the first rush of water late last night.

Three of the families were accounted for. No trace of the other two was found.

Main Street River

When the avalanche of water hit Crooksville one of the town's main streets became a river five feet deep.

The water engulfed the Ohio Power Company's Crooksville station and all electric power in Crooksville and surrounding communities ceased.

As frightened citizens sought refuge in the darkened town, the water reached a huge pottery kiln at the Acme Pottery Company. The kiln blew up with a spectacular puff of flame.

The fire spread to the adjoining Ceramic Pottery Company plant and destroyed it, too. It normally employs about 200.

Between 30 and 35 persons who had sought refuge in the pottery building were rescued without casualty.

The avalanche of water poured through the town and northward to Roseville, another pottery making community of 1,500 about five miles away.

Nine Provinces At Celebration

TORONTO, June 17 — (CP) — Government representatives of nine provinces will visit St. John's for Newfoundland Day celebrations June 24, under plans by the Newfoundland Day interprovincial co-ordinating committee.

The schedule calls for day-long celebrations June 24—St. John's Day, on which the Bristol adventurer John Cabot according to popular legend sailed into what is now St. John's harbor in 1497.

Official dignitaries and Barbara Ann Scott will take part in a CBC network broadcast from St. John's at 3 p.m. that day.

Ontario will be represented by Welfare Minister Sturdy.

Says Air Currents MayHaveCausedCrash

PARIS, June 17 (AP)—One of North America's foremost weather experts said today that "strong up-and-down air currents," common in the Persian Gulf," may have caused two French airliners to crash off Bahrein Island this week.

Dr. Charles Brooks, director of Harvard University's Blue Hills Observatory, said the intense heat of the Persian Gulf area creates powerful air currents which could throw an airplane out of control.

Eighty-four of 103 persons aboard the two planes were lost in the two disasters.

Dr. Brooks is attending a conference here for meteorologists from six countries which is drawing up a world atlas describing and classifying clouds.

Drew Suggests Examination Of Building Plans

OTTAWA, June 17 — (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested in the Commons Friday that independent experts make an over-all review of the government's construction program.

It would be aimed at effecting economies.

Mr. Drew spoke during study of the 1950-51 expenditure estimates of the Works Department. The study was marked by requests from many members for new public buildings, for information on buildings already planned and for details of proposed expenditures on various localities.

There were these other developments:

1. Prime Minister St. Laurent announced that the federal government will match grants of $2,500,000 and $300,000 being extended by the Quebec provincial government to the fire-ravaged towns of Rimouski and Cabano.

2. Citizenship Minister Harris announced that the special allowance payable to Indians of 70 years and over will be increased from $8 to $25 a month beginning July 1.

Estimates Risen

In the public works debate, Mr. Drew noted that the department's estimates have risen to $61,431,500 from a pre-war $14,560,000.

Works Minister Fournier said the jump came not only from an increase in the number of works, but also because of the cost of materials and labor. In addition, the department "just grew up" in the expansion that was taking place in other departments.

Prevent 21 Zoot-Suiters Having Weekend At Beach

KITCHENER, June 17—(CP)—Twenty-one Kitchener zoot-suiters, some of whom were armed with weapons used in youth gang fights, early today were stopped by police from making a weekend trip to Crystal Beach on Lake Erie in a rented truck. Five were lodged in the County jail here charged with carrying offensive weapons and police said other charges may be laid against the 16 permitted to return to their homes.

Weapons seized by the police included five home-made billies, some knuckle dusters, weighted chains and other dangerous objects, among them a sharp-pointed paper knife.

The five youths arrested and remanded until next Wednesday are Frederick March, 19; Douglas Smyth, 20; Frank Gehl, 16; George Deegan, 20, and Charles Deegan, 19, brothers.

Charles Deegan is also charged with illegal possession of two 12-ounce bottles of liquor.

To Pick Up Others

Police said that the party of 21 was to have been swelled by another three youths who were to be picked up by the truck as it was enroute to Stratford. It is believed that another group of zooters was to have joined the party there.

Found on one of the gang leaders was a packet of 24 railway tickets from Stratford to Ridgeway. Although the youths said they planned to stay in Crystal Beach for the week-end some of them had as little as $2 to carry them over the period.

The truck driver was told to head for the police station instead of Stratford but the truck refused to start and police halting a passing Public Utilities Commission bus. The zoot-suiters boarded the bus with their hands above their heads like prisoners.

Their presence at crime movies appeared confirmed by the manner in which several began to shout for their "lawyers" as soon as they arrived at the police station.

In the confusion of the transfer from the truck to the bus, police found it difficult to keep track of the various equipment carried by the youths. Several of them managed to discard their weapons and avoid charges of carrying offensive weapons.

Rap Indians For Grabbing Much of Canada's Wildlife

OTTAWA, June 17. (CP) — Wildlife experts are critical of Indians who do more hunting than they should.

A conference of Dominion-provincial wildlife officials decided Friday that if this "excessive taking of wildlife by Indians" continues, it will "ultimately work to the disadvantage of Indians themselves."

The conference decided that the way to meet this depletion menace was to teach the Indians the value of conservation.

There also were suggestions at the 14th Dominion-Provincial wildlife meeting that traps used in the capture of wildlife were "inhumane" and should be prohibited.

The conference was closed to the press. A statement issued later said one delegate replied to this suggestion by saying that if anyone knew of equally-efficient and more humane traps than now are in use, he would be glad to have them adopted.

Delegates from all 10 provinces attended the meeting which gave emphasis to migratory bird regulations.

One section of the regulations discussed dealt with the possession of migratory game birds in closed seasons. There was a question of whether this resulted from illegal takes or from storage over long periods.

Many delegates believed it resulted from storage, pointing out that an increasing number of deep-freeze storage installations in Canada has made it easier for hunters to preserve game over longer periods than has been possible in previous years.

Reports indicated that the waterfowl situation in Canada now appears to be little changed from a year ago.

Big Citrus Plant Razed By Fire

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., June 17 (AP)—A multi-million dollar fire that raged out of control for hours destroyed one of Florida's largest citrus plants early today.

Police estimated that damage to the sprawling Polk Packing Association plant would exceed $2,000,000.

The fire spread from a second-floor office in a building adjoining the main plant to other structures on the 10-acre installation. Fire fighting apparatus from seven nearby towns aided in fighting the blaze.

At the height of the fire, persons 40 miles distant reported they could see the glow.

The huge plant, with about four acres of building space under roof, produced both orange and grape fruit concentrates. About 250,000 boxes of citrus fruit were lost.

Three firemen were casualties —none serious.

Winter Haven is in mid-Florida, about 40 miles east of Tampa and in the heart of the citrus district.

3 Swim To Shore After Plane Crashes

PARRY SOUND, June 17—(CP)—Three Toronto men were injured Friday when their plane crashed in Georgian Bay, 45 miles south of here. The amphibious craft crashed on landing near Go Home Bay post office and the three swam 200 feet to shore.

In good condition in hospital were Harold S. Clagg, pilot, suffering a broken arm; his son Ross Clagg, 17, with concussion, and Alwin Purkis, with a broken jaw.

The three started out from Toronto on Friday on a combined business and fishing trip and the accident was seen by an Ontario Forests Department towerman, Bill Schillimore, who took the three to his cabin and called Parry Sound for help. A forestry department plane from here brought the injured to Parry Sound.

Men Watch New Dikes Along Fraser

Long Heat Wave Melts Snow; Main CNR Line Cut

VANCOUVER, June 17 (CP) —Rivers and creeks across British Columbia roared sullenly today, chocked with snow water and facing no indication of any cooler weather to stem the potential havoc they may spread.

The lower part of the province Friday went through its hottest day of the year—the temperature was 76 here—while the mighty Fraser River inched up and against the 100 miles of dike protecting thousands of homes in the fertile Fraser Valley.

Dike patrols, augmented at Agassiz up-river by army engineers, reported late last night that seepage had been controlled for the time being. An electrical storm severed telephone lines, hampering flood control, while farther down river near Chilliwack two huge spotlights went on as watchers probed two possible trouble spots.

First flood took place at Ladner in the low delta land at the mouth of the swollen river.

Elsewhere, the Skeena River of the north threatened roads and rail lines as well as chasing some residents to higher ground.

45 Families Leave

Main danger point, however, remained the Fraser valley where some 45 families moved out yesterday.

H. A. Cox, flood co-ordinator for the Mission area, said that 23 feet of water is expected there by Sunday. It was nearly 22 last night.

"If the river maintains this peak we are in a very dangerous position," he said. "We believed 23½ feet will be the maximum but naturally we can't be sure."

Fear Pressure

He said the chief concern is not the height of water but the terrific pressure against $11,000,000 worth of dikes constructed or repaired since the disaster year of 1948. A prolonged crest could be catastrophic.

The flood peak in 1948 at Mission was 24.76 feet.

The Canadian National Railways main line at Cisco, 140 miles east of Vancouver, was cut, forcing westbound trains to switch to Canadian Pacific lines at Kamloops.

In the flood of 1948, British Columbia was isolated for days by rail with telegraph and telephone communication also knocked out.

The run-off, because of cool weather, has been about 15 per cent behind schedule although snow fall was above normal.

Ask Colonies Allowed Trade

OTTAWA, June 17—(CP)—A plea that the United Kingdom relax its dollar restrictions and allow British colonies greater freedom in the purchase of Canadian goods will be made by a four-man delegation of Canadian trade experts, it was learned Friday.

The experts, including two deputy ministers, take off for London by plane today to attend a session of the Canada-United Kingdom continuing trade committee.

There, it already has been decided on higher level, Canada's complaint that it was not getting sufficient Colonial trade will be thoroughly thrashed out and recommendations made for consideration of Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, and Trade Minister Howe.

Taking part in the London discussions will be Max Mackenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade; J. G. Taggart, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; A. F. W. Plumptre, head of the External Affairs Department Economics Division, and J. J. Deutsch, head of the International Economics Division in the Finance Department.

Sign Security Pact

CAIRO, June 17—(CP)—Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Lebanon and Yemen today signed an Arab Collective Security Pact. A league spokesman said Iraq intends to delay her signature until the fall meeting of the league with the idea that Iraq and Jordan will then sign simultaneously. Jordan is boycotting the present league session because of the dispute over Jordan's annexation of eastern Palestine.

Battling Time To Reach Trapped Miners

CADOMIN, Alta., June 17 (CP) —Two mechanical mud muckers and sweating crews of rescue workers today continued a battle against time to open up the coal-mine tomb of five trapped miners.

But little hope was held that the men, imprisoned more than two days, would be found alive Discovery Friday of a broken head lamp and the severed leg of a man seemed to indicate that the diggers were coming close.

The mud muckers pressed into service speeded up the job of moving tons of debris from a tunnel 270 feet below the surface.

The social life of this Rocky Mountain mining town of 1,000 population has been at a standstill since water from a flooding surface drainage canal carried debris into the mine tunnel Wednesday night. All production at the mine, operated by the Cadomin Coal Company, stopped.

Work Feverishly

Twenty-seven other miners who escaped were among the 50 men clawing at the wall of the underground tomb.

The trucks carried away muck brought up to the head of the mine shaft by a conveyor belt fed by around the clock rescue workers.

Mine officials, who gave the trapped men little chance to survive drowning, crushing or asphyxiation, could not estimate how long the job would last. The men might be reached in a matter of hours. But it might be weeks. Exact location of the men was not known. Nothing has been heard from them.

Three mine inspectors from Edmonton, 200 miles to the northeast, supervised safety precautions while rescue operations continued. They also were making an investigation into the tragedy.

Danish Prince To Wed Lady Anne Anson

LONDON, June 17 (Reuters)—The engagement of Prince Georg of Denmark to Lady Anne Anson, was announced officially today.

The wedding is expected to take place in Britain in the fall.

Lady Anson was Anne Ferelith Fenella Bowes-Lyon. Her father is a brother of Queen Elizabeth. She was born in Washington Dec. 4, 1917, and married Viscount Anson in 1938, but the marriage was dissolved two years ago.

Codrington Boy 12 Drowns In Cold Creek Short Distance From Home

Failed To Return From School Classes Men Search River Bank, Recover His Body In Six Feet of Water

CAMPBELLFORD, June 17 (ENS)—Twelve-year-old Harold Hill, of Codrington lost his life in the chilly waters of Cold Creek, about three-quarters of a mile from the home of his parents on Wednesday evening. Harold did not return from school on Wednesday evening, but as the boy was often away until quite late, his mother did not attach any importance to his absence. The boy's father is employed at the Trenton Air Station, and was away at the time.

When the lad did not return the next morning, the mother, Mrs. Gerald Hill, became quite worried, and notified the child's uncle, who started to look for the boy. After a short search of the river bank, the man discovered the lad's clothes at the edge of the water. He returned to find the father home, and the two men enlisted the aid of a neighbor, Web. Honeski.

Search Along River

The search took the three men along the river, as the boy seemed to like the outdoors, and had had to be tracked on different occasions, in order to bring him back. The grief-stricken father discovered the body of his son in about six feet of water, where the creek flows through a portion of a field of the Melvine property.

Provincial police were notified and a number of officers from the Brighton detachment arrived on the scene. A Brighton doctor pronounced the boy dead.

The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. today from the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hill of Codrington. Burial will be in McPhail Cemetery, near Codrington.

It is believed Harold had been swimming in the creek, which is quite dangerous at this point, after his return from school. No inquest will likely be held.

Canadian Survives Crash In Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethpoipia, June 17 (CP)—Eight persons who survived a plane crash near the border of Ethiopia and Somaliland were in Addis Ababa today, injured.

The persons aboard the plane, which crashed in desolate country early in the week, include Kenneth F. Horton, the pilot, formerly of Brockville, Ont.

A spokesman for Sinclair Oil Company in New York said Horton's present address is listed as Tulsa, Okla.

The people aboard the plane were found by a rescue party within a few hours and conducted to this capital of Ethiopia.

Try To Derail Train

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP) —Railroad police reported today an attempt apparently was made to derail the Baltimore and Ohio's Cleveland Express by jamming a heavy steel bar into a switch near here last night. Police said the fact that the bar broke saved the train from wrecking. Five cars of the passenger train had passed over the spot when the train was brought to an emergency stop.

Ontario Storms Cause Minor Damage

TORONTO, June 17 (CP) — Showers and electrical disturbances swept over large sections of Ontario Friday, causing minor rain and lightning damage.

The storm centred over a line south-east from Sault Ste. Marie, the Dominion Weather Office reported. A cold air mass moved south-east during the day, bringing thundershowers to western and central Ontario during the evening.

Lightning struck two houses and a barn at Owen Sound earlier in the day. The barn was destroyed and the homes slightly damaged.

Telegraph and radio communications were disrupted for short periods in some sections of southern Ontario.

Lightning also struck in St. Thomas and Toronto, but no injuries were reported.

In St. Thomas a 15,000 volt hydro wire was hit, and fell over a direct current power line of the London and Port Stanley Electric Railway. Power to the entire city was cut for a short time.

Hail fell for 10-15 minutes at Parkhill, 25 miles west of London, causing a slight damage to district fruit trees.

In Toronto, a hydro wire in the west-central district was struck and police radios were off the air for a short period. A heavy one-hour downpour brought one-half inch of rain.

Women Attempt Settle Strike

PITTSBURGH, June 17 (AP)— Wives of a number of striking milk truck drivers are going to try to do something about the strike today.

An official of the Greater Pittsburgh Milk Dealers' Association received a telephone call from the wife of one of the 3,250 strikers Friday. She and several other wives wanted to talk things over with industry leaders.

The official said a meeting will be held with the women today to see what can be done.

Industry leaders also will confer today with representatives of the striking union.

University Accepts Wallace Resignation

KINGSTON, June 17 — (CP) — Resignation of Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, has been accepted effective in the autumn of 1951, J. M. MacDonnel, chairman of the University's board of trustees, informed the board at a recent meeting. The announcement was made public today by M. C. Tillotson, secretary of the board and treasurer of the university.

The principal declared university rules governing retirement should apply to him and said he had no wish to continue after reaching the retirement age of 70. Dr. Wallace reached his 69th birthday on Thursday.

The board was unanimous in its wish to have the principal remain but reluctantly accepted his decision, Mr. Tillotson said.

Dr. Wallace was appointed principal and vice-chancellor of Queen's in 1935. He was then president of the University of Alberta.

Want Britain Repair Damage Done By Pool Rejection

LONDON, June 17—(CP)—British newspapers today continued to urge Prime Minister Attlee to make clear Britain's desire to promote European co-operation, contending this would repair the "damage" and "mischief" arising from reaction abroad to the government's attitude.

The Manchester Guardian and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express joined in sharp rejoinders to American press and official comment on the party executive's document.

The statement on "European unity" is widely interpreted as a British Socialist refusal to cooperate with non-Socialist governments.

The Liberal Guardian asserts that the Labor Government's reserved attitude on the Schuman plan for a European coal and steel pool "would certainly be that of the United States were Congress presented with the same peremptory demand from any other country."

Noting that "there are other forms of international control than the one Mr. Schuman proposes," the Liberal News Chronicle suggests that Britain should "take a constructive lead" in pointing this out.

British Ambassadors in Washington and Paris were told urgently Friday to explain Britain will consider joining the pool as soon as details of the plan's operation are known.

QueenAlexandra School Picnic Nicholls Oval

The students of Queen Alexandra School spent an enjoyable afternoon at Nicholls Oval on Friday afternoon. The event was their annual picnic sponsored by the Queen Alexandria Home and School Association.

Sports events were arranged by the teachers during the afternoon and later a picnic supper was served to the children who sat in groups with their respective teachers.

During the afternoon, pop, candy and ice cream booths, conducted by the Association, were well patronized by the students. The picnic was under the capable management of Mrs. Ed. Simmons, social convener. The winners of the races were:

Fish Or Power? Problem For BC

VICTORIA, B.C. — (CP) — Plans to develop a hydro system on the Quesnel River, a tributary of the Fraser, have re-opened the battle of hydro power versus fisheries in British Columbia.

A special inter-departmental committee now is studying the proposed development. The committee includes officials of the mines, lands, forests, water rights and fisheries departments.

It had been estimated the Quesnel has a potential of 300,000 horsepower of electricity.

The committee must decide whether fish or power shall have a priority or whether a plan can be worked out to give both the opportunity of development.

The Federal Fisheries Department has been working on a project to re-establish the Sockeye salmon run from the river. At the same time B.C. Power Commission engineers surveyed power potential.

The provincial government has allocated $5,500,000 for initial development by the Power Commission on the river.

Indian School Described To WA

MARMORA, June 17 (ENS) — Teaching in Indian schools in Northern Ontario, north of Edmonton and on the Blood Reservation in Southern Alberta was described by Mrs. F. F. Downing, wife of the rector at Tweed, who was guest speaker at the June meeting of St. Paul's WA, Thursday evening. The group met at the home of Mrs. H. R. Pearce.

The main part of the address dealt with the history of the Blood Reserve Indians among whom missionary work commenced in 1880 at Fort McLeod. In 1925, she said the government erected new buildings for the Mission. Following a description of her experiences, Mrs. Downing gave a display of Indian handwork and work done by scholars in the school.

The president, Mrs. W. D. Lavender, occupied the chair and there was a good attendance.

A discussion followed on the bale to be packed for the Indian school at Brantford. It was also decided to have a novelty table at the lawn social to be held at the residence of Dr. E. V. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace on June 29.

Mrs. J. M. Brownlie gave the report of the diocesan annual meeting recently held in Kingston.

Mrs. Downing was thanked for her address after which the meeting was closed with prayer by Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie.

Council Will Send Bill For Fighting Fires

MILLBROOK, June 17 (ENS) —Millbrook council this week discussed methods of obtaining payment from other municipalities when its fire fighting equipment and crew are called to fires outside Millbrook.

Within the past few years the equipment and crew have, on a number of occasions, fought fires outside Millbrook and responsibility for the calls has afterwards been declined.

It was decided to bill the municipalities in which the fires occur and it was decided to try to reach a clearer understanding with the authorities in other areas.

Councillor Harrington reported that he and Councillor Larmer had investigated the situation regarding flood waters and the closing of a ditch which crosses Bank St. Further information will be required before any action can be taken, he reported.

Councillor Harrington also said material had been provided by James Godfrey to repair a section of the sidewalk and culvert on Queen St., adjoining his property. Mr. Godfrey had agreed to do the work himself.

The amended bylaw to borrow $5,500 for school purposes was passed. The School Board reported a defective sidewalk on the street leading to the school and also reported that a decorating program was being contemplated.

Fire Chief Douglas Sheppard reported that the fire brigade had a practice on June 5. Twelve men responded to the call and all equipment was in good order.

Officers Seek For Agreements

Conciliation officers have been named by the Department of Labor in two contract disputes involving CCL unions in Peterborough.

James Hutcheon will try to bring agreement between the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. and some 250 employees whose bargaining agent is Local 822, Textile Workers Union of America. The two parties are trying to arrange thefr second contract.

March 1 was the anniversary date of the previous contract.

Now certified as Local 1112, TWUA, about 45 employees of Fannings Launderers and Dry Cleaners are negotiating for their first signed agreement with the company.

To date negotiations have been unsuccessful and E. C. Potter has been appointed conciliation officer.

Should the efforts of these two officers fail to end the labor disputes the next step will likely be applications for conciliation boards. Dates for the hearings have not yet been set.

Drill For Water Hit Natural Gas

STIRLING, Alta. — (CP) — Lou Metzger, tired of forty years of hauling water to his farm south of here, decided to have a well drilled. As he puts it: "We got more than we bargained for."

"We're going to put gas in the house, barn and everything," said Mrs. Metzger, "it was expensive to get the water well dug, but the gas is extra. We are terribly thrilled."

One pipe has been attached to the well for water and another for gas.

About 36 years ago he found a fine piece of oak. "Ah, that will be for my casket," he declared. And so the collection of oak pieces began. MORE ABOUT—

Drew Suggests

Mr. Drew said that not all of the government construction is done by the Works Department. Some departments undertake their own projects. Perhaps they all should be under "some more effective over-all supervision of construction."

Mr. Fournier said he thought the idea had some merit.

The minister told Ross Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) that the Public Works Act does not contemplate that the department put up engineering or architectural work in order to relieve unemployment. The department did its best to proceed the year round with building construction.

Howard Green (Prog.-Conservative, Vancouver-Quadra), said there appeared to be "leakages" by which "supporters of the government" learned it was going to put up a building at a certain spot and then bought the property.

He urged the minister to stop "this racketeering." After Mr. Fournier objected to use of the term, he modified it to "petty racketeering." He said it had happened in Vancouver in connection with post offices.

Study Mystery Of Milky Way

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (CP)—A group of astronomers led by Dr. Bart J. Bok of Harvard University will soon start taking thousands of photographs of the milky way through a special telescope. Their research is expected to clear up a number of the mysteries of the tremendous number of stars which comprise the milky way.

The centre of it, believed to be the great star cloud of Saoittarius, passes directly overhead at Bloemfontein each night, according to the South African Journal of Science.

"Many astronomers," says the Journal, "now believe that the milky way galaxy, resembles a vast spinning wheel. The solar system (the sun, earth and other planets) is considered to be a minor speck along the outer rim of the wheel, some 30,000 light years distant from the centre. (One light year is the distance that light, moving at a speed of 186,000 miles a second, would travel in a year.)

"So huge is the circumference of this galactic 'wheel' that it takes the sun, whirling in a roughly circular orbit at a speed of about 150 miles a second almost 200,000,000 years to make one complete swing around the centre."

Interest in the milky way was recently whetted by discoveries in America, Britain and Australia that strong radio "noises" are emanating from there. Nobody yet knows the origin of this cosmic static.

Reds Try Out "Shock Troops"

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., June 17—(AP)—A special grand jury Friday accused the Communist party of using the Peekskill, N.Y., riot last Sept. 4 to test its "shock troops." But the jury blamed the violence on "hoodlum elements" and "misguided patriotic citizens."

Ending an eight-month investigation, the jury charged that the riot-climaxed Paul Robeson concert was "used by the Communist party as a proving ground for the shock troops of a revolutionary force controlled by a foreign power."

The jury, in a 26-page presentment, said the concert sponsors used "Communist goon squads organized as security guards." It said the guards were "prepared to use force if necessary," but that they "conducted themselves in an orderly and peaceful manner."

"It was tragic," the jury said, "that the type of behavior which loyal Americans find repugnant in Communism were resorted to by misguided patriotic citizens as a protest against Communism."

More than 100 persons were injured, and cars were overturned and damaged when veterans, and others, protesting the left-wing Negro singer's appearance clashed with concert-goers.

Lodges Give $250,000 To Help Invalids

TORONTO, June 17—(CP)—Ontario lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs have spent nearly $250,000 in the last three years in relieving want and suffering caused by cancer, poliomyelitis, tuberculosis or other causes, it was reported at the groups' annual convention.

Under dismussion at Friday's session was the rehabilitation centre in the Gravenhurst sanitarium which the lodges have supplied, equipped and furnished.

W. G. Francis of Prescott became chief of the grand encampment at elections Friday, assuming the title of grand patriarch. Second-in-command, Harry Roe of Napanee, moved up to grand senior warden. Also elected were Grand Scribe Angus Munroe of Owen Sound, and Grand Treasurer, George Elson of Toronto.

Other officials for the 1950-51 sessions of the Grand Encampment include Kenneth Zeller, Guelph, grand high priest; Howard Guiler, Port Dover, grand inside sentinel; Roy Richard, Prescott, grand outside sentinel; and Hugh Termarch, grand marshall.

Plan Doctrine To Safeguard Press Freedom

OTTAWA, June 17. — (CP)— Commonwealth newspapermen will lay down today a doctrine for safeguarding freedom of the press.

At the end of 1½ days of debate on press freedom, they are expected to adopt resolutions outlining opposition to encroachment of press freedom.

The shape of these resolutions developed Friday at the seventh imperial press conference, made up of members of the commonwealth press union. The union consists of newspaper men from commonwealth countries.

Principles to be adopted by the conference, it was expected, would include:

1. That the press should regard as the first steps towards totalitarianism any infringements on its freedom not dictated by considerations of national morals, health or safety, or by the rights of individual citizens.

2. That members of the C.P.U. should urge their governments not to accept any United Nations' treaties that contravene these principles.

3. That peace would be fostered by the freer exchange of information among nations.

These concepts were proposed in two resolutions presented by members of the Australian delegation. It was expected they would be embodied into final resolutions to be adopted by the conference at its final business session today.

F. I. Ker, publisher of the Hamilton Spectator, and Frank E. Gannett, of the Gannett group of newspapers in the United States, both referred to the current strike that paralyzed the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

Mr. Ker said that on this continent the limitations imposed on the press by governments were less real than those caused by "strikes called in defiance of our laws."

A strike which blacked out a newspaper, he said, was "the very antithesis of freedom of the press."

"Much of the evil of these times," Mr. Ker added, "proceeds from labor departments of government." They were "nothing but a rendezvous for vote-seeking politicians and favor-seeking pressure groups."

An illegal strike might be called but, while machinery existed to give redress to injured publishers, it was not exercised.

Mr. Ker said the rank and file of newspaper employers had as great a responsibility as the publishers. When they strung a picket line around a newspaper, they were deserting their posts. That applied, as well, to those who yielded to a picket line.

Both Mr. Ker and Mr. Gannett referred to coming technological advantages in publishing, such as the new photo process being developed for printing.

In the next five or 10 years, Mr. Ker said, it was hoped that "it will be possible for publishers with a handful of conscientious employees to get out a newspaper regardless of any strike." The new process would be one of the greatest assets to freedom of the press.

ANOTHER WASHINGTON—Fielding L. Washington, a direct descendant of the family of George Washington, first president of the United States, has been posted to Pepporrell Air Force Base in Newfoundland for duty with the staff judge advocate. His great, great, great, great grandfather was John Augustine Washington, a colonel in the American Revolutionary Army and a brother of George Washoington.

Railway Tracks Run Through Hospital Room

MALTON, Ont., June 17 (CP)—Railway tracks run through a hospital room in this town 10 miles from Toronto and there's a boxcar ladder bolted to a wall. Another room has huge tree trunks fixed in the earthen floor.

They're in the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board occupational therapy hospital, where injured workmen fit themselves to go back to their jobs.

A railway brakeman who fractured both elbows in a fall from a moving box-car climbs a regulation ladder, couples and uncouples a real air line between imaginary cars and walks on the top of a simulated swaying car. A lineman who was hurt in a 40-foot fall from a pole climbs higher each day to regain use of injured muscles and to overcome possible nervousness.

The hospital is said to be unique in North America because it is the only one which offers such a wide range of occupational therapy and it is the only one of its kind at which patients stay for a 24-hour day.

The hospital currently has 460 patients. It admitted 3,014 last year and discharged 3,056. Superintendent Ian Campbell credits it with reducing the rate of permanent disability from industrial accidents in Ontario. In 1948 2,000 of the 180,000 persons hurt in accidents were permanently disabled. In 1921 the number was 3,000 out of 40,000.

The Compensation Board comes under the Ontario Government. Cost of the treatment is borne by the various industries concerned.

The hospital has attracted wide attention. Delegations come from all over the world to see it in operation. Governments and United States colleges send students here for courses. The government of India is sending a girl student next month.

Gets Degree In Hospital

TORONTO, June 17—(CP)—John Couse, 29, a navy veteran from Cookstown, Ont., got his degree in mechanical engineering while in bed at Sunnybrook hospital Friday. But he got it with a flourish.

Trooping into his ward came Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chancellor of the University of Toronto; Dr. Sidney Smith, president, J. C. Evans, registrar, and Professor Kenneth Tupper, dean of engineering.

Mr. Massey congratulated Couse on his determination in completing his course although confined to bed since he developed a chest condition four months ago.

Couse, who first studied engineering while a petty officer at sea, operated a tiny welding shop in Cookstown during the summer months to help pay his way through college.

How Important Is This Man's "YES"?

D. R. THOMSON

He's the man whose "yes" helped to put an ambitious boy through medical school.

Another occasion, his friendly "yes" started a man in business and today that man's business is a growing, paying proposition.

And then there was the time his "yes" enabled a worried family to get from under a stack of unpaid bills and his friendly advice put that family's budget on a sound, secure basis.

This man whose "yes" has brought peace of mind to thousands of people by helping them get a fresh start is the manager of the Personal Finance Co. office in this city.

His job is to make personal loans, and to keep the transactions on a business-like basis. His years of experience with Personal have taught him to respect the honesty of local people—friends, relatives, or employer are not brought into the picture.

Don't borrow unnecessarily. But if a loan—for a month or a year, or longer—is the sensible thing for you (and you're the judge) the YES MAN will appreciate the chance to say "yes."

You can telephone him . . . or drop in to see him at the Personal Finance Company office. He says "yes" to 4 out of 5.

Lions Triumph

The opening this evening of the Lions Club swimming pool and satellite wading pool by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario climaxes a large achievement of the Peterborough Lions Club. This handsome, cleanly outdoor pool with its bath house fills a long-felt need in Peterborough. The members of the Lions Club saw the need, and with resourcefulness and energy went about meeting it. There was much money to raise: $50,000 in cash. They raised it. There were municipal difficulties in getting authority for the site, even after all plans had been completed. They surmounted them. There was much extra labour to be done. The members of the club themselves went to work with their sleeves rolled up and did the jobs.

• • •

This evening the Mayor will no doubt express the Council and citizens' thanks. On behalf of our urban readers, especially parents, we here give our thanks and congratulations to the Club. So worthy has been their objective, so enterprising their efforts, and so splendid the achievement, that we urge the members of the Peterborough Lions Club to cast off any false modesty and proudly congratulate themselves, as they survey the result of their work: a safe, clean, pleasant swimming place in the city which will serve their community for many happy years.

Naval Story

The Canadian Air Force and Army have had their war-time stories well told in official book form: the three-volume The R.C.A.F. Overseas, the final volume having been published in 1949; and Colonel C. P. Stacey's impressive preliminary survey: The Canadian Army, 1939-45, published in 1948. This month the Department of National Defence has issued the Royal Canadian Navy's account (King's Printer, Ottawa). It is called The Far Ships and written by Joseph Schull. Like the other two Service histories; this is based on full access to official records, and reports and studies of the Historical Section. While it is an official history, The Far Ships is written with an individual pen and with freedom from official black pencils. For instance, the account of the tribulations of the destroyer Iroquois in the winter and early summer of 1943 when the crew refused duty, is not glossed over.

Mr. Schull writes the story of the R.C.N. from its thin days of August, 1939, when this country's naval force consisted of 2,000 men, six destroyers, five small minesweepers and two training vessels, through heroic and tiresome days to August, 1945, by which time the six ships had grown to a force of nearly 400, with other hundreds of auxiliary craft, shore establishments, and 90,000 men and 6,000 women. It is a story of tremendous expansion, difficulties, mishaps and glowing achievements which the author, from his naval experience and his gifted pen, sets down lucidly, authentically, without bombast, and readably. He pays tribute where tribute is due and criticizes where criticism is just.

The Navy, the smallest of our three services, was Canada's only home contact with enemy forces; it was also as far-flung as the R.C.A.F. The Pacific Force and the St. Lawrence Force guarded the Canadian mainland, not too successfully as the story is now told. In June of 1942 a Japanese submarine shelled Estevan Point on Vancouver Island. German submarines penetrated the St. Lawrence and between Quebec city and Gaspe's outermost point torpedoed three warships and fifteen merchantmen. In Cabot Strait between Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland other of our ships were torpedoed. (The chart which depicts the St. Lawrence campaigns, and other charts and photographs are singularly illustrative.) On the night of November 8, 1942, Werner Janowski, a German agent, was landed from a submarine which nosed its way in to shore near New Carlisle (Quebec):

"He proved to be a singularly inept specimen who was in the hands of Canadian authorities, lying volubly, within a day of his arrival; but the very fact of his coming rounded out a campaign (the German submarine campaign of 1942) which had been an almost unmitigated defeat for Canada."

Excuses can be made for this enemy penetration of Canadian territorial waters. Our navy was still more a faith than a fact. Many of its men were "meadow-green lads"; and there were more pressing jobs to be done by the Canadian Navy. The author says of the St. Lawrence campaign:

"It was a defeat deliberately and unavoidably accepted, just as the disastrous losses of the campaign along the American seaboard had been accepted. Adequate defence of the St. Lawrence would have meant the recall of many Canadian ships from the Atlantic; and such a re-disposition would have been of far more benefit to Germany than all the achievements of Dartwig and his companions (a competent German submarine commander operating within 200 miles of Quebec city). It was in the Atlantic, along the ever-changing lines of the convoy routes, that the pattern of victory or defeat had still to be resolved."

By midsummer of 1942, forty per cent. of the escort work about the trade convoys in the North Atlantic was being done by Canadian ships. Before the war's end Canadian ships and Canadian seamen on loan to the British, had been over the seven seas: convoys to Britain and Russia, protective forces in Icelandic and Norwegian waters, defenders off the coast of France and in the Bay of Biscay on and after D-Day, troop and equipment carriers and escorts in the Mediterranean, the Caribbean, the Aegean, the Indian Ocean.

The naval achievement is summed up thus: "Canadian ships, alone or in company with other ships and planes, sank a total of twenty-seven U-boats during the war. They sank, captured or destroyed forty-two enemy surface ships. The statistics of battle are not unfavourable; yet they are the highlights struck off from a great and moving body and they are dwarfed by the main achievement. During 2,050 days of war, 25,343 merchant ship voyages carried 181,643,180 tons of cargo from North American ports to the United Kingdom under Canadian escort. Over the bridge which the navy helped to build and maintain some 90,000 tons of war supplies passed daily toward the battlefields of Europe."

There was a price to be paid in ships and men. Twenty-four ships were sunk; and in these and others, and in actions ranging over most of the world's seas, 1,797 Canadians lost their lives, 319 were wounded and 95 became prisoners of war.

The Beauty Of Our Countryside

A recent visitor to this district was Mr. William Darke, an agricultural expert from Britain who is in Canada as an attache to the United Kingdom High Commissioner's office in Ottawa. Motoring from Toronto, he arrived at Welcome Corners and noticed that the road straight ahead of him led to Bewdley; as he is well acquainted with the English Bewdley (in Worcestershire) he thought that he would like to see what the Canadian Bewdley was like. So he came in our direction, and was so delighted and interested by our countryside that he took three days to make the journey from Bewdley to Omemee.

As an agricultural expert, Mr. Darke was keenly interested in the farms he saw and praised them highly. "Why don't you let people in Britain know what you have here?" he asked.

It was the beauty of our countryside, however, which caused him the greatest surprise. English visitors do not expect Canadian landscapes to remind them of England. But Mr. Darke thought that the district in which Peterborough lies bears a remarkable resemblance to the rolling country of Herefordshire, one of the loveliest parts of England's beautiful West Country.

We can assure Mr. Darke that people roundabout are not unappreciative of the beauty of our countryside; it is a never-failing delight to us, even when the snow lies thick upon it and blots out every point of resemblance to the English county he mentions. Herefordshire —one of the most beautiful of all English counties, and containing some of the prettiest towns in England—Kington, Tenbury, Leominster, and beautiful Hereford itself. It cannot be pretended that any of our towns have such beauty as these; indeed, it might be said that our towns were not well suited to our countryside. But we have a long time ahead of us, and beauty of building to match the beauty of Nature will doubtless come.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Shorts are rarely beautiful," says the Ottawa Citizen. But they do allow the legs to become beautifully rare.

A British court has dissolved an Englishman's marriage with a Russian girl on the grounds that it was a practical joke. It's too bad it isn't easier to dissolve some of those marriages which have proved to be impractical jokes.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Adam Mulligrub, Landscape Gardener

Dear Mulligrub:

Tell me about plants and flowers, Mulligrub; what is the secret of their nature? It is quite plain that you know it; you can make anything grow. I do not know it; I can render a garden barren merely by looking at it. In fact, I suspect that I have a highly specialized sort of Evil Eye, which works only on the vegetable kingdom.

Yet, in my time, I have striven to make gardens. I have spent great sums on seeds, plants, bulbs, topsoil, mulch, manure, sprinklers, cultivators, insect-rebuffers and sprays. But no flower or bush will grow for me, though I treat them with religious awe.

You, on the contrary, drag plants up by the neck and dump them down in other places; you trample on them; you water them when the sun is full upon them; you spit on them, and yet they adore you. You break every rule of my gardening books, but you could make a garden in the Sahara.

What is your secret? Are plants so masochistic that they blossom only for those who abuse them, like some women? Should I begin a reign of terror in my garden?

Yours wonderingly,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.

Dear Pil:

The closing of the universities has caused the usual number of charming young men and women, with the chalk of the lecture-room still in their hair, to visit me and offer to revolutionize my affairs through the exercise of their talents. When I say that I have no jobs for them they look at me with pity and disbelief. They know that I am lying, that I really have excellent jobs in my gift, but that I am afraid of their brilliance. They assure me that they do not want to work for me for long; they just want to learn the trade, and then pass on to better establishments than mine. The young women are sure that I have prejudice against her sex; they are, they tell me, capable of doing anything that a man can do. I have no doubt of this, but I conceal from them the fact that too many women in an office give me a sense of living in an aviary which I find uncomfortable.

Last week I picked up a magazine which contained an article advising college graduates on—of all things—How To Choose A Boss. I should not have read it, for I knew in advance that it would give me the trembles, but I did. And it did. The perfect boss, it appears is unlike me in every possible way. He is a jolly extrovert, with a guilty sense that he is not quite equal to his job, and with a fine understanding of the frailties of youth. He is also rather stupid, and it is easy to cozen him in the matter of pay and holidays. His temper is quick, but soon dies down. Working for this Dream Boss, it appears, in hardly work at all. It is a great big romp from morning till night.

Do I wish I were a Dream Boss? No. Depressing though it may seem, I am quite ready to go on being my curmudgeonly, reclusive, grudge-bearing, suspicious, happy self.

Nevertheless, the article depressed me. It is always depressing when one has to disappoint people's expectations.

Yours depressedly (though not to any intolerable degree), SAM.

To Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.

Dear Mr. Cataplasm:

Whenever I am near Death, I think of you. And I have been very near Death recently, for I have had a number of conversations with an Insurance Man, and he brought me very close to Death's door on a number of occasions.

Now I am perfectly ready to subscribe to the Scriptural admonitions that all flesh is grass, that the body is but clay, and that my soul may be required of me at any moment. But I cannot say that I like to have my nose rubbed in these indubitable truths by a man whose business it appears to be to guarantee that my survivors shall live the life of Riley after I am gone. "We've all got to face it", says he; quite so, but I prefer to face Death in the company of a few learned and picturesque old clergymen, with an unaccompanied choir singing in the distance; I do not especially like to face Death in the company of a fellow with sport shoes on his feet, a hand-painted necktie and a staggering number of pens and pencils in his bosom pocket. But then, I am an eccentric in such matters.

People of my temperament, in the days of Queen Elizabeth, quite often kept a skull on their desks; occasionally, for added effect, the skull had a bone stuck in its jaws. This object was called a 'memento mori' and its purpose was to keep its owner reminded of the fact that he too, would die. But the modern momento mori is the insurance agent, with his pencils, and whenever I see one I mutter through the General Confession, just in case.

Your perennial patient,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

P.S.: Do you know why women, as a rule, outlive their husbands? It is because women have too much sense to let themselves be worried to death by insurance salesmen.

◇ ◇ ◇

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.

Sir:

As perpetual president of the Militant Females League of Reform I write to apprise you of a literary discovery of incalculable importance. As you are aware, there is a legend that as Milton was blind when he wrote "Paradise Lost" he dictated it to his daughter Deborah. Having re-read that poem —or most of it, to be quite frank—recently I am convinced that this is a lie, invented to bolster up male vanity, Milton never wrote "Paradise Lost" at all. There is a sublimity about it which is beyond the reach of the male mind. Deborah wrote it herself. Her father stole it. Just like a man.

As you know, it has been proven for years that Homer was a woman. I defy anybody to prove that the author of "Paradise Lost" was not Milton's daughter. And, to be perfectly frank with you, I have my suspicions about Shakespeare. As like as not he was Queen Elizabeth, or Bloody Mary, or some other gifted woman who has been robbed of her rights.

Yours militantly,
(MRS.) KEDIJAH SCISSORBILL.

Canadian Mine In The Mountains of the Moon

(By PATRICK O'DONOVAN, IN KAMPALA, UGANDA)

IN the Mountains of the Moon, in the far West of Uganda, there is a young copper mine owned by a Canadian firm, Frobisher's of Montreal. Probably it is the most private undertaking in Uganda, though it is the smallest, promises to be by far the richest of the British controlled territories in East Africa.

The mine itself lies in the heart of a great mass of mountain which rises out of the hot African plain. There are herds of elephants playing on the edge of its lakes, and lions and innumerable buck. On the mountain there are leopards, but they are rarely seen.

At the end of a rough mountain road that seems painfully to force its way uphill through banana plantations and past primitive African huts, there lives a little colony of Canadians, Rhodesians, South Africans and Englishmen who are working to make this project a success. They live at the end of a steep and narrow valley, 58 miles from a post office or a shop. From here you can only begin to climb the precipitous mountain or return the way you came. Strange and enormous flowers grow on coarse trees; grass grows as high as a man's knee in four weeks; there is the sound of rushing water from a stream that tumbles over the rocks and a long grey scar rises up the mountainside where the mine has been started.

At present the Kilembe mine is only in the "late prospecting stage". No ore has been removed commercially. But already nearly 30 white men live in simple huts at the end of the valley under the scar they made.

At present the chief difficulty facing the mine is transportation. They are nearly 250 miles from railhead at the Uganda capital, Kampala. The main roads of the country are like the sort of tracks that farmers make between their fields. But this difficulty will be overcome, by a railway, or by bringing electric power to the mine so that the ore can be smelted on the spot. Certainly the difficulty will be overcome, for Kilembe matters. It is the first place in Uganda that every official and industrialist mentions to an enquiring stranger.

AT present the company has only a mile of mountain to play with; they could get more. The mountain also contains gold; though it has not yet been found in commercial quantities. And, almost certainly, it contains uranium.

In the shadow of this mineral richness, I met this morning a young Canadian girl newly come out from home. She lives in a two-room house—a white-washed, mud and wattle, four-square hut with a roof thatched with reeds. It stands in a mass of flowers and there are flowers all over the bare living room. There is a leopard skin on the floor, native plates on the wall and the simple wood furniture was made by the White Fathers fifty miles down the road.

Mrs. Denise Gordon is young and pretty with close-cropped hair and the air of a woman who could cope with disaster without raising her voice. She wore white shorts and a white shirt and she looked as delightful as a green oasis in a brown desert.

Denise Gordon comes from Noranda in Quebec, and her husband, James Bruce Gordon, is a geologist from Toronto. They have four servants to their little house and these dark tribesmen move so slowly that she cannot do with less. Their fresh food and mail from home come twice a week from Fort Portal in the company truck. For fun, she sometimes gives a "sundowner" party when a few friends drop in before supper and sit drinking in front of the patch of earth which the garden boy will some day make into a lawn. Or there is a trip down the valley to watch the elephants or a very rare visit to the hotel at Fort Portal.

It is a seven day week at the Kilembe mine. Yet, even though the mountain presses so closely, and it is so far from home and from all the things that other people take for granted, there is a sense of gaiety and urgency here, a feeling that men are once again asserting their manhood and making something out of a wilderness where before there was nothing. The Mountains of the Moon are that fabulous place where King Solomon was said to have his mine; other less fabulous people are doing his job today.

Letter To The Editor

CONSUMER BILL OF RIGHTS

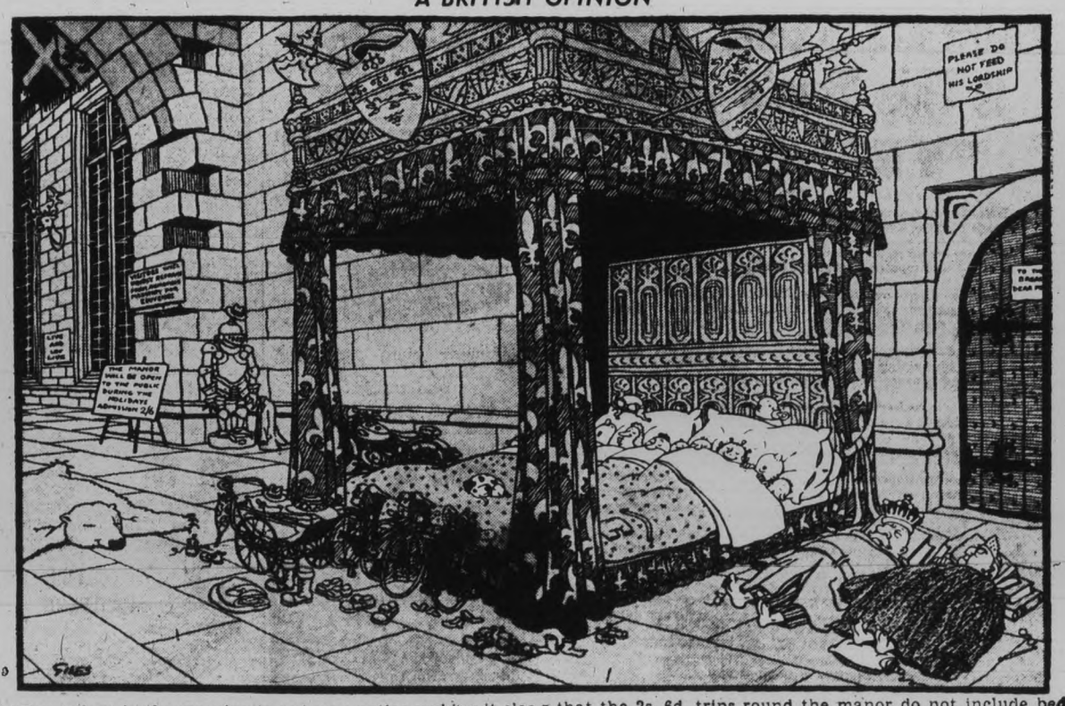
Sir: I am pleased to see so much space being devoted by your paper to the ever-increasing activities and interests of women in world and national affairs. The new trend has even invaded Peterborough satisfactorily, with a much livelier attention now being paid to municipal management. The political rights of women have been ignored for long enough, and more than a polite cough is required as a reminder of our presence.

These are not the only "rights" which have been consistently ignored of late, however. The consumer has reached the breaking point as the high cost of living continues to mount.

We read, on one hand, where the farmer has managed to ensure a local market for his strawberries by having an extra duty levied on imports for the seasonal duration. On the other hand, he finds it just as fair to sell beef to the highest bidder, and let the consumer in Canada take the rap on that score too.

All this talk about loyalty to the Canadian farmer is not reciprocated in his attitude to the Canadian consumer, so how can he hope to gain a sympathetic ear for his troubles? Certainly not while he can go running to the Government for subsidies, price ceilings and duty controls at every up and down! He beefs about the synthetic shortening, while we counter with a demand for shortening blackmail beef prices—and where does it get us?

Farming is conducted as an individual business enterprise which, if it doesn't show a gross profit, is not worth carrying on. Aided by modern machinery, agriculture shows the same reluctant fixation re paying adequate living wages as any other industry.



The average wage-earner, on the contrary, is only too lucky if he can manage to make ends meet from one year to the next. He cannot sit back and wait for prices to drop (like the self-sufficient farmer), as his main outlay is for that essential item "Food".

As long as nutritional requirements consume 50 per cent. of the average family income, there is no alterative but to buy as economically as the present markets permit. Even then, the standard of living must still be below par because wages have always lagged behind price increases.

Since the farmer does not claim to be making a profit, and the consumer definitely is not receiving full value for his money, perhaps we should stop this senseless bickering among ourselves, and investigate the true source of the juggling to see who does receive the benefits. It is high time the consumer had his "Bill of Rights" taken into consideration too!

Yours truly,
"CITY CONSUMER".

A BRITISH OPINION

"Remind me in the morning to put up a notice making it clear that the 2s. 6d. trips round the manor do not include bed and breakfast."
—London Express Service

If your rock garden happens to be in sandy soil, watch where you step these days. That smooth round rock that you hadn't noticed before might be a mamma snapping turtle looking for a spot to lay her eggs. This almost happened at my house. So beware. The great inland migration of egg-laying snappers has started within the last week of warm weather. The spot could be a mile or more away from water to a sawdust pile, elevated knoll in a dry meadow or even in the dust of a country road.

The burrow or nest is dug with powerful clawed hind feet and more than 24 white, spherical parchment-like eggs are deposited. The female rears back from the hole she has dug to slide the debris from her carapace—upper shell—to cover the clutch of eggs. Hot sun and soil moisture do the hatching trick in 90 days.

How large do snappers grow? Forty pounds is about the limit, although anyone who sees a really big one will declare it was "as big as a wash tub." They average seven to ten pounds.

Fishermen condemn turtles widely and claim they make great inroads on small sport fish populations. It is continually hungry and resorts to all sorts of cupidity to catch its food. Partly embedding itself in the mud of underwater traffic lanes of small fish, the snapper darts its snake-like head at fry.

Waterfowl are also part of the snapper's diet. Dragged below the surface to drown, they are torn apart with jaws and clawed forefeet. The turtles may destroy more of the duck population than we realize. Regard a recent survey conducted by the Maine Co-operative Research Unit last fall. Thirty-five turtles were netted and their digestive tracts analyzed. Three specimens contained no food but 37 per cent revealed the remains of game fowl. One 30-pound glutton produced two downy young grebes, a full grown of the same species, and adult golden-eye duck and one adult ring neck.

Turtles A Kawartha Menace?

This situation, which is very likely to be general throughout low-lying Kawartha lakes, is serious, you must admit. And yet, some experts claim the snapper may be beneficial and that their indiscriminate destruction would not be advisable.

Then again, you could obtain a permit for netting them. They make excellent eating and are easier to prepare than chicken, but in this the Little Woman will not participate, that's for sure. The yield of meat from a snapper is about 50 per cent of the weight of the live specimen. There are numerous ways to cook them; stewed is the most popular, in soups or fried. I am open to an invitation to a turtle dinner anytime if someone will take me up on it.

36 Pickerel: Bad Show

Summer mail brings in snapshots from American tourists who have already been fishing in our district for pickerel. Even though the fishermen are unknown to me, it is pleasant to look at the victors and their spoils. But there was one from deep in Ohio the other day that made me boil; three men with exactly 36 fish on a long string. I don't know what impression it was supposed to create, but with me it was all bad. A lot of the fish were small and I immediately wondered how many other small ones were left out of the snap. Our fish laws are not targets to shoot at and sportsmen do not try to attain them. From the distance these catches were shipped, it is doubtful that many of them arrived in good shape. What a waste of our good fish. If fishermen want a picture to be proud of, one or two of the best specimens tell the story quite adequately. The day may come when barbless hooks will be enforced in Ontario. Then, we shall find the true fisherman.

What! More Bathing Beauties

Comments on the Vacation Edition which were sent out on my private mailing list, are trickling in. Says Hudson's Bay Company historian C. P. Wilson of Winnipeg: "Just one suggestion—don't you think it would be a good idea to have included one or two pictures of bathing girls?????" Comments Paul Provencher of Baie Comeau, P.Q.: "Looking at your Vacation Guide, I cannot help realizing that you have everything in your Province to make life very pleasant." Having just completed an air trip with Lands and Forests Deputy Minister Frank MacDougall, Mr. Provencher is qualified to make a statement of praise of this nature.

Best advertising scheme for resorts in the Kawarthas is at Ianson's Viamede Hotel. Paper place mats with a large, wellmarked map of Stony Lake are in constant use in the dining room, where hungry fishermen eat their fill and indicate to one another the exact spot they were fishing each day. As many napkins are taken home for souvenirs as those used to wipe greasy chins, Bill Ianson says.

READER BAIT: Lake St. Clair muskie tournament being currently run by the Board of Commerce, Mount Clemens, Mich., has already produced ten top 'lunge averaging 30.6 pounds apiece. Comfort In Exile

Comfort ye, comfort ye my people,
Saith your God.
Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her,
That her warfare is accomplished,
That her iniquity is pardoned:
For she hath received of the Lord's hand
Double for all her sins.
The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness,
Prepare ye the way of the Lord,
Make straight in the desert a highway for our God
Every valley shall be exalted,
And every mountain and hill shall be made low:
And the crooked shall be made straight,
And the rough places plain:
And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed,
And all flesh shall see it together:
For the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

Land Values Rise and Speculators Profit As New Community Forges Steadily Ahead

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

One result of the Irish settlements, said Lt. Rubidge, was that "speculators flocked to the neighboring townships". As land prices inflated, some settlers sold out as soon as they had their land patents; large blocks of uncleared land held by speculators were harmful to the actual settlers in getting to market and in all community activities. When Strickland in the autumn of 1825 tried to buy land in Otonabee near Peterborough, he had to pay "15s. per acre, which was high for wild land, but the prospect of a town so near had improved the market considerably." Stewart wrote on Dec. 12, 1825, "Land is doubled in value in six months. There is not one good lot to be had within 20 miles."

Stewart, and Boswell of Cobourg, were appointed June 6, 1826, as Land Agents for Newcastle District, to sell crown and clergy reserves; however, the Canada Company and King's College through their government connections were given most of the reserves in the settled townships, so that Stewart and Boswell did little business before 1830. James Bethune of Cobourg, who was storekeeper and first postmaster at Peterborough, was agent for the Canada Company. The Newcastle Land Board, before its abolition at the end of 1825, settled most ordinary settler to the west in Ops and Mariposa, and from 1826 on the Executive Council, on the advice of Peter Robinson, tried to divert new settlers to these townships and to the back townships from Fenelon to Belmont, where wild lands cost 5s. an acre; in Ops the price was 6s. an acre.

Peter Robinson was in July 1827 appointed an Executive Councillor, Commissioner of Crown Lands, and Surveyor of Woods for Upper Canada; in the next year he obtained also the post of Commissioner for the sale of Clergy Rserves, so that his total salary was £1,721 per annum plus expenses. Thousands of petitions poured in to him from the Newcastle District in the next decade, and he was able to aid many hundreds of the Irish settlers and others in the District to confirm their land titles, to get more land on good terms, and to confirm advantageous mill-leases.

Robinson put Alex McDonnell in charge of new settlement in the Newcastle District, with Wesley Ritchie to aid him; these two up to 1831 supervised in the settlement of many Ulstermen and others in Ops. They were allowed to pay for their land and food by building roads. On July 24, 1829, McDonnell wrote Robinson: "The boat from Rice Lake has just come up, bringing Parkin and Lee with their families; they proceed tomorrow with the Mud Lake Scow to Cotnams. I sent over a load of pork and flour for the scow, which was nearly all the provisions we had here (Peterborough); this I was under necessity of doing as it would be impossible for the settlers to obtain conveyance from this to Ops at anything like a reasonble price, if at all, from the bad state of the roads . . ." A month later he wrote: "I came in to Peterborough yesterday to engage two men for building shanties . William's boat has this moment come up with the Irish families from York and a Scotch family from below; they will proceed with me in the morning; I sent Ritchie off this morning to Mud Lake on his way to Cotnums with a scowload of pork and flour . . ." In 1830 A. C. Buchanan, immigration agent at Quebec, was publicizing among those landing there "the most desirable location in Ops adjoining the prosperous township of Cavan . . at the price for actual settlers of 4s per acre, payable in 5 years with interest".

Exploring Party

In 1827 the Surveyor-General sent an "exploring party" through the townships north of the Kawarthas lakes, which reported that they were too rocky for settlement. Then on Jan. 16, 1830, Birdsall was instructed to survey the rear part of Smith; his salary was 15s. a day, and he employed Spencer Birdsall, Guy Seely, Morris Cotter, Edward Cotter and Rufus Burr.

One of the leading settlers in northern Smith was Francis Young, age 44, from Newport, Tipperary, with nine children: William (24), Eliza (22), John (20), Samuel (18), Honora (16), Patrick (14), Francis (12), Robert 10), and Matthew (8). They were recommended by the ship-surgeon as "a very industrious family, willing and obliging, deserving every encouragement." After being settled in error on broken lots 36-37, con. 12, which they began to clear, the three eldest sons petitioned Robinson in 1827-8 to get "land better adapted for agricultural purposes." McDonell told Robinson in March, 1828: "Young is a very good settler . . . and intends erecting a sawmill this summer." Francis was given the east half of lot 35, con. 12, and William the west half of lot 37, con. 13, an ideal place for mills on the rapids between the lakes, 14 miles above Peterborough, one of the most picturesque spots in the Kawarthas. John and Samuel were transferred to lot 26, con. 12, to the west.

Other Land Patents

The following received land patents in Smith up to 1830: 1826: Dan Matthews, John Hattan, Moses Wood 'Alex Roseborough, John Gordon, Ephraim Jackson, Pat Sully, Abraham Young, John and Wm. McIlmoyle, Dennis Riorden, Elias Jones (1000 acres), John Dixon, Wm. Lee; Lucy Young, Matthew Micklem; 1827: Wm. Lander, Ethan Wethuba, John Harris, Wm. Rice, Wm. Sherwood, Thos. Owston, David Batter, Christy Wood, Wait Wright Sr. and Jr. and Joshua Wright, Henry Dyre, Nick Sweetman, John Hervey, George Cochraine, Nancy Mowrey; 1828: Erastus Barrett, Wm. McKenna, Fred Hutton, George and Ben Nichols, Wm. and John Jackson, Jane Collins, Wm. Willson, James Roseborough, Elias Batter, John Bice, Ruth Palmer, Pamelia and Reuben Wright, James and Hanna Wright, Joseph Bletcher, Edmond Boswell, Thos. Ward (800 acres); 1829: Francis Drewette, Jacob Brumwell, Erasmus Fowke, Emanuel Man, Sam Gifford; 1830: Nath. Ashford Jr., James Man, John Hatton, Thos. Gilmar, Walter Wilson, Ben Nichols Sr., Jared Sweet, Ben Purdy, Ziba Harden, David and John McCarty, Richard Lapp.

In Ennismore, the only patents before 1830 were one to John Willard in 1826, lot 4 con. 10, 230 acres; and in 1829 the Canada Company got lot 11, con. 5, 200 acres. Patrick Gallivan was the first postmaster in Ennismore. In Douro, these few received patents up to 1830: 1826: Alex Davidson; 1827: Samuel Davidson, Dick Collins; 1829: Charles Shaw, John Kerr; 1830: Z. Burnham (469 acres), and Canada Company (100 acres). Among noted characters in early Douro were: Maurice Clancy who made horseshoes and metalwork, also fish-spears and traps; Michael Maloney, the township strong man, able to carry a heavy plow for miles or lift a cart out of a mudhole unaided; 'Big Mike' Sullivan, fiddler for chanties and reels at "bees" and parties. Feats of strength were common: many men thought nothing of carrying a 100-lb. bag of grain 15 or 20 miles to Peterborough in the morning and walking home the same day with an equal load of supplies. P. C. Towns recorded that his grandmother, Catherine Sheehan, often walked to town from South Douro with a pail of butter on her head, a basket of butter in one hand and a basket of eggs in the other, returning with provisions before nightfall.

Otonabee Patents

In Otonabee, many obtained land patents by 1830: 1826: Samuel Goheen, Mary Mosher, Henry Hancock, John Hutchinson, Ansell Bellnap, Thos. Bayly, John Batty, John Linch, Robt. Lundy Mansion Bought In 1879 For $1,986

By ROBERT HATTON

The social life of Ashburnham and Peterborough for about 40 years swirled about Verulam House, home of J. James Lundy, which fronted on Maria St. and ended at James St.

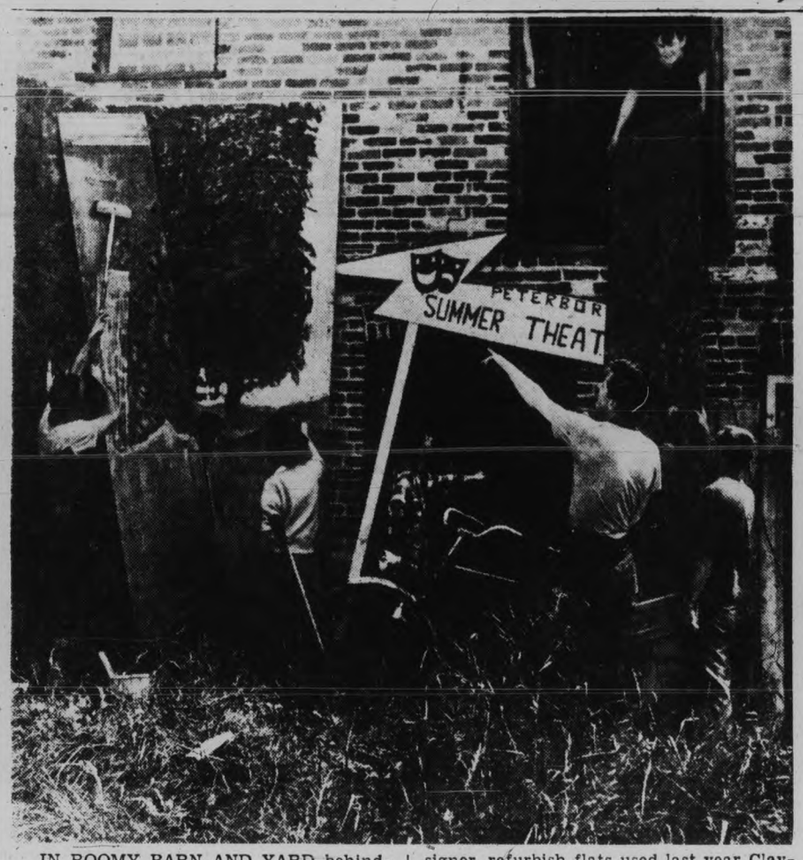
The picture above is taken from what is now Burnham St. but earlier was called Lake St.

The house was built about 1877 by William Snyder who had a lumber business in Peterborough at the time.

In 1879 he sold it to James Lundy for $1,986 and the house and grounds stayed in the Lundy family until 1937 when it was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bigelow. Now the house is known as Huntingdon Apartments.

James Lundy, was the son of William Lundy who had been born in Cavan, Ireland in 1801. William Lundy came to Peterborough in 1832 where he started business as a merchant tailor. Two years later he opened a general store. He also had a distilling plant for some time and a tannery. In almost all his ventures he prospered.

James Lundy was mayor of Peterborough in 1880 and 1881 and for some years he was the president of the Little Lake Cemetery Co.



The house in its prime was a city attraction. The grounds were decorated with Italianate sculptured figures.

The parties and dances held by James who was a bachelor attracted the social elite of the town and became famous.

James died in 1918 at the age of 84 and the house was owned by the estate until 1937. For many of those years it was occupied by his brother Douglas J. (Duke) Lundy and sister Isobelle Lundy until they died about 1924.

Douglas Lundy, like his brother, had many business interests. At different times he had a shovel factory and a candy factory. Before moving to the Ashburnham house, he lived in a house at the corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Sts.

For some time after the death of Douglas and Isobelle, the house was left empty, much of the finery disintegrated until it was bought, restored, and converted into apartments.

IN ROOMY BARN AND YARD behind-scenes crew of the Summer Theatre are busy preparing for two concurrent seasons, at Niagara Falls and Peterborough. First play 'Harvey' opens at Niagara on Monday, in Peterborough the following Monday. Here Hugh Taschereau, box-office manager, and Margaret McDonough, scene designer, refurbish flats used last year Clayton Grenon, carpenter and Charles Brennan, electrician in the loft, bring down one of the new flats being constructed, while Ron Bailey, props man, watches in doorway. Summer Theatre Folk Busy In Barn On Sets

By A. J. THOMAS

A brief item in the Sunday New York Times about the Peterborough Summer Theatre reminded me that somewhere in or about Peterborough things must be humming in preparation for the opening a week from Monday. I decided to find out how and where. I found them in a barn—humming at 11 p.m. of a mid-week evening.

At the end of Middleton Drive (which runs off Monaghan Road) the James Wharrys have on their property an honest-to-goodness brick barn, complete with stalls and mows, and even some hay. They have put the barn at the disposal of Michael Sadlier and his stage and production crew. Here a half dozen young men and one extremely capable young woman have been hammering all day and half the night sawing, painting, glueing and wiring to beat the band for a week and more. (The actors, Mr. Sadlier tells me, are congregated in Toronto for their preliminary rehearsals of Harvey the first play of the season.)

The barn was lit up outside and in. Outside in the long grass was a newly-constructed sign "Peterborough Summer Theatre," and a flat or two. It was all pretty quiet, despite the hum to be discovered inside. Somebody leaned out the second storey mow door and said "Come on in. We're glad to see somebody from the outer world." (It seems that everybody has been so engrossed in work in the barn in its rustic surroundings that Peterborough and people seem Martian.)

Smell of Horses

Inside, the first noticeable thing was the smell; a smell like horses. This was rather surprising, because I had never seen a barn so clean and tidy in a busy way, and it must have been many moons since a horse stuck his neck into that barn. The reason for the smell was glue: buckets of it, being used to fasten sheeting to slats which are even now emerging as arches, doorways and dining-room walls, under direction of the aforementioned young woman: Margaret McDonough. Miss Donough is the Summer Theatre's stage designer, a Yale graduate in her speciality, and the designer of many of the Toronto's Hart House theatre sets of the last two years. But to get back to smell: the glue is made of horses' hoofs—at least that is the supposition.

In an alcove—probably the old granary of the barn—Charles Brennan was playing with fuses, plastic and wires. He is, of course, the indispensable stage manager of last summer, and has the same job this. The bigger the problem and the wackier the bits and pieces of cast-off material he has to work with, (for instance, 50 flats from last year) the more he seems to glory in his job. The only piece of uncontrived new equipment he showed me was an impressive outfit of wheels and cranks: a rheostat for the Queen Mary productions. He was humming and muttering as he—well, should one say, tinkered, of so adept a chap? Probably exulting in the 3,000 feet of new lumber he has been hacking and sawing with his power motor.

Bought in Peterborough

Incidentally, all the material for the staging and lighting has been bought in Peterborough, except for a few special parts and pieces which had to be imported under permit from the USA. If anyone thinks a basic set for a stage and the individual sets for one play, can be made out of a song and a dollar, he has to think again. The investment runs into four high figures. And here in this barn are being built the complete outfit for two stages: Peterborough's Queen Mary auditorium, and Niagara Falls.

Mr. Sadlier is running a double company this year, alternating between Niagara Falls and Peterborough with the same weekly play. All the sets and the major rehearsals are being Peterborough-centred.

Stage designer Margaret McDonough has ingeniously devised her sets to suit both stages (they are of different sizes). She showed me her basic plan in miniature—three groups of variable shells—on which the various play sets will be propounded. The actual flats for both stages were at the moment being constructed. Was it 50 or 500 flats the crew—all hands turning in to help—had constructed in two evenings of this week? Everything is carefully planned and measured, according to her designs, and to scale. It's like an architect conceiving a complex building before a brick is laid.

But I am still in the barn, not in Niagara Falls or Peterborough theatres. Upstairs—pardon, up in the well-floored mow reached by a precipitous stairway, were Cal Whitehead, production manager, who has been with the Everyman Theatre in Vancouver; Claytoni Grenon, stage carpenter, Ron Bailey, props man who was here last year. All were busy. Hugh Taschereau (last week graduated with a BA from McGill, which he found time to achieve between bits of work on radio and screen in Montreal this winter) showed me around.

He is again, as last year, box office manager and general factotum behind and on stage. Here and there peeped up from the hay a colonnade or an arch from last year's plays, to be transformed into a kitchen or log cabin for this year. Glue and new flats all over the place. And through the unglazed windows and open doorways came the sweet, verdant air of late spring in an almost-not-suburban peaceful evening.

I descended to the stable floor and noticed coils of rope hanging from a row of what used to be hooks for horse collars. "Your rope or the horses?" Theirs, for the flies which will hang above the Niagara Falls and Peterborough stages.

Yes, the place has atmosphere, but, despite the glue, not of horses. It is the workshop of a theatre. And the workmen in it are highly pleased to have such an airy, clean and roomy place.

Petes Trim Weston Lions To Stay With Loop Leaders

Tearing savagely into the Weston Lions at Miller Bowl last night, the Petes hung up a 26-7 OLA senior "A" victory before a large crowd to keep up with the leaders in the group race. It was their fifth win in six starts this season and they looked impressive against rather weak opposition. Though they drew most of the penalties—18 to 6 in a fairly clean contest—they had no trouble capturing the verdict.

IN ON NINE — Arn Dugan was in on nine goals to lead the sniping parade here last night as the OLA senior Petes trounced Weston Lions 26-7 before a large crowd.

Only in the first quarter did Weston show anything and they led 2-1 at the end of the heat. But the Creighton crew clicked for 11 markers to two in the next stanza, and had a 9-0 edge in the third. Weston rallied briefly in the fourth but were still outscored 5-3 in the windup chukker. The Petes looked strong in all departments to earn the duke, but Weston didn't impress.

Goalie Good

Goalie Ralph Speck continued to sparkle between the pipes, making a number of fine saves to keep the Lions well in the rear of the hunt. His defence was strong and their sturdy checking drew a flock of cheap penalties, because—despite the two dozen handed out—play was not at all rough but for a few hard slashes and charges. The forwards worked well both ways and passed the ball around to set the scorer up, usually close range. The Weston goalie fanned on some but many of the markers were earned.

None of the visitors showed too much class in this encounter, for senior "A" players. Jesse James checked hard and nearly lost his temper at times. The Downer brothers, Hal and Ted, were their big sniners with three apiece, as Baldy Venner got the other. The latter also had an assist with Ted Downer aiding on four. The line of Gray and the Downers went best by a good margin for the Lions.

Dugan Leads

Arn Dugan clicked best for the Petes in the scoring department, having three goals and six assists for nine points. Bob Thorpe banged home six and helped on another, as Bob Breakspear scored three and aided on two more. Dootch Vitarelli hit the hemp six times and Don Ashbee also turned in a bangup performance with two goals and five assists. Jerry Fitzgerald was good for two markers and three assists. Mick Magee having two and one, while big Joe Nolan got one and helped on another. Wendell Lewis helped out twice and Emmett Creighton and Jim Kinna were each in on one.

Weston—Gosl. Parker; defence, H Downer and White; centre, Gray; wings, T. Downer and Venner; rover, Allwell; alternates James, Hatton, Gair, Rowntree, Hartley, Dunn and Reddy.

Petes—Gosl. Speck; defence, Curtin and J. Breakspear; centre, Fitzgerald; wings, Kinna and Lewis; rover, Magee; alternates, Nolan, R. Breakspear, Vitarelli, Creighton, Ashbee, Dugan and Thorpe.

Westclox Gains 8-3 Tilt Against Ashby's

Westclox took an 8-3 girls' softball decision over Ashby's at the Bowl last night in the first tilt of the twin bill played. They played heads-up ball and made every break count, with Isabel Bullock back in the lineup and being a lot of help. Ashby's errors hurt their cause and they didn't show their usual pep. However, it was a good game with the winners earning it, their three runs in the eighth settling matters. The fray lasted just one hour.

B. Anderson and M. Hawthorne were probably the pick of the Clockers defensively with M. Downer throwing a neat game. G. Dracup and M. Freeman stood out in the field for the losers. Three hits each were gained for Westclox by I. Bullock, B. Morrow and B. Anderson. L. Jordan of Ashby's hit a homer and single, while E. McFadden had two singles in four tries.

Ashby's: E. McFadden, 3b; E. Simmons, lf; L. Jordan, ss; M. Stewart, p; M. Freeman, 1b; J. Reynolds, c; B. Callan, 2b; D Callan, 2b; G. Dracup, lf; J. Dunk, cf.

Clockers Earn A Victory In Second Fray

Westclox lasses made it two in a row at the Bowl last night when they beat Ashby's 8-4 in the second part of a girls' softball double-header. The winners hammered out 16 hits to nine, and Ashby's booted the ball half a dozen times in a fixture that went an hour and 10 minutes. E. Simmons was hurt in the sixth and had to retire. D. McFadden twirled till the eighth when M. Stewart took over. M. Selkirk went the route on the Westclox mound.

B. Morrow and J. McIntyre for the Clockers, and D. Callan and J. Reynolds for Ashby's, went best in the field. M. Downer had four hits and M. Hawthorne three for the victors, with B. Morrow belting triple and single in four appearances. The game was rather interesting most of the way.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

You see him at every sports event, sitting back watching youth at play. He may be a big quiet man sucking away on a pipe, or he may be a twitchy little guy. Sometimes he is well dressed, but often he appears a bit shabby. But one thing in common, this type of athletic follower has a feeling of pride because his son is out there on the field or on the ice surface doing his best for his team. This fan is the old man, the father of a young athlete. And he is justly proud of the fact that his offspring is following sports, instead of getting into trouble. The son, too, is pleased that his father is looking on. Or he certainly should be pleased.

* * * * * *

Father's Day, coming up tomorrow, isn't a big occasion usually. Not so important at all as Mother's Day. The old man doesn't want any fuss made about him. He just did his duty down the years getting the kid off to a right start. Seeing that the child ate properly, dressed warm and had sufficient sleep. Bought him ball and hockey equipment, or a lacrosse stick, and spent a little time with him practicing in the back yard. Praised the little lad for his minor athletic achievements and encouraged him to continue when competition stiffened as he grew older. Just took an interest in the youth and helped him a bit one way and another. If only as a spectator at his games. Yes, tomorrow is a good day to remember fathers.

A junior OLA tilt at 8.30 tonight in Miller Bowl, the local crew playing Toronto Maitlands. Seniors have a game here next Wednesday. Bunny Morganson of the Tely, following the last game at Mimico, had praise for husky Joe Nolan, calling him "the best thing to hit senior lacrosse since Ham Nelson of St. Catharines." He liked Jim Kinna and Bobby Thorpe, too, and adds: "Red Creighton's Peterborough crew have won four of their five games, losing a toughie in Hamilton. They play sound team lacrosse and in Ralph Speck have a very effective goalie. He actually controls the ball when clearing, not tossing it high over his shoulder like most of them."

Taming Those Lions

The senior "A" lacrosse Petes romped through the Lions of Weston for a 26-7 victory here last e'en. Nothing to it at all once the Creighton crowd got rolling. Couldn't do anything wrong, even scoring some goals when shorthanded. The refs were tough and tossed a raft of 'em off for minor offences, but that didn't bother the locals. They're right up around the top now, possibly in a first-place tie—depending on what happened on two other Friday fronts. Dugan, Thorpe, Bob Breakspear, Ashby, Vitarelli and Fitzgerald were the main marksmen, but the whole crew clicked well, with Russ Buchanan taking a well-earned rest this joust. Speck again looked good in goal, and his defence worked hard. A fine show.

A bit of diamond patter of the baseballic variety. Oshawa Merchants play the Petes a senior fixture here at three this aft, if the weather is right. They dropped a toughie to the Merchants in Oshawa last p.m., a 3-0 abbreviated game and that pulls Oshawa up almost into a tie with the men o' Murphy. Our intermediates were losing a 6-5 Lakeshore Loop fray at the same time to Doug Loucks in Lindsay. Bowmanville comes here next Wednesday, there being no senior scrap again till next Saturday. Whitby beat Bowmanville 5-4 in another intermediate affair on the former's grounds. Our East City midgets have a tussle today in Port Hope. Oshawa Takes 3-0 Tilt Over The Petes

OSHAWA June 17—Oshawa Merchants and Peterborough, 1949 COBL finalists, hooked up here last night in their first meeting of the season as entries in the Viaduct Major Baseball League with the motor city squad winning an abbreviated contest 3-0.

The game had to be called at the end of five and a half innings, when a thunderstorm halted proceedings and sent the biggest crowd of the season scurrying for cover.

Doug Plunkett, liftlock city's no-hit ace, tangled with George Davidson, Oshawa's newest import from across the border and the husky college boy made his debut an auspicious one.

Displaying a fine turn of speed and a sharp breaking curve, he set the Petes down with only two singles, by Bill Dadson and Danny Brown. He issued two walks but he fanned 11 batters in the half dozen frames he worked and was never in serious trouble, Peterborough getting only two runners as far as second base and in each case there were two men out at the time.

Doug Plunkett, on the other hand, found the Oshawa squad in a hitting mood and a rousing two-base hit to left, that landed right on the line, got Oshawa off to a flying start, Ted Barnes, who had the double, scored on a sharp single by Bill Harper.

Plunkett's control was shaky and his free tickets had Oshawa runners on base in every inning but it wasn't until the fifth that the homesters clinched the verdict with their two other runs.

Hits A Double

Aaron Bitman opened this frame with a two-bagger, Davidson grounded out and Barnes fanned but Plunkett walked Napolitano and once again Bill Harper came through with a timely single, to score Bitman and put Napolitano on third. From there he scored easily when George Ticcony singled to right, for the sixth hit off Plunkett.

Marines had two men on bases, due to walks, in their half of the sixth but Dadson went down swinging — and the game was called at this point.

Only one putout was made in the outfield and the defensive features of the game were supplied by the visitors. With runners on first and third and only one out, a hot box play was staged deliberately but the Marines played it well and held both runners. It was tried again with more daring on the part of Oshawa runners, on the next pitch and Plunkett's throw to first enabled Stewart and Garvey to combine to nip Harper there and Stewart's perfect throw to the plate caught Barnes trying to steal home.

A sensational backhand stop by Fred Garvey, behind second base and an off-balance throw to Stewart at first, which he reached far to take, was the other feature play of the night—and robbed Andy McMullen of a hit on a ball driven hard through the box.

A pay-off of $1,731 was made Friday on a daily double at Toronto's Thorncliffe Park race track. The double—highest of the meet—paid off on Marezzo, winner of the first at $31.75 for $2 and Royal Bomber, which paid $41.35 for $2, in the second.

A daily double ticket costs $2.

One of five persons holding winning double tickets was Tom Anderson, associated with Fred Orpen in operation of other Ontario tracks. Anderson told how he got the big payoff:

"To me Marezzo looked like the best horse in the first race . . . so I bought 10 daily double tickets on Marezzo and spread them across all the horses in the second—then prayed for a long one. And the long one sure came across."

At New Rochelle, N. Y., Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., retained his lead Friday in the Palm Beach round robin golf tourney with a score of plus 21 after 54 holes. The greying Californian toured the 6,569-yard course in 73-71 for a three-round score of 211.

Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck N. Y., moved into second place with a plus 18 on two fine rounds of 69-69 over the par 72 layout. Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., advanced to the third slot, shooting a 70-65 for a plus 17.

The latter round tied the course record, set last year by Cary Middlecoff.

Guy Lombardo, who likes slow music and fast speedboats, will try out his latest hope for a record breaking craft on Middle River at Baltimore Friday.

The famed Ontario-born orchestra leader gives his remodelled Tempo VI its first competitive test at the Wilson Point regatta in the Glenn L. Martin invitation race. The race is for 15 miles, nine times around a mile and two-thirds course.

The International Amateur Boxing Association Congress on Friday at Copenhagen unanimously decided to add two more weight classes—a light welterweight and light middleweight—making 10 divisions in all.

The rule adding a 140-pound class and a 156½ pound class will go into effect June 15, 1951. The Congress suggested that all national boxing associations use the 10 divisions earlier if possible.

At Wimbledon, England, the United States Friday just about wrapped up the Wightman Cup tennis trophy for another year and needs only to tie one knot today before gaining possession of it for the 14th straight time. The British court queens haven't won since 1930.

The Americans Friday took the first three matches in the best-of-seven women's competition against the British. They have to win one of four matches today and if they don't it will be the biggest upset since David whipped Goliath.

Carl Voss of Minneapolis resigned Friday as president of the United States Hockey League.

Voss said at Milwaukee the league's board of directors accepted the resignation and named a committee to select a successor. He declined to reveal the reasons for his withdrawal. The board Thursday transferred the Minneapolis' franchise in the league to Denver.

Lindsay Takes A 6-5 Win Over The Petes

Lindsay Merchants bunched three runs in the fifth inning of a Lakeshore League twilight game in Lindsay Friday to edge the Peterborough intermediates 6-5.

George (Red) Sullivan started on the mound for the locals. He ran into trouble briefly in the second when Lindsay grouped a single, two walks and a putout for a run. He promptly retired the side on strikes.

Again in the fourth, Lindsay managed to nick Sullivan for two singles and a walk which were good for two runs. Karrys started the ball rolling in the fifth with a triple into deep right-centre field. Two bases on balls followed; then McEachran doubled after Peter Karrys reached base on a fielder's choice. After this spree three runs had crossed to make the score 6-4.

Brian Wade relieved Sullivan with two out. He struck out the last man in the fifth. He faced only three men in the sixth.

Doug in Form

Doug Loucks, formerly of Peterborough, kept his old teammates under control except in the third, when they earned four runs. Mixed with a bit of wildness a double by Jaquith, a single by Fitzgerald and two errors, the Petes pushed in four runs to take the lead 4-1. In the sixth a single by Jake Wade, a stolen base and an error provided the locals with theier fifth run.

Rod McEachran, in right field for Lindsay, led the batters with a single to short, a single to right and a double into centre in three times at bat. Dave Casey had a walk and a single in two trips to the plate for Peterborough.

Rochester Grabs Twin Bill From Orioles

By The Associated Press.

John Carl Wittig, veteran righthander of Rochester Red Wings, will always remember his 36th birthday.

Whittig celebrated that event last night by pitching a 9-1 International League victory over his former teammates, Baltimore Orioles, for the 99th triumph of his baseball career which dates back to 1935.

The triumph also was Wittig's fourth without a loss since his purchase by the Red Wings from Baltimore a few weeks ago, thus matching his 1949 output when he won four and lost one for the Orioles.

Wittig stopped the Orioles on six hits while his mates pounded out 12, including home runs by Larry Ciaffone and Hal Rice.

Rochester also grabbed the nightcap 9-0 behind the four-hit pitching of rookie Gene Faszholz. The victories boosted Rochester's first place advantage over the runner-up Springfield Cubs to 2½ games. The Cubs edged Montreal Royals 1-0.

Gets Eighth Victory

Warren Hacker blanked the slipping Royals on six hits to record his eighth victory against a lone setback. Hacker scored the only run of the game in the fifth inning when he singled and romped across on Carm Mauro's triple.

Jersey City Giants spoiled the managerial debut of Ray Schalk at Buffalo by beating the Bisons 6-1 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was rained out after four innings with the Bisons in front 4-1.

Red Hardy lost both his shutout and no-hit bid in the seventh and final inning of the opener when Hank Biasatti homered and Marty Tabecheck doubled.

A scheduled game between Syracuse and Toronto was rained out.

Preacher Roe Does It Again Trips Sizzling Cards 7-3

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Preacher Roe must be public enemy No. 1 in St. Louis. Every time the Cards get hot, the lanky southpaw from Hardy, Ark., holds up the stop sign.

The Preacher did it again last night, snapping a seven-game St. Louis winning streak, as he pitched Brooklyn to a 7-3 victory. The result cut the Cards' National League lead to 2½ games.

Beating St. Louis is old stuff for Roe, who once toiled in the Card chain gang. Last year he whipped the Red Birds four of five. So far this year he's 3-1 against St. Louis with more than half the season to go.

Roe yielded 10 hits. But he didn't need to be a master. Brooklyn scored four runs, three of them unearned, in the second inning to ruin Red Munger.

Johnny Sain, making the pitching comeback of the year, won his ninth on Sam Jethroe's ninth-inning single with two out. Jethroe's hit, prolonging his hitting streak to 12 games, scored Sibby Sisti for a 6-5 edge over luckless Pittsburgh. There were four homers in the game, Earl Torgeson and Walker Cooper for the Braves, Wally Westlake and Ralph Kiner for the Bucs.

Provide Power

Al Dark and Hank Thompson provided the power for New York's 6-1 victory over Chicago, the Giants' ninth triumph in 12 games.

Thompson homered to tie the score in the fourth and Dark's two-run double put the Giants out front to stay in the fifth.

The only day game in the majors, Cincinnati at Philadelphia was rained out.

Hal Newhouser whipped Boston for the second time in six days, 4-1, before 54,086 Detroit home fans. Striking out Johnny Pesky four times, Newhouser scattered nine hits. Hal's fifth inning double drove in what proved to be the decisive run.

Wild Rhubarb

There was a wild rhubarb in the fifth. It was 0-0 at the time, Detroit batting with Johnny Groth on second and Aaron Robinson on first. Dick Kryhoski forced Robinson and Groth when umpire Bill McKinley ruled Kryhoski safe at first. A mass protest by the Red Sox followed.

Four of the players involved in the eight-man deal Thursday night saw action as New York Yankees downed St. Louis 7-5. Joe Ostrowski and Tom Ferrick pitched for the Yankees and Jim Delsing and George Stirnweiss played for the Browns.

Alex Kellner, hit by a Dale Mitchell line drive, was in hospital when his Philadelphia A's finally lost a 3-2 game to Cleveland. Kellner was hit on the left temple in the fifth. X-rays disclosed no fracture. Shortly after Kellner's injury, Luke Easter hit a two-run homer that won the game.

Ray Scarborough pitched Chicago to its sixth victory in a row, 7-1 over Washington.

Freedom Of Press In U.S. Attacked In New Book

CHICAGO—(CP)— "Prejudice and the Press," a new book, attacks recommendations of the Hutchins-Luce Commission on freedom of the press.

The book is written by Frank Hughes, a staff writer for the Chicago Tribune, and published by Devin-Adair.

It declares the 13-member commission was prejudiced; that it failed to get or report all pertinent facts, and that its philosophy is falsely "liberal" and styled along "totalitarian" lines.

Instead of working for freedom of the press, Hughes contends, the commission recommendations would undermine it and its foundations — the first amendment to the constitution and the philosophy of the Declaration of Independence.

The commission said in 1947 that the American press was biased in favor of wealth and monopoly, that it distorted the news, resorted to sensationalism, and was "not meeting the needs of society."

It said newspapers should be made "accountable" and "responsible" to society and, if it fails to meet society's needs, the press should be regulated.

Threat of Seizure

Saying this means a threat of government seizure and control, Hughes declares.

"Everyone ought to be responsible to his own conscience and accountable under the established laws of the nation. But that is not the kind of responsibility and accountability the commissioners are talking about.

"Their version is responsibility to the community and accountability to society, which in practice will be government, thereby creating a tyranny in the name of freedom. So it is that the professors would shackle the press to make it free."

Drafted by Professors

Th commission report, "a free and responsible press," was drafted by a group of university professors and former professors chosen and headed by Robert M. Hutchins, Chancellor of the University of Chicago. In the term "press" the commission included radio, motion pictures, magazines and books as well as newspapers.

The inquiry was suggested in 1942 by Henry R. Luce of Time, incorporated and financed by grants of $200,000 from Time, and $15,000 from Encyclopaedia Brittanica, Incorporated, of which Hutchins is a director.

Hughes' book is the result of three years' study and research on assignment from the Tribune and its publisher, Col. Robert R. McCormick.

In addition to criticizing the commission and its findings and philosophy, Hughes presents what he calls "a complete and valid restatement of American political philosophy" and a report on the press and its freedom. His version differs sharply from that of the commission.

Politically Biased

Hughes says the commission was politically biased and "deliberately loaded from the left." As a result, he says, its report is comparable to "an indictment of the oleomargaine industry by a convention of dairy farmers, or of mousetraps by a congress of mice."

Dr. Hutchins, upon his arrival in New York recently from abroad, said he had had no chance to read Hughes' book, but after hearing a brief resume he said "it sounds as if Mr. Hughes has become a humorist."

"I don't see how it is possible to take the book seriously," he concluded, indicating he might have more detailed comment when he has read it.

No Foundation

Hughes explores commission charges of monopoly, misconduct and inadequacy against newspapers and finds them not founded on fact. He calls "nostalgic nonsense" the commission statement that newspapers of 1787-1791 met the needs of society, during the time when the constitution and the first amendment were adopted.

He declares modern newspapers are filling the needs of society, as public forums for newsworthy facts and opinions, as public servants, as forces against tyranny, and as mediums which foster industry and commerce.

In fact, he says, the modern newspaper must fill the needs of the community as a matter of economic necessity. Failure to do so means loss of readers and economic failure.

5 Generations ChurchElders

MONTREAL —(CP)— John M. Loucks of Aultsville, Ont., is really a Presbyterian's Presbyterian.

As commissioner representing Glengarry to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Mr. Ault represented the fifth generation of elders in his family. In fact, he's the only one left who had a father at the first Presbyterian Assembly in Canada back in 1875.

Mr. Loucks, 76, has been an elder for 29 years. He was baptized in the Osnabruck, Ont., Presbyterian Church in 1875, when he was a year and fife months old. This was shortly after his father returned from the first church assembly in Montreal in 1875.

A farmer all his life, Mr. Loucks lives on the farm where he was born. The homestead was first settled by his grandfather who came to Canada as a United Empire Loyalist in 1784. Of the original 400 acres, 25 remain in the family name.

Mr. Loucks represents the end of the family line in the Presbyterian church. Although he married, he has no children.

Malachi, Jewish Prophet 400 Years Before Christ

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

The Book of Malachi stands as the last book in the Old Testament, and Malachi was the last of the prophets, or the last of those to be included in the canon, or authoritative group, of the Hebrew prophecies.

There seems little doubt that the prophecy of Malachi dates from somewhat more than 400 years before Christ. It is a mistake, however, to assume that, because no great prophet arose during that period between the Old and New Testaments, the time lacked religious significance or greatness of faith.

It was the period of the great dispersion, when Jews were scattered through various parts of that ancient world. It was the period when the synagogues were established as places of religion and education. It was the time when Jews worshipped with their faces toward Jerusalem, and many Gentiles were won as proselytes to Judaism because of its moral emphasis, and its faith in a living God.

It was a period, too, when many Jews took their religious faith and its practice so seriously that they were willing to suffer and die for it at the hands of Grecian conquerors who corrupted the Jewish religion.

It was with an earlier, and in a sense more reprehensible, corruption that Malachi dealt in his prophecy, for this corruption came not from foreign invaders, but from leaders of the Jews themselves.

In the annals of religion there is nothing sadder and more tragic than the betrayal by ministers and priests of the God whom they have professed to serve.

Malachi cries out against priests, who actually despised and profaned the name of God (Malachi 1:6, 12). Highlights of his prophecy reveal his own noble conception of God's purposes ("From the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same My name shall be great among the Gentiles"). He commends the faithful in Israel, despite the corruption that he rebukes ("Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another; and the Lord hearkened and heard it and a book of remembrance was written for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon His name." Malachi 3:16).

Perhaps in every age there have been these conflicts and contrasts, between those who have made religion a cloak for their own evil, and the pure in heart who have seen God. The rebuke of the prophets was needed, but their message reached its heights in their appeal and inspiration toward integrity of faith and life, and devotion to the God of righteousness and truth.

Request Council Reconsider Grant To Blind

The Peterborough branch of the Canadian Institute for the Blind has asked the County Council to reconsider the 1950 grant of $350—$150 less than 1949.

Edward G. Brown, former field secretary of the local branch and now with the Toronto office, explained that at the end of April there were 27 blind people registered from the county and another 61 from the city.

To give these 88 people proper services the branch had to carry a deficit of about $500 each year in Peterborough. This deficit, he explained, had to be made up from surpluses in other areas.

He felt that Peterborough residents would like to pay their own way.

As a means of boosting finances the CNIB has asked for permission to hold a tag day and has received an OK from Lakefield, Norwood, Havelock, Keene and it is hoped Apsley.

In 1949 the grant to the CNIB from the County Council was $500: but as "an austerity budget" was drawn up this year, Council cut the grant to $350.

The matter will be left over to the December session to see if there is a surplus at the end of the year. If there is, the grant will be reconsidered.

Successor to Mr. Brown as local field secretary is Robert L. Storey. He will hold that post for the summer months at least.

Police Continue To Probe Shooting Story

The mysterious shooting of George (Bud) Collins, local prospector, who lives on Highway 28, just north of the city limits, continues today to be as much a mystery as ever.

Collins is still in Civic Hospital with a .22 calibre bullet wound in his left forearm. Provincial Police said tersely this morning nothing new in the case had developed.

Collins was picked up Thursday night on the Lasswade-Havelock road by W. S. Edwards of Cobourg. He was bleeding badly from the wound. Edwards reported Collins as telling a story of being shot at in the bush near there about 25 times by someone he was unable to see.

Edwards took Collins to the Red Cross Hospital in Apsley and he was later brought by taxi to Civic Hospital here.

Last fall Collins discovered a small deposit of gold in the Apsley area.

ELECT DISTRICT DELEGATES

Local 524, United Electrical Workers, will hold a membership meeting Thursday, 7:30 p.m. to elect delegates to the District Council meeting in Kingston, July 9. There will also be an election for recording secretary. In addition to the regular business there will be a discussion on "seniority protection."

POLISHING CAR

Automatic car washers have nothing on an Aberdeen Ave. resident who has solved the car polishing problem. Friday evening, after carefully washing his light pick-up truck and then smearing it with car polish, the truck owner borrowed a small floor polisher from a neighbour and went over his truck in a few minutes and had it sparkling shiny.

ATTEND MEETING

H. A. Baptie, Western Clock Co., and L. H. Ingram, Quaker Oats Co. of Canada, Peterborough, attended the board of directors meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association held in Toronto, Friday. The directors confirmed the appointment of R. G. D. Anderson, formerly of London, as General Manager of the Associations. Mr. Anderson follows R. B. Morley who has given almost 30 years of service to the Association.

MICMAC CAPTAIN

The Micmac, one of Canada's largest and newest ships, has returned from a service cruise in South American waters. Its commander is Captain Frederick Frewer, RCN, who is a grandson of F. M. DelaFosse, retired Peterborough librarian. Captain Frewer was given the ship after its refurbishing following the disastrous running-aground last year off the coast of Nova Scotia under another captain. Captain Frewer is the youngest captain in the Royal Canadian Navy in command of a ship at sea. He is a former student of The Grove School, Lakefield.

SUSTAINS MINOR HURTS

When he turned off the road to avoid ramming a tractor, a Peterborough driver and his passenger sustained minor injuries Friday afternoon. Both of them were employees of Outram and Co., tobacconists and confectioners. They were on the Hastings-Keene road when Neal Hamm, Fagan Ave., the driver, decided to ditch the truck rather than run into the tractor. With him was Hubert Panter, also of Peterborough. Hamm has a block eye and a cut lip, and Panter was given medical care for minor injuries.

Electric Power Demand Heavier In May

Utilities Commission sold more electric power in May than they did a year ago.

Domestic lighting was up 10.65 per cent; commercial lighting up 17.47 per cent; and industrial power 4.02 per cent.

Sale of gas increased from 4,319,400 cu. ft. to 4,362,300 cu. ft. Domestic consumption of gas dropped from 2,457,400 to 2,197,900 cu. ft.; but commercial demand was up from 612,100 cu. ft. to 734,00 cu. ft.; and industrial use increased from 1,249,900 to 1,430,300 cu. ft.

Total sale of gas to the end of May advanced from 19,141,000 to 22,468,700 cu. ft.

The electric power peak for May was 24,120 h.p. as compared with 23,100 h.p. last year. Sale of power, as reported to the Utilities Commission by R. L. Dobbin, increased 1,071,200 kilowatt hours.

Peak load was up 4 per cent and consumption here 15 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

The department completed in May a new primary circuit from Aylmer St. substation to the new Civic Hospital. The transformers at the hospital were placed in position and are in use. An electric circuit and transformers were supplied to the new St. Alphonsus School at the west end of St. Mary's St.

A new primary circuit was built on Stewart St., from Townsend to Wolfe St. to relieve other circuits.

Thirty-seven three-wire and 13 new two-wire sevices were installed in May; 41 services were changed from two to three-wires; 91 new privately owned water heaters were connected; and 15 new street lights erected.

Less Water Pumped

Waterworks department reported May pumpage of 140,425,000 gallons, a decrease of 1,728,000 gals. from May last year.

Maximum daily rate of pumpage was up from 8,300,000 gals. a day on the 17th last year to 10,300,000 gals. a day on the 26th last month.

Two hydants were placed at Civic Hospital and 347 ft. of 6-in. and 226 ft. of 4-in. main were laid to nurses residence and hospital buildings.

Work was begun on mains at Highland Heights (Ashburnham) for Central Mortgage and Housing; six-inch mains were laid on Ludgate and McFarlane Sts. to Caddy; and on Welsh from Ludgate to Watts, a total of 800 ft. One hydrant was set.

Fencing and grading of the northwest of the Aylmer St. yard was completed.

ARRANGE WARDEN'S BANQUET

A committee of three has been appointed by the County Council to arrange for the annual warden's banquet. It was suggested it be held at a local summer resort sometime this summer. Committee members are Richard Stewart, reeve of Otonabee; Gale Elliott, reeve of Harvey; and Melville Johnston, reeve of North Monaghan.

Fire Protection Organized In Smith Twp.

Two voluntary fire departments are due to be ready for action about the end of this month in Smith township to protect almost 1,000 farms and suburban homes.

The Smith Suburban Fire Department will serve an area extending roughly between the Chemong Road and the Lakefield highway south of the Peterborough Waterworks to the boundary of the city.

The Bridgenorth Fire Department will cover an area north of the Fifth Line of the township north to Braden's Point on Lake Chemong north of Selwyn. This area takes in almost the whole south shore of Chemong Lake including Bridgenorth and Chemong Park.

Individual farmers and cottage owners outside this area can sign an agreement with the council for fire protection for an added $6 on their tax bills.

The two fire pumpers have been promised for about the end of June. Extra equipment on the one for the south will raise its cost to $11,857, just $450 more than the cost of the Bridgenorth fire truck.

The Bridgenorth fire chief will be Al Crowe and Noble Hicks of McClennan St. will wear the chief's badge in the Smith Suburban Fire Department. They are each paid $200 a year.

Both fire chiefs, appointed by the township council, are required to recruit 20 volunteer firemen who will be paid 75 cents an hour for practice sessions and $1 an hour when actually fighting fires. Most of the future fire eaters have been signed up and will be training with the Lakefield fire department and the Peterborough fire department.

The pumpers will use the lake and river and other water sources such as wells and hydrants when they are available, but both trucks have a 500-gallon tank mounted which will supply the hoses.

Charge For Hydrants

Thursday, representatives of the Smith township council signed an agreement with the Peterborough Utilities Commission which will give them the use of 11 fire hydrants in the north end of Peterborough for a total cost of $200 a year.

A garage to house the Smith Suburban Fire Department has been started on the Chemong road at the corner of Bellevue St. Out in Bridgenorth, about $1,100 was raised in a series of dances, parties and draws to provide the money to build a concrete block garage which can house two fire trucks. Much of the work of building, now nearly complete, was done by men who contributed their time, skill and labor.

On other ways the fire departments are rounding into shape. It is expected an expert from the Ontario Fire Marshal's office will come to advise the chiefs on how to set up their organization.

In Bridgenorth they already have a siren which can be heard two miles. The township is trying to arrange with the Bell Telephone Co. for a phone at each garage and a phone alarm system. No definite arrangement on that has been reached yet.

"We don't expect miracles," township clerk A. T. Edminson said. But the township hopes to do a competent job of protecting homes and cottages.

In the outlying districts such as Fife's Bay, Fiddler's Green and the Selwyn area, the fire department has little hope of saving a cottage which has started because it would burn to the ground in about 20 minutes. But the township expects that nearer cottages will be saved. Grass fires are another hazard which the fire departments expect to cope with competently.

The township hopes to run the fire department at a yearly bill which will add about six mills to the tax rate in the fire areas. Some of the cost will be taken on by the Department of Municipal Affairs. When the trucks are delivered they will pay 10 per cent of the initial cost. Next year the provincial department will pay 25 per cent of the capital cost, which is the fire trucks, and 25 per cent of the maintenance costs, including wages, and other running expenses.

About 360 families, many of them cottagers will be covered in the northern Bridgenorth section and approximately 300 in the southern area which will include many houses north of the city and the farms adjoining.

The township expects to sign an additional 100 to 150 individual subscribers in each section.

Queen's Park Meeting Off Lock Union Claims Undertaking Never Given

Plans for a meeting between the Peterborough Lock Co. and Local 527, United Electrical Workers at Queen's Park on Monday have fallen through it was announced here today. The meeting with a conciliation officer had been decided upon by employees and company at a mass meeting in the Legion Hall on Wednesday night. After a four hour session between the 170 striking production workers and the company it was announced that agreement had been reached on one point-time study matters.

Still to be discussed were the union demands for a 42½ hour week and the same take-home pay, seniority, retroactive pay and a hospital plan.

Robert Maybee, company managing director, told the Examiner that Wednesday night the negotiating committee put forward a proposal agreeable to the company.

"The company would open its books to the conciliation officer and if he reported inability to pay then the negotiating committee would recommend to the membership that all cost items be withdrawn."

"There was no such understanding", C. R. Sullivan, U.E. representative later told The Examiner. However, it was learned that Mr. Sullivan had not been present at the meeting. A check with several of those who attended revealed they understood such an understanding had been given.

Now the company finds that the union is unwilling to fulfill the verbal agreement reached and the officials maintain there is no point in having the meeting.

On the other hand the union denies that this was the understanding.

In a telegram to Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer, the company says: "The company agreed to meeting Monday on the basis of the mediator examining company financial statements to determine our inability to pay. If the mediator was satisfied, the members of the committee will try to sell the membership on such facts. We are now advised by the union that no such understanding has been reached by the parties. Under the circumstances we feel there is no useful purpose in meeting."

Following is the letter sent Friday to R. J. Leonard, president of the Union by Mr. Maybee.

"In view of our conversation yesterday afternoon at which time you stated that the Union Committee were not prepared to fulfill their agreement reached at negotiations on Wednesday evening, the Company have seen fit to send the enclosed telegram to Mr. Louis Fine, Chief Conciliation Officer, Department of Labour, Toronto.

"Our records clearly indicate that your Committee had agreed during our last meeting to accept the word of a government mediator as to the Company's inability to pay and that based on his conviction after examining our financial statements you in turn would recommend to the Membership to withdraw all cost items from their demands.

"As you now state this is not the case and that you could not commit yourself or your committee to any such agreement, and in view of Mr. Sullivan's public contradiction to any such agreement, the above telegram was sent this afternoon."

"Had it been a matter of just checking the books this could have been done many months ago without the services of the Department of Labor," said Mr. Leonard.

"The union has notified Mr. Fine they are still prepared to meet but no such agreement was reached as claimed by the company," the union president told The Examiner.

Car Kills Deer

"It's no joke this matter of motor traffic killing deer on highways," says Reeve Glen Nichols of Chandos. From the game overseer at Apsley he learned that during the past three months seven deer and one elk had been killed on the Mount Julian-Apsley stretch, according to the knowledge of the overseer. All the cars involved were damaged too he added.

Crop Prospects In County Said Splendid

All's green on the farm front—green and growing. Crop prospects in the Peterborough country are splendid.

Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, says the acreage of fall wheat is the biggest he has ever seen in this district, and that area extends beyond the boundaries of Peterborough county. The grain wintered well, the growing season has been favorable and the promise of yield is greatly heartening.

Rainfall has been as timely since the season turned from May into June as if the president of the Federation of Agriculture had turned on the tap and moderated the volume of flow.

Henry Sharpe of Smith township hasn't seen enough years yet to store up a long memory, but from his observations he commented the other day that he had never seen the country looking better.

The spring crops have been making good growth, pasture is lush and hay that has been well managed is promising abundant yield.

Apparently this section of the province has fared better than the west. More than half an inch of rain fell Tuesday evening ending a long dry spell from Middlesex to Sarnia. Reports estimated that "as much rain fell in eight hours Tuesday as during all of May." It saved the crops "that were just at the balance," and averted probably a serious shortage of hay.

Most of the Peterborough area had escaped that lack of moisture during these last critical two weeks, and all around the district the prospect is promising and pleasing.

Don Tinney of Cavan was showing a sample of rye at five feet five inches nearly a week ago, and it has been growing since then.

Farmers in both Peterborough and Durham sowed more than ever before of Cornell 595 fall wheat. Col. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, is looking for a bigger than normal wheat crop. F. C. Paterson ventured an opinion that it might reach 32,000,000 bushels if the present favorable conditions continue into harvest time.

Two Cars Collide Out-of-Town Drivers

Two out-of-town cars collided at Water and McDonnel streets Friday evening, doing considerable damage to both cars. No one was injured.

Miss Dorothy Hinton, Toronto driving south on Water St. met in collision with a car, operated by Reid W. Crowe, Young's Point travelling west on McDonnel St.

Crowe said he stopped at the stop sign. Miss Hinton, passengers in the car and other witnesses said he did not stop.

Don't Forget Ventilation In Your Insulating Plans

When your house is tightly built, weatherproofed and insulated — be sure to follow through with adequate ventilation. Insulation is not truly complete without proper ventilation.

Some type of controlled ventilation is necessary to carry off stale air and excess moisture. Ventilation in the kitchen is required to get rid of grease and cooking fumes and odours. Fresh air must be brought in and old air carried out.

Opening doors and windows and using electric ventilating fans to force out the warm moist air are the usual methods of ventilating homes. Windows should be located in such positions as to provide cross ventilation especially in the kitchen and bedrooms. Windows should be installed that open at least half their total area.

You may have heard it said that an insulated ceiling or roof takes longer to cool off in the evening after a hot summer day. This is readily understood as as insulation slows down to a snial's pace, but does not totally stop heat transmission. In hot weather, it takes several hours for the sun's heat to get through fill, board, or blanket insulation—with a correspondingly slow discharge of absorbed heat when the sun goes down and the outside air becomes cool. The logical answer is of course adequate attic ventilation, preferably boosted with an attic fan.

Use Attic Fan

Attic fans are an invaluable aid to insulation in cooling the house. They will carry off summer heat rapidly to the outside, at the same time pulling cooler evening air in from the lower levels.

Attic vents should be planned with about 4 square feet of clear opening for each 1,000 square feet of attic floor space, located as near the top of opposite gables as possible.

Where vents serve chiefly to get rid of summer heat, build them so that they can be closed in winter. Some ventilation, however, is needed under an insulated roof at all times. It keeps dew from forming on the underside of the roof. Vents are also needed in all foundation and curtain walls.

Look to Your Wiring

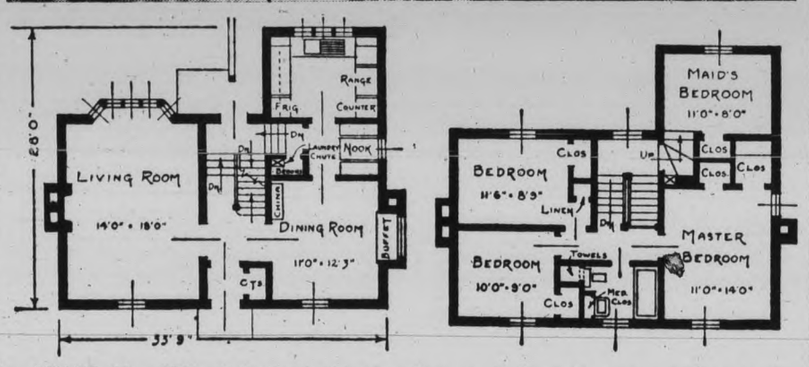
Switches should not be located behind doors or other inaccessible places. Height of tables, sin[illegible] or build-in cupboards is usu[illegible]y the determining factor in locating switches, outlets and lights.

Careful thought should be given to location of duplex convenience outlets, in order that furniture may be rearranged. This is particularly important in the living and bedrooms. Location of special outlets for everyday appliances should be carefully anticipated.

Weatherproof outlets with protecting caps should be used for lamps, Christmas trees, etc., located outside on the porch or terrace.

Pull-chain sockets should be used only for small areas such as closets or work benches where supplementary lighting is required, yet where a wall switch is not necessary.

Using very little electricty, night lights are a great contribution to safety and convenience . . particularly where there are small children or sick members in the household.



Use Multiple Control

Multiple control switches are very desirable in many hallways and rooms in order that lights can be controlled from more than the single switch. As an example, the garage light should be able to be turned off from both the garage and the house. For the living room it is desirable that the light should be controlled in the hallway. A switch should be provided for the basement light at both the head and the foot of the basement stairs.

As an economy measure, pilot light switches can save considerable electricty. One should be located at the head of the basement stairs to remind you when the basement light is left burning. The switch in the house for the garage light should also have a pilot light.

Convenience outlets should be located in each room on the basis of their possible use with lamps, clocks, radios and other appliances, and the various arrangements of furniture that may be desired. Generally this will require at least one convenience outlet for each 10-12 feet of wall unbroken by a doorway and at least one in each broken wall space 3 feet or more in length.

HOUSE No. 171—Few city building sites compare with this one, which at the rear goes down to the Red River. Notice the bay and large kitchen window over the sink to take advantage of the rear view. Beside the plans shown there is a full basement and panelled game room with fireplace, washroom with shower, laundry and a large storage room. The exterior is chocolate brown siding with white trim topped by a green roof. Here are seven well planned rooms. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay Street, Toronto.

Strawberry Festival Season Coming Up

Just around the corner is the strawberry festival of gustatory anticipation. The Coming Events column of The Examiner conveys an invitation from the Women's Aid of Selwyn United Church for Friday, June 30. There's a date to paste in your hat. But, there's something wrong there. This is the season when a lot of folks don't wear hats, to the despair of a once-flourishing and worthy industry that saved masculine face with decorative framing. In their more rubust days Senator Duffus and G. A. Gillespie used to line up a circuit for the fruitage days of June, and you might find them anywhere from Villiers to Fairview. Possibly they are still to be found at some of these al fresco affairs on church lawns. If not, no one knows more regretfully than they do what they are missing. With some regret for more expansive and liberal days that are gone it is noted that the tariff has been upped to 60c (35c for youngsters). Probably the berries are sweeter and juicier than they used to be at 25c at the gate, and feel slighted if they were not raised to the higher price brackets into which nearly everything else has ascended.

Reds, Catholics Fight Bitterly To Influence Italian Children

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

VATICAN CITY, June 17 — (Reuters)—Roman Catholics and Communists in Italy are locked in a bitter struggle to influence the country's children.

It started two years ago when the Communists formed a rival organization to the Catholic Boy Scouts, known as the "Italian Pioneer Association."

Its organizers claimed this association to be a democratic group educating children to "oppose exploitation, injustice and the war and to cultivate love for the workers, for the mother country, for social justice and for peace."

Denounce Movement

But the Roman Catholic Bishops of northern Italy and Catholic youth leaders have denounced it as a movement designed to corrupt Italian children and teach them blasphemy, swearing and hatred of God and religion.

These accusations have aroused a polemic in Italy over the education of children which has filled the columns of both Catholic and Communist papers for the last month.

The Catholics outcry was touched off by the bishops of Emilia, the prominently Red area of northern Italy.

Claim Corruption

In a signed declaration, they accused the Communists of atby uprooting from their minds all faith in God, leading them to despise Christianity and above all cultivating in them, even through in veiled form, the fatal instinct of sensuality."

The Catholic newspaper Quotidiano said that in some area, children between seven and 14 who wanted to join the "Pioneers" were made to undergo a swearing examination, in which a five-minute string of oaths was considered an adequate accomplishment for membership.

Threatens Excommunication

Brando Cardinal Schuster, Archbishop of Milan, accused the Communist-sponsored Union of Italian Women of aiding the work of corruption and threatened to excommunicate parents who entrusted them with their children.

The Union of Italian Women immediately filed an action for libel.

The Catholic hold on education in Italy is strong. Many of the schools are run by nuns or priests. Catholic Youth organizations such as the Catholic Boy Scouts number as many as 45,000 members.

They Aim To Please

BOREHAM WOOD, Essex, Englan —(CP)— When a member of the Garden Crafts Society complained to local authorities that his garden had been damaged by excavations, they sent him 15 truck loads of top soil.

Tells Real Causes Of Labor Disputes

VANCOUVER, June 17 — (CP) —Higher wages and shorter hours are not the real grounds for labor disputes, Dr. J. C. Hewson, believes.

He told the Engineering Institute of Canada here that the basic needs of workers are intangible.

"They get mad first, and then find something to strike about."

Dr. Hewson, an industrial pathologist with a firm of management engineers, lists six basic needs for a man to be happy in his job that never come up for labor bargaining. These are affection, a sense of belonging and recognition, independence, social approval, self respect and variety with occasional excitement.

"The plan should include the eventual goal that the man should try for and will probably reach, the route he will take in getting there, and the training he will have to take, and a time-table outlining approximately how long it will take him to go from position to position."

Atom Chief Reports Progress Slow

OXFORD, England, June (CP)— —The commercial development of nuclear energy from uranium is more difficult than had been supposed "in the first flush of postwar enthusiasm," Sir John Cockroft, director of Britain's atomic energy program, said recently in an address.

It would be impossible, he said, to predict its future for at least 10 years, during which time power plants would have to be built and operated experimentally.

Theoretically, the prospects for nuclear energy appeared good, [illegible] the complete destruction of one ton of uranium by fission released as much energy as the burning of 3,000,000 tons of coal.

However, as an initial step, it would be necessary to develop nuclear power units for specialized purposes, where the cost of power was not important and the amount of uranium used was comparatively small.

Ore Reserves Needed

The long-term objective for Britain would be to build nuclear power stations which would produce power at a cost approximating that of a coal-fired station. For this it would be essential to have uranium ore reserves which would last several centuries.

Sir John said uranium was not a scarce element, being about 20 times as abundant as silver and present in many minerals. The first major objective would be to find economical methods of extracting low-grade uranium from its ore.

It was also necessary to develop units which would utilize a higher proportion of the uranium than had been customary in wartime piles. He said present atomic piles in Britain were built to produce plutonium and the heat developed was at too low a temperature for use in power development.

Sir John said it was important for the world to achieve a secure basis for control of atomic energy. At the same time, he regarded as "greatly exaggerated" statements suggesting that reactions between the light elements was capable of destroying all life on this planet by "a single event."

Victoria Park Beds Planted

Victoria Park has successfully survived its spring housecleaning and already is assuming a colorful attire for the summer. The grass lawns have been trimmed and cut to perfection and the extensive foliage on the numerous trees promises to be a cool haven on hot summer days.

The flower beds are planted, with red geraniums taking the most prominent place.

The benches placed at various points in the park are in constant use by those who can spare a few minutes to enjoy the beautiful surroundings.

No Settling Down For McLaglen Costs Too Much

By HOWARD C. HEYN

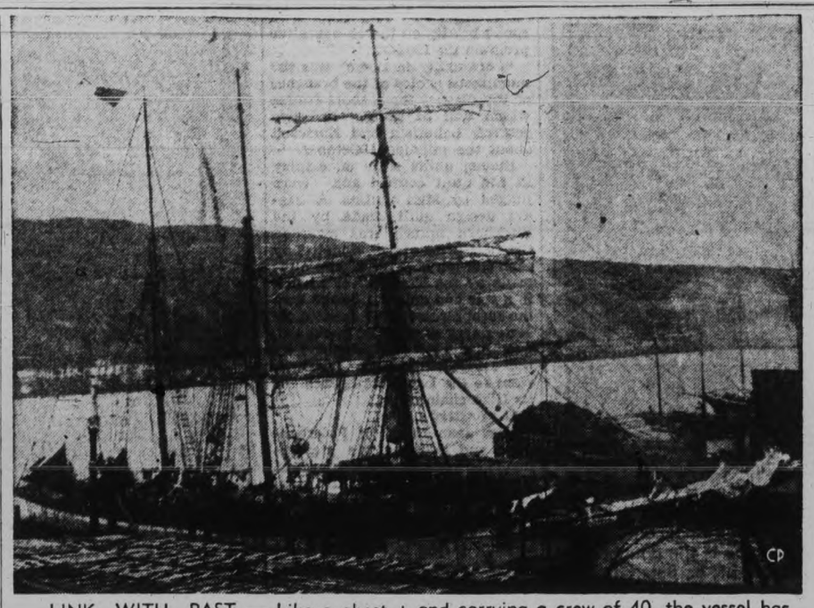
HOLLYWOOD, June 17 (AP) Settle down? Not Victor McLaglen. He says every time he settles down he losses money.

Just back from Europe, he's already planning a picture for his old friend, John Ford.

McLaglen probably has seen more of the world under exciting circumstances than any other actor. All he needs to keep a luncheon table spellbound is to tell where he's been. People around him forget to eat.

He boxed as a heavyweight around Canada's north country, did a strong-man act in Winnipeg, mined diamonds in South Africa, served with the British army in India and Arab countries. He has been a police chief in Baghdad, and speaks several Arabic dialects fluently.

Raised Family



He did settle down in Hollywood long enough to raise a family and make a lot of pictures. It was Ford who directed the best of them, "The Informer." Now they're working together again, in "Rio Bravo."

"I want to make one picture a year, maybe two," says McLaglen, "and travel between roles. Besides, when I buy a house or ranch I usually lose my shirt. Actors, most of them, are notoriously bad business men."

Vic once bought a beautiful estate, covered with towering deodars and sycamores, in the foothills above Flintridge. He spent $250,000 developing it—and sold it for $55,000.

Lost More Money

Then he bought a thousand-acre ranch in central California. "I stocked it with blooded horses, and lost money," he related. "So I planted fruit trees—and lost money. I ripped out the fruit trees and bought dairy cattle. Milk prices dropped. I lost money. In 10 years I spent almost $500,000. So I decided to sell."

LINK WITH PAST — Like a ghost out of the past, the Portuguese barquentine Gazela Primiero has been attracting considerable attention during a visit to St. John's Nfld. Skippered by Jose Leite, 25, and carrying a crew of 40, the vessel has been fishing on the Grand Banks. Its sqare rigging and figurehead were reminiscent of ships of 100 years ago. It was rebuilt in 1895 and 12 years ago was equipped with an engine.

Deny Smuts Plans Retiring

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 17—(Reuters)—There is no question of Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts retiring from politics, his son said here Friday.

Smuts, leader of the United party, is seriously ill at his farm near Pretoria.

The United party parliamentary group issued a statement Wednesday saying that Smuts had retired from the party's parliamentary leadership because of his illness and that J. G. N. Strauss had been appointed opposition leader in his place.

Smuts' son, J. C. Smuts, said "There is no question of my father retiring because he feels he will not be strong enough after his illness to continue his active political career."

"Mr. O. A. Oosthuizen, secretary of the United party, must have misheard or misunderstood my father's remarks on this part of the question."

Plea To Doctors

TORONTO, June 17 — (CP) — A plea for doctors to put service to humanity before selfish interests was made to the graduating class in medicine at the University of Toronto Friday by Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the university. TORONTO, June 17 — (CP) — Three-year-old Susan Lindsay was critically injured Friday night when struck by a truck on a narrow east-end street. In hospital the child was said to be suffering a fractured right hip, a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

2 Burned Towns Get Five Million

OTTAWA, June 17—(CP)—The federal and Quebec governments announced Friday that they plan to contribute $5,600,000 to assist victims of themulti-million-dollar fires that recently swept through the Quebec towns of Rimouski and Cabano, leaving more than 3,000 persons homeless.

The government contributions were announced in the Commons by Prime Minister St. Laurent and in Quebec by Premier Duplessis.

The Quebec government will contribute $2,500,000 to Rimouski where destruction of 357 dwellings made 2,052 persons homeless. The provincial government will contribute $300,000 to Cabano where 159 homes were destroyed and 1,000 left homeless. Similar contributions would be made by the federal government.

A preliminary estimate by a federal-provincial commission set damages in Rimouski at $10,773,400. In Cabano the damage was estimated at $1,250,000.

BUFFALO, NY, June 17. (AP) — Charles J. Holland Moritz, former vice-president of the Aluminum Company of America, left a gross estate of $2,519,226.64, said a state tax appraisal filed on Friday.

Moritz died in Boston, Mass., June 27, 1948. He retired in 1931 after serving as superintendent of Alcoa's Niagara Falls, NY, plants.

One of the chief beneficiaries is his widow, Mrs. Leonore Bampfield Holland Moritz of Miami Beach, Fla., formerly of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Inspector Page said Toronto is "the only city of comparable size on the North American continent that permits cars to travel up to 30 miles an hour in congested or hazardous areas." He would like to cut the limit to 25 or even 20 in several sections of the city.

WINNIPEG, June 17. (CP) — The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund Friday night was on the verge of passing the half-way mark of its $10,000,000 objective. With a day's take of $121.187, the fund moved to $4,900,555.

Charges On Monopoly Contained In Letter

MONTREAL, June 17. (CP)— R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, said Friday night that all his comments on charges of a newsprint monopoly in Canada were contained in a letter he sent on Tuesday to Emanual Cellar (Dem.-NY).

Mr. Fowler was commenting on a report from Washington which quoted Mr. Cellar, chairman of a congressional sub-committee investigating the newsprint industry, as saying foreign nations, particularly Canada, were keeping newsprint prices high by holding supplies to a minimum.

At a press conference, Mr. Cellar said he recently asked a representative of the NAC to appear before the sub-committee.

Friday night, Mr. Fowler said his letter was self-explanatory. In it, he told Mr. Cellar that there "would be no useful purpose to be served" in testifying before the sub-committee of the US House of Representatives.

Edward Johnson Goes To Italy

NEW YORK, June 17. (CP) — Edward Johnson, who retired June 1 as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association, sailed Friday for Italy.

Accompanying the impresario was his daughter, Mrs. George A. Drew, wife of the Opposition Leader in the Canadian House of Commons.

Johnson, who comes originally from Guelph, said the start of his vacation marks "the end of an epoch after 15 very happy years."

He became general manager of the Met in 1935 after previously having sung with the company as a tenor.

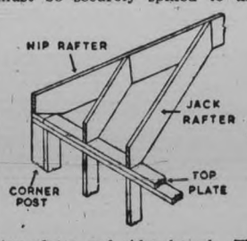
Johnson said he expects to spend several months in Florence, Italy, where his wife is buried. He and his daughter sailed aboard the liner Saturnia.

Steelworkers Accept Offer

TORONTO, June 17. (CP) — Tentative settlement was reached Friday in a contract dispute between Algoma Steel Corporation of Sault Ste. Marie, and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO). Some 5,500 workers are involved.

Conciliation hearings, presided over by Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliator, ended with an announcement by Mr. Fine, who said:

"All matters in issue between the parties have been agreed to, subject to ratification by members of the union and the board of directors of the company. A membership meeting of the union will be held next week at Sault Ste. Marie."



The Union sought a wage increase and pension plan.

Its wage proposal was for a pay boost similar to that it won recently at the Steel Company of Canada in Hamilton. The Stelco agreement was for an eight-cent increase this year, plus another five cents next year, bringing the basic hourly wage to $1.17.

Remember Hip Rafters Act As Support To Roof

Some roofs are built like a pyramid with four slopes instead of the more conventional two slopes. In this case a hip rafter is needed where two slopes meet. It acts as a support for the ends of the jack rafters. Hip rafters may be the same size as regular rafters, when they are short and come together at the ridge board.

Conversely, when they are longer or where the hip rafter has a vertical support from below, the size must be increased. For example, a hip rafter with a span up to 12 feet should be one inch wider or two inches deeper than a regular rafter. If the span is over 12 feet the hip rafter should be doubled in width. Hip rafters must be securely spiked to the top plates and ridge board. The roof sheathing is joined at the hip rafter.

Jack rafters are shorter than regular rafters and extend from the top plate to the hip rafters as shown in the sketch. The spacing, size and species of material should be the same as for regular rafters. Good grain, straightness and ability to withstand decay are prime factors in the choice of material.

Roof sheathing, usually consisting of one-inch boards, is laid across the rafter. It acts as a base for the finish roofing and to strengthen the structure. The species depends upon the wood available in the locality but softwood is usually employed. All sheathing should be thoroughly seasoned and the boards nailed at least twice at each rafter.

Prisoners Leave Sign Behind

AYLMER, Que., June 17. (CP) — A posse, searching for two brothers who escaped jail, Friday came upon a crudely-lettered sign which read: "You can't take us alive."

The sign, fastened to a rail post on a lonely road beyond the town, bore the printed signature of "The Vilon Brothers," and police said that if the sign was not the work of a prankster, it would indicate the missing brothers, Ernest and Martin Vilon, still were somewhere in the vicinity.

The brothers broke out of the century-old Aylmer jail Wednesday and Constable Harold Brennan of the Aylmer police said he was certain that the men were unarmed when they broke custody.

However, the department was taking no chances on the possibility that the men, arrested on a charge of fighting, may have obtained arms since their escape.

Two Strikes Start

TORONTO, June 17 (CP)—Two strikes started Friday when 160 workers in the fur and laundry machine manufacturing industries walked out. Both were called to force implementation of conciliation board reports. Forty workers went on strike for a five-cent boost to a 95-cent basic rate at the Beaver Laundry Machinery Company after 120 employees walked out at Reliable Fur dresses and Dyers Ltd.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

We have already pointed out some of the dangers of freezing the pack during the early stages of the hand. Such a freeze is often just an out-and-out gamble. There are times, however, when an early freeze is the correct play.

For example, suppose one opponent melds five or six cards from his hand, whereupon the other opponent also melds a few cards from his hand. You are now playing against two small hands, while you and your partner still hold your full eleven cards. This is a very good time to freeze.

The opponents may meld out before you or your partner can pick up the pile, but there is nothing you can do about that. You are certainly not worse off for having frozen the pack. If you had let the opponents take a worthwhile discard pile, they would have scored even more and you would have lost a big hand instead of just a small hand.

If the opponents fail to meld out in a hurry, you or your partner should be able to take the pile in a short time. Then, by reasonably careful discarding, you can probably keep picking up the pile until the hand ends. With average luck, you can run up a big score.

This, of course, is a situation that you should be able to bring about only against poor players. Good players will avoid depleting their hands during the early rounds unless they expect to meld out very quickly.

Even when only one opponent depletes his hand you may still have a sound early freeze. For example, suppose both sides need 90 points for the initial meld, and that the opponent at your right melds three aces and jack-jack-deuce from his hand. After his discard, he holds only five cards. You hold a miserable hand, containing practically no pairs and only one deuce. You have two black threes and one other discard that you believe to be safe. Should you freeze?

This is not a bad freeze. You are completely safe for three rounds, with your deuce and your two black threes. After that you still have the other discard that you believe to be safe. By the time you have made four plays, the discards will tell you what else is safe.

In the meantime, your partner should have no trouble. He is discarding to a five-card hand, which should be easy enough. There is an excellent chance that he can build up the minimum count and get the pack. If he doesn't, you may be lucky enough to draw a joker and build up the count yourself.

You might ask: "Why freeze the pack? Why not just discard a black three? Then discard your other black three at the next turn. Later on, you can decide whether or not to freeze."

That wouldn't be a bad line of play, but there are definite advantages to the immediate freeze. You make it easier for your partner to stay out of trouble. Without the freeze, the player who follows your partner might take the pack with one matching card and a wild card; after your freeze, he needs a matching pair.

Moreover, you notify your partner that you have several safe discards, since otherwise you wouldn't dare freeze the pack. That information may be very important to him.

◇ ◇ ◇

Q—My partner had melded a canasta all by herself. I had not yet melded. I then melded my entire hand, with two melds of four cards and one meld of three cards. I did not have a canasta of my own. Am I entitled to the bonus for going out "concealed"?

A—No. When you meld out "concealed" you must meld your own canasta.

HAVELOCK, June 17 (ENS)—Mrs. H. Shearer, of Buckhorn, was re-elected district president at the district annual meeting of the Women's Institute in the Town Hall here Thursday.

Mrs. G. Weller, of Warsaw, presented the nominations and Mrs Karl Moynes, of Oakwood, Federated Board member, conducted the election. The other officers are:

First vice-president, Mrs. Joseph Moore, Lakefield; second vice-president, Mrs. Norman Wilson, Apsley; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. G. Digweed, Warsaw; federation representative, Mrs. H. Shearer, Buckhorn; alternate, Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, Havelock; district delegate, Mrs. Victor Tanner, Chandos; alternate, Mrs. Stewart Graham, Westwood; auditors, Mrs. George Weller and Mrs. Milton Drain, Warsaw.

District directors: Apsley, Mrs. Norman Riddick; Belmont, Mrs. William Harris; Buckhorn, Mrs Wallace Shearer; Chandos, Mrs. A. Bott; Hall's Glen, Mrs. Cyril Scott; Havelock, Mrs. William Rice; Lakefield, Mrs. Clarence Foster; Norwood, Mrs. Albert Gill; Selwyn, Mrs. George Geisel; Trent River, Mrs. Melville Wight; Warsaw, Mrs. Clarence Payne; Westwood, Mrs. W. Renwick.

Conveners of standing committees: Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Ralph Hamilton, Lakefield; citizenship and education, Mrs. Melville Wight, Trent River; historical research and current events, Mrs. Victor Tanner, Chandos; home economics and health, Mrs. N. Wilson, Apsley; public relations and community activities, Mrs. W. Gallagher, Norwood; resolutions, Mrs. Harry Mann, Trent River.

Mrs. Karl Moynes, of Oakwood, retiring Federated Board member, was the unanimous choice for the office of provincial president and her name will be presented for that office in November.

Largest Attendance

The attendance at the meeting was the largest for many years. Mrs. H. Shearer, of Buckhorn, presided, Mrs. J. Moore, of Lakefield, was secretary, and Mrs. Eric Little, of Trent River, was pianist.

Reeve E. J. Leeson, of Havelock, welcomed the visitors and the reply was given by Mrs. Roy Bullock, of Lakefield, who extended the invitation for the district meeting to be held in that town next year. This was accepted.

The secretary reported the Peterborough Institutes had cash on hand and receipts totalling $4,591.98 and expenditures had totalled $3,129.22. Money had been spent on books and periodicals, departmental instruction, upkeep of libraries, convention fees, Christmas cheer, gifts for the sick, various funds, buses for educational tours, hot school lunches, sewing materials, Sick Children's Hospital, prizes, etc.

Mrs. Shearer remarked that membership had increased from 270 to 427 in only a few years. She said Dr. R. C. Honey, Peterborough had expressed the hope that each branch would become interested in dental health. He had said he was willing to send literature and to address Institutes.

Branches Advance

Mrs. Shearer said she had been unable to visit all the branches during the year but wherever she had gone, there had been advancement.

The Lakefield branch had furnished a room in the Civic Hospital, Peterborough, at a cost of $400 and had guaranteed the upkeep of the room.

Chandos branch, she said, was thinking of buying a hall. At Apsley, the response had been great for the Unitarian Relief and Warsaw was thinking of buying a hall.

Mrs. Shearer said she hoped a larger number would enter the oratorical contest this year and that Inspector Birks was very much interested in the work. She also expressed the desire that it could be completed in Peterborough instead of going on to Brighton. Mrs. F. Birdsall explained that the territory for the finals took in seven counties from Frontenac to Peterborough and that Brighton was a central point. She expected to have two judges from each county for the next contest. The trouble had been that nobody had been turning up from Peterborough for this duty. She did not see how the final competition could be got into Peterborough.

New Selwyn Institute

Mrs. Shearer introduced the representatives of the new branch at Selwyn.

Mrs. Victor Tanner, of Chandos, reported on Agriculture and Canadian Industries.

A "get acquainted intermission" was conducted by Mrs. Birdsall, after which an amusing skit was presented by the Belmont Branch, Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. William Ketchen taking part.

One minute silence was observed and a verse of a hymn sung in memory of departed members, Miss Powell, Miss Hopkins and Miss Sclictet of the department and Mrs. Garbutt of Lakefield and Mrs. Crowe of Warsaw.

Dinner was served by the women of St. John's Anglican Church in the Sunday School auditorium.

Kitchen Band Plays

Community singing opened the afternoon session with the local kitchen band with Miss Violet Scott swinging the baton, a rolling pin, and Mrs. G. Kennedy, as pianist. The band is under the direction of Mrs. Fred Bennett with the following taking part: Mesdames W. Copp, Grenville Rutherford, R. Sayers, F. McKenzie, R. Melville, S. Southward, Ted Watson, Ted Sanders, H. McNeely, and Miss Elaine Graham.

Mrs. Harry Mann, Trent River, who retired last year after three years as president, and Mrs. Joseph Moore, who retired from the office of secretary-treasurer after six years, were presented with framed wall pictures as tokens of appreciation for work well done. Mrs. W. Pearson of Buckhorn read the address. Mrs. Birdsall made the presentation to Mrs. Mann and Mrs. S. Clysdale of Warsaw presented the gift to Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Karl Moynes spoke about the work of the Federated Board. She brought greetings from the provincial boards which represent 1,449 branches and 47,250 members.

A children's film library of Canada has been set up, she said. She stressed the importance of starting a Tweedsmuir history after ascertaining that only four of the twelve auxiliaries represented at the meeting had started one of these books. The records kept there would be important for years to come.

Mental Health Problem

Speaking of mental health, Mrs. Moynes advised each branch to take out membership in the Canadian Mental Health Committee. Mental health was Canada's No. 1 problem today.

Mrs. Moynes was pleased with the response made to the Ontario Cancer Society and for the way this district had helped in the oratorical contests. She announced that interesting courses had been planned for Institute members at Guelph during the second week of July.

Mrs. Ralph Hamilton of Lakefield gave the report on Agriculture and Canadian industries Among the 11 reports she received, it was shown that Chandos had studied bees and their importance to agriculture; Norwood, the life of the Hon. James Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture; Buckhorn, harmful and beneficial insects; Apsley, suggestions for farm and garden improvements and the storing of bulbs and vegetables; Trent River, rayons, plastic and other new fabrics and Halls Glen, why boys leave the farm.

The home economics and health report was given by Mrs. N. Wilson of Apsley. Mrs. Melville Wight of Trent River reported on citizenship and education.

Co-operative Program

Miss Edith Collins of the Women's Institute Branch, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, spoke briefly on the co-operative program for 1950-51.

"Personality in Dress" was the unanimous choice of the branches of the district for a short course which will be given in two centres, Lakefield and Norwood about the middle of October.

Eleven quilts were on display in the quilt contest and were judged by Miss Collins. A basket design quilt made by the Buckhorn branch was awarded the first prize of $10, donated by Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser. The quilt made by the Trent River branch in a star and crescent design won the second prize of $7 donated by Mrs. Harry Shearer of Buckhorn. The third prize of $5 donated by the District Women's Institute, went to the Lakefield branch for its Irish chain quilt.

Tell of Girls' Clubs

Miss Jean Noble of Peterborough and Bowmanville departments of agriculture, gave a short address on the work of the girls' clubs.

Mrs. Birdsall spoke on having a handicraft display at the convention in the fall and asked if the branches, whose quilts had won prizes at the meeting, would be willing to exhibit them and donate them for sale. Those in charge of the quilts are to give Mrs. Birdsall this information by August 1. Then the question of a quilt exhibit in 1951 at the convention was discussed, the first prize winning quilts from each of the 18 districts to go forward to the convention.

Mrs. W. Gallagher of Norwood gave the report on public relations and community activities. All the reports showed that a response had been made to worthwhile projects in the community and other parts of the country.

Jo-Ann Kennedy and Larry Sayers entertained with two vocal numbers and tap dances with Mrs. G. Kennedy at the piano.

Miss E. Found of the Women's Institute branch of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, accompanied Miss Collins of that department. There were also two visitors from England present, Mrs. E. Pearce, who came with friends from Apsley, and Mrs. Brian Smith of Kent, England.

W.A. To Make Gowns for Choir

MILLBROOK, June 17 (ENS)—The final meeting for the season of all four groups of St. Andrew's WA was held Tuesday at the home of the president, Mrs. A. R. Payne.

Mrs. Percy Stinson was in charge of the devotional period. The theme was "Worship and Prayer."

A letter was read from Mrs. G. A. Spicer, choir leader, thanking the WA for making new collars for the choir gowns. A letter from Betty North, the choir secretary, asked that the WA would make six or eight new gowns during the summer. It was decided that this should be done and the choir is to supply the material.

It was voted that the annual bazaar and tea be held on November 25.

Miss C. Sutton reported that her group had held two meetings and that they had decided to raise their allocation of $125 by donations. If the money failed to come in by this means they would hold a money-raising function in the fall.

Mrs. Stinson reported that her group had held its first meeting, had become organized, and was sponsoring a used clothing sale in the waiting room today.

The re-decorating of the parsonage dining room was discussed and it was decided that this work should be done in September.

One hundred dollars was voted to be given to the church board to help in the extensive repairs being done to the church brick work and roof.

Since a joint picnic for all the Millbrook-Cavan circuit was being planned, it was decided to dispense with the WA picnic which is usually held each year.

The hostess served candy.

Joanne Whitton Has Talent Starring in Dance Revue

Joanne Whitton is a youngster with stage talents who might bring fame to Peterborough. Friday evening she performed outstandingly in four solo dance numbers composed and arranged by her teacher, Marion Perry Laird, for a revue of her pupils' work, shown at the Collegiate Auditorium.

The child's every movement was graceful and attractive and at all times she presented a charming countenance to watchers. She first appeared with skipping rope, dressed in a gingham sun dress, and did tricky rythmic tapping as she skipped.

Next, in a frothy ballet costume, she did an acrobatic dance that drew by far the heartiest applause of the evening. Her breathtaking backward somersaults were from a three-foot height and she did pretty leg-work from a hand-stand position and descended stair steps on her hands. She used the stairs again for a tap dance routine, this time wearing a shining gold silk costume.

This star performer also highlighted the ballet part of the revue "Sweethearts in Dancedland" with precisely measured acrobatic work at centre of the stage. Senior girls, June Jones and Joyce LaFave were featured in a classic balet, Peggy Johnston with a toe solo, Shirley Flint and Jane Ann Lister a novelty Hawaiian dance, and chorus work was by all classes.

Costuming for the ballet made a rainbow setting as the dancers took their places on the stage. Mary Lou Ahern and other girl babies completing the effect in dresses of pink silk with frilly pantaloons of green and poke bonnets in the same color which they took from decorated hat boxes they were carrying as their dance began. Several small boys in this number wore green silk suits and donned tall hats to match.

Perennial favorites, the "sword dance" and the "highland fling" were well executed by eight lassies in bright plaids. Showing their skill and versatility, Jane Ann Lister and Shirley Flint were also very good in a "chair" tap dance and a snappy duo routine.

Mrs. Laird directed her pupils throughout the three-part revue which entertained a good crowd of parents and friends for two and a half hours. Only the babies went much out of line but they delighted with their confusion and unorthodox dancing and the varying emotions they portrayed on the stage. A senior dancer showing talent in this line is Earl Gillespie who soloed well in a "buck and wing" tap. Another is Lionel Brown who was particularly good as a waltz partner and doing solo in a slow and fast rhythm number. He was also a piano accompanist for part of the show.

Costume designing by Mrs. Laird was allied to the type of dance or the musical number used and made a very attractive spectacle.

Able to Enjoy Own Company Important Aid to Happiness

ABLE TO ENJOY, June 17

I know a woman who has a small child whom she puts in a room alone every day for several hours with only two or three simple toys with which to occupy himself. He is thrown absolutely upon himself for diversion.

Dorothy Dix

"I am trying to teach him how to develop his own resources," says the mother "I am trying to teach him how to find companionship and entertainment in his own society. I am trying to save him from the curse of loneliness that blights so many lives. I don't want him to grow up to be one of those who always have to live in a crowd and be going places and doing things in order to be happy. I want to try to help him make his life as self-contained as possible.

"Of course, I don't want my child to be a hermit or to be antisocial in any way. I want him to grow up to be companionable and what we call a good mixer and to enjoy the society of his fellow creatures, but I don't want him to be simply sunk if he has to be by himself.

Pitiful Group

"It has always seemed to me that no people are so much to be pitied as those who are such poor company for themselves that they are bored to death when left alone. Yet the world is full of these unfortunates. You see them crowding places of amusement, going to see dull and stupid plays and pictures; sitting around poolrooms and hotel lounges, listening to tedious tales that they have heard a hundred times before, recounting their symptoms and describing their major operations and repeating the inane things their children said.

"They are not entertained or amused or even interested, but it passes the time and saves them from the thing they dread more than any calamity on earth, and that is being alone.

"No men and women are so poverty stricken as those who have no resources within themselves, and none are so rich as those who can say with the poet "my mind to me a kingdom is."

"For those who are dependent upon the outside world for entertainment, who must run with the gang and be in the midst of the bright lights, inevitably end in spiritual bankruptcy. For there comes a time of grief or misfortune or old age when the crowd melts away and the lights go out and one is of all men the most miserable if he has not learned to live alone.

"But this misfortune can never happen to those who have within themselves the ability to make their own happiness. They are never bored because their minds are filled with the wisdom of the ages that they have garnered from books, and with the memories of the thrilling things that they have seen and done. No companion could be more entertaining and amusing than their thoughts They can chum with themselves and, in reality, are never less alone than when alone.

"And think of the tragedies that are caused by loneliness. The lives that are wrecked by it! The chief of police of a great city once told me that loneliness was responsible for more boys and girls going astray than any other cause. He said a boy would come to the city from a farm or a village where all of his live he had lived in close association with his neighbors and had his part in their activities.

Wrong Sort of Friends

"In the city he would know no one, have no companionship, no one to run around with, nobody to talk to, no chance to make any social contacts. It would be easier to get in with hoodlums than with decent people and before he knew it he would be palling up with criminals. The girl would have the same experience. She would be young and pretty and craving good times and missing her old boy friends and the parties at home. She would be so dead lonely with nowhere to go and so sick of her dreary hall bedroom that she would let some man pick her up on the street and give her a dinner and take her to a dance hall And loneliness would have set her feet on the downward path.

"And look at the foolish marriages that loneliness makes people contract! It is enough to make the very angels weep over the misery that men and women bring upon themselves by marrying unsuitable wives and husbands just because they couldn't stand living alone. Whenever you see a brilliant, successful, middle-aged man dragging around a silly frumpy little wife who isn't in his class by a million miles, you don't need to be a Sherlock Holmes to deduct that he married his landlady's daughter or the girl who worked next to him or the waitress in a cafeteria where he got his meals or some girl with whom he was thrown when e first came to town to make his fortune and when he was so lonesome that any woman who would talk to him looked good to him.

"And look at the widowers who were so lonesome with their homes broken up and no wife to boss them, that any woman could grab them off and rush them to the altar! And recall the innumerable widows we have all known who have married boys young enough to be their sons or fortune-hunters or deadbeats or men who wasted their money and broke their hearts just because they were lonely and wanted companionship.

"It is because loneliness can do such awful things to us that I am trying to teach my child how to avoid the danger by being good company to himself."

In a pretty double ring wedding ceremony today in Welcome United Church, nuptial vows were pledged by Mary Lucille, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of Port Hope, and John David Murray only son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Murray of Peterborough.

The church was decorated with orange blossoms, peonies and iris. The minister, the Rev. Dr. Oke performed the ceremony and Mrs. Oke played the wedding music. Miss Connie Bebee of Port Hope was soloist and sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother Mr. Stanley Kelly, the bride was gowned in white slipper satin with net yoke, outlined with a double fold of material, and designed with bodice fastening at the back to the gathered hipline and long sleeves with lilly points. Her fingertip veil of embroidered silk was caught to a heart-shaped crown with orange blossoms and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Ruth Reaves of Port Hope as maid of honor and Miss Lorraine O'Hara of Peterborough as bridesmaid were in similarly styled frocks of pink sheer and light green nylon and wore matching mittens and headdresses with shoulder veils. They carried old-fashioned nosegays.

Groomsman was Mr. Douglas Clark of Peterborough and the ushers Robert Meyer of Toronto and Harry Kelly of Welcome, brother of the bride.

At the reception, held at her home, the bride's mother received in a gown of grey figured sheer and grey hat and wore a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother assisting her was gowned in royal blue mesh with lace and wore a white hat and corsage of pink roses.

For the honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and other points, the bride chose a navy sheer dress with white trim, navy hat and accessories and a corsage of white carnations with blue cornflowers.

Mr. Albert Brown became seriously ill on Tuesday and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Verdyn Perkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Perkin, celebrated her ninth birthday Wednesday with a picnic to Orono Park. The guests included: Elinore Crowley Lenore Ouelette, Helen Wright, Dorothy Dawson, Janet and Judy Hobbs, Helen Ingham, Elizabeth Anne McKnight, Glenna Sloan, Shirley Bredin, Sharon Bremner, and Marjorie Ellis, the latter of Meaford.

Among the members of Millbrook Women's Institute who attended the 50th district annual meeting of the East Durham WI were: Mrs. Wm. Armstrong, Mrs. H. Blakeley, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, Mrs. David Lunn, Mrs. Tom Harkness, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. Allie Fallis, and Miss Mary L. Widdis, the president. Miss Elaine Dogue accompanied the members as a guest.

Killian-Bell Rites Performed Today

In the rectory of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church today, June, youngest daughter of Mrs. Percy Bell of Warsaw and the late Mr. Bell, became the bride of Melvin Edward, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Killian of Marmora. The Rev. Father Conlogue performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr Michael McManus. She wore a gown of white slipper satin with nylon yoke trimmed with French lace and inserts of the lace in the skirt. Tiny covered buttons fastened the bodice at the back to a gathered hipline. Her finger-tip veil of tulle was caught to a crown encrusted with pearls, and she carried red roses with white sweet peas and baby's breath. Her attendant was the grorm's sister, Mrs. Joseph LeGroulx who wore heavenly blue taffeta and had pink and white sweet peas and roses in her nosegay.

Mr. Alvin Bell was the groomsman.

A reception was held at Hooper's Palm Room where the bride's mother received in a dress of blue sheer with which she wore a black picture hat and corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother chose powder blue crepe and white accessories and had pink roses.

When leaving later on a trip to Niagara Falls and to New York City the bride was wearing a dress of heavenly blue petal crepe with matching hat and navy accessories. On return they will live in Marmora.

Land Values Rise Speculators Profit

In 1828 Rubidge wrote Capt. Hall that he had 36 acres cleared, was planing a ferry across Rice Lake, and "I am just now building a frame house, 36 x 26' in the clear, two storeys high with a commodious kitchen behind . . I am planting an orchard of apple trees . I have a good barn and stables . In short, I feel that I have surmounted every difficuulty . Bridges are being built; one of the best mills in the province is just finished at Peterborough, and another within three miles of me . . ." His ferry project fell through because he could not get the land grants on each shore which he required for his wharves. In the winter of 1829-30 Gilchrist opened the first store near his mill at Keene, under management of Peregrine Grove and James Foley, and Archie Nelson started a tavern there about the same time.

Asphodel Lots

Keeler put up a blacksmith shop near his Norwood mills as McDonnel wrote Robinson in Feb. 1829: "Mallory and others have upwards of 80 yoke of oxen shod at Keeler's shop in Asphodel within the last fortnight, principally intended for Belmont . I am credibly informed that the Trent is lined with lumbermen from the mouth up . " Some of this industry was possibly on the 8,534 acres owned by Charles Hayes in Belmont and Burnham's 2,988 acres in Dummer, where the lumber industry was beginning. About 1830 (possibly a coincidence), two distilleries started operations in Asphodel, one run by John Becket just south of Westwood, the other by Pat Foley just west of Keeler's Mills at Norwood.

Asphodel farmers no doubt contributed to the Northumberland Agricultural Society, formed on May 17, 1828, which held the first district fall fair at the village of Colborne on October 19, 1829, though no farmers from north of Rice Lake are listed among the prizewinners. There was also a cattle show held at Cobourg in 1830.

SIR BASIL BROOKE, Northern Ireland Prime Minister, and Lady Brooke are shown with Capt. J. A. Myles, RD, RNR, of the Cunard steamer Franconia shortly before they sailed from Quebec for Liverpool recently following their three-month tour of Canada and the United States. Visibly enthused over his reception in Canada, Sir Basil said the "warmth and friendliness of Canadians was unexcelled." The Irish statesman's sailing in the Franconia marked the close of his third visit to Canada.

Mary Schiarizza Is Bride Of John E. Marchen Today

In St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at eight o'clock, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler said the nuptial mass and performed the marriage of Mary Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Schiarizza, and Mr. John Everett Marchen, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Marchen, all of Peterborough.

Bouquets of peonies and iris were on the alter table and Mrs. Robert Aman, organist, was playing traditional wedding music. Miss Helen Hajnik sang during the mass and the signing of the register, choosing Ave Marie, Panis Angelicus and On ..... day O Beautiful Mother.

The bride's gown was fashioned with a bodice of Chantilly lace appliqued on a yoke of nylon net and finished with long pointed sleeves, and the skirt, pannelled in lace and nylon net, fell into a beautiful train of lace.

She wore a coronet of pearls which held her nylon veil and she carried a white prayer book and a cascade of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Attendants were the bride's sisters, Miss Grace Schiarizza as maid of honor and Miss Phylis Schiarizza as bridesmaid. They wore similarly styled bouffant frocks of turquoise and yellow moire taffeta with matching bolera jackets and headdresses entwined with flowers. Each carried a nosegay of roses and lily of the valleys.

The groomsman was Mr. Anthony Schiarizza and the ushers Joseph Waters and Edward Ridley.

Receiving the guests afterward at Marino's dining room where the wedding breakfast was served, the bride's mother wore a dress of navy faille, with white trim, a white straw hat and corsage of white ross. The groom's mother who also received chose navy with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For going-away the bride chose a dress of metallic fabric in aqua shade, a hat to match and white accessories and had an orchid corsage.

After a honeymoon in New York State, Mr. and Mrs. Marchen will live in Peterborough.

What's Right

When you call on a friend a maid whom you know by name answers the door.

WRONG: Say "Is Mrs. James in?" without speaking to the maid.

RIGHT: Speak to the maid, addressing her by name. Then ask if Mrs. James is in.

Royce Genius But Not By Rule Book

By FORBES RHUDE
C.P. Business Editor

The story of Henry Royce, the eccentric genius whose names lives in Rolls-Royce, should be read by every one who works with tools or runs an industry.

For a great engineer he had only a limited knowledge of mathematics and never used a slide-rule. He was what few can be—an artist with tools; whose designing has been described as more the product of an innate sense of correct balance than of intricate formula.

(Personally I have known only one man like that. It was Alfred Skattebol, who until his retirement was Canadian Press traffic chief in Vancouver. Knowing him is the reason I can understand Henry Royce.)

An associate describes Royce's appearance as that of a typical English farmer, bearded, five feet 10 inches, not easy to talk to—unless you were discussing engineering.

Forgot Everything

He would come into the shop and look at a car chassis or aero-engine for hours, while the boys were paid to follow him around with a glass of milk and a sandwich to make sure that he would eat.

He would instruct a sweeper on the proper use of a groom and once expressed the thought that "whatever is rightly done, however humble, is noble." This was translated by Eric Gill, English sculptor, into the motto: "Quidvis recte factum; quamvis humile praeclarum."

He was still engaged in the hoisting-machinery business when he turned out his first motor-car in 1904. In less than 10 years Rolls-Royce had established its peculiar reputation of quality and performance.

In the meantime, in 1910, his health had broken and it can be said that his colleague, Claude Johnson, kept him alive; virtually coaxing the strange genius to continue living and working. Johnson himself died in 1926 but Royce lived until 1933, aged 70.

War in 1914 put Royce and his firm into a field he had previously avoided—aviation. By 1915 he had produced his first aero Eagle engine, and it is estimated that five-eighths of the aero-engines used in British aircraft in the first world war were Rolls-Royces.

Then, after the war, the first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight was made by John Alcock and Arthur Brown in a Rolls-Royce-engined Vickers Vimy bomber, June 15, 1919. It developed 360 horsepower, compared with the 1,760 of today's Merlin.

Another Change

In 1925 work was started on the Kestrel engine, from whose basic design sprang the Buzzard which served as the pattern for the Schneider trophy and world speed-record "R" engine which, in turn, inspired the Merlin which went into the Spitfires and Hurricanes.

Here briefly is how airplanes are developed in the heat of war:

Rolls-Royce had evolved a self-contained and interchangeable power plant around the Merlin XX engine for installation in the twin-engined Bristol Beaufighter.

The A. V. Roe Company had designed the Manchester, a twin-engined bomber with two Rolls-Royce Vulture engines.

However, the Vulture was barely in production stage, whereas the Merlin was being heavily produced.

It was decided, therefore, to alter the Manchester wing to take four Merlins.

This machine, the result of all these steps, was the famous Lancaster bomber.

Elected President

VANCOUVER, June 17 (CP)—Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair, of Ottawa, Friday was elected president of the Canadian Conference on Social Work at its biennial convention here. She is assistant to the federal Deputy Minister of Health and chairman of the United Nations Children's Fund.

Under One Command

COPENHAGEN, June 17 — (AP) —All Danish defence forces have been placed under one command, it was announced today. Rear Admiral E. J. C. Vistgaard was named commander. He is at present chief of the Danish Atlantic Pact staff in Washington.

Grape Crop Hit

PARIS, June 17 (Reuters) — Widespread hailstorms destroyed half the grape crop around Cognac and cut power lines in Metz yesterday. Hailstones weighing over six ounces caused several minor casualties.

Dies of Bee Stings

SANDUSKY, O., June 17 (AP) —Coroner Harrison W. Pratt, ruled that Anthony E. Osterhiemer, 39, was killed by the toxic effects of bee stings. Osterhiemer died Thursday night when he was attacked by a swarm of bees near his home.

ARTIST'S INSPIRATION — During a visit to Montreal, cartoonist Al Capp, creator of "Li'l Abner," gets some ideas in Dogpatch garb from a bevy of Irving models displaying next season's ski styles. "They never come this nice in Dogpatch," Capp admitted to the designer who agreed to create something new in shorts for Daisy Mae upon the artist's next visit.

War Enemies Meet Again In German Port

MONTREAL—(CP)—Any captain who had his ship sunk by the enemy in war would be surprised to meet on friendly terms the officers responsible for the sinking.

But two officers, Captain E. A. Woodcock and chief engineer Edward Nolin, recently in port here on the freighter Wanstead, had this very experience when they docked in Hamburg, Germany, a few weeks ago.

They were visited by Vice-Admiral Bernhart Rogge, commanding officer of the German wartime raider Atlantis, which sank their former ship, the Tottenham, in the South Atlantic nine years ago. He brought them a present—an illustrated record of the Atlantis' career including pictures of the Tottenham's crew taken by a German seaman.

First Capture

Captain Woodcock and chief engineer Nolin had their encounter with the Atlantis in June, 1941, while outward bound from Newcastle with munitions for the Far East. They were awakened by the sound of shells exploding near the ship and immediately sent out an SOS. Fearing capture, the German raider redoubled her fire, forcing Woodcock to order his men to abandon ship. They were taken aboard the Atlantis where they learned they were the raider's first prize.

Captain Woodcock said the German officers treated them well. They were given comfortable accommodation in the forward hold while the raider went searching for other victims. Finally they were transferred to another ship and taken to Germany to be interned until war's end.

Vice-Admiral Rogge, now an officer in a Hamburg chemical firm, told his former captives that he too was sunk a short time after. Intercepted by H.M.S. Devonshire, the Atlantis was blasted from the sea.

World Church Leaders Hold Toronto Conference

TORONTO—(CP)—Church leaders from many lands will assemble here July 8-15 for the annual meeting of the policy-making central committee of the World Council of Churches.

The gathering at Emmanuel College will be the second for the 90-member committee since formation of the World Council at Amsterdam Aug. 23, 1948. It met last year in Chichester, England.

Delegates are to review all phases of the work of the World Council, embracing 156 churches from every part of the world and from all major Christian confessions except Roman Catholicism. In the central committee is vested authority for the World Council's actions between the sittings, every five years, of the World Council's assembly.

The agenda calls for the Toronto gathering to plan united action for Protestant and Orthodox churches on questions of racial equality and on problems of minority church rights in countries dominated by a single state-recognized religious group. The committee also will discuss the place and function of the World Council in Church Life and draw up plans for the World Council's second assembly, to be held in the United States in 1953.

To Be Chairman

The Rt. Rev. George K. A. Bell, Anglican Bishop of Chichester, will preside as chairman of the central committee, assisted by the Rev. Franklin Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America and the committee's vice-chairman.

Canadian representatives are the Rev. Robert A. Hiltz of Toronto, executive secretary of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, and the Rev. Dr. Gordon A. Sisco of Toronto, general secretary of the United Church of Canada.

From Many Lands

Other prominent churchmen expected to be present include Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of the New York area of the Methodist Church; Archbishop Strenopolus of Germanos of the western European Orthodox Church, representative of the Patriarch of Constantinople in western Europe; Pastor Marc Boegner of Paris, president of the Protestant Federation of France. They are among the six presidents of the World Council.

Also expected are the Rev. Dr. Otto Dibelius, Bishop of Berlin; the Rev. Dr. Rajah B. Manikam of India; Pastor Martin Niemoeller of Germany; Prof. Laszlo I. Pap of Hungary; Leonardo Dia the Philippines; the Rev. Dr. A. Koechlin of Basel, Switzerland, president of the Swiss Federation of Churches; and the Rev. Dr. G. B. Camargo of Mexico.

The Canadian Council of Churches will be host to the international administrative body.

Lessons Disunity

The accord reached at Amsterdam removed some of the disunity in christendom dating from the Great Schism of 1054, when the Christian church divided on an east-versus-west basis. It laid the groundwork for what many churchmen hope will prove the reunion of christianity.

In correlation with the central committee's meeting, other World Council groups will hold sessions here. The commission of the churches on International Affairs, set up in 1946 in co-operation with the International Missionary Council, plans a meeting July 3-5.

Five thousand persons are expected for the World Convention on Christain Education Aug. 10-16. The International Council of Religious Education will hold its quadrennial convention here Aug. 15 with estimated attendance of 4,000.

Mitri Or Douthville Get Crack At Lamotta

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—Either Laurent Dauthuille of France or Tiberio Mitri of Italy will get the June 28 title shot at middleweight champion Jake Lamotta.

A "break" in the title bout came yesterday when Rocky Graziano was forced out with a left thumb fracture. The International Boxing Club spent most of the night looking for a "sub." The promoters insist there will be a fight. But Jake has to agree, too.

Sugar Ray Robinson, world welter champion and middleweight king in Pennsylvania, isn't interested in being a "sub." His manager George Gainford, said last night in Havana:

"Ray's no sub fighter.

"We hope to fight Lamotta in the future but only when the IBC settles its differences with the New York managers guild."

Model City Built In Egypt House Workers

By HAIG NICHOLSON

MEHALLA EL KUBRA, Lower Egypt, May 5. — (Reuters) — A social experiment unparalleled in the Middle East is being made here, the centre of Egypt's textile industry.

The Misr Spinning and Weaving Company whose 20,000 workers keep the great cotton mills here in production day and night six days every week, runs a workers' city which spells defeat in that area, for Egypt's three main enemies — poverty, ignorance and disease.

One of the biggest welfare schemes in the world promoted by a private business firm, the orderliness of this workers' city is in striking contrast to the tumbledown huddle of mud houses which occupy other parts of the town.

The houses in the model city are built in rows along which run broad avenues with some of the best road surfaces in Egypt. A worker earning $1.00 a day can rent a two-roomed flat there for $3.25 a month or a three-roomed one for $3.35.

In all, there are homes in the city for 550 families and accommodation for 1,500 bachelor workers who can have a bed or dormitory for as little as $1.10 a month each.

There is a huge communal restaurant where the worker can obtain a substantial meal for two piastres (five cents). The actual cost to the company of these meals is four times the prices it charges the workers.

The city has a mosque, a theatre, an open air movie, cafes where the workers can talk when their works done, shops where commodities are sold at government-controlled prices, a market for food-stuffs, schools, and an immaculate hospital.

Also Sports Facilities

There are adequate facilities for all sports — football, basketball, volley ball, tennis, boxing and wrestling. There are fourteen football teams composed of workers, and the best are coached by up-to-date methods.

The mills at Mehalla are still expanding, and the company is now constructing a second, bigger and better, workers' city where there will be accommodation for 2,000 workers and their families.

Relations between company and workers are good.

Workers' problems are not shelved but brought as quickly as possible into the open for solution. The company has provided the worker's syndicate, or trade union with a handsome pavilion where members and officials meet to discuss their affairs.

The employers are readily approachable regarding grievances or complaints which with goodwill on both sides, are usually quickly disposed of.

The cotton mills at Mehalla are of moderate size. Begun in 1928, they have been growing ever since until today they produce in the course of a year 100,000,000 yards of cotton textiles and 39,700,000 pounds of cotton yarn, 1,368,000 yards of woollen textiles and 1,300,000 pounds of woollen yarn.

The factories used 2,200,000 pounds of raw cotton in 1931. Today, they use 47,500,000 pounds of Egyptian cotton.

If it be true that Egypt is the Nile and the Nile is Egypt, it is equally true that Mehalla is cotton and cotton is Mehalla. The town has a total population of 120,000.

Believes Community Forests Good Project For Canadians

Written for the Canadian Press By PERCY GHENT

The city of Zurich, Switzerland, owns an 800-year-old forest which, from annual cropping of suitable trees, pays a regular dividend to the city council of about $12,000.

Ellwood Wilson, veteran forester of Knowlton, Que., recently elected a fellow of the American Society of Foresters, believes that community forests are promising sources of joy in nature, to say nothing of potential revenue, and pleads for their establishment near towns and villages across Canada.

There are many communities he says, where a substantial stretch of woodland could be acquired where only fencing to keep cattle out and sustained growth within, is indicated. In a surprisingly short time such a site could become a flourishing recreation centre and bird sanctuary if proper supervision were maintained, and its educational value in nature study and conservation would be immense. In the course of years, it is claimed, timber cropping therefrom would not only improve the community forest, but assist in keeping the local tax-rate within reasonable bounds.

Should such a community woodland have to be planted, work by public-spirited citizens and the enthusiasm of Boy Scouts could perform miracles. Young trees are available without cost at all provincial nurseries. Education in conservation is a grand thing. A practical demonstration of what it can achieve in the old home town is better still.

"Flying saucers" fly into the news at frequent intervals even if there's an element of doubt about their flight through the air. But there is no doubt at all about the flying flowers or flying jewels that are seen everywhere in early spring.

They are the woodland warblers, tiny, colorful birds migrating back to their Canadian homeland after wintering in warmer climes. Literally in countless numbers they come, and in many species. They are so small and fly so fast that thousands of people who would be thrilled to see and know them, are unaware of their existence.

Everywhere in early spring—in rural haunts, public parks, city gardens, they are glorious visitors. A little patience and a watchful eye are the only requirements in the observer.

At last the age of dinosaurs has been established with precision!

Workers from the division of palaeontology at the Royal Ontario Museum, were excavating fossil remains from the valley of the Belly River, in Alberta.

"What are those fellows doing down there?" a visitor asked a native.

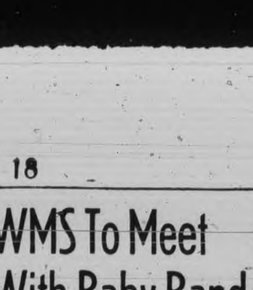
"They're looking for animals sixty million and three years old," he was told.

"Wow! That's getting it down pretty fine, isn't it?" was the response.

"Well, maybe," said the Albertan, "but when they started diggin' three years ago they told me the animals they were after lived 60 million years ago, so they must be three years older by now.

THE PRINCIPAL ADDRESS at the opening business session of the 7th Imperial Press Conference, now being held in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, was delivered by the Hon. Lionel Chevrier, KC, minister of transport, who spoke on communications within the British Empire. On Mr. Chevrier's LEFT is Col. the Hon. John J. Astor, chairman of The Times, London, and president and chairman of council of the Empire Press Union since 1929, who introduced Mr. Chevrier to the conference.

Two Acquitted On Theft Count



COCHRANE, June 17 —(CP)—Arthur (Max) Pierini and Stanley Beninger of Timmins were acquitted Thursday night of a joint charge of breaking, entering and theft of about $5,600 from a safe in the home of Bruno Carnovale, Timmins.

The jury deliberated seven hours and 20 minutes. It returned twice to have more evidence read.

Judge R. A. Danis, who sent the jury back the second time, said when he heard the finding: "I have no complaint to find with the verdict so far as Pierini is concerned. There was very little evidence against him, but there was sufficient evidence against Beninger to warrant an entirely different finding."

The two men were returned to custody until bail of $15,000 for Beninger and $10,000 for Pierini could be renewed on a charge of receiving $1,895 and $1,892 of the $5,600 stolen from the Carnovale safe. The charge is expected to be heard at the fall assizes.

Viennese Doctor Develops Pioneer Hospital In U.K.

LONDON. (Reuters).—A Viennese doctor, who came toBritain just before the war, has revealed to psychiatrists and health ministry officials secrets of a new-type hospital here which claims to mend broken hearts, wipe out frightening blitz memories, and cure anxiety neuroses.

This pioneer hospital, at Hampstead, London, has been incorporated into Britain's national health service and its success will lead to the opening of similar hospitals elsewhere.

The doctor, Joshua Bierer, believes thousands of men and women are certified insane and sent to mental hospitals when two weeks of sympathetic treatment might make them normal citizens again.

Social activities are one of the most important methods in Dr. Bierer's treatment. Patients invite friends to social clubs. Often nobody knows who are the patients among those present.

Dr. Bierer has supplanted the verbal method of analysis and explanation of cause by a method of treatment by experience which is known as "situational treatment."

Special Needs

The special needs of each patient are subtly planned in a scheme to draw patients into social activities with each other. Often they are drawn naturally into doing things of which they believe themselves incapable.

By these methods Dr. Bierer claims to have cured broken hearts caused by grief, nervous breakdowns resulting from domestic unhappiness after effects of wartime experiences anxiety neuroses and nervous disorders, shyness and blushing.

A child guidance clinic attached to the hospital claims similar successes with children—many of them victims of wartime evacuation from the cities, who believe their parents abandoned them through lack of love.

Dr. Bierer served in the British Army during the war and dreamed then of the project which he has since supervised. He established his pioneer hospital in 1947, taking patients on a day-to-day, non-residential, basis.

Later the hospital was taken into the National Health Service, but an institute for social psychiatry attached to it is still run independently. This organizes after-care treatment, research and a chain of thereapeutic social clubs in many parts of London.

The whole conception is being steadily enlarged as research goes forward.

MENTAL STRAIN

Dr. Bierer believes mental strain retards the recovery of at least one in three patients in ordinary British hospitals.

His deputy, Dr. E. N. Snowden, told visitors to the hospital:

"We catalogue everything about our patients—all aspects of their attitude to life and environment. Then we bring them into the scope of social activities like drama, music appreciation, art and handicrafts."

Dr. Snowden said they pinned their hopes to more day hospitals At the pioneer hospital patients are treated by a team of eight specialist psychiatrists during the day, but go home each night. Thus these avoid the unnatural and depressing atmosphere of most mental hospitals.

Little Harrison Lake Rises, Hotel Flooded
Situation Easier At Agassiz; 700 People Evacuated Already In Province

VANCOUVER, June 19—(CP)—Little Harrison lake rose over its banks Sunday night and spewed two feet of water into Harrison Hot Spring's leading hotel. The flood was the latest attack of the Fraser river system as the spring flood battleground switched from Agassiz to the summer resort town 75 miles east of Vancouver. Eleven families left their homes. The Post Office was abandoned. Other citizens are expected to seek refuge later today if the water continues to rise.

The lake's level rose 10 inches Saturday night and another five inches Sunday, giving new concern to provincial authorities after the situation at Agassiz appeared to be easing.

At Agassiz, only a few miles from Harrison Hot Springs on the swollen Fraser River, optimism was followed by caution early today.

The Fraser, making an encore after a $30,000,000 flood in 1948, was moving up again after a minor retreat. The gauge reading at Mission, 45 miles east of Vancouver, was 23.62 feet at noon Sunday. Later in the evening it was 23.45 feet.

Climbing Again

But at midnight, the mighty stream edged to 23.51 feet and hot weather forecast for today was expected to increase the rise.

All dikes along the 100-mile valley front were holding.

Flood level is 20 feet.

Only a few days old, the 1950 edition of the floods already has struck a painful—if not serious—blow at the province's economy. Fivex Mills at New Westminster announced Sunday that they will close because of the Fraser's high level. Others operated on a limited basis.

Another sore spot in the flood fight was at Pemberton Meadows, 90 miles north of here. Dikes crumpled Saturday under the pounding of the Lillooet River. An estimated 6,000 acres, most of it wilderness, were flooded. Seven families fled their homes.

More than 700 persons have been evacuated in various parts of the province, laced by angry rivers and streams. However, 200 residents of Minto who moved out after a sudden flood Friday returned during the weekend. Minto is about 140 miles northeast.

A state of emergency continues in Kent municipality in which Agassiz is situated. The residents —roughly 2,500—must be prepared to flee at a moment's notice.

30 Teen-Agers In York Hold Drinking Party

TORONTO, June 19 (CP) — Police today investigated details of what they described as a drinking and sex party in North York Saturday night in which more than 30 teen-age boys and girls took part.

Two 19-year-old youths were charged with having carnal knowledge of a 13-yearold girl. Three other youths, still unidentified to police, were said to have had improper relations with the same girl.

Police said at least five other boys will be charged with having liquor illegally.

Piecing togetther information received from various sources, officials said a number of boys obtained rive or six cases of beer by asking Brewers' Warehouse patrons to buy them a case while making their own purchases.

"Second Party"

Saturday night's party, which was held outdoors in Hogg's Hollow, at the northern outskirts of Toronto, was reported to have been preceded by a "stag" affair the previous week.

"Saturday night," one official said, "the girl friends of this young gang heard that there was going to be another party and they followed them. They didn't have to be invited."

Police and municipal authorities have ordered a tighter check on beer outlets and urged parents to keep closer watch on their children.

Fenelon Police Nab 2 Yeggmen

LINDSAY, June 19 (CP)—Two Quebec safecrackers pleaded guilty today to breaking, entering and theft from a Canadian National Railways tool shed and station at Fenelon Falls, a few hours earlier. They were remanded one week for sentence.

The pair, Paul Lalonde, 24, of Victoriaville, and Goston Paulin, 25, of Montreal, were arrested by village chief Dave Gordon and Provincial Constable Lloyd Lyle about 1 a.m. as they attempted to escape from the station. The men surrendered quietly after failing to open the station safe with tools taken from a nearby tool shed.

UK Experts Prepare New Pooling Plan

LONDON, June 19 (Reuters)—The Liberal News Chronicle says today that British experts are expected to complete their alternative to the Schuman Plan for pooling Western Europe's coal and steel industries in time for Prime Minister Attlee to give the government's views to parliament next Monday.

The talks of the British experts, under the chairmanship of the government's planner, Sir Edwin Plowden, has been complicated by the fact that the French proposals were outlined "in very broad terms," writes the newspaper's political correspondent, Geoffrey Cox.

"The British experts, in effect, have had to work out a plan of their own for the integration of the Western Europe iron and steel industries."

DIES SUDDENLY—John R. MacNicol, former Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Davenport, dropped dead at the airport Sunday night.

John R. MacNicol Former MP Dies At Airport

TORONTO, June 19 (CP) — John R. MacNicol, one of the most colorful figures to enter the Canadian political scene in the last 20 years, died suddenly on Sunday night.

The former Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Davenport dropped dead at Malton Airport, where he is believed to have been waiting for a friend.

An ardent booster of Canada's natural resources, Mr. MacNicol built up a reputation as one of the most widely-travelled members of parliament during his 20 years in the Commons. First elected to parliament in 1930, he was returned in the 1935, 1940 and 1945 general elections but was defeated in his bid for re-election last June.

The portly figure of the Toronto businessman was almost as well known in some sections of the Maritimes and western Canada as in his home constituency.

Had Wide Interests

A man of wide interests and broad outlook, he was always travelling from one part of the country to the other and rarely confined his speeches in the Commons to the needs of his own constituency.

Mr. MacNicol continually called for irrigation projects in the west and power developments in the Maritimes. He often told the Commons that his travels had convinced him that all Canada would benefit from such work.

In 1946 he toured the Maritimes and came back with a suggestion for a canal across the Chegnecto Isthmus, linking the Bay of Fundy with the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

It was not unusual for the grey-haired, bushy-eyebrowed member to enter the Commons laden with specimens of ore or coal picked up from various Canadian mines during his summer trips. One of his pet topics was the need for greater development of British Columbia and Alberta coalfields and of mechanization of the Maritime fields. He pleaded for greater use of the produce of those fields in central Canada.

Toured Canada

His travels carried him to most parts of Canada—to the Shipsaw Power Development on the Saguenay; to the Ohio River watershed; to the ore-loading docks at Port Arthur to Fort McMurray to examine oil developments, and to Aklavik, White Horse and Dawson City.

Asks For 300 Million For Work On H-Bomb

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) —Congressional sources said today President Truman will ask Congress for $300,000,000 to speed up work on the hydrogen bomb. A member of the House of Representatives appropriations committee, asking not to be named, said the money would be used entirely for construction work at existing atomic energy commission installations.

Such a request would mark the first time that money had been asked directly for work on the hydrogen "superbomb."

Socialization Of Industry Is Approved

Red Party Receives 5.5% of Vote; Leader Trails Badly

DUESSELDORF, Germany, June 19—(AP)—The miners and steel workers of the Ruhr valley rejected Russia's policies in Germany and gave Communism a crushing defeat at the polls Sunday.

But while they rejected Communism, the same workers voted for a state constitution calling for Socialization of the Ruhr's basic industries.

The Ruhr workers elected a legislature for their home state of north-west Phalia, in the British occupation zone. It is the most populous state of West Germany, with 9,000,000 registered voters.

The Ruhr once was West Germany's Communist stronghold.

Three years ago, the Communists polled 14 per cent of the vote. They were the third largest party in the state.

Sunday, they received 5.5 per cent, and went into fifth place. Max Reimann, their leader, trailed badly in Dortmund.

At the same time, the North Rhine-Westphalian voters also showed that they have no love for resurgent German nationalism. The noisy militant candidates—some of them with Hitler-like ideas—got only 1.9 per cent of the ballots.

Traditional Parties

The voters turned to their traditional parties—the Conservative Christian Democrats and the Socialists (Social Democratic Party).

The exact nature and extent of possible Socialization is not clear in the constitution. It speaks of "large factories of the basic industries and undertakings which because of their monopolistic position have special significance."

With final provisional returns completed, the Conservative Christian Democrats and the right wing Free Democratic Party had 121 seats in the 217-man legislature, winning 49 per cent of the popular vote. The Social Democrats obtained 68 seats, the Communists 12.

The Zentrum (Centrist) Party, which sometimes votes with the right, sometimes with the left, won 16 seats with 7.5 per cent of the valid vote.

The Communists received their 12 seats on the basis of votes cast throughout the state.

Because the extreme right wingers did not receive as much as five per cent of the vote, they got no seats in the legislature.

Eight-Day Milk Strike Settled In Washington

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) —The eight-day Washington milk strike has been settled and deliveries are expected to be back to normal by tomorrow or Wednesday.

Nine big dairies, which supply the bulk of Washington's milk, had been shut down since June 10 in a strike over a demand by the milk drivers and Dairy Employees Union (AFL) for shorter week without loss of take-home pay.

Lay Charge Against Zoot-Suiter Head

Trio Skips After Beach Raid Smashed, 13 Taken Into Custody

KITCHENER, June 19—(CP)—A charge of conspiring to commit an indictable offence has been laid against Ronald Ashley, 19, of RR 4, Kitchener, said by police to be leader of the armed zoot-suit gang broken up by police in a raid Saturday.

Ashey and two others, Fred Smyth, 18, and Darcy Tanner, 18, are the only three members of the group of 19 still at large. Police have not been able to locate them since they were allowed to go home from the police station Saturday.

Thirteen others, including John Sienek, 23, the owner of the truck in which the zooters had planned to ride to Stratford and Crystal Beach, and John Benin, 23, the driver, were taken into custody during the weekend. They are charged with unlawful assembly. Five others were held Saturday on charges of carrying offensive weapons.

Police said the arrests prevented a sand dune battle at Crystal Beach between the Kitchener youths and a rival gang from Stratford.

There has been bad blood between the two groups for more than a year following a police court session in which several youths were jailed for beating up two Stratford girls.

Police said those charged will appear in court Wednesday.

Burly Gun-Toter Held In West As RCMP Slayer

REGINA, June 19—(CP)—A burly, gun-toting vagrant was in jail here today awaiting interrogation by Montreal police in connection with the May 25 slaying of RCMP Constable Alexander Gamman, 58.

The vagrant, with 26 cents in his pockets, his shoes worn through and a recent bullet wound in his left thigh, was captured by Sheriff Pat Norton near Whitetail, Mont., Saturday night, a dozen miles south of the Saskatchewan border.

The RCMP said the man, who gave his name as Thomas Rossler, 45, made an "oral admission" while in custody here.

"I didn't mean to shoot the Mountie," police quoted him as saying.

Detective Lieut. Russell Senecal of the Montreal city police is expected to arrive here late today by plane to question Rossler.

(In Montreal, Inspector J. R. Lemieux of the RCMP's criminal investigation bureau, said "We're pretty sure this is our man. He answers the description of the man who killed Constable Gamman.")

Threatens Rail Policeman

Gamman, unarmed guard at the Bank of Canada in Montreal, was shot down when he tried to stop an unsuccessful bank bandit May 25.

Last Wednesday, a Canadian Pacific Railway policeman in Moose Jaw, Sask., was threatened in the CPR yards by a freight-riding vagrant who waved a gun at him.

On Friday, Sheriff Horton of Scoby, Mont., received word that the suspect might be heading south over the border. An RCMP plane spotted a powerfully-built man walking toward the boundary.

Horton and Deputies Marven Cutt and Ray Hunter found that a man answering the killer's description had been seen begging in the streets of Whitetail and later had walked south along a dusty, dirty road.

The officers caught up with Rossler, limping and exhausted, two miles from Whitetail. He gave up without a struggle.

Racer Killed On Return Trip

LACONIA, N.H., June 19 — (CP)—Two motorcyclists, one a Canadian, were killed in separate accidents while enroute home from a motorcycle race Sunday.

The race, the 100-mile National Motorcycle championship event, was run without serious mishap.

Police during the weekend cracked down on "hot-rod artists" by temporarily impounding more than 25 of the vehicles.

Police said traffic violations by the drivers ranged from 80-mile-an-hour speeds on State highway to reckless driving.

William Price, 19, of Cooksville, Ont., was killed when thrown from a cycle operated by Jack Edmundson, 32, also of Cooksville. Edmundson escaped with minor injuries.

To Increase Allowance

LONDON, June 19—(Reuters)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is expected to announce to parliament Tuesday that motorists will be given an increase in the £10 allowance permitted when travelling abroad, it was learned today. In addition, the amount of which was not guessed at, would be separate from the normal £50 permitted all tourists for the cost of a holiday itself.

Battle of Shorts Rages Among Ottawa Leaders

OTTAWA, June 19—(CP)—Protestant ministers of the capital, in a letter to the Ottawa Board of Control, today protested vigorously against any proposal to ban the wearing of shorts on Ottawa streets.

Moving against the current "anti-shorts" campaign, six ministers declared that modesty is more than a mere matter of apparel. It is dependent on a proper attitude of spirit, mind and body.

The six members of the central churches registered a four-point objection to the proposed ban:

1. They believed that such a by-law could be the precedent for a whole series of such by-laws which would make life "intolerably regulated" within the city.

2. Such a by-law would cause "unjust and unnecessary embarrassment" to tourists visiting Ottawa.

Curbs Liberty

3. Such a by-law would be "inimical" to the liberty of the subject. There were certain spheres of human activity into which legislation should intrude only in broad outline and not in detail. This was one.

4. Such a by-law, instead of safeguarding modesty, might actually, by narrowing the conception of modesty, prove inimical to its true nature.

The letter was signed by Dean Howard H. Clark of Christ Church Cathedral, the Rev. Terence J. Finlay of St. John's Anglican Church, the Rev. H. C. Vaughan of St. George's Anglican, the Rev. A. Ian Burnett of St. Andrew's Presbyterian, the Rev. Colin F. Miller, of Knox Presbyterian and the Rev. A. Leonard Griffith of Chalmers United Church.

Liberals Choose Leader Nov. 9

TORONTO, June 19 (CP). — The Ontario Liberal Association will meet in Toronto November 9-10 to select a new Provincial Leader.

Dates of the convention were announced Saturday at a meeting of the management committee of the association. The convention was necessitated by resignation as Provincial Leader of Farquhar Oliver, present Leader in the Legislature.

Association President Norman L. Matthews reported that Federal Immigration Minister Walter E. Harris—mentioned prominently for the provincial post — had declined to stand.

Mr. Matthews mentioned four candidates now in the running. They are: Campbell Calder, member of the Legislature for London; W. A. Benidickson, member of Parliament for Kenora-Rainy River; A. St. Clair Gordon, former Provincial Secretary; and Peter Wright of London.

Hero Of Crash? No, Lost In Bar

RENO, Nev., June 19—(AP)—The hero of a flaming plane crash and five-day trek across sun-parched Nevada desert?

Gosh no, confessed chagrined Allan Lee Pearce, 23, of Oklahoma City. He was the victim of a "lost month" in Reno bars.

It started, he related from a cell in the county jail, when an Oklahoma City brunette—whom he refused to identify—refused to get out of bed to keep a date.

Many drinks later and about $1,400 poorer, Pearce was picked up Saturday night wandering in the desert 40 miles northeast of Reno.

He gasped out a story of a flaming plane crash on a flight from Seattle to Albuquerque, N.M., and of five tortuous days walking in the desert.

Police booked him on a holding charge—investigation of airplane theft.

Why the cock and bull story about the plane crash? Well, said Pearce, "I didn't want my relatives to hear about my situation.

"Say, what can they do to a guy for lying?"

The union meeting instructed the UAW negotiating committee to return to Toronto, where previous talks were held.

A Toronto session which started Friday night and extended through the week-end ended today at 3 a.m.

Union negotiators and management representatives assembled here for further talks. A meeting between the union representatives and UAW shop and executive committees also was planned.

The present contract expired today, after being extended for one week.

Will Protect Fishermen House Told

Planning To Curb Foreign Ships Barging Into Area

OTTAWA, June 19—(CP)—The Canadian government is taking measures to protect fishermen of this country from interference by vessels from other nations on the North Atlantic banks, Fisheries Minister Mayhew told the Commons today.

The Minister said these steps were planned:

1. The government was taking up the matter with European countries whose vessels are alleged to have interfered with operations of Canadian fishermen on the grounds.

2. It is sending a patrol boat to the banks to give "what protection it can" to the fishermen, though Mr. Mayhew emphasized the vessel would not be acting as a police boat.

3. It is asking captains of Canadian vessels to keep records of any destruction of their gear or interference with their operations by foreign ships.

The minister was replying to a question from Gordon Higgins (CP—St. John's East), who asked what action was being taken in connection with the endangering of lives of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia fishermen by foreign trawlers.

Pleads Guilty On 60 Charges

NEW YORK, June 19—(AP)—Frank Erickson, boss of a country-wide, multi-million-dollar bookmaking empire, today pleaded guilty to gambling charges that could send him to prison for 60 years.

The pudgy 54-year-old gambling czar, who never spent a day in jail in his life, entered the plea as he was brought into special sessions court for trial.

Reports circulated that Erickson made the guilty plea to protect wealthy, big-money bettors.

District Attorney Frank Hogan said he would demand "the stiffest sentence" possible when Erickson is returned to court Monday for sentencing.

Housing Loans Hit All-Time High In May

OTTAWA, June 19—(CP)—Housing loans under the National Housing Act hit a peak in May, indicating a general upswing in construction trends, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation announced today.

Loans hit the all-time high of $31,000,000 representing an increase of 167 per cent over the $11,651,620 reproted for May, 1949.

The May peak helped drive total loans during the first five months of 1950 to 14,355, valued at $98,447,377. The loans were almost double the 7,594 approved during the first five months of 1949 and the values of the loans almost 150 per cent greater than the $40,000,000 released in the 1949 period.

Plane Crash Just Like Movies

4 Days In Lion-Infested Jungle, 6 Safe

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, June 19 (AP)—Three-year-old Pamela Gafford, from Texas, who survived a plane crash to last out four long days in a lion-infested African jungle, says the whole thing was "just like a movie."

She arrived here Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gafford, of Tulsa, Okla., and three other persons rescued from the wild-game country along the Ethiopian - Somaliland border where their plane crashed last Sunday. Pamela arrived still lugging her doll.

The survivors, all unhurt, include the pilot, Kenneth Horton, of Tulsa. He is reported to be formerly of Brockville.

Pamela said she was never afraid during the four days they awaited rescue by Italian army tanks.

Jackals Pay Visit

Hyenas and jackals made inquisitive nocturnal visits to the wrecked plane but no big wild animals threatened them.

Their plane was en route from Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, to Ethiopia. A broken pin in the gasoline tank selection jammed the fuel line and compelled Pilot Horton to crash land.

"We had sufficient food for a few days and on the third day one search plane dropped more by parachute, but we had no water," said Gafford.

Another dark moment, said Pilot Horton, was when the first search plane to come near passed by without spotting them.

"We built fires, waved handkerchiefs, blankets, but the plane disappeared in the distance. Our spirits sank to a low level."

Stir Up Sand

Horton said he finally got the attention of the search planes after he repaired the motor and propeller of his wrecked plane. The whirling propeller stirred up the sand which attracted the searchers.

Horton eventually got the radio going and established contact with Addis Ababa. Friendly natives appeared on the third day and gave them goat meat and water.

European Payments Union Undertaken By 8 Countries

PARIS, June 19 — (CP) — Foreign Minister Dirk U. Stikker of the Netherlands, said Saturday night that "full agreement" has been reached on a plan to form a European Payments Union.

Representatives of eight Marshall-plan countries have been meeting here to draw up a scheme to make European currencies freely convertible with each other and thus reduce trade restrictions.

The payments union would provide a sort of clearing house for multilateral payment of trade debts, as contrasted with the present bilateral system.

The proposed union goes now to the ruling council of the organization for European Economic Co-operation for final approval. The council meets early in July.

One basic idea of the arrangement is that members will be discouraged from becoming persistent debtors by a requirement that some of their debts be paid in hard money. Britain, short of gold and fearing a possible dollar leak as a result of the payments plan, wanted to make the proportion of gold paid small. Belgium, a big creditor, wanted as big a proportion of gold as she could get.

Last year a similar problem arose in laying down the present payments plan. It was solved by granting Belgium more dollars out of Marshall-plan funds as the country earned bigger surpluses from her European trade.

It is expected that this year Marshall-plan money will be used to help finance the payments union.

Find Boat Upset Two Fathers Missing

PARRY SOUND, June 19 — (CP) — Provincial Police are searching Georgian Bay north of here for Theodore West, 47, and his cousin, Frederick West, 36, who set out in a boat Saturday for a two-day fishing trip. The boat was found overturned and relatives expressed fear the men had been drowned.

Theodore West is the father of 16 children. Frederick West has five children.

Theodore West's wife said a search party today found oil and gasoline cans, believed from the men's boat, on a beach at nearby Parry Island.

"We are hoping they got ashore near Davy Island and are walking home. It's about 20 miles around the bay."

Lifebelts On Wrong Four Drown

Small Boat Upsets When Woman Grabs For Tackle Box

CHATHAM, June 19—(CP)—Four persons were drowned Saturday when a boat carrying five Detroit negroes on a fishing trip overturned in the waters of Rondeau Bay on Lake Erie. The fifth member of the party was rescued.

The bodies of Mrs. Leona Meredith, 33, and Mrs. Dorothy Mae Neal, 37, were recovered late Saturday. Police are dragging the Bay for the other two bodies.

Still missing are Mrs. Meredith's husband, Levi, and Bernard Brown, 43.

Clas B. Hicks, 42, was rescued Saturday by a boat liveryman from nearby Shrewesbury as he clung to the overturned boat.

Hicks, who said he was unacquainted with the other members of the group, told police the boat capsized when one of the women reached over the side to recover a tackle box from the water.

All five clung to the boat, but "dropped away one at a time," Hicks said. Hicks had been in the water five hours when rescued.

All members of the group were wearing life-jackets, Hicks said, but they were strapped on backwards, hampering the wearers as they struggled in the water.

He said the inflation pockets of the belts were at the back, tending to tip the occupant forward in the water.

8 Areas Oppose Amalgamation

TORONTO, June 19 — (CP) — Eight of the 12 suburban municipalities in the Greater Toronto area today filed with the Ontario Municipal Board a joint submission opposing the city's application to amalgamate the smaller units.

Toronto's first application for "progressive amalgamation" was dismissed on a technicality. The city made a new application on which the board today opened hearings.

The joint submission agreed that unification of certain services is necessary, but challenged the city's annexation plan for achieving it.

The brief proposed a Metropolitan area board which would have jurisdiction over certain essential services only: water supply, trunk sewers and sewage disposal, highways and transportation.

The joint brief was from the county of York, the towns of New Toronto and Weston, the townships of Etobicoke and North York, and the villages of Forest Hill, Long Branch and Swansea.

Leaside, Scarboro, East York and Mimico have filed separate briefs.

Delayed Effects From A-Bombing

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—Delayed effects in the form of eye cataracts have begun to appear in some survivors of the atomic bomb blasts in Japan, the United States Atomic Energy Commission announced Sunday.

This first evidence of delayed injury has been obtained as a result of studies under way since 1947.

The Japanese living at Hiroshima and Nagasaki when the United States Air Force dropped atom bombs on those cities in 1945 have apparently recovered from immediate effects such as loss of hair, temporary infertility and blood changes, the commission observed.

Examination of 1,000 persons, most of whom were within 3,000 feet of the point above which the bomb exploded at Hiroshima, has turned up about 40 certain cases of radiation cataract and an additional 40 suspected cases, AEC said.

"The study of long-range effects, such as effects on growth, tumor or eye cataract formation, and genetic changes will require many years," the statement added.

"To obtain definite information in inherited changes it will be necessary to make careful observation not only of the children of those bombed but their grandchildren as well."

The work is conducted by the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission of the National Research Council. The AEC pays for it out of its appropriations.

Ask Italian Quota Increased

WINDSOR, June 19.—(CP).—A call for the increase of Italian immigration quotas to Canada was issued at opening ceremonies of the new Giovanni Caboto Club Sunday.

Addressing more than 800 members of Windsor's Italian community, Don Brown, Liberal Member of Parliament for Essex West, said Italians engaged in construction work in many parts of Canada had contributed greatly to Canada's roads and buildings and left something of themselves in these structures.

William Griesinger, Minister of Planning and Development for Ontario, cut the blue and gold ribbon marking the official opening of the club.

Also present were representatives from the Italian communities of Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, and Detroit.

Construction of the building was financed on a $100,000 bond subscribed to by the 8,000 Canadians of Italian origin in the Windsor area.

30 Head Of Cattle Lost In Barn Fire

BELLEVILLE, June 19.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed a barn, contents and about 30 head of livestock on the farm of Don Carter, Holloway, nine miles north of here, early Sunday. Damage was placed at $5,000.

A fast trip by a Belleville Fire Department pumper and crew was too late to save the Carter barn, but did save another near-by barn owned by Charles Huffman. The Huffman barn caught fire in several places from flying sparks.

Commons Pays Tribute To J. R. MacNicol

OTTAWA, June 19—(CP)—The Commons broke its own rules today to talk about an old, departed, beloved friend.

Prime Minister St. Laurent touched off the tributes to the late John R. McNichol, the Toronto man who sat for two decades in the Progressive Conservative benches and roamed the country doing good.

He said House custom excludes such refrences to former members—Mr. MacNicol was defeated in the 1949 election—but this was one case where no one could object.

"He had none but friends," said Mr. St. Laurent, "for he was a kind and gentle man."

Great Canadian

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, called him "a truly great Canadian who in his long years of public life served every part of Canada as unselfishly as he did his own community."

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said the west and particularly Saskatchewan would long remember Mr. MacNicol for his "broad vision of a future that age never dimmed" and his interest in irrigation and other projects.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the West was grateful to him for interpreting the West to the East and the East to the West and for contributing selflessly to Western development.

Alleged Slayer Goes To Winchell

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—One of two men accused of killing a Garment Workers' Union organizer gave himself up Sunday night. He was accompanied by radio commentator Walter Winchell.

The man, Benedetto Macri, is under indictment for the stabbing of William Lurye, May 9, 1949.

Winchell earlier had predicted that an unnamed accused killer would surrender to him.

The columnist said he will turn a $25,000 reward over to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

The reward was posted by David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union (AFL), two days after Lurye was stabbed.

Macri walked into the West 20th Street Police Station late on Sunday night. Still accompanied by Winchell, he was taken to the District Attorney's office.

Winchell said a rendezvous with Macri had been arranged by a third person "absolutely unknown to me."

Refuses To Postpone Arraignment Of 27

MONTREAL, June 19—(CP)—Recorder Roland Paquette today refused to postpone until Tuesday the arraignment of 27 persons arrested in the federal constituency of Montreal-Cartier during the weekend for distributing pamphlets without a permit.

Police arrested the 28 persons and two children after they hung posters and distributed pahphlets to persons attending church services in the Cartier riding where a by-election is being held today.

The request for the postponement was made by defence lawyer Bernard Mergler. The lawyer entered innnocent pleas for 27 of the accused, who failed to appear in court. Their trial was set for June 26.

The only accused to appear, Pat Walsh, of Quebec, pleaded guilty and his sentence was postponed until the same date.

BOAC Cuts Payroll Staffed Efficiently

LONDON, June 19 — (CP) — Forty-seven persons who two years ago earned salaries ranging from £1,000 ($3,100) to £3,000 a year are no longer on the payroll of the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

The result is, says BOAC chairman Sir Miles Thomas, that the government-owned company has become "a lean, hardy and efficient organization."

Sir Miles makes the claim in a current BOAC news letter.

The merger staffs of BOAC and British South American Airways now total 17,207. This compares with 24,464 for BOAC alone in 1947.

Need Dollars To Get Sugar

LONDON, June 19 — (AP) — Food Minister Maurice Webb told the House of Commons today Britain cannot hope for an increase in the sugar ration unless she has more dollars to spend.

Most of the sugar Britain imports from non-Commonwealth countries comes from Cuba and the Dominican Republics.

Webb said sugar talks with a West Indies delegation "are going fairly quickly" and the Colonial Office may make a statement in about a week.

He said talks "are about long term prices and quantity guarantees from 1943 onwards and not about any extra sugar that may be immediately available since we are already buying all available exported sugar from the Colonies."

The minister said if present world production plans go on 'we will have to be careful about a glut in two years' time."

Afraid Of Getting Wet Let Child Flounder

JORDAN HARBOR, Ont., June 19 — (CP). — Afraid of "getting wet" close to a dozen onlookers watched a four-year-old Hamilton girl flounder helplessly in Lake Ontario Sunday night. A nearby youth, attracted by the watchers' cries, came to the rescue pulling the child to safety.

Sheryl Atkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Atkins, was throwing pebbles into the water when she lost her balance. Robert Pitkeathley, 17, of Hamilton, fishing nearby, rushed to the scene where the child had fallen in, plunged in, and brought her to shore.

Mystery Girl Hunt Starts Once More

BRANTFORD, June 19 (CP)—A will-o'-the-wisp mystery girl, the object of a vain three-day search last week in the Mount Pleasant area, was sought again today by police after a resident reported seeing a girl lying under a tree near the village.

A large-scale search was started last Monday after Albert McAlister, Mount Pleasant farmer, found a girl sleeping in a lane on his farm. It was believed the girl, who fled after she was discovered, might have been Mabel Crumback 19, of York Township, who has been missing from her home since May 28.

After three days of searching by police, reserve army men and scores of volunteers, the hunt was abandoned.

RAF Veteran To Be Hanged For Slaying

NAPANEE, June 19 (CP) — James Fosbraey, 29-year-old English-born veteran of the Royal Air Force, displayed no emotion when he was sentenced late on Saturday to be hanged Sept. 21 for murder in the knife-slaying of his young wife.

A Supreme Court jury under Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, ending the trial which started last Monday, required just less than one hour to return the guilty verdict. He Lordship was visibly affected as he asked the accused whether he had anything to say before sentence was passed. Fosbraey replied "no, sir."

During the trial 60 letters written by the accused while in England and while in jail here were introduced in evidence. The Crown contended the letters contained threats against his wife and that the accused had also admitted in letters written from jail that he had known, five days before the slaying, that "she was going to die."

Fosbraey married the Napanee girl while he was training at Kingston during the war.

Mental Illness

Defence counsel R. E. Nourse suggested to the jurors that they find accused guilty of murder while suffering mental illness.

Chief Justice McRuer in his charge to the jury said "it is not sufficient that the evidence created a doubt in your mind as to his sanity," he continued. The accused need only have been sane enough to "appreciate the nature and quality of the act, and that such act was wrong."

Western Oils Lead Prices On Exchange

TORONTO, June 19 (CP) — Western oil stocks led prices slowly higher in brisk trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Volume for the first three hours was 2,495,000 shares.

Gains ranged up to 35 cents in western oils and some eight issues sold at new tops for the year or longer. Piccadilly, a penny issue, was the most active stock for a good gain. Heavy buying last week lifted western oils ahead over a broad front to the highest average price levels in 13 years.

In base metals, Ascot Corp held the trading limelight following the development reports from the property at Sherbrooke, Que. Anacon, Falconbridge and Quemont were also higher.

Industrials opened lower but pushed into the plus column in mid-session.

Golds steadied from declines last week that pushed key stocks to new lows for the year.

800 Veterans Attend Cobourg Drumhead Service

COBOURG, June 19 (ENS) — Five Zones, representing 25 Legion branches, participated Sunday in a huge drumhead service at Cobourg. Several bands and more than 800 veterans pataded to the park where a special service was held, followed by wreath laying at the cenotaph. Chairman was Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg.

Guests included Major John Foote, V.C., and Charlie Rutherford, V.C. Also on the platform were F. Threadgold of Whitby, district commander; Colonel Gordon King of Cobourg, Padre A. E. Lapke of Belleville; George Galbraith, president of the local Legion; E. Little, district deputy commander; F. Grant, Cobourg and MacIntyre Hood of Oshawa. The wreath was placed on the cenotaph by Charlie Rutherford and Everett Liddle.

Mr. Threadgold told the large crowd in front of the bandshell that this would be the last occasion in some time that the drumhead service would be held in Cobourg as it was planned to rotate the location. He urged the Legion members to unite their efforts in bettering the lot of the returned man.

Rededication Occasion

MacIntyre Hood declared that the occasion was one of rededication to the cause for which so many had died, that of maintaining the principles of freedom and liberty which were the most precious heritage of democratic nations.

"We stand today between two worlds, one world which is dead and one which has not yet been born. The old world died with the dropping of the atom bomb on Japan. Today we are challenged by the problems of the new world that is waiting to be born and we are beset by fears as to what the new world is going to be like when it reaches maturity.

"After the last war, we spoke so glibly of a new world and a new order and we were promised a new earth of peace, contentment and happiness based on the principles of the Atlantic Charter. The new world and new order have not yet arrived and we are finding a bitter disillusionment that these promises have not come true. We are seeing that the victories of democracy are never final and that peace does not necessarily mean the absence of war in one or more of its varied forms. We are today fighting a cold war, an idealogical war, that in some respects is just as deadly as the shooting war," Mr. Hood said.

Existence At Stake

The cold war, he continued, was one in which the very existence of free peoples was at stake. It was a war of ideals, creeds and thoughts and in some respects was a greater menace than a real shooting war. In this war of ideals, the enemies were the powers of evil and darkness, powers which are responsible for the diabolical campaign of Soviet Russia to exterminate freedom and crush Christianity throughout the world, Mr. Hood declared.

"The Russians are seeking to crush the human soul. That is the greatest evil coming out of Russia: not the underground campaign to gain control of the world for Communism, nor the threat to the freedom-loving nations of the world, of Russia's dream of world domination. Fundamentally the world needs no new order but a re-application of the historic Christian ideals. The only road is that which will lead the world to the brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God."

More Fights and Accidents Predicted For Lakefield If Liquor Voted In

LAKEFIELD, June 19 (ENS)—If Lakefield residents vote on Wednesday in favor of a liquor store, warehouse for beer or licences for drinks to be sold with meals, "there will be more accidents, more women drinking, more fights and the police force will have to be doubled", warned the Rev. George Little, editor of Sunday School Publications for the United Church at a meeting Friday called by the Lakefield Citizens League. Three decisions to be made at Wednesday's vote of ratepayers are whether there is to be a liquor store in Lakefield, a warehouse for the sale of beer and whether licences are to be issued to hotel keepers for the sale of liquor with meals.

Walter Walker, manager of the "dry" campaign, urged ratepayers to vote early on Wednesday. He introduced George Heron of Peterborough, who declared:

"An alcoholic for 30 years, I realize fully the scourge of alcohol. I know your village and I can assure you that more than one policeman will be needed if alcohol is brought in. One in 15 of social drinkers in your village will become an alcoholic. I have seen many alcoholics go to an early grave.

"You have good schools in your village, you need the waterworks —think of these benefits which you need."

Sales Deadly Dangerous

Dr. Little, who is a graduate of Yale university, where a research of alcohol is being made, said: "If anyone wished to start a store he could do so, but if someone wants to start a beer business he must get permission. No other business has to have such permission — because the stuff they sell is deadly dangerous.

"It is different from any normal commodity that is sold. Intoxication is temporary insanity—you want to vote to protect the sanity of men and women.

"There is a lowering of morale, a lessening of efficiency in the use of alcohol.

"Public opinion today in Ontario is definitely against drinking together in beer rooms — in public. That is the reason Lakefield is not asking for beer rooms.

Protect Tourist Areas

"Many tourists want to protect their summer areas from the influx of alcohol. Americans who may get alcohol in gasoline stations and drug stores do not need to drive here for liquor.

"Tourists come for a rest, quiet and safety. Tourists who do ask for liquor are the exception and often not desirable visitors. To have a reputation as Musselman's Lake now has would soon ruin the tourist business of Lakefield.

"If you get liquor there will be more accidents, more women drinking, more fights. The police force would have to be doubled—and you are the taxpayers.

"Who is asking for this sale of liquor here?" Dr. Little asked. "Is it the ministers, the school teachers, the doctors, the social workers, the Board of Education, the Children's Aid Society?

Hope To Make Money

"The answer is—the people who hope to make money out of it. These people too, have children, drive cars, are good citizens. Public opinion is becoming more vocal against alcohol.

"About 1,800 Canadians die each year in motor accidents," Dr. Little declared. "Since beer rooms opened in Ontario 300 women have been murdered and 20,000 motorists have lost the right to drive their own cars."

A delegation from Havelock with the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh as spokesman encouraged the temperance workers with the story of their experience of a year ago in Havelock.

Killed In Accident

REIMS, France, June 19—(AP)—Shortly after she had witnessed the unveiling of a monument to her late father, Miss Francoise Maginot was killed near here Sunday in an automobile accident. The father, Andre Maginot, as war minister began construction of the Maginot Line. He died in 1932.

Car Out Of Control Two Men Injured

COBOURG, June 19, (ENS)—When it went out of control after going on the soft shoulder of the highway east of Port Hope Saturday, a car driven by Roderick Harrison of Port Hope ran into a hydro pole. The right front of the car was damaged and Harrison and his passenger, Lawrence Taylor of Port Hope, were taken to the hospital there. Both received cuts and Harrison had two teeth knocked out. Provincial Constable C. Meadows of Cobourg investigated.

Rotary Raises Funds At First Auction Sale

CAMPBELLFORD, June 19 — (ENS)—A wide assortment of articles, varying from coal oil lamps to bullet proof airplane gasoline tanks, passed under the hammer of auctioneer Ray Williams at the Campbellford Rotary Club auction sale in the community centre on Saturday.

Many of the articles at the sale were donated to the club by local citizens, and the proceeds were clear profit for the club. Other articles were sold on a commission basis and were subject to a reserve bid.

Ray Williams, assisted by J. R. Battisby, both licensed auctioneers of Campbellford, donated their services. While the sale was not as large as the club had hoped it to be, it did draw a fair crowd, and Rotary now has a little more money available for community service.

This was the first venture of its kind the club has sponsored.

Field Marshal Smuts

Last week Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts retired from active political life because of critical ill health. He is now eighty. He is South Africa's most distinguished man, and one of the luminaries of of the British Commonwealth which he, philosopher-statesman-soldier, helped to form and guide during the last half-century. On his birthday on the 24th of May all of South Africa, and the whole Anglo-Saxon world paid tribute to this great man. The Union presented him, as a gift of the nation of which he was a chief architect in 1910, a beautiful site and home on the slopes of Table Mountain, Cape Town. It is at his veld farm at Irene, near Pretoria, his family home since 1910, that he now lies critically ill.

* * *

Smuts's career has been an inspiration to the Commonwealth. A brilliant scholar, he passed from his village Boer school to a junior college and thence to Cambridge on a scholarship. He was later to make an outstanding contribution to philosophy through his book Holism and Evolution, to become president of the British Association, and to be elected Chancellor of the University of Cambridge. As a soldier-patriot, he established himself as a tactician through his leadership in raids against the British in the South African war; he became British Lieutenant-General during the first Great War, and a member of Lloyd George's Imperial War Cabinet; later he was named to the highest military rank: Field Marshal of the British Army.

* * *

It is as a South African and Commonwealth statesman that he is most revered. Chief minister in the first Botha cabinet after Union, he was politically a figure of prominence in South Africa ever since, and Prime Minister twice—after the first war in succession to Botha, and from 1939 to 1948. As a Commonwealth statesman—the very name 'Commonwealth' is said to be his inspiration—he has been in the highest councils. He was a directing figure at the Vereeniging peace conference in 1902 after the South African War; at Versailles following the Great War, and at the San Francisco and Paris conferences following the recent war. He was a principal at Imperial conferences. He has been a confidant of kings, presidents and premiers. The form and substance of the British Commonwealth between 1900 and 1945 probably owes more to Field Marshal Smuts than to any other one person.

* * *

Our world must regret the passing from active leadership of this great man, and the illness which has cut across the birthday celebrations which his people planned in his honour.

Parking In Peterborough and Edmonton

Peterborough has two free municipal parking areas, apart from the streets. It is losing one this year, for it is hoped that the new Federal Building will begin to rise on the spot: it is likely to lose the Market Square lot when the new City Hall is finished and the market site sold. The city fathers are now casting around for other possible parking areas, with little success so far.

Edmonton has its parking problems, too. One individual in that booming city is going to capitalize on the situation. This businessman has let the general contract for a 450-car million dollar downtown parking garage. The Edmonton Journal remarks that "private operators are beginning to realize that such a service may well prove highly profitable." We doubt that any Peterborough businessman would venture even a tenth part of a million dollars on a down-town parking garage, or that, if he did, he would find it profitable. It will take compelling conditions to persuade Peterborough residents that they should pay for the privilege of parking for a half-day. Peterborough is not big, boom-town Edmonton, and we here are not used to crowded city conditions and expenses.

Institute For Commonwealth Studies

An Institute of Commonwealth Studies has been established at the University of London; the director will be Professor W. K. Hancock, who was formerly professor of economic history at Oxford. The purpose of the institute, as we understand it, will be to provide a clearing house for scholarly information from all parts of the British Commonwealth on a wide variety of subjects: history, economics, geography, political science, physical science and anthropology are mentioned as its chief concerns. The value of such an institute is clear. It will provide an easy place to get information which could otherwise only be obtained by extensive correspondence with many faraway places; it should also prevent that tiresome duplication of information which holds up so many kinds of academic research work. The principal possession of the institute will be a large library, containing books and unpublished manuscripts on the subjects within the institute's very wide field.

The Institute is to be in a fine old Georgian house in Russell Square. Furnishings for it will be provided by the many countries of the Commonwealth, and mural decorations are to be painted by Henry Bird. It is expected that the Institute will be ready for occupation by the end of this year, but its scholarly work has already begun.

The Commonwealth amuses some countries which are not in it, and puzzles others. It is in fact—as we have pointed out many times—a working league of nations. It takes in countries in every hemisphere, and it contains people of nearly all the principal races of the world. It is admirably fitted to support such an Institute as this, and we predict that if it is well managed it will be of great usefulness to scholars everywhere.

The California Primary

Close attention has been given the California primary throughout the United States, and the event may be of some interest to Canadians, because of its national significance south of the border, and because of the odd form followed in primary elections in the Pacific state. Last week's election resulted in a Republican triumph, when Governor Earl Warren, his party's Vice-Presidential candidate in the last general election, easily defeated James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late Franklin Roosevelt.

In almost all States of the Union, primary elections are simply state-wide nomination meetings. Separate lists of candidates are submitted to the electors by the two major parties; there may be more than two candidates for each office, on either the Republican or the Democratic list. The winner of the primary then becomes his party's candidate in the general election following. In most of the Southern States, winning the Democratic primary is a guarantee of election to office, since the Republicans do not bother to hold primaries, although this fatalistic attitude appears to have been modified recently.

In California, however, all the major candidates in a primary election run for both the Republican and Democratic nominations. This makes the primary a sort of preview of the general election to follow, in this case in November. In 1946, for instance, Governor Warren actually won both the Democratic and Republican nominations, although he ran as a Republican. This year, Mr. Roosevelt easily defeated the Governor for the Democratic nomination, but the latter's combined Republican and Democratic votes still gave him more than half a million margin over the former.

The result makes Governor Warren a leading candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidential election in 1952. He is said to have the support of the recently victorious Duff political machine of Pennsylvania, and the combined votes of those two states would give a flying start to any candidate as popular as Earl Warren.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We are told not to give people straw to make brick. No; give the bricklayer two dollars an hour to lay it. Which isn't hay, even in Toronto.

A ten-man team of shipyard workers in North England has just pitched 129 steel piles, each weighing 3,300 pounds, in one day. An example for Toronto bricklayers now getting $2.00 an hour for laying fewer and fewer bricks?

The British Ministry of National Insurance accepted four cases of writer's cramp as an industrial disease. If it keeps on approving such cases for insurance, its clerks filling out and checking the forms will all be pensioners from the same ailment.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

HERE in Ontario (though not in parts of Quebec and the Maritimes) we are singularly devoid of folksongs. Consequently we are too apt to idealize them, and when we sing them we give them airs and graces that the originals never possessed. It would give some of us a shock to hear them actually sung in the places where they still sing them. I well remember a BBC programme of folksongs relayed from a country pub in one of the more remote districts of Norfolk where the old folksongs are still sung on a Saturday night when the locals gather together for their pint. There was no piano and no attempt at "harmony", though most of the songs had a refrain, in which the rest of the company joined. The soloists did all the wrong things from the conventional standpoint. They held on to the final syllables of each line, and there was no attempt at anything resembling "voice production" or tone colour. Yet these songs had a flavour, "racy, of the soil", that is usually lost in the etiolated arrangements with fancy harmonies which we hear in more sophisticated parts of the world.

BEFORE the war I used to hear of various improvements, such as long-playing needles and records being blocked by "vested interests" in the gramophone industry. I was given to understand that under a system of state planning such a monstrous suppression of new inventions would disappear. It did not occur to me that the chief vested interest lay in the owners of existing gramophones, which would be rendered obsolete. Now we have jewel-tipped needles which will play almost indefinitely. Of course they cost a good deal more than the old-fashioned metal needles, but they are much more convenient and are supposed to cause less wear on the records. More important than this, the long-playing record has arrived. Unfortunately this necessitates a new machine capable of turning the table at a low speed. An additional disadvantage is that there are two new speeds, sponsored by different companies. The orthodox speed is 78 revolutions per minute, while the two rival new systems work at 45 and 33 revolutions per minute. It is possible to buy a machine capable of playing at any of these three speeds. The great advantage of the new systems is that at long last it is possible to play through a whole symphony or concerto without changing discs. Even with an automatic change there is an awkward gap in the music when the change takes place, which is eliminated under the new systems. It is claimed that the new records are truer to the original performance, with less background noise. I am informed, however, that there is a certain amount of "buyer resistance" from the "vested interests" who still possess a serviceable radiogram of the old type and are unwilling to scrap it. I cannot entirely blame them. There is another complicating factor—the wire recorder. This fascinating instrument is easily operated, and will reproduce speech and music with a high degree of fidelity. The "record", instead of being a disc, is a strand of thin wire, which is wound from one spool to another something like a typewriter ribbon. It should, I imagine, be perfectly possible to put on sale wire recordings of music, but at present the instrument is of use mainly to businessmen and teachers of music and elocution.

THERE are three kinds of piano concerto. First, there is the concerto for piano against the orchestra, a battle-royal between the soloist and the rest, as exemplified by Tchaikowsky's B flat minor concert, of which the general public appears to know the first forty or so bars, and no more. Curiously enough, after starting with the well-known Big Tune, Tschaikowsky drops it completely, and nothing is heard of it for the rest of the concerto. There are several concerti of this type written during the latter half of the nineteenth century. They are the products of the iron-frame piano, which is capable of making itself heard above even the most strident orchestral din.

The second type, the concerto for piano with orchestra, is a much more satisfactory type. Instead of trying to shout each other down, the two elements of the concerto engage in a civilized dialogue, sometimes combining together, sometimes separately. This type of concerto was originated and brought to perfection by Mozart, though there are later examples, notably the Schumann concerto.

The third type holds less musical possibilities, though it is a useful vehicle of display for the virtuoso, and generally appears to favour a warm lyrical (not symphonic) style, with plenty of luscious melodies. I am of course referring to the concerto for piano with orchestral accompaniment. Here the orchestra plays a very subservient role to the soloist, who has it all his own way. The ever-popular Grieg concerto and the two Chopin concerti are examples of this type.

There is also a fourth type, which is not strictly a concerto, in which the orchestra definitely has the upper hand, and the piano is treated as a privileged member of the orchestra. Typical of this is Walton's Sinfonia Concertante. The piano concerti of Brahms are mixed, and show features of types one and two. Modern writers of concerti are still too much obsessed with type one, and it is high time that they returned to the dialoguing and the delightful interplay of equally balanced forces that Mozart achieved.

THE first postwar edition of The Musicians' International Directory is to hand. Of course, a work of this nature is bound to be incomplete; nevertheless I was surprised to find no mention of Dr. Healy Willan, doyen of Canadian musicians, with an international reputation. It is full of intertesting information. Some musicians certainly have unusual hobbies! One is interested in electrical engineering, another in "watching sunbathers", while yet another cultivates dogs and mathematics. Ladies usually omit their age, showing that even musicians are human! In addition there is a good deal of information concerning various musical institutions and societies, articles on musical coypright, and lists of music publishers, ticket agents, music critics, instrument makers, and so on. If you want Sibelius' telephone number, here it is. If you want to buy a harpsichord or enter for a musical scholarship you will find the information listed under the appropriate heading. This is a book that every public library should possess.

The Fasting Woman of Tutbury

A VERY large number of women embark on a slimming diet at least once in their lives, and many of them spend a great deal of time in talking about their weight and their efforts to reduce it. Most of them seem to agree that dieting is the most efficacious way of doing reducing and dieting, in many cases, seems to mean moderate starvation. Roy Christian, a schoolmaster who enjoys delving into local history, in a recent BBC broadcast told a remarkable tale about a woman who, in the early years of the nineteenth century, dieted so rigorously and for so long that she became famous. The lady was Ann Moore, known as the Fasting Woman of Tutbury. She was about forty when she came to Tutbury in Staffordshire. Her looks were fading, her farm labourer husband had deserted her and her past was best ignored. It was towards the end of 1806, when she was forty-five, that she claimed to have lost all desire for food. This was really a matter of necessity for she was extremely poor. After a time she found that she could exist without food for comparatively long periods without any apparent loss of strength. In the following spring Ann, who possessed considerable intelligence even though her morals were open to question, decided that her growing local reputation might be put to some commercial use. She took to her bed; with occasional sips of tea and the Bible as her only means of sustenance. In June she finally renounced all food and shortly after this was said to be "gradually diminishing her liquids." Fifteen months afterwards two doctors investigated her claims and sixteen of the town's leading citizens, watching in pairs for four hours at a stretch, stayed at her bedside for sixteen days and, in case any fraud might be in the offing, the bed and its occupant were moved to the house of a member of the investigating committee. It has never been found out how Ann managed to deceive this "watch committee" but it can only be supposed that one of them was a friend who smuggled food to her. Whatever her methods were she managed to convince them that she had gone sixteen days without food and the last thirteen without drink.

IN the next five years she became a national figure and visitors came from all over Britain to gaze and marvel at her. Even the poet Wordsworth and his sister came to call and other distinguished and fashionable visitors left behind tokens more tangible than mere respects. It was estimated that at one time Ann made some four hundred a year from them. In 1812 a Scottish doctor called Alexander Henderson came to call. He was unimpressed by the previous enquiry and demanded a more searching investigation into the remarkable powers that Ann was alleged to possess. Ann was unwilling to submit to another ordeal but eventually had to agree and the new test began in April, 1813. The watchers were all clergymen, doctors and magistrates who left nothing to chance, even placing a weighing machine under the bed and keeping a careful record of Ann's weight. On the ninth day this dropped alarmingly and it seemed that she was about to die. The watch was called off and Ann's daughter sent for. Two hours later the patient became much better and protested vigorously that there had been no deception, but later on she broke down and admitted that she had taken some nourishment during the previous five years. Christian said that on reading the evidence in old newspapers it would seem that Ann Moore did truly possess extraordinary powers of fasting and it was not really surprising that an astute woman desperately short of money should turn her unusual talent to good account, especially when she could make a good living from it without doing a stroke of work. She left Tutbury in disgrace after her exposure and was not heard of again until she and her daughter appeared at a house of correction at Knutsford, charged with stealing from their lodgings. "We are not told what she stole," said Christian. "I wonder if it was food?"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge?

Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou me. Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who hath stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? or who laid the corner stone thereof?....

Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?.... Who hath put wisdom in the inward parts? or who hath given understanding to the heart? (Job 38: 1-6, 31, 36.)

Letter To The Editor

MINOR HOLES IN CHARM

Sir: A visit to Peterborough after an absence from Canada of 15 years is proving a very happy experience. The quiet dignity of your city and the beauty of the surrounding country cannot fail to impress one.

The bus service is excellent as is also the street signal system covering a wider section than is the case in some larger cities in the United States.

If I may add one little criticism it is this: The buses are very smart looking—reminding one in their silver and scarlet of the Santa Fe diesel engines—are of light construction and they vibrate unpleasantly when passing over the unevennesses of the streets. Would it cost excessively to have these bad spots in the road filled in and smoothed out and thus make quite perfect the charming town of Peterborough?

PERPETUAL GALE WARNING

Davis Shuman Invents New Trombone

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—David Shuman has invented a new trombone.

Now, wait, don't rush off. This really concerns an act of mercy.

For years—hundreds of years—trombonists have been stretching themselves out of joint, have suffered dancing eye balls and gone lame in the pitching arms.

The principle obstacle has been the slide. It slides straight forward, right in the line of fire of the music stand, and this is hard on the players eyes. The trombonist has to point his slide downward, throwing the sound down and losing much of it in the basement.

Now, at long last, these dangers and difficulties are reduced. Now even a midget can play a trombone.

For Davis Shuman has invented a trombone which slides off to the right at an angle, somewhere between 30 and 45 degrees.

Eliminates Fatigue

"The big advantage," says Shuman, "is that my trombone eliminates fatigue. It breaks out of the straight-jacket of the old trombone and makes possible a new freedom and gracefulness."

Shuman, 37, baldish and gray, is an authority on the problem of the trombone.

"I'm hoping more people will learn to love the instrument," he says, "and more composers will write for it. Men like Beethoven, Brahms and Mozart limited the trombone to very brief or very slow passages in a symphony. They'd give it eight or 16 measures and then let the trombonist rest.

"Now, with my new slide, composers no longer need to worry about the fatigue problem. The trombone is no longer a weak stepchild in the orchestra."

Funeral Service Held For Lawrence A. Nolan

NORWOOD, June 19 (ENS)—The funeral of Lawrence Alfred Nolan, Norwood, was held Friday from the Tedford funeral home. The Rev. E. E. Pugsley of the United Church officiated.

Mr. Nolan was born in Monmouth, England, 70 years ago, the son of the late Benjamin Edmunds and Elizabeth Powell.

Mr. Nolan received his education in England. He came to Norwood 20 years ago from Northern Ontario, where he had spent 15 years. He was a retired merchant and a member of the Baptist Church.

He is survived by three sons: Lionel and Keenie Edmunds of Norwood, David Nolan and a daughter, Patricia, at home.

Pallbearers were Gerald Baker, Harry Baker, Robert Gordon, Jack Stewart, John Nixon, Ernest Haig.

Lewis Wants In

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—John L. Lewis Saturday told the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations that leaving him out of their pending co-operation conference is no way to achieve national labor unity. The big outfits are getting committees together soon on common problems. Lewis cited reports that his United Mine Workers might not be included, although he said they hoped to be. Such a plan would be "hardly conducive to national success," he observed.

3 Escape Injury

BARRIE, June 19 (CP)—Three Toronto youths escaped uninjured Sunday when their seaplane capsized in Lake Simcoe as it was taxiing for a takeoff. John Charest, the pilot; Arthur London, and Hector Bellingham, escaped from the overturned aircraft through a window. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

Heads UAW Council

TORONTO, June 19 (CP)—Roy G. England of Windsor, was re-elected president of the District Council of the United Auto Workers Union (CCL-CIO) in annual elections Sunday. England is president of the big Ford Local 200.

"SANDBAG" JOINS ARMY—"Sandbag," a feline veteran of the Winnipeg floods, was adopted by members of the Royal 22nd Regiment after she was found wandering on a sandbag dike. The kitten is shown on her arrival at Montreal with Pte. P. E. Graham of Brockville, Ont.

Young Ladies' Group Through For Summer

NORWOOD, June 19 (ENS)—The June meeting, which is the last meeting for the summer of St. Andrew's Young Women's Auxiliary, was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Earl Spencer, Belmont Rd. In the absence of both the president and vice-president, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. J. Rogers.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Rod. Webb and Miss Isobel MacMillan led in prayer.

Mrs. Waddell was guest speaker and told of the missionary work of Miss Caroline MacDonald, who was born in the Scottish settlement of Wingham, Ontario.

Mrs. Stanley McMillen gave a reading from the Glad Tidings "What does an Anniversary Mean." Seventy-five years ago the Presbyterians who were working separately came together and formed the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Mrs. Rogers gave a brief outline of the semi-annual meeting held at Port Hope, at which Mrs. Toombes of Campbellford, a returned missionary from India, gave the address. The dedicatory prayer was given by Mrs. Wm. Shearer of Westwood, a former member of the auxiliary.

The members decided to hold an afternoon tea and sale of baking on June 28 on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Neil Rogers, as a closing activity for the summer.

Mrs. Spencer displayed a bale to be sent to the Indian children of Northern Canada.

It was also decided that a fall rally would be held in the church in October.

A luncheon was served by Mrs. Spencer and her joint hostesses Mrs. Arthur Davey, Mrs. Clifford Davey, Mrs. Kenneth Kavanagh and Mrs. Jack Rogers.

Doctors Getting Wise Now To Disease Fooling Them

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—Doctors are getting wise to a disease that has fooled them more almost than any disease ever did.

This fooler has made them think a person had any one of 60 other illness. It's a mocking bird among diseases, imitating things it isn't. It is far more common than polio.

It has a terrible name—infectious mononucleosis (mahn-oh-new-klee-oh-sis). Another name is glandular fever. It makes you fell rotten. But it's not nearly so bad as its name. With rest, it goes away by itself and rarely causes complications.

But is can be especially wicked when it makes doctors suspect you have some fatal disease. Blood tests unmask the real culprit.

This disease can make doctors suspect cancer of the blood (leukemia) or cancer of the lymph glands (Hodgkin's disease). It can lead them to suspect tuberculosis, kidney or liver disease, mumps, measles, syphilis, food rash, chickenpox, meningitis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, tumors, nerve, eye or heart diseases, to mention some.

Any Mistakes

One medical report says 25 different diseases were diagnosed in 61 patients before they were show to have monoucleosis. Other reports add 10 other mistaken diagnosis. One physician puts the total number as high as 60.

Twenty years ago, infectious mononucleosis was scarcely recognized. Today it is fairly common, but there are no figures on how many persons get it.

Children and young adults are the main victims. It bursts forth in epidemics, or may occur here and there for no apparent reason.

It probably is caused by a virus. In epidemics, it is probably air-borne, says an account of the disease in the new eighth edition of the Merck Manual, a source-book for physicians.

It brings an increase of white blood cells having one nucleus, hence the name mononucleosis.

Petes Edge Oshawa, 5 To 3 In Smart Senior Ball Game

Downing Oshawa Merchants 5-3 here Saturday, the Petes took a firmer grip on third place in the Viaduct Major League standing. They played good ball before about 600 fans on a chilly day and cashed in on Oshawa errors for the victory. On earned runs, it should have been a 3-1 win for Oshawa. The Petes were leading 3-0 till the fifth when two walks, a single and a triple by Vic Napalitana tied the count, but the Murphyites got two back in their half and it ended that way. Both pitchers, Tony Delaurentis and Bill Edger, were in good form, throwing low-hit ball, though Edger was wilder than usual. But bad throws by the Merchants figured in four Peterborough runs. Peg Hurst and George Ticcony were in good arguing form to keep things hot in a snappy encounter.

Reeled 'Em Off

A feature of the fixture were four double-plays by the Petes to cut off Oshawa threats. Danny Brown figured in all four, and one twin killing—Dadson to Brown to Garvey—was a big league play. The visitors reeled off one two-ply killing and also featured in the field with catches by Napalitana and Bitman. Each twirler hit a man and there were several wild pitches.

Danny Brown, with two for four, and Joe Lowrey with one in two led the Petes' batters, as Freddy Garvey hit a long triple to left and Brown got a two-bagger. Roger Wood topped Oshawa at the plate with two in three, and Ted Barnes pounded out two in four trips. Napalitana drove in three runs with his triple.

Got One Early

The Petes got a run in the first when Lowrey was hit, moved up on a wild pitch and raced home on an overthrow to first by Napalitana on Garvey's grounder. They added two in the third on a single by Lowrey, Garvey's resounding three-bagger and an out. Their last pair came in the fifth. With one out Wilson beat out a roller, was forced at second by Dadson with the latter then stealing and moving to third on Ticcony's high peg, and racing in on a double by Brown. The latter took third on a bad throw by Delaurentis and crossed the plate on a low peg by O'Shaughnessy on Estlick's grounder.

Oshawa threatened in several frames but bunched their three runs into the fifth stanza. Two were away when Bitman drew a walk, Delaurentis singled and Barnes drew a free ticket to load the sacks. Then Napalitana smashed a hard triple to the fence in left field to score his three mates. Their other threats usually were cut off with double-plays.

Orioles Trip Red Wings 3 Times In Row

By The Associated Press.

Baltimore Orioles' pitching staff is the talk of the International League today.

Russ Bauers, Bill Kennedy and Irv Medlinger accomplished what no other pitcher has done so far this season—shut out the pace-setting Rochester Red Wings. They performed this amazing feat in three consecutive games during the last two days.

Bauers, veteran righthander, started the ball rolling when he blanked the Wings 4-0 Saturday to become the first pitcher to whitewash the Wings this season.

Southpaws Kennedy and Medlinger carried on by blanking the Wings 6-0 and 1-0 Sunday. Kennedy scattered six singles in posting his sixth victory and third shutout. Anse Moore and Butch Woyt accounted for all of Baltimore's runs with their seventh homers.

Medlinger restricted the Wings to two singles in the seven inning nightcap and drove home the only run of the game with a double in the second inning. It was Medlinger's fourth victory.

Cuts Lead

The defeat cut Rochester's lead over the runner-up Springfield Cubs to half a game. The Cubs divided with Montreal Royals winning the opener 4-3 but dropping the nightcap 17-2.

Les Peden singled Bob Talbot home from third base with two out in the ninth inning to win the opener for relief pitcher Frank Lamanna.

The Royals snapped their nine-game losing streak with a 15-hit barrage in the nightcap.

Split Doubleheader

Syracuse split a pair with Toronto Maple Leafs, dropping the opener 6-4 but taking the finale 1-0 behind the one-hit pitching of Eddie Blake who gained his fourth victory without a loss.

Catcher Ed Oswald singled in the second inning for the only hit off Blake. Elbie Flint, who homered in the opener, drove home Russ Burns with the game's lone run in the fourth inning.

Art Hartley had the Leafs beaten 4-0 going into the eighth of the opener when Toronto erupted for six runs to pull the game out. Ed Sanicki featured the rally with a pinch-hit homer.

Jersey City Giants took both ends of a twin bill from the last-place Buffalo Bisons 6-5 and 10-2.

Training For Swim

DOVER, Kent, England, June 19 (Reuters)—Philip Mickman, brawny young Yorkshireman who last August swam from France to England to become at 18 the youngest successful swimmer, has begun training for the return trip. Philip has set his mind on tackling the 21 mile swim "the hard way"—from England to France, with less friendly tides.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Surprisingly enough, a goodly number of Peterborough chaps worked at one time or another in Detroit—many through the boom years of the 20s. Our recent mention of having lived there drew a lot of comments and questions. All of the "Do You Remember" theme. Well, we recall five rather exciting years through the late 20s and into the next decade in the Motor City of the States. We saw Jim Thorpe, greatest athlete of the half-century, finish out the string in pro football. Also saw Ty Cobb, tops in baseball, conclude a great career. Babe Ruth frequently showed there, as did stars like Tris Speaker, George Sisler, Walter Johnson, and so on. We saw most of the games staged in Navin Field down at Michigan and Trumbull.

* * * * * *

And we trekked to Windsor to see the races and also to see Detroit Cougars—later the Red Wings—perform ere they built the Olympia out at Grand River and McGraw. Went for a roller-coaster ride at Granada Park — where the dips and dives were much bigger than at Sunnyside—with Irvin Bailey when he was in town for a game, the Ace having just signed with Toronto Leafs. Lot of good hockey seen from the plush Olympia seats where one folded the overcoat o'er the back of the padded pew and bought ice cream cups from vendors during the puck fray. Morenz, Shore, Clapper, Noble, et al. Purple Gang was strong then, a mayor was recalled from office after a radio commentator was shot, rum running was a daily game of tag on the river (USA revenue boats could only go halfway across) and watched with interest by spectators, and good-paying jobs were plentiful. Till the crash, that is. Yes, we liked Henryfordsville.

Doesn't Oshawa, Argue?

A visit by the Oshawa senior ballsters always intrigues us as they argue so much. Good arguments, mind you, and we admire a fighting club in any sport. But they really get hot. Manager Peg Hurst was in his old fighting form, and George Ticcony was as ready to argue as he was last year. Some of the other USA college imports, too—and there were four or five in the lineup—felt the men o' Murphy and the home umps didn't know the score. So, 'twas a double pleasure when we yanked out that 5-3 win. It cemented the locals in third slot in the Viaduct Loop standing. A nice one to win at this stage as the club has some tough ones coming up, including a jaunt tonight to New Toronto.

* * * * * *

Both Bill Edger (despite a touch of wildness) and Tony Delaurentis were in good pitching form, and it was a neat ball number all the way on Saturday before a fair crowd. Oshawa errors cost 'em the contest, their imports kicking in with five boots that gave the Murphyites four unearned runs. But the Petes cashed in on every opportunity, hit in timely style and reeled off four nifty double-plays. Dalton wasn't on deck, at that. Garvey is playing a lot of fine ball for the Petes this season, and our whole outfield goes well. Brown was in on all four twin killings, and Dadson was in top form. They all did well, with Brown and Lowrey leading the hitters. A nice number to view.

Let's see now about senior lacrosse, another popular summer sport in this 100-year-old borough. Brampton Excelsiors, now tied with the Petes just out of first place, are here Wednesday and there'll be a replay of a postponed joust at Miller Bowl on Friday. Bunny Morganson, official OLA news mouthpiece, writes in the Tely: "Red Creighton's boxla bouncers have maintained a championship pace since the campaign started, winning five of their six games. The smooth-playing Bobby Thorpe and the rugged Dootch Vitarelli hit the scoring jackpot with six goals each for the successful homesters."

* * * * * *

Local junior OLA-ers opened their schedule here Saturday eve, but dropped a 7-5 decision to Toronto Maitlands in a neat number. Plenty speedy all through and quite even after an early lead racked up by the Torontos, who looked okay. So did Lou Vitarelli's young huskies and it ought to be a right interesting group race. Nickle and Jones of the visitors scored in the first, with G. Robinson getting the only one of the second. Whitnell tied it in the third but Bond and Davison later put the others two up. In the fourth, B. Robinson, Whitnell and Heffernan counted for Petes but so did Barton and Craig for the winners. Locals got 11 of the 20 penalties. They're at Weston tonight.

LAWN BOWLING

The Family Hour mixed rink tournament on Saturday night went over big. Of course, it was no ordinary Saturday night. It was the annual visit of members of the Hillcrest Lawn Bowling Club, Toronto, close to 50 making the trip. All in all there were 30 mixed rinks playing and, in spite of the chilly evening, everybody seemed to be having a good time. At the conclusion of the three 7-end games, a friendly hour was spent in the club parlors. Bob Hendry and Geo. Soulby, who are responsible for the Saturday night tournaments, did one swell job—they handled it in a big way.

Tonight, the club singles begin. Tuesday night the men commence the Tip Top Tailors tournament at 7.30 o'clock.

P-W Club Gets Neat Win From Toronto

By C. H. IRESON

Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club defeated Toronto "A" team at Armour Heights on Saturday by 199 for four wickets to 125 in a Toronto District Council match. It was a fine win, the third in council play, A. Pope making a great initial appearance for the season, the former member of the Derbyshire County team going good. W. Wright had 53 for his highest score and was in while 103 runs were scored. F. Booth, captain, has now scored 169 at an average of 42.25.

Batting first, W. Wright and B. Roberts had the score at four when Roberts was out. F. Booth joined Wright and they took it to 103 when Wright was out for a fine 53. E. Cotton (12) joined Booth and made it 119 for three and, when Pope joined Booth, 80 were added before Pope was out for 40, including six fours. With the total standing at 199 for four wickets, the inning was declared closed with Booth's score 89 not out including nine fours. It was the club's highest score in years and Booth equalled B. Roberts' high of 84 against Grove on May 24.

Toronto bowlers had a rough time of it, the best being M. Snively with two for 64. They made a good start against the large score at bat. One was down for two but following bats soon made it closer, taking the count to 115 for six wickets, but the later men failing and the total stopping at 125. High scorers were: J. Shirreff 35, F. W. Cayley 31, T. Mills 29. A. Pope followed up his good innings of 40 by taking six wickets to 47, well backed up by Booth with two for 19.

Following is a summary of the scores:

UEW Loses, 3-2 To Ottawa In Soccer Loop

Ottawa Combined Services soccer eleven defeated Peterborough UE 3-2 Saturday afternoon in an Eastern League game before a good crowd at RCAF Sports Field, Trenton. They scored the winning goal in the last minutes of the game, with Lockwood and Lambe being outstanding, along with Hutchinson in goal and Steel for the local boys.

The spin of the coin favored the UE in the early stages, as they had the wind at their backs Within 15 minutes Ottawa reversed the situation to score through Lambe after some loose play by the UE defence. Immediately Strong broke away fast on the right wing to leave Featherstone in possession; he shot for the corner but the goalie saved and G. Foster scored from the rebound. UE came into the picture and was an aggressive combination, and Featherstone was brought down illegally. Tom Foster was trusted with the kick, but shot wide of the mark. On an individual effort on the nice raid, Strong put the UE in the lead with a beautiful goal..

Aided by the strong wind, Ottawa dominated the play to find Hutchinson, UE custodian, brilliant, but he had to concede defeat when his defence man Murduff was evaded nicely by Laing who passed over to Lambe who evened the count. Ottawa consolidated their attack to find Hutchinson in an unbeatable mood until he was injured in clearing his charge. Ottawa gained the winning counter when Currie broke through to pass over to Hall who was unmarked to score the winning goal. UE replied with a determined try and Duffus in the last minute went right through to sky the ball right in below the cross-bar.

Ottawa — J. Birrell, goal; Diamond and Birchall, backs; Kelley, Lockwood and Wilde, half-backs; R. Laing, J. Lambe, Currie, Hall and Kinsella, forwards; subs, Chambaylo, Stevens.

UE — J. Hutchinson, goal; E. Downer and S. Murduff, backs; J. Craig, T. Foster and H. Steel, half-backs; R. Strong, A. Boyd, G. Foster, A. Featherstone, and E. Duffus, forwards; subs, J. Chamberlain.

Referee—J. Adams, Peterborough.

Irish-bred Noor made it three in a row over Mighty Citation on Saturday with a world-record shattering 1⅛ miles at Golden Gate Fields in Albany, Calif. The time was one minute, 46 4-5 seconds, clipping 4-5 of a second off the old mark.

Roman In was third.

The five-year-old son of Nasrullah, sold by the Ali Khan to the late Charles S. Howard, proved his superiority with a tremendous stretch run after trailing the five horse field until the far turn.

On Trust ran fourth and Stepfather fifth and last.

Noor beat the old record jointly held by Indian Broom, Shannon II and Citation's stablemate, Coaltown.

Noor paid $5.60 and $2.30. Citation, the 3-to-5 favorite, returned $2.20 for the place position. There was no show betting.

The touring English All-Stars Sunday downed the United States select squad 1-0 before 8,241 fans in an international exhibition soccer match at New York's Triborough Stadium. The teams were in a scoreless deadlock at half time.

The victory gave the Britons a record of nine victories and one tie for their long goodwill tour which took them through Canada before their lone appearance in the United States.

Weary from an all-night train ride from Windsor, where they trounced the Ontario All-Stars 9-2 Saturday night, the All-Stars were not at their best and played without two ranking stars—Stan Matthews and Jim Taylor, both of whom suffered minor injuries in the game against Manchester United at Toronto last Wednesday.

At Arcadia, Calif., Jerry the First, taking charge of the race in the drive down the stretch, captured the $50,000 Golden West pace for the second straight year Saturday at Santa Anita Park.

The six-year-old chestnut, owned by Eddie Cobb and Jerry Burdick of Washington Court House, O., and driven by Cobb, finished 1½ lengths in front of the California-bred Patchen Axworthy, while the popular Dr. Stanton faded back to third place in the field of 10 standard-breds.

Don McEwen, Michigan's brilliant two-mile star from Ottawa, and the defending shot-put champion, Jim Fuchs of Yale, shattered records in Saturday's finals of the NCAA track and field meet at Minneapolis.

McEwen ran his vaunted Indian rival, Jim Newcomb, into the ground, as he won the two-mile by 100 yards in 9:01.9, shaving seven-tenths of a second from Greg Rice's 1939 NCAA record of 9:02.6.

For the second straight day, Fuchs topped the shot-put mark with a winning flip of 56 feet, 11 3-16 inches. Friday, Fuchs broke his own 1949 record of 56-1½ with a toss of 56-7¼.

Ralph (Cooney) Weiland, who coached Boston Bruins to two Stanley Cup victories, Sunday night was named hockey coach at Harvard University.

Weiland holds the distinction of being the only professional hockey player to be named both a National League all-star player and all-star coach.

He set the league record for the most points in a season when he tallied 43 goals and 30 assists as a member of Boston Bruins in 1929-30, still a record for 44 games. He piloted the Bruins to victory in the Stanley Cup playoffs in 1938-39 and 1940-41.

Don MacFarlane of Western University, London, Ont., Sunday beat Arthur Wint of Jamaica, 400-metre Olympic champion, in the 400 metre event at Amsterdam's Olympic day athletic meet, witnessed by members of the Netherlands Royal Family. MacFarlane won with a time of 47.5 seconds, compared with Wint's 47.8.

MacFarlane then went on to win the 800 metre race, with an exciting finish over Jan Kist of the Netherlands. The Canadian put on a spurt in the last 50 metres to come in in 1:56.8. Kist's time was 1.58.0.

Toronto Takes OLA Win Over Juniors

By FRED MAYBEE

Toronto Maitlands gained the nod 7-5 over Lou Vitarelli's locals FSaturday night at Miller Bowl as the junior OLA season opened here. Chily weather prevailed but the fans who braved the elements were treated to a great all round display of lacrosse as both teams maintained a fast pace throughout. Play was rugged, too, and referees Kinna and Fitzgerald of the local senior squad meted out 20 penalties including a misconduct to Bond, with the homesters drawing 11 miscues.

Toronto took a two-goal margin in the first but Peterborough passes began to click in the second as they shut out Maitlands and Gary Robinson stung the cage on a neat one at 4.57.

It was nip and tuck from there on as the summary indicates with no marginal superiority either way in play over the route, but the visitors managed to hold their early advantage to eke out a close win. The Vitarelli squad as a whole looked well balanced with a heavy, powerful starting squad ably supported by reserves.

Maitlands—Goal, Stewart; defence, Nickle, Jones; centre, Richards; wings, Forbes, Parkinson; rover, Woods; alternates, Cheeseman, Craig, Powell, Smythe, Barton, Bond, Devonshire, Davison.

Peterborough—Goal, Nicholls; defence, Killingbeck, Beavis; centre, Heffernan; wings, Batley, Wyatt; rover, O'Reilly; alternates, B. Robinson, Whitnall, G. Robinson, Vincent, Shearer, Burns, Hickson.

Referees— Jerry Fitzgerald, Jim Kinna.

In Semi-Finals

LONDON, June 19 (AP) — Sweden, Italy and Denmark joined Poland Sunday in semi-finals of the European zone Davis Cup eliminations. Italy's defending champions had the roughest sailing, being forced the limit before expelling Belgium, 3-2. Trailing 1-2 going into the final day, the Belgians pulled level when Philippe Washer turned back Italy's Rolando Del Bello, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

Tigers Trounce Boston 10-2 As Yanks Take Twin Bill

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

"If we could only beat Boston we might have a chance."

This was manager Red Rolfe's stock answer to spring queries regarding Detroit's pennant chances for 1950.

Rolfe's Tigers won only seven games from the Red Sox in 1949 while losing 15. They finished fourth, 10 games behind New York Yankees. That was the number they won from Boston in 1948 when they finished fifth.

The Tigers have met the Red Sox a dozen times thus far and have come off with nine victories. That is the chief reason why the Bengals are leading the rest of the American League by two full games today.

Detroit made it nine victories in the last 10 games Sunday by trouncing Boston 10-2. Art Houtteman allowed seven hits, but two of them were homers by Ted Williams and Vern Stephens to account for Boston's runs.

The Tigers' 12 hits included four-baggers by George Kell, Aaron Robinson and Hoot Evers.

Yankees Cut In

Despite the victory, Detroit's first place margin was shaved a half game by the Yankees who whipped the Browns 15-5 and 9-0 in St. Louis.

Cleveland's Indians blasted Philadelphia Athletics twice, 7-0 and 21-2. After Bobby Feller blanked the A's with two hits in the first game, the Indians scored a record 14 runs in the first inning of the nightcap.

Brooklyn's Dodgers climbed to within a half game of the National League-leading St. Louis Cardinals by whipping the Redbirds for the third straight time 9-0. Philadelphia's thirdplace Phillies moved to within 1½ games of the top tripping Cincinnati Reds 4-3 and 4-2.

Trounce Cubs

The Giants trounced Chicago Cubs 6-0 and 10-5 to keep up to within a half game of the fifth place Bruins. Boston's Braves won their sixth straight defeating Pittsburgh 8-6 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second was called after nine innings on account of darkness with the score tied at 8-8. The game will be replayed tonight.

A scheduled doubleheader between Washington and the White Sox in Chicago was postponed by rain.

Cleveland's 14 runs was the most ever made in the first inning. The previous high was 13 made by the Braves in 1900 and the Giants in 1911. The A's held the American League mark of 12, set in 1937.

Three other clubs since 1900 tallied 14 runs in an inning. They were the Yankees in the fifth inning in 1920, the Cubs in the fourth in 1922 and the Red Sox in the seventh in 1948. The old Chicago Nations got 18 in the seventh inning of a game in 1883 for the all-time scoring record.

Piston Engines Likely Around For Some Time

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

There are all sorts of Rolls-Royce legends and, like other legends, some of them are untrue.

One says that you can't buy a Rolls-Royce motor-car, that you can only lease it. That is not so.

Another says that the engine is sealed in the car and can be serviced only by Rolls - Royce mechanics. That also is not so.

The company does ask owners to send their chauffeurs or whoever is responsible for servicing the car to attend the Rolls-Royce instruction school. Generally the owners do this.

If some legends are not true, there are some other facts which are not generally known.

U.S.A. Mistake

One of the company's mistakes, for instance, was tao establish a car factory in the United States. It was no go. Americans didn't want a Rolls-Royce made in the United States—they wanted one made in Britain.

Another thing: The company dobsn't make bodies for its Rolls-Royce cars. It makes the engine and chassis and the body is made to the buyer's taste by separate coach builders.

Only in its other line of cars, the Bentley, also in the high-price range, does it produce a finished assembly-line car.

For the air, Rolls-Royce produces engines and complete power plants for other airplane makers. It is essentially a maker of engines, but this takes its plants, from 'he British Midlands to Glasgow, into many fields of research, including, of course, aerodynamics, the principles of flying.

Trying Everything

At Hucknall, in Nottinghamshire, for instance, you may see something like this:

A Lancaster bomber fitted with two jet engines and two istpon engines; the epistons to take care of the plane while experiments are made with the jets. Another Lancaster has five engines, one in the nose with a network of pipes in front of it which sprays water on the engine while in flight. This creates icing conditions which are recorded on a camera.

Jets have taken over the largest part of new production; but the piston engine is far from a thing of the past, and research continues on i.t

In jets, the Rolls-Royce Welland and Derwent were the only jet engines to be used by the Allies in active service. In 1945 the Gloster Meteor, powered by two Derwents, set the then unheard of world speed record of 606 miles an hour.

Engines developed since the war, in addition to the Derwent V, include the Nene, really a scaled-up Derwent, the Dart, the Avon and the Ray.

Avro Canada's C-102 Jetliner is at present powered by four Derwents and its CF-100 fighter has vo Avons, though Avro intends .o use its own Orenda engines at a later date.

Russia's Navy Dept. Given Large Grant

MOSCOW, June 19 (AP)—The Supreme Soviet Saturday adopted a budget providing more than 15,000,000,000 rubles for Russia's new navy ministry.

(At the official rate of four rubles to the United States dollar this would be $3,750,000,000.)

The figures were announced by Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev just before they were approved by the council of the union and the council of nationalities—the two houses of the Soviet parliament.

The full defence budget as approved by the Supreme Soviet totalled 79,400,000,000 rubles. Of this, 64,000,000,000 rubles is for the separate war ministry.

Police Investigating Death Of DP By Tracks

SMITHS FALLS, June 19 (CP)—Police are investigating the death of Petro Gach, 36-year-old displaced person, whose body was found Sunday lying beside the Canadian Pacific Railways tracks about a mile west of here.

Police said a leather band had been found tied about the dead man's neck raising the possibility of foul play. An inquest will be held Friday.

The dead man arrived in Canada about a year ago and had been employed at the nearby farm of Calvin Sturgess.

Tennis Club Set

LAKEFIELD, June 19.—(ENS).—The Lakefield Tennis Club was re-organized over the week-end, with the following executive named:

Honorary president, W. C. Grant; president, Bill Dilledonne; secretary-treasurer, Trevor Lillico; assistant secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. D. Wilford.

Nets have been donated by Walter Killoran and the court is being resurfaced by King Beamish and Jack Kane. Fees were set at $2.00 per couple and $3.00 per family.

H. Cowan Wins Top Prizes In Circulation

Examiner circulation manager H. B. (Bert) Cowan has been awarded prizes for circulation programs on both the Examiner and the Kingston Whig-Standard.

Mr. Cowan won first and second place in the class for North American newspapers with circulations between 15,000 and 40,000. The Examiner won first place and the Whig-Standard second. Third was the Olean (New York) Times.

Prizes will be awarded at the International Circulation Managers' convention, to be held from June 19 to June 23 at Manoir Richelieu, on the St. Lawrence.

Third Win

This is the third time that the Examiner has won top circulation awards. First was in 1938 when the Peterborough paper won the Bingham Trophy for having the best newspaperboy salesmen in its class on the continent.

Second was in 1943 when Mr Cowan was named "circulation manager of the year" by the convention.

This years award, for the best circulation program, was planned by the circulation department in conjunuction with the newspaperboys.

2 Small Fires Doused Over Weekend

Two small fires—one caused by sparks from a chimney and the other by a discarded cigaret butt—were snuffed out by firemen over the weekend.

But for the prompt action of Gordon Moncrief (Moncrief's Dairy, Charlotte St.) a roof fire that broke out on a wooden storage shed Saturday noon would have been more serious.

Noticing the shingles ablaze he turned on a garden hose and kept it from spreading. Firemen completed the job with a booster line. Damage would not amount to more than $10.

Formerly a horse barn, the shed, located at the rear of the store, is now used for storage. Sparks from a chimney fell on the tinder-dry shingles and started the brief blaze.

Somebody—either carelessly or deliberately — Sunday afternoon flicked a cigaret butt onto the awning at Art Bacon's men's wear store, Charlotte St.

A passerby noticed the fire and turned in the alarm. A hole was burnt in the awning.

OSHAWA FIRE HALL

Oshawa Municipal Council has a let contract for a new fire hall to cost $114,586, the bid of Douglas Redpath, North Oshawa, lowest of five.

'House A Home' New Slogan, Dollars For West

And don't forget the fire victims in Rimouski. Already the mayor of Rimouski has publicly expressed fears that not enough funds are forthcoming from various sources to meet the need there.

The Examiner will be glad to forward any cheques made out either to the "Manitoba Flood Relief Fund" or the "Rimouski Fire Fund."

Farmers wishing to go to Woodstock Wednesday for the grass silage demonstration are advised by John Kitney that the larger 37-passenger bus will be available if that accommodation is required.

Farmers are requested to telephone Mr. Kitney, W. W. Dawson, Harold Lewis, or Miss Evelyn Scott at the office of the Department of Agriculture not later than noon Tuesday.

Drunken Driver's Car Impounded 3 Months

Arrested Saturday night on a charge of drunk driving, Gordon Fader, RR 5, Peterborough, was today sentenced to seven days in jail when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Provincial Corporal Lloyd McClure testified he received a call about a car in the ditch on Highway 7 near the Lindsay turn on Saturday night.

"We went out and on the way we met the vehicle driving towards the city very fast, and swerving. We saw it force several cars over on the shoulder of the road," he said. Traffic was heavy at the time.

When Fader was taken to the police station, the corporal said, he "wanted to do a lot of phoning," and was very unsteady on his feet.

Fader offered no evidence. His car was ordered impounded for three months.

Lions Club Swimming Pool Opened By Hon. Ray Lawson

"This happy and historical occasion will go down in the memory of the citizens of Peterborough." With these words, the Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario began his address at the official opening of the Lions Community Pool on Saturday evening.

The Lieutenant-Governor went on to say that the construction of the pool was a symbol of the story of Peterborough, revealing the city's community spirit, courage, loyalty and interest in the younger generation. He stated that this splendid achievement of the Lions Club would not only provide amusement for persons of all ages, but also would be instrumental in saving many lives.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Lawson poured water, which had been taken from the Otonabee river, into the pool and declared the Lions Community Pool officially opened.

Mr. Lawson was presented with a silver pitcher by Lion Doug Anderson to commemorate the occasion and Mrs. Anderson presented Mrs. Lawson with a beautiful bouquet of red roses. The lieutenant-governor was introduced by Lion Bert Sisson.

He thanked the citizens for their support and predicted that the pool would be completely paid for by the end of the season.

Jim Marshall, president of the club His Worship Mayor M. Swanston, Lion Rev. Cecil Moore, all paid tribute in brief addresses to the magnificent courage and self-sacrifice of Doug Anderson and the other members of the pool committee T. F. He succeeded his father in the farm equipment business. For many years he was secretary of the Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen, and largely because of his leadership, Peterborough became the usual place for the convention to be held.

Left are his wife, the former Myrtle Northey; a daughter, Joan Agnes, and two sons, Donald N and Glenn N., all of Peterborough.

Other brothers and sisters are Mrs. Frank Graystock (Annie), Peterborough; Mrs. Lester Fraser (Jean), Lakefield; Mrs. Ross Comrie (Mabel), Keene; David N. McIntyre and Ross McIntyre, Otonabee.

Two Blocks, 50 Houses Each Expected To Be Built; Occupy Completed Houses

Prospects of the building of another 100 houses this season in two blocks of fifty each have been mentioned in substantial reports of the last week. One is the definite undertaking of Cobourg Lumber Company who bought six weeks ago the Cecil V. Hayes property west of High St. The other is indicated in intimations that Reynolds Construction Company are interested in securing a property for fifty houses somewhat similar to those they have been building for Central Mortgage and Housing Company.

Cobourg Lumber Co. bought sufficient land for 70 houses, but their plans have been held up for approval of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development.

The company had expected to be in construction weeks ago when the announcement was made of their land investment. It is understood that their intention is to proceed with 50 of their projected 70 houses, and that ground is likely to be broken in a few days. Streets have been laid out and other preliminaries completed.

Only 40 Remain To Finish

Reynolds Construction Co. have completed south of Lansdowne St., the last of the Central Mortgage and Housing Co. dwellings allocated in that area. Of the 326 units of their contracts only 40 remain to be finished in Ashburnham. Work south of Lansdowne St. has reached the ultimate stage of landscaping.

South of Lansdowne St., Central Mortgage was financially interested in the 128 houses of Housing Enterprises Limited, and also in 286 houses of the projects which were let to Reynolds Construction Company. The Arndon block was another subdivision successfully carried through to occupation.

Several others are in various stages of progress, apart from the private housing that has been carried on during the period of multiple building. Present work is advanced south of Cameron St. and east of Monaghan Road, and another project has been laid down for west of Monaghan Road in the Cameron St.-Orpington Road section.

Biggest Boom In History

It is not an exaggeration to say that the mushrooming of houses south of Lansdowne St. from the river at the lock bridge all the way to Erskine Ave has been the greatest development in the history of Peterborough, and the end is not yet. The whole aspect of that area, virtually a new community, has been radically changed within a few years.

The city and citizens of Peterborough have made a big investment in those sub-divisions since the several annexations of the North Monaghan suburb were accomplished. And, the credit of the Dominion government through its Crown company, Central Mortgage and Housing, has been largely used in that rapid and spacious expansion.

From Central Mortgage and Housing it was learned that every one of the new houses completed by Reynolds Construction is occupied. The last of them are located south of the CNR between Monaghan Road and Erskine Ave. And the file of applicants for housing is still active, with 40 of the 326 houses built by Reynolds Construction yet to be finished in Ashburnham.

Fire At Norwood Wakens Village From Night Sleep

NORWOOD, June 19 (ENS) — The village of Norwood was astir from its bed in the early hours of today as residents were wakened by a fire which threatened the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Richardson and the nearby funeral home.

The fire was in Dr. Richardson's barn, now used as a garage, and although the house and the funer' home were threatened, actual damage was confined to the barn and Dr. Richardson's car, which was inside.

Mrs. K. Tedford called the fire brigade and water was played on the walls of the two nearby buildings to protect them from catching fire.

The barn was a wooden building with a stone foundation and burned for approximately two hours. At 3.30 a.m. the remains of Dr. Richardson's car were pulled out of the barn by the wrecker.

Dr. Richardson resides in Toronto. His summer home, which he and Mrs. Richardson were occupying last night, is situated between the funeral home and St. Paul's church.

Woman Suffers Fractured Leg

Struck by a car as she attempted to flag a bus on George St. Saturday, Mrs. George Ball, 579 Homewood Ave., was taken to hospital with a fractured right leg.

Driver of the car, Thomas Garland, 690 Ross St., told police he was backing his car into a parking space on the east side of George St. near Murray St.

Police said Mrs. Ball apparently stepped from the curb into the space between two cars. Garland said he could not see her. She was examined by Dr. H. G. Carleton. Her condition was described today as satisfactory.

US Creates Lumber Shortage

TORONTO, June 19 (CP)—Big United States demand—at good prices—has caused a serious lumber shortage in Canada.

So bad is the situation, it was learned Saturday, that many retailers are unable to fill the orders of regular customers.

Lumber-market informants said the increased flow of lumber to the United States has caused trouble for Canadian builders—and that the worst apparently still is to come.

Some Ontario retailers are considering informally the advisability of asking the federal government to impose export restrictions such as were applied during the war.

But many feel nothing would be gained by such a request, it was reported.

"The cabinet probably would tell us to go to the devil," said one retailer, "because both the Bank of Canada and the government want those American dollars badly."

Trade sources said producers in British Columbia, the Maritimes, Quebec and Northern Ontario—chief Canadian lumber regions—"are just shooting the stuff across into the States and getting splendid prices."

Hope Situation To Ease

OTTAWA, June 19 — (CP) — Canada is facing a period of tight lumber supply but prospects are that the situation will ease with the end of the big summer building rush, an official of the Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation said Saturday.

It was not so much that Canada actually was short of lumber, he said, but prices were going up in anticipation of one. The lifting of restrictions in March of lumber exports to the United States, combined with a "terrific American shortage" had boomed the market in this country with U.S. builders buying huge orders of Canadian lumber.

Inquiry Opens Into Shortage Of Newsprint

WASHINGTON, June 19. — (AP).—A House of Representatives committee begins a two-week investigation of the newsprint industry today. Its announced aim is to determine whether an artificial shortage has been created to limit supply and zoom prices.

Newsprint, most of which comes to the United States from Canada, is the paper on which newspapers and related publishing firms are printed. During and since the war it has been in tight supply generally throughout the world.

For today's hearings, the committee called spokesmen for two of the leading publishing organizations—Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and William P. Canfield of the Inland Daily Press Association.

The investigating group is a monopoly study sub-committee of the House Judiciary committee, and is headed by Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem., N.Y.) It recently completed a series of hearings on the steel industry.

Study Shortages

In advance of the hearings, Cellar announced that the investigation was intended to determine "whether present or threatened shortages (in newsprint) result from violation of existing anti-trust laws or any world-wide cartels."

Celler indicated that much of the investigation would have to do with Canadian suppliers, who furnish around 80 per cent of all newsprint used in the United States.

He told reporters that the committee expected to produce evidence intended to show that Canadian provincial governments and manufacturers operated together to limit production and maintain high prices. Canadian officials have denied this.

Committee staff members were armed with data intended to show that price-fixing agreements and production allocations were widespread from 1938 to 1941.

While a Congressional investigating committee would have no influence on foreign firms, it could prompt legislation which could prevent American business participation in an international arrangement to divide world markets.

Committee staff workers said this could apply to domestic newsprint firms with foreign connections.

Textile Worker Wrests Lead From Red Party

By GEORGE BRIA

ROME, June 19—(AP)—A devout little Roman Catholic is wresting the hammer and sickle from Italy's Communists.

Giulio Pastore, pint-sized former textile worker from industrial Piedmont, has hit Communism where it really hurts—on the labor front.

Once a feeble, unheeded voice in the all-embracing Red-dominated Italian General Confederation of Labor (CGIL), the 48-year-old Pastore now commands a formidable array of anti-Communist workers. His 1,600,000-strong Italian Confederation of Trade Unions (CISL) has crippled Communist efforts at peacetime sabotage.

Three years ago Communists dominated a labor army of 7,000,000. Today frantic pep talks by Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti and his labor boss, Giuseppe De Vittorio, throw doubt on their public boasts of still controlling 5,000,000.

"At best," said Pastore in an interview, "the Communists don't have more than 2,500,000.

"And we're just starting."

Quite a Change

Viewing Italy's split labor ranks it is hard to recall that Pastore once sat side by side with Communist Di Vittorio in the gigantic CGIL, pursuing a dream of strength through unity.

The larger, disciplined, compact Communist forces methodically gained control of the confederation.

In July 1948, Pastore walked out of the CGIL, pulling 1,000,000 workers with him.

"We at last realized where the Communist brand of unity was leading," he said.

Pastore formed the Christian Democrat Free Labor Confederation. Republicans and right-wing Socialists also quit the CGIL soon after and set up the Italian Labor Federation. These anti-Communist groups worked side by side for two years. Early last month, they merged into the CISL, headed by Pastore.

Helps Capital

In Italy's bitter labor-capital struggle, Pastore acknowledges that the split in labor ranks helps capital.

"Management exploits the division," he said. "Moreover, Communist methods have aided management by creating public opinion unfavorable to labor."

Pastore, father of nine children, worked for 18 years in a textile mill. He is a founder of the popular (Catholic) party, which was outlawed by Fascism and reappeared after the war as the Christian Democrats. During the German occupation, he was jailed in Rome for underground activities.

Goes To University

TORONTO, June 19 (CP)—Dr William H. Watson, assistant director of the atomic energy project at Chalk River, and one of the world's leading authorities on radar, has been appointed head of the psysics department at the University of Toronto, it was announced Sunday night. He succeeds Professor E. C. Bullard, who returned to England early this year to be director of the National Physical Laboratories there.

Heads Delegation

LONDON, June 19 (Reuters)—M. W. MacKenzie, Canadian Deputy Minister for Trade and Commerce, arrived Sunday heading a delegation for discussions on Anglo-Canadian trade. The delegation will attend a meeting this week of the continuing committee on trade and economic affairs set up three years ago for discussions between British and Canadian officials.

British Industry Staging New Deal for Aged Workers

LONDON, June — (Reuters) — British factories which once turned away all but the youngest and strongest job hunters are today staging a huge "new deal for the aged" to bring grey-haired pensioners back to work.

Thousands of men and women in their 60s and 70s—and a few in their 80s—have already returned to their benches.

Industrialists, doctors, scientists and government officials have co-operated in the scheme.

Employers got used to the idea of elderly workers during the wartime labor famine. And full employment policies, with more jobs available than workers to fill them, have kept up the number of old people still working.

Latest figures prepared by the Ministry of Labor showed nearly 1,000,000 men and women of pensionable age at work.

Postpone Retirement

This "new deal" for old age pensioners has not developed solely out of the nation's economic necessities. The experts have long been alarmed by the fact that the average age of Britain's labor force is increasing rapidly.

In 1941, only one person in eight was of pensionable age. In another 20 years, the proportion will pass the one in five figure.

But, in a period of full employment when an elderly worker cannot be said to be keeping a young man out of a job, the experts began to specuate if more workers might be persuaded to postpone their retirement to aid the nation's production effort.

At Cambridge University in 1946, a team of scientists began a study of the labor capabilities of the elderly.

Learn New Techniques

Working with a grant from the Nuffield Foundation—a £10,000,000 ($31,000,00) trust set up by motor magnate Lord Nuffield—the team has decided that pensioners, if healthy, are not only capable of useful productive work, but can learn new industrial techniques.

They learn more slowly than young men, but they learn more carefully, they take much better care of their tools and they waste less material.

Several big industrial firms have been testing the theory.

One of the first was a famous Midlands engineering firm. Last fall, it established a "Sons of Rest" centre, attached to its factory. This was in some ways a social centre for old employees, but with the unique distinction that its principal purpose was to provide opportunities for those who wanted to work.

A warden was appointed in charge of the centre and light machinery was installed in a special workshop. All employees of the firm, when they reach 70, are transferred to the Sons of Rest organization. Some, if they have lost at least 50 per cent of their efficiency, transfer at 65.

Proves Self-Supporting

They come to the centre when they feel inclined and there is work there for them if and when they want to do it, often tasks like filling or brazing, which they can do sitting down.

While they work they are paid a minimum flat rate per hour, plus piece rates according to their output. The scheme, though still an experiment, looks likely to prove self-supporting.

This pioneer scheme has convinced many industrialists that they can boost production while giving many pensioners a more satisfying life than they would have in old people's homes or pottering about a home.

An organization known as the National Corporation for the care of old people is spreading the idea.

Einstein Urges Bomb Surrender

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 19 (AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein suggested Sunday night that the United States and the Soviet Union surrender their atomic bombs to an international authority.

He advocated also systematic disarmament for all countries and establishment of world government.

The scientist stated his views in a United Nations radio interview recorded in the study of his home at Princeton, N. J., and broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting System as part of an hour long program on the atom. Einstein did not name the United States and Russia but those two powers are the only countries known to have atomic bombs.

Einstein said a remedy for the present tense situation can not be found in preparing for the event of war "but in starting from the conviction that security from military disaster can be realized only by patient negotiation and through creation of a legal basis for the solution of international problems supported by a sufficiently strong executive agency—in short, a kind of world government."

New Operation Saves Woman

CHICAGO, June 19 —(AP)—A kidney from a dead woman has been transplanted in another woman which doctors say is the first of its kind.

Dr. Richard M. Lawler said the surgery was performed Saturday in little Company of Mary Hospital and that the patient was in "good condition" today. Her condition was normal and she had talked to her husband.

Dr. Lawler, a member of the hospital staff and senior attending surgeon at Cook County Hospital, directed the operation. It was begun 10 minutes after the death of the donor of the healthy kidney and required 1½ hours.

Dr. Lawler removed the diseased kidney from Mrs. Ruth Tucker, 49, of Chicago.

The healthy kidney from the dead woman, in an adjoining operating room, was removed by Dr. James West, also a staff member.

Working simultaneously, one team of surgeons removed the diseased kidney from Mrs. Tucker while the other team removed a kidney from the dead woman.

Dr. West handed the healthy kidney through a door to Dr. Lawler and within 45 minutes, the transplantation had been completed and blood was flowing through the kidney placed in Mrs. Tucker.

Fifteen Fatalities In Ontario Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press:

Drownings accounted for seven deaths and traffic accidents for six in the list of 15 fatal accidents reported in Ontario during the weekend.

Besides the drownings and traffic fatalities there was one death by illuminating gas and in another case a man was found dead near Smiths Falls under mysterious circumstances.

In all of eastern Canada a Canadian Press survey showed today that altogether 23 persons lost their lives by accidental means.

The worst mishap was the drowning of four Negroes from Detroit—two men and two women—in Rondeau Bay on Lake Erie, 25 miles southeast of Chatham.

A double drowning occurred in the Snye River near Wallaceburg when a boat carrying four young persons capsized.

Florence Cohmer, 15, and Johnny DeRooy lost their lives while two others managed to swim ashore.

The other drowning victim in Ontario was Tommy Fisher, 12, missing for some days, whose body was found in Lake Ontario at Clarkson.

Boat Upsets

The drowning of the four persons in Lake Rondeau occurred when their boat overturned while on a fishing trip last Saturday.

The victims were Mrs. Leona Meredith, 33; Mrs. Dorothy Mulby, Levi Meredith and Bernard Brown, 43.

The bodies of Mrs. Meredith and Mrs. Mulby were recovered and dragging continued for the woman's husband and Brown.

Among traffic victims were two young men killed near Rockland, when their motorcycle collided with a truck. They were AC. Glenn A. Ralston, 19, of Alix, Alta., and Archie McKinley, 22, of Pendleton, Ont.

There was still no identification today of the girl, aged about 19, who was struck and killed by a truck in East Toronto early Saturday.

Killed By Truck

Donald J. Gallson, 23, was killed when a truck overturned near North Bay. Seba Hogeterp, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hogeterp, was killed by a truck near Simcoe, and seven-year-old D. R. Phillips was killed when a truck overturned near Renfrew.

Police from Smiths Falls are probing the death of Petro Gach, 36, whose body was found near the C.P.R. tracks there with a leather band tied around the neck.

At Toronto Veronica Ayres, 39, was found dead from illuminating gas poisoning in her apartment.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: One night some time ago I glanced through your column and happened to see a recipe on how to make "Homemade Soap" and I failed to keep the recipe.

I have a lot of dripping, grease and tallow saved from roasts which I would like to make into soap and wondered if I could get the soap recipe from you. B. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Homemade Soap

Five pounds lukewarm melted grease, one pound can of lye, one quart cold water, three teaspoons borax, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, ½ cup cold water, ¼ cup ammonia. Stand well back while you add the 1 quart of cold water to the lye and let stand until cool, then add the fat slowly, stirring with a stick, constantly. Mix the other ingredients together, then stir then into the first mixture, and keep stirring until the mixture becomes thick and light colored. Pour into a pan or square box lined with a heavy cloth. Se sure to make a deep mark into the slab of soap to cut it into cakes of the size you desire before it hardens, and it will be broken easily into cakes. The cloth in the pan or box makes it easy to lift out the slab of hard soap when ready to cut into bars.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I have been reading your column and certainly enjoy it. I would like your calorie chart and some of your recipes.

Since Jan. of 1950 I have lost 32 lbs., but the last 2 months have stood at the same weight of 164—would like to lose 25 to 30 lbs. more.

Have you a recipe for fruit cocktail that isn't too rich. I also like maraschino cherries and wonder if you have a recipe for them. Thanking you. Helen W.

Fruit Cocktail (for reducers)

(Four portions) Sections from 1 grapefruit and 2 oranges freed from membrane with sharp knife, 1 banana cut into cubes, 12 large strawberries halved, one-half of a fresh pineapple shredded, not more than 2 tablespoons fruit syrup from peaches ,or maraschino cherries. If you have no syrup on hand use not more than 1 tablespoon sugar to sweeten this). If you have maraschino cherries on hand slice about 6 into this for appearances, but they are too sweet for reducers. If this is to be kept for any length of time do not add the bananas until the last minute.

✧ ✧ ✧

Maraschino Cherries (Homemade)

(This is not the commercial method but more suitable than it for home practice. The commercial method involves bleaching the cherries and this is too complicated and risky with home equipment.)

Three pounds Royal Ann Cherries (weighed after pitting), 3 lbs. granulated sugar, 1 ounce almond flavoring, 1 cup water.

Method: Soak the cherries in cold water for 2 hours then pit them keeping them whole as possible. Weigh. Put sugar and water in kettle and boil until sugar is dissolved (being very careful not to let it scorch.) Add the coloring and cherries and cook as slowly as possible until cherries are really red and the syrup is fairly thick. Remove from heat, cool somewhat, add flavoring, let stand until cool, then pour into sterile jars and seal to make airtight. These keep very well, but it is advisable to keep them cold.

QUESTION: Would you kindly send me a calorie chart?

Could you tell me the calorie requirements for a working man. My husband works in an auto plant and I feel that he would require more than a man that just sits in an office all day, although that may be wrong entirely. How many calories would be needed to just sustain his weight and how many to reduce? How many calories does a woman need each day both to sustain her present weight and to reduce. How many calories in a glass of grape juice? Is there less than in orange juice?

Mrs. T. M.

ANSWER: A man weighing 154 lbs. doing very active work requires 4500 calories per day. If he wants to reduce he should cut his caloric intake by 500 calories. This is not much of a drop—actually most rich desserts like apple pie with ice cream have 500 cal. but if he is to keep up his work and not become ill-natured he must not make a drastic change.

A moderately active woman weighing 123 lbs. requires 2500 to sustain her present weight, but should drop this to 1800 calories to reduce about 2 lbs. every 3 weeks.

One small glass of grape juice contains 91 calories because it contains some added sugar. One small glass of orange juice contains 54 calories.

QUESTION: I wish to thank you for your information regarding the different vitamins. I can assure you I found some most helpful and appreciate the information you gave me very much.

At your convenience I would appreciate if you would kindly let me have further details in instalments on each vitamin as mentioned. Mrs. M. C.

ANSWER:

Instalment No. 1: Vitamin A: Dietary sources high in Vitamin A: beet greens, carrots, dandelion greens, kale, fresh liver, mustard greens, spinach, squash, sweet potatoes, turnip greens, parsley, fish liver, broccoli, butter, cantaloupe, cheese. (Please note that most of these foods are yellow and green—and a common heading used for Vitamin A sources is "the Yellow Vegetables".)

There is an increased need of this vitamin in infancy, pregnanac and lactation. Injudicious use of mineral oils may cause poor absorption of this vitamin.

The skin changes caused by a deficincy of this vitamin are most apparent. Eruptions, dryness, roughness of skin are common. Malformation of tooth structure is sometimes caused by lack of Vitamin A.

Watch this column next week for 2nd instalment of Vitamin B.

Nagging Man Makes Home Unsbearable for Wife, Family

DEAR MISS DIX: Twenty-five years ago I married a man who has proved to be the world's greatest nagger. We have two boys, fine chaps, all that any father could wish. I have an amiable, easy-going disposition and never answer my husband back when he nags, but nothing that any of us ever do pleases him. He finds fault with our every act and everything we say. When he is at home he does nothing but grouch. I have kept the boys off at school ever since they were little fellows just to get them out of such an unpleasant home atmosphere, and as soon as they have finished college and are on their own, I am going to leave my husband so as to try to have a few years of peace. My brother-in-law advises me to warn my husband of my intention, but I don't see the necessity of it. Should I or should I not tell him that there is a limit to even my endurance?

MRS. M.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: I have never yet known a nagger, male or female, who admitted to being one. Nor have I ever seen a reformed nagger. Possibly they can't reform because nagging gets to be a habit and they don't know when they do it.

A Hopeless Case

So I regard your husband as a hopeless case and do not see what good you would accomplish by telling him in advance that you are going to leave him as soon as the boys are out of college. I don't think he would profit by the warning.

Certainly nobody can blame a woman for leaving a nagger. But there is such a thing as jumping out of the frying pan into the fire, you know, and when a middle-aged woman divorces her husband, even one who has serious faults, she frequently finds herself in a worse estate than she was before. Therefore, don't think that just getting away from the nagger will transport you to the regions of the blest; because it wont.

But what a tragic and pitiful thing it is that a man who has all of the elements of domestic happiness in his hands should throw them away and make all about him miserable by his disposition! He has a good home that should be a place of peace and rest and harmony, but he turns it into a hell of discord by his temper. He has a wife who loved him, but he killed her affection by his ceaseless fault-finding. He has fine sons whose comradeship should be the joy of his life, but he alienates them from him and makes them fear him by his nagging.

What a price to pay for the lack of self-control!

DEAR MISS DIX: I have spent many years preparing myself for a profession in which I have good prospects of success and for which I feel myself particularly fitted. I feel that it is the only work in which I could be happy and contented. But the girl to whom I am engaged insists upon my giving up my profession and going to work in my father's business in order that we may be married sooner. My father thinks that there is more of a future in my line than in his, and it is with this thought of added success and consequently more leisure for my future wife that I have held off from doing as she wishes. What would you do?

A PERPLEXED FIANCE

ANSWER: A girl knows perfectly well that when she makes a boy marry her before he has got on his feet and is financially able to support a family she dooms him to perpetual poverty. Yet because she is tired of getting up and punching the time clock, or because all the other girls are getting married, or because she is afraid she might lose the lad if she didn't have a legal hold on him, she simply forces him into marrying.

And is she satisfied then? Not at all. She reproaches him with their poverty, with her lack of pretty clothes, with all the innumerable hardships that an ill-advised marriage brings about, and thus still weakens his morale and takes the last bit of courage out of him.

And if a man lets a woman make him give up the work he has fitted himself for and in which alone he can find contentment of spirit, he seals his own doom. He will be a failure because he will try to do something that he is not fitted for. He will be bored by uncongenial work and he will never cease to reproach his wife for having ruined his career.

No woman who is not willing to wait until a man is ready to marry and who is not anxious for him to succeed in his career will make a good wife.

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there any cure for a conceited husband? I am so tired of hearing mine brag about himself and entertain all our visitors by telling them how much he makes, and how great and wonderful he is.

SARAH

ANSWER: If there is any cure for conceited people, I do not know what it is. Criticism rolls off them like water off a duck's back. If you don't think them the world's masterpieces, they just set it down to your lack of intelligence.

Your only consolation is that a man's vanity delivers him into your hands. A conceited man is as easily worked as a piece of putty. You can flatter him into anything.

"It's a fire in the women's dormitory!"

Barbecue Skewers Take Place Of Frying Pan on Camp Fire

By MARY MOORE

Even my own beloved family darkly suspects me of having gypsy blood, but I would rather eat a hamburg cake fried over an open campfire, out-of-doors, than filet mignon cooked under a broiler, from a mahogany dining table.

Basket picnics have their place too—even if I do seem to praise them half-heartedly,—but it is only because they should contain a super-flavoured potato salad—not for sandwiches. (I pack three sandwich lunches five days per week so sandwiches are taboo for a picnic for me.)

In order to simplify the amount of equipment we have to pack when we are camp-fire bound, we are using a frying-pan less and less, and our stainless steel barbecue skewers more and more.

◇ ◇ ◇

Barbecue Skewer Combination

No. 1: I think I told you about our favorite skewer line-up of last year: bacon, calves' liver, onion?

No. 2: This year we have tried two others that have strong devotees. One of them is cubes of smoked ham (cut from a thick slice of uncooked smoked ham), a cube of apple or sweet potato (raw) and a slice of onion.

The other is:

No. 3: We are having this for Peter's 16th birthday party which is to take the form of a cook-out supper: 1-inch cubes of steak, a mushroom, a slice of side bacon, a slice of onion.

General Barbecue Instructions

You will use your own judgement about the number of pieces of meat and vegetables you put on the skewer. Each skewer should contain an adequate serving, for every one roasts his own. After toasting oneself over a fire for 10 or 15 minutes, while constantly turning a skewer, you want to finish with a skewerful of delicious sizzling meat that melts in your mouth and keeps you coming back to the supply table for repeats.

The ham barbecue in No. 2 should be brushed lightly with thinned French mustard just before eating.

Some of our guests like to sprinkle the beef barbecue with Worcestershire sauce.

If you think of other barbecue combinations I would be ever so grateful if you would send them to me.

◇ ◇ ◇

Basket Picnic

Headcheese moulds
Sliced canned luncheon meat
Dill Pickles
Thin cheese sandwiches on rye bread
Potato Salad (see note)
Celery hearts Radishes
Old-Fashioner layer cake with Lemon Filling
Bananas
Coffee in Thermos
Lemonade in Thermos

Note: If readrs would like me to print methods of making headcheese from veal shanks please write me.

◇ ◇ ◇

Emem's Potato Salad Special

Six large new potatoes, scrubbed but not peeled, and boiled until about three-quarters soft, ½ cup best quality mayonnaise, ½ cup sliced radishes, 1 cup finely chopped celery, ¼ cup chopped chives or green onion tops, 1 or 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs, salt. Peel potatoes when nearly cooked, and when cold put in ½-inch cubes. Mix all ingredients just before leaving on picnic, and taste to see if there is enough salt and mayonnaise.

Some of your friends drink and some do not.

WRONG: Keep liquor on hand for those who do, but make no effort to keep non-alcoholic drinks on hand for the friends who prefer them.

"Window" Hat New Style For Sun Wear

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

PARIS —(Reuters)— The "window" hat is the latest sun wear now being shown here.

A band of isinglass is let into the brim of a turned-down straw hat. The dipping brim protects the wearer's eyes from the sun's rays and enables her to see at the same time.

Other hats, designed especially for seaside wear this season, have exaggerately high crowns, some with large brims, others with tiny ones.

Stove - pipe, floppy - brimmed hats accompany black beach slacks strapped below the knee, with turned back cuffs and buttons in yellow sateen as part of a novel fishing outfit.

The importance of correct accessories is stressed every season by Paris dress designers and perhaps no one understands the necessity of preserving a harmonious symphony from top to toe better than Schiaparelli.

A white cotton blouse, entirely tucked and banded in black has a round turned-down collar and blouse. Other finer blouses have broad lapels, with horizontal tucks, which are worn outside the accompanying black jacket.

Four-inch Belt

Another new idea seen at Schiaparelli is a four-inch-wide irridiscent plastic belt worn on a plain shirtwaist dress and fastened with men's collar studs.

This designer scatters life-size embroidered pansies on the cuffs and collar of a parma corduroy jacket cut on the new square lines which she favors. Her taste in floral trimmings includes sprays of mimosa on black, and bulrushes, raised from their prosaic, everyday form to exquisite, hand-worked species in gold laminette.

Balmain presents glamorous play clothes in new prints. Dark mysterious jungle designs are used for cotton three-piece suits, comprising sun-tan strapped bodice, briefs and overskirts. The skirt is short in front, and folded back to show the pink lining.

Pink is also used to line the two ground-length points at the back that give a swallow-tail effect to the skirt.

Beach ensembles this season often strike a coolie note. Slacks are tighter and cuffed below the knee. Coats and jackets are of the square-cut, boxy variety.

HAPPY NOW—FINDS ROAD TO REGULARITY

"After 30 years of terrible constipation, I found regularity—in a hospital! They gave me KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for breakfast—and it's been my steady ever since!" Mrs. Wilmer Courtney, Orangeville, Ont. One of many unsolicited letters. If you, too, suffer from constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, do this: Eat an ounce of crispy KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water. If not completely satisfied with results after 10 days, send empty box to Kellogg's, London Ont. Get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Of Interest to Women

Schiaparelli's beach sandals in white patent leather repeat the oriental theme. They have a square-cut blocked toe, turning up at the tip. The tappering end of the thin black sole is brought up and curled over the toes. Two narrow white leather bands form a criss-cross design across the foot.

Those present were: Mesdames J. Youmans, C. J. Gall, E. W. Corneil, James Milburn, W. Copp, T. Watson, R. Backus, W. Woodbeck, E. Brunton, H. Watson, G. Southward, Miss M. Sexsmith, Miss Beulah Chase.

Those who sent gifts and were unable to attend were: Mrs. C. Toms, Mrs. A. Holland, Mrs. O. Patterson.

Four Infants Baptized At Roseneath Church

ROSENEATH, June 19 (ENS)—Four infants were baptized at the morning service of Roseneath United Church on Sunday by the Rev. R. C. White. They were: Nelson Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Coyle; Linda Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Down; Mary Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Mouncey; Dianne Ariel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Parker.

Special music was rendered by the choir with Miss Carolyn Atkinson at the organ.

Mr. White chose as his subject "The Church and the Churches," and said individuals were to blame for churches being dead and cold, caused by schisms and misunderstandings instead of the bond of fellowship that should prevail.

Roseneath Women Make Plans For Picnic

ROSENEATH, June 19—(ENS)—Planning a Little Helpers Picnic to be held on August 9th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Timlin, was the main item of business at the monthly meeting of the W. A. of St. James' Anglican Church on Friday. The meeting was held in the township hall with Mrs. Earl Braithwaite as hostess.

The first vice-president, Mrs. Ray McCracken presided. Mrs. Jack Webb was secretary, Mrs. Jas Brown, treasurer presented the financial statement.

Canon and Mrs. C. R. Spencer were in charge of the devotional period.

The July meeting will be withdrawn owing to the holiday season.

Two quilts were quilted during the afternoon, one was a custom quilt and the other had previously been ordered by a customer.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

The hostess served a lap lunch assisted by Mrs. Thomas Wight, Mrs. Melville Wight and Mrs. Eric Little.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Greenly on July 13.

Dewey Decides To Retire, Says Tired Out

ALBANY, N. Y., June 19 (AP) —Governor Thomas E. Dewey, who has renounced further presidential aspirations, announced Saturday he will not run for re-election as governor of New York.

Dewey, 48-year-old Republican said he is tired and run down physically after 20 years in public life. He added that he probably will return to private law practice when his second term expires Dec. 31.

"I shall not be a candidate for re-election next fall," Dewey said in a statement which he personally distributed to reporters.

The twice-defeated nominee for President of the United States added verbally, however, that he will continue an active interest in public affairs. He promised to speak on issues affecting the welfare of the state and nation, especially foreign policy.

Meanwhile, Republican support swelled across the state for Lieutenant-Governor Joe R. Hanley, 74, as the party's nominee for governor. Hanley made clear to reporters that he is a candidate. He added that he will make a formal announcement Monday.

Dewey's announcement came as no particular surprise to political quarters in Washington. Most Republicans have felt he had little chance for a third presidential nomination unless he ran for governor again and was re-elected by a tthumping margin.

Flower Service At George St.

A profusion of flowers provided a beautiful setting for the annual flower service at George St. United Church Sunday morning. Baskets of peonies, iris and other flowers were used as a background for the bouquets of flowers brought to the altar by the members of the Sunday School. The bouquets were placed on posts and arches and two baskets around the pulpit by members of the committee. Four canaries in cages added a musical setting to the service.

Rev. Dr. James Semple preached the text, "Consider the lilies of the field." He developed his theme by pointing out that the purity of the flowers should be taken for a symbol to guide daily living.

Dr. Semple was assisted with the service by George McBride, general superintendent, who gave the invocation, announced the hymns and read the announcements. B. McKinney, superintendent of teachers, read the Psalm and L. W. Copp, intermediate superintendent, gave the scripture lesson and prayer.

Special music for the service was provided by the senior, junior and intermediate choirs, and the 20 piece orchestra. The orchestra, under the leadership of W. C. Ford, played for the half hour preceding the service and also played marches when the members of the Sunday School brought their bouquets to the altar.

The senior choir, under the direction of Charles Allen, sang "Not Unto Us, O Lord" by Quilter, "Beautiful Sunlight" by Shawker and "Go Forth With God" by Martin Shaw were the selections of the junior and intermediate choirs. They were assisted in the second number of Mrs. James Goldie and Mrs. S. Saunders.

The service began with the Sunday School opening with Mrs. G. E. Foster playing the violin and Dorothy White, the piano.

After the service, a group of ladies of the congregation under the direction of Mrs. Arlie Black and Mrs. H. McGinnes prepared bouquets from the flowers that had been used in the service.

These were distributed by elders of the church during the afternoon to the sick and shut-ins of the congregation and also to the hospital.

Would Strengthen Ties With Canada

LONDON, June 19 (Reuters)—The Conservative Daily Telegraph in an editorial today welcomes L. B. Pearson's recent statement in Ottawa that Canada is "quite content" with her position in the Commonwealth.

The newspaper adds, however, that "Britain and Canada have been drifting apart."

"The Canadians are true to the Commonwealth," the Daily Graphic says, commenting on a statement by Canada's External Affairs Minister. "But do not take Canada for granted. She is buying more from us—but will she continue to do so if we keep our doors closed against her products?"

"Our people would like to be able to get Canadian apples and salmon—and timber for house building. It would strengthen the empire cause if they were allowed to have them."

MONTREAL, June 19 (CP) — Premier Manning of Alberta on Saturday told the annual convention of the Gideons Society of Canada that civilization today is approaching one of the great crises of human experience.

"The greatest need now is not for more social and moral reform: not for more creeds and dogmas and codes of ethics, but the greatest need of this day and generation is for men, and nations to get back to the Bible as the word of God; to get back to the old-fashioned family altar and to Jesus Christ," said Mr. Manning, who is prominent in religious activities in Alberta.

At a business session, George Abbott of Toronto was elected president, succeeding W. B. Wortman of London, Ont.

Other officers include: Harold Rowden, Cobalt, Ont., and Robert Gay of Niagara Falls, Ont., trustees.

Minor Accidents Involve 10 Cars

City police were plagued by a small hatful of accidents on Saturday, but a single mishap Sunday gave them a quiet day.

Saturday night, cars driven by Wright Stephenson, 69 Orpington Rd., and William Crough, 65 Aylmer St., collided at Hunter and Water Sts. Stephenson was parked at the east side of Water and started to pull out to make a left-hand turn onto Hunter.

Crough, driving north on Water, tried to pass Stephenson, but the car collided. Stephenson said he made a signal for the turn, and Crough said he didn't. Damage to Crough's car included a bent right front fender, and scrapes along the right side. Damage to Stephenson's car was slight.

Damage was light when two cars collided on George St., near Simcoe St. Miss Ruth Edwards, of Millbrook, driving south on George St., stopped for the Simcoe traffic light. Edward Curtin, 552 Stewart St., also driving south, hit the rear of Miss Edwards' car.

Turning left onto Aylmer St. from King St. on Saturday, a car driven by Fred J. Cook, 535 Downie St., was struck by an auto drive by George A. McGahey, RR 2. McGahey, police say, was pulling away from the north curb of King St.

The left front bumper on McGahey's car, and the right rear fender of Cook's auto were damaged slightly.

Rear end of a parked car owned by Colin Jack, 283 Stewart St., was damaged Saturday when a car driven by Jan Bednavski, 290 Stewart St., pulled out of a driveway on Stewart St., and struck Jack's car.

Another unknown car caused damage Saturday to the car of M. L. Wood, 227 Barnardo Ave. Wood, who was at a movie, parked his car on Water St., and returned to find the left rear fender dented and that some red paint from another vehicle had rubbed off onto his car. Damage is estimated at $10.

Sunday's only reported accident came when a car driven by Sam Freeman, 1 McLennan St., going west on Murray St., was forced to swing right by a unknown car moving east. Freeman's car struck a parked auto owned by T. J. Smoothy, 216 Reid St.

Damage was not extensive to either car, and Freeman said he could not get the licence of the east-bound auto.

The junior members of the Sunday School brought their floral offerings to the front to be placed on the crosses. Birds in cages were at the altar and in the gallery.

Three Children In Movies Keep Mom Busy

By GLORIA YARBROUGH

HOLLYWOOD, June 19 (AP) Rearing three children is trouble enough but Mrs. Eleanor Perreau has double trouble—hers are movie moppets.

"I don't know what I'd do if I had any more," she sighed on the set of "M" where 7-year-old Janine is acting in her fifth picture.

Mrs. Perreau, a comely blonde, is also the mother of the 9-year-old acting veteran, Gigi Perreau, and Peter Miles, 12.

"My husband is in Rome right now with Jerry (Peter's real name)," she said. "Gigi will start another picture in two weeks and Janine will still be working on this one."

Role Switch

Movie comedian Eddie Bracken has packed his joke books with moth balls and says he wants to become a "Louis B. Mayer of television."

"Gosh this is interesting," beamed the new producer from behind the scenes of his first movie for video.

As for his screen career, he said: "I just turned down a contract offer for the 11th time. It would have meant no television."

Eddie's television plans include a 13-week schedule for 26 films.

"We plan everything out in advance," he said. "Everything is put down on paper. That way, all you can lose is ink."

How Will You Have Operation? With Classical Or Popular Music

By EDWARD S. KITCH

CHIVAGO, June 19 (AP)—What will you have for your operation tomorrow—classical, semi-classical or popular music?

This is a routine question anaesthetists ask surgical patients at the University of Chicago medical clinics. The serenading is combined with anaesthesia. It's a method of soothing the sick while they undergo surgery.

The music with anaesthesia, surgeons said, relaxes the patients while working.

The music-with-surgery program was expanded when the Nathan Goldblatt Memorial Hospital on the campus opened last week. The hospital specializes in cancer research. Its six major operating rooms and six preparation rooms for surgery are equipped with music dispensing facilities.

The surgical patient hears the music he likes. It is called "music for surgery." The work is headed by Dr. Lester R. Dragstedt, chairman of the Department of Surgery of the university's clinical centre.

Lessens Tension

The idea of providing music during surgery was first tested at the clinics in 1947. It was a research experiment to help lessen tensions of patients undergoing major surgery. It is used with spinal, local or regional anaesthesia.

Patients hear music in the room they are prepared for surgery. The music of their choice is heard from a mounted wall speaker. The soft music reduces the tension and allows the anaesthetist to converse with the patient during the administration of the anaesthetic.

Lightweight stethoscope-type earphones are fitted to the patient in the surgery room. Only the patient and the anaesthetist hear the music as the surgeon works.

The practice of furnishing music for surgery, however, is not a new idea. It is as old as Egypt. The Pharaoh's physicians chanted while treating the sick. In the middle ages, groups of singers were employed to soothe the ill during epidemics.

Start Small

LONDON —(CP)— H. J. Rickards, mayor of London's Fulham district, is out to fulfil a childhood ambition—to drive a steamroller. "We've got two steamrollers in Fulham," he said. "A big one and a small one—I'll take the latter."

Nab Their Beasts In Hotel The Easy Way

By MILTON MARMOR

BANGKOK, June 19 (AP)—Drop into the Hotel Trocadero lobby and see how the snarling beasts of the jungle are rounded up by the world's animal collectors.

Most of the collectors who supply tigers, elephants, tapirs, pythons, leopards and other jungle creatures to zoos and circuses seem to be using Bangkok as a base these days. For one thing, there are more animals more readily available in Siam and for another, they are cheaper here.

These collectors usually gather around a table at the Trocadero or the Oriental. Seated in deep leather seats and sipping iced tea or lime squash, they can spend a pleasant afternoon "bringing 'em back alive."

The animal collectors — let's face it — don't go in for capturing the beasts in the jungle. The Siamese dealer who sells them the caged beasts doesn't capture them either. He buys them.

The reasons wild-game collectors don't get their beasts in the jungle are few and simple.

Costs Too Much

It costs too much. Few of the collectors speak Siamese, so it is difficult to work with the trappers. The government doesn't want them in the jungle anyway. And, perhaps above all, they just don't know how.

Not that they can't handle wild animals. On the contrary, some of the collectors are more adept at that than the young jungle people who snare the beasts, box them and bring them to Bangkok.

If a white man goes up country to hunt wild game and one of his native entourage gets killed, it would cost him plenty. There are casualties, since it isn't easy to bag a killer. However, since Thailanders usually handle all the trapping themselves, the cost of the boy killed rarely runs more than $25.

Bold Behemoth

CHIPINGA, Southern Rhodesia —(CP)— A native here was trapped in his hut when a bull elephant he had shot on his doorstep blocked the door. The elephant had been eating maize and vegetables on the verandah when shot. The native escaped by breaking a hole in the wall.

Married Couple Find, Explore Lost City Of Ancient Mayas

LOS ANGELES, June 19 (AP) Dana and Ginger Lamb, an American husband-and-wife exploring team, advise friends that they have entered a lost city of the ancient Mayas. It was a goal which they say they sighted from the air in 1941.

Letters reaching here this week from Agua Azul, Central America, say they entered the city on foot, searching it—and found it "isn't spectacular"—and returned after many days to a clearing in the dense jungle.

The Lambs reported the sighting of the one-time capital of Mayan culture shortly before the outbreak of the Second World War, and made contacts with a tribe whose ancestors may have antedated the earliest Chinese.

The war interrupted their quest of what they have been led to believe is the fabulous "Golden Library" of the Mayas. They returned to the United States and spent several years in the office of strategic service.

Descendants of Tribes

For three months in 1941 Lamb and his wife lived with a tribe of Lacandones near the lost city. The Lacandones are descendants of the original lost tribes that fled the Spanish conquest.

"This represents, for us, the end of a 10-year search," Lamb's letter said. He said they have located, definitely, the ruins they were searching for.

"The lost city isn't spectacular ...around the central plaza are a group of small temples, covered by dense jungle growth. The most amazing thing, Ginger and I believe, is that inside each temple the floor and altar are spotlessly clean—no leaves, debris or dust...the fine, ornate stone carvings, some showing the Lacandones in full battle regalia and affecting an elaborate feathered head-dress, occupied our time for days as we explored the lost city."

Only three pages are known to exist of the original library of a people who had reached a high degree of civilization when they were discovered shortly after 1500. Spanish conquistadores burned thousands of volumes and killed priests and leaders in subjugating the natives.

Mink-Raising Business Just Headache to Farmers

By TOM ADEN

DENVER, Colo., June 19—(AP)—There's nothing like a mink coat to make a girl happy. But to men in the mink-raising business, minks are nervous, vicious animals who can spray an odor rivalling that of a skunk. And they can bite through a leather glove.

The little animals' unpleasant nature, however, is the least of the hazards facing the fur farmer. The most formidable is Russia —and perhaps the fickleness of women's tastes. The flood of pelts from Russia and other countries since the war has hit the American industry a hard blow.

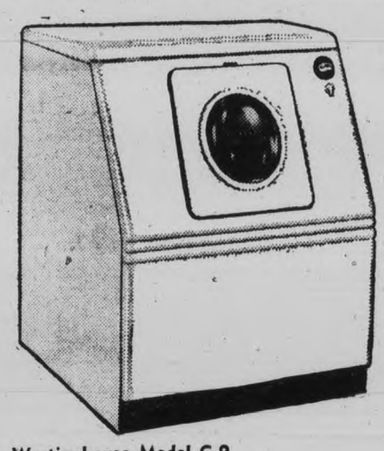
First off, the fur farmer tells you, he doesn't want price supports. "We just want to get our fair share of the American market," says Harry Lee, president of the Rocky Mountain Fur Farmers Association. To get it, he says, American fur farmers want:

1. Relief from the 20-per-cent federal excise tax on furs.

2. A tariff or quotas on imported furs.

3. A "truth-in-labelling" law which would force furriers to label their fur coats with the true American name of the fur, country of origin and whether the fur is new, old or dyed.

Fur farmers fear that imported pelts can do to the mink market what they helped do for silver fox. There now are less than 500 fox farms where 7,000 existed before the war.



Russia Strong Opponent

The United States imported $161,775,000 worth of furs in 1948. Nearly one-fourth—$38,823,000—of that amount was paid to Russia. Canada, China, Norway and Sweden accounted for the bulk of the other three-quarters. The fur farmers claim the other countries must subsidize their fur industry to compete with Russia.

The mink and foxes bear their litters of one to 10 pups in the spring. There's an average of three in a litter. The baby mink weigh less than an ounce. If the mother—both foxes and mink—get upset, they eat their young. There have been several lawsuits after low-flying airplanes frightened mother foxes into cannibalism.

Two Liberals, PC Man Win By-Elections

George Nowlan Victor Over Former Foe; Gov't Sweeps 2 Others

By The Canadian Press

The Liberal government Monday retained two seats in three Federal by-elections. The Progressive Conservatives won the third.

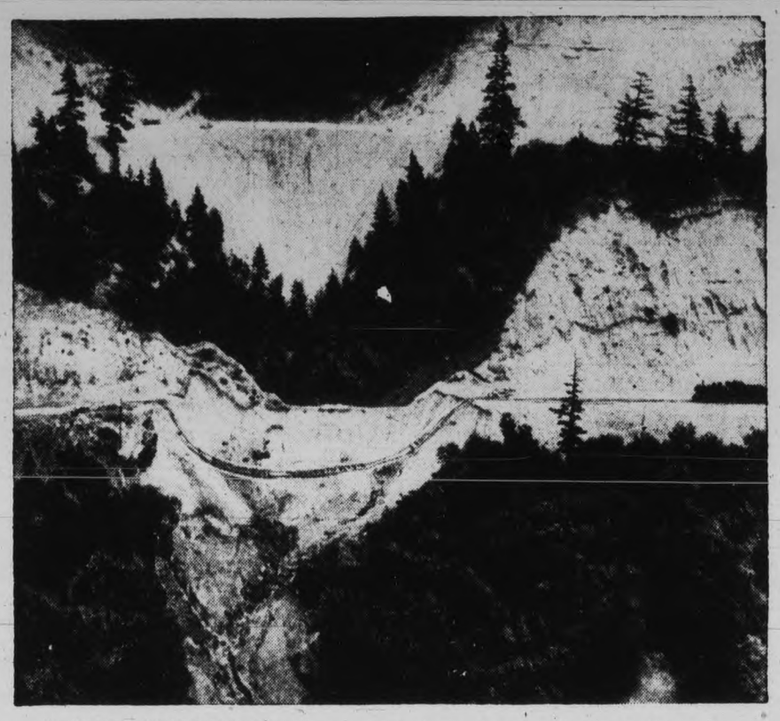
Widely outdistancing their opponents, Liberal Leon D. Crestohl won in Montreal Cartier in a four-man fight and Samuel Balcom, another member of the party, won over two opponents in Halifax.

It was a different story in Annapolis-Kings, second Nova Scotia constituency voting. There George Nowlan won back the seat he held before the 1949 general election and appeared to have lost by five votes last year.

The result in the general election was declared void because some servicemen in the riding at the time voted when not eligible under the Elections Act.

The standing of the House of Commons, now without any vacancies, is:

Liberals 188; Progressive Conservatives, 43; CCF, 13; Social Credit, 10; Independents, 5; Independent-Liberals, 3. Total 262.



Mr. Crestohl's three opponents in Montreal Cartier lost their deposits and one candidate in Halifax suffered the same fate.

Heaviest Voting

Voting in the Annapolis-Kings was the heaviest of the day, more than two-thirds of the eligible voters turning out. In the other two contests, both in city ridings, about 50 per cent of the voters went to the polls.

In his rural riding in Nova Scotia's orchard country, Mr. Nowlan was opposed by the same Liberal candidate, Angus Elder-

239,800 Jobless Up To June 8

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell told the Commons today that unemployed in Canada totalled 239,800 on June 8.

(This compared with a May 18 figure of 306,000 persons registered for work with National Unemployment Service.)

The June 8 total was down 198,000 from the March peak of unemployment, Mr. Mitchell told the House during discussion of his department's annual estimates.

The minister, in an exchange with Clarie Gillis (CCF — Cape Breton South), also said the unemployment total for the Maritimes on June 8 was 30,000.

Mr. Gillis complained that the labor department was not issuing employment information often enough. He said the last figures had been issued May 18, with the result that Commons members were at a disadvantage in debating the situation.

It was on this basis that he had stated in the House last night that Maritime unemployment was 57,000.

Want Turkey, Spain In Atlantic Set-up

WASHINGTON, June 20 — (AP)—Senate committee approval of a $1,222,500,000 program for arming non-Communist countries spurred efforts in some quarters today to bring Turkey and Spain into the North Atlantic defensive set-up.

Senator Harry Cain (rep. Wash.) supported the move which he said has strong backing in the defence and state departments as well as in the Senate.

Cain, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, attended the session Monday at which that group and the Foreign Relations committee voted 12 to 0 in favor of the arms program.

Under treaty terms, a new member can be admitted to the North Atlantic Alliance only by unanimous consent of the 12 original members. Canada is one of them.

Building Tower Collapses, Two Men Killed

CHATHAM, June 20 (CP). — Two men were killed here today when a construction tower at the Canada and Dominion Sugar Co. collapsed. The dead are: Earl Ward, 35, of Blenheim, and F. N. Kennedy, 37, of Chatham.

The 180-foot tower had been constructed to hoist cement for the building of sugar storage silo. As a load of cement was being hoisted towards the top, the tower buckled, broke in two and crashed to the ground.

One of the guy wires struck and injured Alfred Boulley, of Chatham, who was working at the 30-foot level. He was taken to hospital.

The firm in charge of the building project is Macdonald Engineering Co., Toronto.

Edward Hardman of Welland, the hoist operator, said a pulley at the base of the huge tower gave way and threw the entire strain on the top. A huge bucket, loaded with cement, dropped nearly 60 feet inside the tower before catching up with a terrific strain which broke the cable and dropped the bucket to the bottom.

Set swaying by the various forces working on it, the tower buckled in the middle throwing the top section and the men one way and the centre section the other.

Boulley was injured when he jumped from the lip of the loading platform to the lip of one of the silos.

Kennedy and Ward had gone to the top of the tower to check some parts and grease the pulley wheels.

The bucket was lifted up about 100 feet much higher than would be needed normally at this stage of construction to give the men an adequate test.

Hardman said he was letting the bucket down slowly on signals from one of the victims when the pulley gave way.

Cabinet Quits Direct Control Of National Film Board

OTTAWA, June 20—(CP)—The Cabinet will drop direct control of the controversial National Film Board under a bill that appeared on the Commons' horizon today. Resources Minister Winters gave notice of legislation to provide the first overhaul of the N.F.B. set-up in 11 years.

It will implement some of the recommendations of the recent so-called Gordon report, a study by a Toronto firm of business efficiency experts.

One of the Gordon recommendations was that the two Cabinet ministers leave the Board. That means Dr. Winters, its chairman, and Revenue Minister McCann will depart and Arthur Irwin, Board Commissioner, will take over as Chairman.

The bill also will:

1. Establish a revolving capital fund of $700,000 to make the board's financial structure more flexible and, as one official put it, "more sound." The Gordon report urged this.

2. Establish the whole set-up on a more permanent basis.

3. More clearly define and somewhat broaden the powers of Mr. Irwin, the former magazine editor brought in to overhaul and improve the board after parliamentary criticism.

4. Allow the board to acquire personal property, patents and copyrights and nter into contracts for personal services for any purpose necessary for the production, distribution, projection or exhibition of films pursuant to the new act.

Chiang To Broadcast

OTTAWA, June 20—(CP)—The Chinese Embassy said today that Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Chinese Nationalist forces in Formosa, will broadcast an address over short-wave radio tonight, aimed specially at a Canadian audience. The Nationalist leader will speak in English. The Embassy said the broadcast likely will be heard about 11 p.m. EDT.

Hurley Charges Secrets Sold

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP) —Patrick J. Hurley, former United States ambassador to China, was asked today by Senate investigators to elaborate on his charge that the state department had shielded officials who "sold or gave" top-secret United States documents to pro-Communists."

Hurley made the charge Monday in a statement at Santa Fe, N.M. It was linked to the 1945 Amerasia documents theft case now under investigation by a Senate committee.

Chairman Millard Tydings (Dem. Md.) told reporters that the committee would call Hurley to testify.

Hurley charged that the state department has for five years "kept the people from knowing the truth about the theft of top-secret documents by officials of the state department who sold or gave them to pro-Communists."

Sabotage Policy

He also accused state department officials of sabotaging U.S. policy in China while he was ambassador there in 1944 and 1945.

Hurley named John S. Service, state department foreign service officer, as one who he said supplied Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung with secret information in 1944.

Service was one of six persons arrested in 1945 after federal raiders seized hundreds of government documents in the New York offices of Amerasia magazine which has since gone out of business. He was not indicted.

Last March he was charged by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) with having "Communist affiliations." A few days later he was called back to the United States from a new assignment in India, to face a fresh state department loyalty quiz.

4 Suffer Bad Burns As Car Goes In Ditch

CHATHAM, June 20 (CP) — Four people are in hospital with severe burns to their hands and faces suffered when a car crashed into a deep Dover township ditch and burned early today.

The driver of the car who escaped injury was arrested on a charge of drunk driving. He is Clarence Myers of RR No. 1 Prairie Siding.

Victims of the crash were Hazel Hooper, 28, and Fred Fournier, 32, both of Chatham; Lucier Labrecque, 22 and Mrs. Laura Lambier, 25.

Go North To Cool Off? Then Think Twice Yukon Has Sunburn Problem At 95 Deg.

EDMONTON, June 20—(CP)—If hot weather is getting you down don't wish you were farther north. They're having sunburn problems in the Yukon and North West Territories these days.

The Dominion Meteorological Bureau here reported Monday night that the temperature at Mayo and Dawson City in the Yukon skyrocketed Sunday to 95 above—believed the hottest mark for Canada so far this year.

Monday it was a trifle cooler at those spots—81 and 86, respectively. Dawson City's 87 was equal to the highest temperature in Alberta, at Medicine Hat.

The mercury reach 95 Saturday at Wrigley, on the MacKenzie river south of Norman Wells.

And at Snag, Yukon, where the temperature plunged to 83 below Feb. 2, 1947, for a North American record, thermometers registered 85 Monday. Whitehorse, Yukon, 200 miles south, showed the same temperature.

One Of Crew Survives Explosion

Freighter Carrying 580 Tons Explosives For Indian Gov't.

SUEZ, Egypt, June 20—(CP) —The British freighter Indian Enterprise exploded and sank in the Red Sea late Monday night and 72 crew members are missing, agents for the vessel announced today.

Only one member of the crew of 73, an injured man, was rescued after a blast tore the ship apart about 300 miles south of Suez.

Spokesmen for the agents said the 7,100-ton ship, en route from London to Indian ports, was carrying 580 tons of explosives consigned to the Indian government.

The vessel, which carried no passengers, was officered by Britons. The crew members were mostly Laskars.

The sole survivor is said to have been a Laskar seaman, picked up by the Norwegian tanker H. Westfal-Larsen, which is en route to Suez

Search Area

The Indian Exporter, a sister ship of the sunken vessel, searched the blast area throughout the night in search of survivors, and found none, a spokesman reported.

First report of the explosion came from the 7,161-ton steamship Lake Chilliwack of Vancouver, which said she was going to the scene and called on all ships in the vicinity to keep a sharp lookout for survivors.

Other ships were in the area, and 250 miles away was the British destroyer Chequers with the Duke of Edinburgh aboard as first lieutenant.

Will Discuss French Project

PARIS, June 20. (AP)— Six western European countries met today to pool their coal, steel and something they consider even more precious—part of their sovereignty.

France, western Germany, Belgium, Italy, The Netherlands and Luxembourg have agreed to the idea. Britain has held back.

Delegates had uppermost in their minds the revolutionary part of the scheme proposed May 9 by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France: the giving up of the sovereign right to say the last word about important industries within their borders.

Schuman proposed that the coal-steel pool be controlled by an international authority with power to tell the industry of each country what it can and cannot do.

France has a plan drafted by Jean Monnet, top economic planner, that included an entire treaty. It will be submitted by the other delegates for negotiation.

Investigation Started On Pollution Problem

ESPANOLA, June 20 (CP). — After a preliminary survey two weeks ago, actual investigation into the pollution problem of the Spanish River started today with the arrival of five members of the Ontario Research Council.

The study by the Research Council was one of the obligatory conditions imposed by the Provincial Government when its special Bill liftd th pollution injunction agains the Halamagoo Vegetable parchment late in March. Enforcement of the injunction would have closed the mill last April 4.

The five scientists, all from Toronto, will work under the direction of R. G. Ferguson, biologist. The other biologist in the party is John Neil, while the three chemical specialists are Ian Simomnds, E. C. Lawrence, and M. Yatabe.

Soon after their arrival here, the five left for a trip down the Spanish River. They will travel to the mouth and en route will set up a number of permanent sampling stations.

Has Right Answer

OMAHA, Neb., June 20— (AP)—Advertising solicitors sometimes find themselves in embarrasing situations. Walter S. Campbell, Vice-President of the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, told the group's convention here Monday of a new woman solicitor who got in the wrong room at a plant. It was filled with undressed men, job applicants waiting for physical examination. A plant executive saved the day, Campbell said. He said "Good morning, nurse, we've been expecting you, and led her out.

Fear One Dike Will Break, Call For Fighters

VANCOUVER, June 20 (CP)— A threat to 1,500 acres of low-lying land appeared today along the Fraser valley line as a flood gate pipe appeared collapsing.

Acton Kilby, secretary of the Harrison Mills dike committee in the threatened area, called for more men and machines to aid those working since early today with rock and sand bags.

Elsewhere, dikes appeared holding firmly as slightly-cooler weather spread into the northern interior.

The new threat to the area 40 miles east of here came as waters of the Harrison River backed up exerting pressure on the dike. Mr. Kilby said men and machines, including 100 employees of the Canadian Forest Products mill at Harrison, seemed to have licked the weak spot Monday night. Urgent appeals to district loggers were issued.

Mr. Kilby gave only one chance in 20 of saving the dike whose failure would allow five feet of water to pour over the land and cut the Lougheed Highway. The flood level at Harrison Bridge was 23.35 feet today—up only some four inches since Monday morning.

At Mission further down stream the level was 24.19 today—an increase of only .25 since the same time Monday. An increase of not more than six inches was expected overnight.

There was one danger spot — low-lying Nicomen Island in the Fraser River.

Seepage forced a two-mile detour over the Lougheed Highway on Nicomen, about 65 miles east of here.

About 75 trucks carried dirt and gravel to repair flaws in the dikes, which go around the 25-mile-long island.

At Harrison Hot Springs, 75 miles east, the water continued a slow rise. About 200 persons have left their homes but no general evacuation order has yet been issued. Three-quarters of the town has felt the advance of the water.

Saturday's danger point on the dike at Agassiz, centre of the last floods, now has been eliminated, dike workers reported.

Forges $350 Cheque

WHITBY, June 20 — (CP)— Charles George Tenn, 22, of Trenton, said in court today that he forged and cashed a $350 cheque at a bank here June 11 to obtain money for his honeymoon. Tenn, who said he was married June 3, spent the honeymoon in Cobourg and Campbellford. He was arrested on his return to Trenton. He will be sentenced June 27.

Summer Employment Boom Across Canada Predicted By Mitchell

Canada To Undergo Tightest Labor Situation By End of July, MP's Told; Gives Credit To Drive Of Canadian People

OTTAWA, June 20—(CP)—A mid-summer employment boom across Canada was predicted in the Commons Monday night by Labor Minister Mitchell as opposition members pressed for Federal action to stave off widespread pools of unemployment. By the end of July, he said confidently, Canada will be undergoing its "tightest" labor situation. To back that up, he suggested that the country never has been "richer than it is at this moment."

Mr. Mitchell gave credit for his predicted employment boom to the drive of the Canadian people.

Have Proposals

The debate, developing as the House studied labor department estimates, produced these produced these proposals by party spokesmen:

1. A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West): Labor should get a bigger share of industry's profit dollar. There should be some means of giving the worker a steady year-round income instead of prosperity at one period and starvation at another.

2. Clarie Gillis (CCF — Cape Breton South): The government should go ahead with job-providing public-work projects and assist municipalities to relieve unemployment.

3. C. E. Johnston (SC — Bow River): The Federal government should take some responsibility for the more or less permanently unemployed and help provide work in the coal fields of west and east by bringing down a national coal policy.

Amend Act

The chamber, before turning to the labor estimates, adopted a bill amending the Dominion Elections Act after defeating, by a standing committee vote of 57 to 21, an opposition proposal to extend the vote to all Indians in Canada.

Two bills broadening the investment powers of Canadian insurance companies received third reading.

An echo of charges by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, about engines in North Star aircraft was heard as the House studied a bill to finance deficits incurred by Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Trade Minister Howe, in charge of T.C.A., said it was "absurd" for Mr. Drew to suggest that T.C.A. should accept the advice of parliamentarians on what to do about

His Lucky Day

CHICAGO, June 20—(AP) —Harold Carlin, 47, carried around a hip pocket full of death for three hours Monday—and didn't know it. Working with a subway construction crew, he picked up a dozen small, unfamiliar objects. For three hours he worked in cramped spaces, brushing against walls. Then he spotted his foreman and turned over his find. The objects were blasting caps.

Ontario To Get Tough With Drunk Drivers May Traffic Fatalities Hit New High Of 67

TORONTO, June 20—(CP)—An all-time high of 67 traffic fatalities in Ontario during May drew from Highways Minister Doucett today the statement that the government will "get tough" with drunken drivers.

"We thought our program of public education was bearing fruit until we got a look at the figure for traffic fatalities in May," the minister said. "The number of deaths in that month jumped to 67, compared with 44 for May in 1949.

"Not only is this figure the highest for any month in the history of the province, but it reversed a trend which had begun in January of this year."

He added that the Highway Traffic Act will be amended to provide stiffer penalties for drunk driving.

Fatalities in the province for the first five months of the year, with figures for last year in brackets, were: January, 51 (54); February, 35 (58); March, 33 (36); April, 33 (36); and May, 67 (44).

Judy Garland Slashes Throat, Wound Minor

HOLLYWOOD, June 20—(AP) —Judy Garland cut her throat in a fit of anguish, her studio disclosed today. The wound is not serious.

After Miss Garland's husband, Vincent Minelli, earlier denied such a report, Ralph, Wheelwright studio publicity aide, made the following statement to reporters who gathered at the distraught actress' home:

"Miss Garland was in conference last night at about six o'clock . . . with her husband Vincent Minelli, her business manager, Carlton Alsop, and her secretary, Myrtle Tully. They were discussing Miss Garland's future.

"At one point in the discussion, Miss Garland who has been under strain and ill became very despondent and hysterical and rushed from the living room through the bedroom and into the bathroom, locking the door behind her. She broke a drinking glass and with the broken glass made a superficial laceration on her throat.

Finally Opens Door

"Minelli got her to open the door and she was immediately very repentant and weeping. They sent for Dr. Francis Ballard who treated the wound. He said it was very minor and attributed it to an impulsive, hysterical act.

"Miss Garland is now resting under her doctor's care. She is asleep. I saw her and she has a slight bandage on her neck. No stitches were taken.

"She is not to be disturbed and no pictures will be taken."

Wheelwright explained that Miss Garland was suspended by M-G-M for not reporting to a rehearsal with Fred Astaire for a forthcoming picture. She is still on suspension, he added.

Friends said she took the suspension badly.

Four Invade Summer Cottage

WHITBY, June 20 (CP) — Thomas Davidson of Toronto said in court today that when he arrived at his cottage at nearby Rouge Hill at 10 a.m. Sunday, June 11, he found two youths and two girls, all strangers to him.

Charged with wilful damage, the four, all from Toronto, were given two years' suspended sentence.

One was ordered to pay for $35 damage done to the cottage during what Magistrate F. S. Ebbs described as an "immoral e-sca pade."

"It is too bad that young people today are taking liberties such as was shown on this occasion," said the magistrate.

Nationalists Smash Airfield At Foochow

TAIPEI Formosa, June 20 (CP) Nationalist air headquarters announced today Chinese planes destroyed the Communist airfield and installations at Foochow, the capital of Fukien province.

Foochow is 100 miles northeast of Formosa, base of the Nationalist forces.

The air announcement said the field was one of the most strategically located airports in China for support of a sea-borne invasion of Formosa.

Gestapo Check On Outboards Seen By Green

OTTAWA, June 20— (CP).—Howard Green (PC, Vancouver), said in the Commons Monday he hoped government intentions to license outboard motor boats in Canada did not mean it would have "a Gestapo running around from lake to lake checking up on licences."

He said this provision, contained in amendments to the Canada Shipping Act, would affect thousands of persons who had outboard motor boats in Canada's coasts and inland waters. He was afraid if the minister was going to carry it through he would have to establish a "Sea Police."

He believed if it were to be implemented, it should be made applicable only to outboard owners operating in waters where "there is likely to be confusion." It might be a necessary provision but it seemed to be interfering with provincial jurisdiction.

Transport Minister Chevrier, explaining the bill, said its main purpose was to give effect to regulations of international convention for safety of life at sea, signed by 30 governments in 1948. The House later will be asked to approve the convention.

The bill also contained certain other changes to the act which the government thought necessary. These included the licensing of small craft under 10 tons owned by aliens and the licensing of outboard motor boats.

It was felt that there was a need for such licensing so as to check up accidents and because outboards should be licensed under a strict interpretation of the act.

The House gave second reading to the legislation and sent it to a Commons standing committee for further study.

THE LIBERALS RETAINED two seats in three federal by-elections and the third was won by the Conservatives, Monday. George Nowlan, PC (left) won back the seat he held before the 1949 General Election and appeared to have lost by five votes last year. Samuel R. Balcom (centre) was Liberal victor over two opponents in Halifax and Leon D. Crestohl (right) won for the Liberals in a four-man fight in Montreal-Cartier.

He said Bahns slew his family with a sledge-hammer, walked into a field, stepped into the 10-foot deep well and drowned himself.

Annuity Sales Reduced 50%

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell, in a touchy Commons exchange, reported today that sales of government annuities have dropped 50 per cent since their interest rate was cut from four to three per cent a couple of years ago.

Social Credit and CCF members promptly hopped on that statement to charge that the interest cut arose from "pressure" by competing private insurance firms and to call for a return to four per cent.

Mr. Mitchell, piloting Labor Department estimates, said the more annuities there were sold at four per cent the more money the government lost and he refused to have the taxpayer subsidizing holders of annuities at a cost of millions of dollars a year.

C. E. Johnston (SC-Bow River) said the little man had suffered so private insurance companies could reap profits. Those firms had not been selling while the government's rate was four per cent.

His charge that the insurance companies brought pressure to bear for the change was echoed by Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South.)

Flooded Morris Deep In Debris

MORRIS, Man., June 20 (CP)—Puddles are all that remain of a great lake which once coursed eight feet deep through Morris, the Southern Manitoba town worst hit by the Red River's month-long flood.

Flood waters, which forced the 1,100 residents to flee, have gone down. But their grip on the 500 who so far have come back is almost complete.

The entire town 41 miles south of Winnipeg—once the heart of a lake measuring 60 by 25 miles—is strewn with debris. Every house and building has been hit. Some have vanished. Many have been destroyed. Dozens are beyond repair.

Outside the town the fields sprout acres of muddy water, debris and bloated carcasses of cattle and hogs. At one spot along the rail line the shrivelled corpse of a lamb is pinned to a barbed-wire fence.

Main street looks like a run-down auction yard. Furniture, store stocks, vehicles, barber chairs, radios and business records are piled in the street. Only two grocery stores, quickly rehabilitated to stock needed food, are operating. One drugstore sells its new stock of merchandise from a granary on the main road.

Two Liberals

kin, he fought at the general election last year.

The narrow Liberal decision that was subsequently thrown out by a court decision was turned Monday into a Progressive Conservative victory by a majority of nearly 1,500 votes. Mr. Nowlan is president of the National Progressive Conservative Association. The complete vote: Nowlan, 11,802; Elderkin, 10,316.

In the other two contests the Liberals had things pretty much their own way. Mr. Crestohl, a Montreal lawyer making his first campaign, rolled up 9,701 votes. His nearest opponent was Harry Binder, Labor-Progressive, who had 3,907. Trailing were Maurice Hebert, Progressive Conservative, with 2,836, and Kalmen Kaplansky, CCF, 1,461.

The Montreal Cartier by-election was made necessary because of the death of Maurice Hartt, Liberal, who in the 1949 general election had a margin of some 7,000 votes over Mr. Binder, and a wider margin over CCF and Progressive Conservative candidates.

Still Incomplete

In Halifax where Mr. Balcom, a druggist and president of the Board of Trade, took a long, early lead, the count was still incomplete early today. Lloyd Allen, Progressive Conservative, was far back with little more than half Mr. Balcom's vote. The CCF candidate, the Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson, a retired United Church minister, trailed badly.

Mr. Balcom takes over the seat in the two-member riding made vacant when Gordon B. Isnor, Liberal, was appointed to the Senate.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a statement Monday night, said the results of the three by-elections indicated that "proportionate distribution is much the same and shows continued support of the Liberal government's policies and administration."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Mr. Nowlan's victory was a "well-deserved tribute to an outstanding Canadian" and "a splendid tribute to the fine constituency which has elected him."

City CCF Group Say Capitalists Endanger Press

Not strikes but control of newspaper chains by capitalists is the greatest present-day danger to the freedom of the press. That was the gist of "an emergency resolution" adopted Monday night by the Peterborough CCF Association, and which is being passed along to the national convention.

"The greatest danger to the freedom of the press in the western democracies is the increasing control by capitalists of large newspaper chains," the resolution states.

This resolution was in reply to a Canadian Press dispatch of June 17 which reported F. I. Ker, publisher of the Hamilton Spectator, as follows:

"Mr. Ker said that on this continent the limitations imposed on the press by governments were less real than those caused by 'strikes called in defiance of our laws.'"

"A strike which blacked out a newspaper," he said, "was 'the very antithesis of freedom of the press.'"

Deny Strikes Restrict

Commented the Peterborough CCF-ers: "We cannot see that strikes in any way restrict the freedom of the press. There are two parties to every agreement, and neither is always at fault when they do not come to terms."

Through their association with "big business" advertisers, newspaper publishers naturally favor the capitalist system, say the association. Newspapers depend on advertising "for their very life."

In a system of production for use instead of profit this pandering would be unnecessary.

"Some papers publish news in a manner calculated to propagate the opinions of the owners and omit news the owners desire suppressed," continued the CCF resolution.

And what is the remedy?

To overcome "capitalist domination of publicity mediums" large groups such as labor unions, farm organizations and other societies, could purchase and operate newspapers.

Concludes the CCF resolution: "A newspaper we would like to see would be as impartial as possible in its presentation of the news, and would pay proponents of divergent ideas to write its editorials."

Settlement Nearing In Milk Strike

PITTSBURGH, June 20 (AP)—Mayor David Lawrence today held out hope for settlement of a milk strike that has virtually shut off dairy supplies to seven western Pennsylvania counties for the last 11 days.

After a meeting of company and union officials broke up early today, Mayor Lawrence said: "They are surprisingly close together."

Some 3,000 striking dairy workers demand a 40-hour, five-day work week, rather than the present 48-hour, six-day week, with no reduction in pay. The milk dealers offered 48 hours' pay for a 5½-day, 44-hour week.

Sellers Predominate On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 20.—(CP). — Sellers predominated on the Toronto stock exchange today battering leading issues steadily lower. Industrials and western oils, leaders in recent advances on the market, paced the declines. Volume for the first three hours was 2,465,000 shares.

In industrials, paper, utilities, liquors and banks sagged steadily. Today's sudden downturns followed advances into new high price ground Monday, and in recent weeks by industrials.

In western oils traders rushed in to collect profits on recent gains that pulled the list to the highest average price levels in 13 years. The list opened higher but suddenly reversed itself and slumped.

Base metals slipped quietly with individual issues holding against the trend. Anacon Lead was a standout. Falconbridge boomed early in the day but slipped into the minus column at the halfway mark.

Senior and junior gold producers resumed their slow, steady decline into new low price ground for the year.

Divorce Action To Be Test Case

OTTAWA, June 20—(CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today was asked to rule that a woman who accepts a lump-sum settlement from her husband in a divorce action should not be precluded from going back to the court and asking for further compensation.

W. B. Williston, Toronto lawyer, submitted that Mrs. Bertha Maynard of Toronto, was justified in seeking further maintenance from her ex-husband, although in 1946 she agreed to a lump-sum settlement of $1,200 for maintenance and alimony.

The plea was made during the continued hearing of a test case that is expected to determine the future of lump-sum cash settlements in divorce cases.

Mrs. Maynard, who obtained a divorce from Cecil E. Maynard in 1944, now is a hospital patient suffering from arthritis. Mr. Willison said that in 1944 she was able to earn a living, but she now is urgently in need of financial support.

He argued that it would be "an evil" if a woman in such circumstance, after accepting a lump-sum settlement, were "precluded for all time in going back to the court and asking for the exercise of jurisdiction."

Emily Man Awarded $365 Crash Damages

Judge S. L. Smoke—Monday awarded Morgan Crough, Emily typ., $365.75 in a damage action brought against Arthur Stuart, Park st., from a car crash February 19, 1949.

The accident was about 1:30 a.m. as Stuart started across the intersection at Reid and London sts. He rammed into Crough's car and both vehicles were badly damaged.

After a long chase through streets and alleys Stuart was finally arrested by former city police constable Vernon Donoghue, who testified in Monday's action.

When he had carefully checked Crough's claims for damages Judge Smoke ordered Stuart to pay the $365.75 plus costs.

aircraft engines. The airline's officers were competent.

Mr. Drew suggested it was just as much the duty of members to examine the details of aircraft engine operations as it was for them to consider the comparative advantages of Diesel engines and steam engines.

Mr. Smith suggested that industry and labor should find some way of giving the workers a greater portion of the profits as they increased. Labor should not be bound to so much an hour or a day.

Raps Pressure

Mr. Gillis said the Federal government appeared to have "shelved" its so-called shelf of public works projects to relieve unemployment. He criticized the National Employment Service. Regional offices were not doing all that could be done and "political pressure" was being brought to bear in the giving out of jobs.

Mr. Johnston said agriculture, before the use of improved farm machinery, had been able to take care of many unemployed during seasonal periods. The labor department, he suggested, must tackle the problem of how to take care of men being displaced by machinery.

Julian Ferguson (PC—Simcoe North) said that as an employer of labor he felt the minister should leave no stone unturned to emphasize to employers the question of sharing of profits.

Have No Information On Deportation Move

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—Two Ministers informed the Commons Monday no information had come from Jean Bradley of Montreal in connection with the government's deportation proceedings against Jacques De Bernonville, French Count accused of collaborating with the Nazis.

Immigration Minister Harris and Justice Minister Garson said this in a statement tabled in reply to questions asked by P. E. Gagnon (Ind.-Chicoutimi.)

In response to a question as to whether the government had a record of Bradley, the Minister said a Jean Marie Bradley, citizen of France but a native of Coventry, Eng., had entered Canada July 9 of last year. The question of his permanent stay here was under consideration. Bradley was not otherwise identified.

Mr. Gagnon asked if the government had any information on whether Jean Bradley had been a member of the "Red Brigades" in the Spanish Civil War, and both Ministers said they had none.

Says Modern Girls More Self-Reliant

TORONTO, June 20 —(CP)— Mary Mackenzie, retiring this month after 35 years as principal of a branch business school here, thinks modern girls are more self-reliant than ever.

Miss Mackenzie, 64, a native of Lucknow, has seen 5,000 pupils pass through the school since it was founded in 1915 with a class of four. Attitudes, too, have changed in that time.

"There was one girl I remember who carried her books in a muff all winter so the sigma of attending business school would not be made apparent to her friends," Miss Mackenzie recalled.

"Nowadays, numbers of girls are putting themselves through school, earning their board and room by acting as mother's helpers, baby sitters and waitresses."

Miss Mackenzie came to Toronto in 1911 after teaching public school for six years in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Local 527 Man Travels To Raise Strike Funds

Local 527 has appointed its financial secretary, Dune Drummond, as a travelling representative for the duration of the strike at the Peterborough Lock Co. plant.

His job will be to address labor unions in Toronto, Hamilton, Welland, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Windsor, and Sudbury and try to raise funds for the strikers.

Monday he left Peterborough with five other strikers who took up plant gate collections in Toronto. The five returned Monday night, but Mr. Drummond is continuing his appeals to unions to donate either direct from their treasuries or permit plant-gate collections.

Today he is in the east end of Toronto and is addressing some CCL unionists in the afternoon.

Antipodeans To See Vancouver For Free

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Free sightseeing trips through the city are planned for "down under" passengers who arrive aboard the motor vessel Aorangi.

The Vancouver Tourist Association is footing the bill. Many visitors from Australia and New Zealand are hampered by the currency exchange.

"As these people will be in Vancouver for the first time in their lives this is an excellent opportunity to show them our city and demonstrate Canadian hospitality," said R. H. Baker, Association president.

Fruit Grower Says Money Owing For Apples

COBOURG, June 20 (ENS) — Felix Pillo of Toronto was committed Monday for trial on a charge of theft of $434 from Joe Persofsky, Colbourne fruit grower. Persofsky testified in police court that he gave the accused a load of fruit to sell last April and that it was his understanding that the fruit sold for $1.75 a hamper. He said Pillo never paid him.

Another employee, A. Ainsworth, told the court that he got the sales slip from the man in Montreal who bought the apples from Pillo and the 248 hampers went for $1.75. W. Harnden, apple inspector, said that last April he gave a certificate of inspection to a load of apples being shipped by Persofsky.

William Gallagher, James Keeler and Harold Davey, charged with causing a disturbance in a Colborne restaurant, pleaded guilty. Gallagher, described as the main offender, was fined $10 and costs and the others were ordered to pay fines of $3 each.

Complains of Swearing

Harold Jackson, Jr., John St., Cobourg, was remanded for one week on a charge of causing a disturbance on a public street by swearing. Cyril Quemby testified that Jackson was swearing on the night of June 11 in front of Jackson's home and that a lady next door came to Mr. Quemby in a very agitated state and said that Jackson had sworn at her and chased her across the street.

John Black testified that he was sitting in the car with his girl friend when Jackson started to swear at him and he went over and used force to silence his language. Out of the evidence came the revelation that Jackson was apparently feuding with another neighbour.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter had another street row case on his hands in connection with a charge against Wilbert Jenkins of Sinclair St. charged with causing a disturbance by swearing at Donald Lean.

The complainant said that Jenkins swore at him and threatened him with a broom. Jenkins told the court that Lean's youngster threw stones on his lawn and that they impeded his lawn mower. Jenkins also blamed Lean for his dog breaking his plants. In finding the accused guilty, Magistrate Baxter adjourned the matter until July 17, advising the parties concerned to correct any irritating circumstances.

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 20 — (AP)—CIO president Philip Murray Monday forecast a return to the "dire days of the early '30s" if the present "jobless trend" in the United States continues. Murray, dedicating a $100,000 building for CIO steelworkers, said: "before we put new machines into service, we must provide new jobs for displaced employees."

Presbyterians Hold Big Anniversary Party

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30 — (ENS)—Many people were at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and manse in Campbellford on Monday evening to attend the garden party celebrating 114 years of the Presbyterian Church in Campbellford.

Supper was served by the women of the church, under the shade of the trees on the spacious grounds. The Campbellford citizens' band was in attendance and kept the crowd entertained with both martial music and some newer popular pieces.

The fish pond was popular with the children and there were booths serving refreshments. Home made candy and cakes were available and also flowers and green vegetables.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 20 — (ENS)—Hector MacMillan, speed boat enthusiast of Campbellford, added another trophy to his collection on Sunday, by winning a race at the Consecon Outboard Club course. Mr. MacMillan won the first heat with little difficulty, but his motor became flooded at the start of the second heat and the other boats were about a half lap ahead of him before he got the motor started. He plans to enter his boat in the races to be held in Madoc on Sunday.

Threaten Resignations

TORONTO, June 30.—(CP).—Don G. McMaster, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Civil Service Association, said Monday in a statement that wholesale resignations from the civil service will come if provisional pay scales are not drastically improved. Comparing provincial with civic pay standards, he said a Toronto garbage collector is paid $43 a week and a starting attendant in a provincial mental institution gets $30.

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, of St. John's Anglican Church, assisted by Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Anglican Church conducted the funeral services of the late Ernest George Chase on Monday from St. John's Anglican Church.

Ernest Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chase, Hawley St., was drowned in the Trent Canal, Thursday evening, when he attempted to swim across it.

For the past several years he had been interested in the activities of the Sea Cadets, and as a result they took a prominent part in the service, forming the Guard of Honour and acting as pallbearers. The remainder sat in a body along with school chums from Queen Mary School.

Pallbearers were Douglas Laird, Jerry Willis, Raymond Brady, Ted Doughty, Fred Hillier and Hewitt Stinson.

Interment was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Cobourg Gets Busy Mending Streets

COBOURG, June 20 (ENS) — Cobourg streets department has been busy during the past few days mending roads and pavements in town and there is still plenty of work to be done. The streets in Cobourg have been the cause of many complaints and Reeve Roy Dodge has called Queen St. the "rocky road to Dublin".

One cause of trouble on paved streets has been the collapse of fill after excavations have been made for utilities services into new houses. Chapel St. is a big offender in that regard.

Rotarians May Auction Cottage Built For Sale

CAMPBELLFORD, June 20 — (ENS)—The method of selling the cottage which the Rotary Club is building, was discussed at the Club's meeting on Monday.

Some thought it would be folly to attempt to sell the thousands of tickets necessary during the next few weeks, and that the club should advertise the cottage for sale.

Others believed the club should call for tenders on the building. The matter was left up to the cottage committee to decide on the situation and to bring in a recommendation at the next meeting.

A vote of thanks was extended to Leo Doherty of the club, for his work in organizing the horse races the club is sponsoring on June 23. Mr. Doherty is also the man behind the cottage scheme, and he and his committee have shouldered the full responsibility.

Dr. C. A. Bright gave a report on the auction sale the club held in the Community Centre on Saturday. He said he doubted if the club would clear much more than $50.

Drink Is No Excuse

There is unmistakable evidence throughout this country that drunkenness or drinking is being considered by courts and juries as a condoning element in criminal cases. Within the last few months a man in Peterborough was tried for murder following a drunken house party, when a woman was killed. He was found not guilty and walked out of court as an innocent man. Nevertheless, the fact remains that a woman was shot to death and no one has been held responsible. An assault case was more recently heard in Supreme Court, Peterborough. This concerned one fracas near Lakefield in a wild night-long spree last autumn when a man was stabbed to death in a Lindsay street. Fines totalling $400 were imposed on two men (who had previously been acquitted of murder). In this assault case the guilty persons had been drinking. The case of the ex-Mayor of Sydney, Cape Breton, is well known. He brutally killed a man when he was in a drunken frenzy and was given a couple of years in prison.

• • •

Whether the law, judges, juries or prosecuting attorneys are at fault, or whether there was any miscarriage of justice, we do not presume to say. Yet these three cases, and many others which are being reported in the papers weekly, do indicate that people who have been drinking are being considered as accused persons in a special category. The law should be quite clear to all that the condition of the accused has no bearing on the person's guilt or innocence. A pauper, a millionaire, a drunkard or a minister of religion, all must stand before the courts as equals under the law, and be tried without reference to their dependence, their money, their sobriety or their religion.

• • •

Canadian and British military law have a regulation that drunkenness is no excuse for other misdemeanours. Our civilian courts would do well to stick to the same rule. To condone a crime or exculpate a criminal because of drinking discredits the processes of law, affronts society and plays into the hands of illiberal prohibitionists who would again strait-jacket this country.

The Press Is A Nuisance

In another editorial on this page we refer to the action which General Douglas MacArthur has taken against the London Times' correspondent in Japan. It reminds us of the arbitrary action taken toward the press by a couple of British colonial administrators, whose names cropped up in the discussions of the Commonwealth Press Union in Ottawa last week.

One of these colonial governors threatened terrible things against the Malta Times because that paper had shown a lack of respect for him; it had reported that at an executive council meeting he had lost his temper and pounded on the table. The governor demanded a retraction and an apology—which he failed to get. It lay in his power to suspend publication of the newspaper, but he thought better of it. Another editor in Cyprus offended the local governor, and was sent to jail for two years.

At first glance it may seem odd that an American general should behave so much like an angry British colonial administrator, but if we look a little further the oddity disappears. Governors of all races who possess arbitrary powers greatly dislike criticism, and will suppress it if they are able.

To men in positions of power, the press often appears to be a nuisance; it must be said also that sections of the press sometimes behave in a fashion which lends support to this opinion. But which is the greater evil: a press which occasionally overshoots the mark, or men in positions of power who are subject to no popular criticism whatever? We do not think that there is any doubt that unrestricted power has greater possibilities of evil than the vagaries of the press. It has been said that the strength of democracy lies in its series of interlocking checks upon the exercise of power. And when men in great positions find the press a nuisance the chances are two to one that they have been using their power in an undemocratic manner. The press may be of most value to the people when it is most a nuisance to the powers that be.

King MacArthur of Japan

The Emperor of Japan still sits on his imperial throne, though dressed now in an American businessman's suit. The real power in Japan is in the hands of General Douglas MacArthur, and what power is not invested in him as head of the occupation force, he takes anyway. One of the tightest dictatorships in the world today is General MacArthur's. An instance is his attempts to control the press.

Recently the Tokyo correspondent of the London Times, Frank Hawley, was told that he was considered persona non grata by General MacArthur's headquarters. Hawley's reports are "subjective and not objective". The Chief of Staff to General MacArthur has decided that Hawley's reports show him to be staunchly anti-Communist; he cannot therefore (nor, presumably, can General MacArthur), understand why the correspondent should criticize MacArthur's administration. In their own opinion, General MacArthur and his headquarters staff know best how to combat Communism, how to run Japan, and they are always right. There can be no criticism; in fact, as the rejection of Hawley shows, there must be no criticism. The Times correspondent has been advised that "no accredited correspondent should publish any news likely to interfere with MacArthur's objectives."

Is it any business of ours how an American general administers Japan? Yes. Canadians and men of the Times country played a part in winning the war against Japan; Canada and Britain should have a right to pass judgement on what MacArthur does. He represents all Allied powers. Further, as western democrats, we should not stand silently by if MacArthur is setting up a dictatorship as rigid as the old Japanese dictatorship which Allied arms destroyed. Emperor Hirohito has not been shorn of his divinity in order that an American divinity may replace it.

When Is A Misquotation?

A fortnight ago we quoted the opening lines of The Maple Leaf in an editorial, thus:

In days of yore the hero Wolfe
Britain's glory did maintain
And planted firm Britannia's flag
On Canada's fair domain.

We were rebuked by the Toronto weekly, Saturday Night, which insisted that the first two lines should be—

In days of yore from Britain's shore
Wolfe the dauntless hero came—

Now this older version is not unknown to us; we have heard our grandmother sing it, but she sang it thus:

In days of yore from Britain's shore
Wolfe the CONQUERING hero came—

Our understanding of the matter is that the word "conquering" was deemed offensive by the people of Quebec, and the song was emended—by whose hand we know not—to the words as we quoted them. Certainly that is the form in which they appear in A Canadian Song Book, edited by Sir Ernest Macmillan and published with the imprimatur of the National Council of Education. We do not accept that book as a final authority. It makes two errors in the verses of Ben Jonson's lyric "Drink to me only with thine eyes", and it may have misquoted The Maple Leaf. But we think that the change is as we have said above; if Saturday Night wants an older version it must decide between our grandmother's and its own, unless it can turn up a copy of Muir's text which has overriding authority. We suggest that such a text may be hard to discover. Our grandmother, we may add, possessed an excellent memory, and could be as sticky about a misquotation as anybody.

In its pursuit of this matter Saturday Night calls The Examiner all sorts of horrid names—"respectable", "usually intelligent" and the like. And the Toronto journal suggests that the change in the verses was made because somebody's ear was offended by the imperfect rhyme "came" and "domain". Fiddlesticks, as our grandmother would have said. The change was made as a sop to Quebec.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Reverend Dan McIvor, Liberal M.P. for Fort William, pulled a tin whistle out of his pocket during a division and started to tootle. The Speaker of the House of Commons thereupon banned tin whistles. Quite rightly: horn-blowing is the proper pastime for politicians.

The Lion-Killer

By JULIAN HUXLEY

ONCE when I was talking to Sir Leonard Woolley about the animal life of the Middle East, he said that the grandfather of a trusted overseer of his had killed a lion. "Where had he gone to do that?" I said. Sir Leonard replied that the grandfather had gone nowhere; he had killed the lion in his home region, the tribal area of the Damalkas on the right bank of the Upper Euphrates.

◇ ◇ ◇

APPARENTLY, here and there in the foothill region of Northern Syria, between the coast and the Euphrates up to its emergence from the mountain near Carchemish, lions survived well into the second half of the nineteenth century. If a man wished to acquire fame and fortune (and also if he was strong and somewhat foolhardy!), he would announce that he was going to challenge a lion to single combat on a certain date—having first ascertained its presence in the neighbourhood.

◇ ◇ ◇

ON the appointed date he would set out, followed by a large crowd of spectators, to the wady where the lion was in the habit of lying up. The challenger advanced into the wady, followed at an increasingly respectful distance by the gallery of spectators. In a loud voice he proclaimed his challenge to the lion, urging him to come out and fight if he was not to be considered a coward. Provocations were shouted at the beast. Public insults were heaped on his head; and, if this did not suffice, on the heads of his mother, grandmother and other female relatives.

◇ ◇ ◇

IF the lion was a clever lion, he would creep round, hidden among rocks, so as to leap on the bombastic disturber of his peace from behind; and this would usually be the end of the foolhardy fellow. But most lions are far from clever, and the animal would often come angrily out of his lair straight towards the challenger.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE challenger was bound by certain traditional rules. He was allowed no weapon save a single sword. He was, however, permitted to swathe his left arm and hand in enormous quantities of black goat's-hair yarn (the stuff of which the black bedouin tents are woven), to such an extent that his arm was protected against the teeth and claws of even the largest lion.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE lion advanced, doubtless snarling and lashing his tail, and eventually sprang. This is the part of the business that I frankly do not fully understand, for I should have thought a man could not normally prevent himself from being knocked down by a lion springing to the attack. However, the grandson of the lion-killer assured Woolley that it was otherwise. The lion-killer thrust his left arm forward, full into the lion's open mouth. Lions, as they bite, automatically bring up their fore-paws with their great claws to help their fangs to hold and injure the prey. But here both fangs and claws spent their force on the entanglement of the wool.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS was the moment which the human challenger had to seize. While the lion's mouth and forelegs were thus occupied, he must manage with one stroke of his sword to hamstring the beast's left hind leg. The lion then lies helpless, incapable of movement, and it is only a matter of skill and agility to keep out of range of the jaws while stabbing the creature to death.

◇ ◇ ◇

I SAY "only"; but obviously the skill and agility required were very considerable, and the man might still be mauled or even killed. However, the overseer's grandfather killed his lion, without being damaged himself, and his fortune was then made. He thenceforward had the appellation of Lion-killer added to his name, and never had to do any more work, as it was accepted that a lion-killer should be entertained at the public expense for the rest of his life.

◇ ◇ ◇

I MUST say that this survival impresses me a great deal. In early historic times, only three or four thousand years ago, lions must still have been quite abundant in the entire region across from India through Persia and Syria and Asia Minor into Greece. Wherever wild lions existed, they inevitably came to be the symbol of all great dangerous beasts, and the lion-killer, challenging and mastering the forces of the brute creation, became a hero. The famous Lion Gate at Mycenae embodies this symbol; the Assyrian Kings are sometimes shown in single combat with lions; and the Hittite Kings had lions everywhere in their palaces.

◇ ◇ ◇

ONCE this had happened, it was natural for the symbol to spread to other lands and other regions, where no lions had ever existed. It would be extremely interesting to trace the steps of this extension; but that is a matter for the specialist. I suppose that the symbolization of the kingly power by the lion was reflected back and reinforced by the ideas of the medieval bestiaries, which conferred the title of King of Beasts upon the lion.

◇ ◇ ◇

BE that as it may, all the lions which play a part in the Western world are descended from the lions of the Near and Middle East, not from those of India and Black Africa. The lion which Woolley's overseer's grandfather challenged and killed in the time of Queen Victoria certainly shared a common ancestry with the lions that floated on her Royal Standard, as well as with the Lion that confronts the Unicorn in the royal arms and in Lewis Carroll's poem, and with many other lions of other royal houses and great cities of Europe.

Perkins said he shot the bobcat but let the game warden go.

The Dinosaur In Canada

WHAT were the Dinosaurs that occupied the ancient world really like? Dr. W. E. Swinton of the British Museum of Natural History recently went to Canada and the United States to study their collections of Dinosaurs and compare them with European ones. In a BBC talk he told listeners something about these pre-historic creatures which were the dominant land animals for nearly a hundred million years. The first misconception he corrected was that all Dinosaurs were huge. Some were enormous but others were as small as a collie dog. They were all reptiles, distant relatives of snakes and lizards and rather closer relatives of crocodiles. They were cold blooded, often scaly in appearance and the females laid eggs. They are known from their fossilized remains, the only contact between them and modern man, for the last Dinosaur had been dead at least sixty million years before the first man appeared.

Nearly a hundred different kinds of Dinosaurs, who adapted themselves to various ways of life, have been found in England. Dr. Swinton distinguished them in the easiest way, by their habits. There were flesh eaters with two short fore limbs and two strong hind ones on which they walked. Their toes and fingers were clawed and they had one row of sharp, knife-like teeth. Some were small, some more than ten feet high, the climax of their development being reached in Tyrannosaurus, nearly fifty feet long from his snout to the tip of his tail. These flesh-eaters were closely related to an even larger vegetarian group, with very long necks and tails and elephantine bodies. These animals still had long hind legs but walked on all fours. Some were only thirteen feet long, the famous Brontosaurus was between forty and sixty feet, whilst the biggest of all Diplodocus, measured nearly ninety feet and probably weighed twenty-five tons. They spent much time in lakes and rivers where they used their strong teeth on the soffish vegetation and their claws to grasp a foothold. A third group of Dinosaurs walked erect and had beaked mouths and teeth suited for feeding on the evergeen palm like vegetation of the time. Some of smaller kinds, known from Britain's Isle of Wight, may have climbed trees. The remains of the first Dinosaur ever found, discovered in Sussex in 1822, were of this kind. The fourth group, four-legged cousins of the beaked animals and up to twenty feet long, were called armoured Dinosaurs because of the bony plates and spikes they bore. Some were entirely covered with such things; others had a double row of plates along the centre of the back, others had spikes on the face and brow and a great frill of bone over the neck.

◇ ◇ ◇

COMPLETE skeletons of some Dinosaurs are in existence, others are just isolated bones. Impressions of skin are found on the rocks in association with the bones, and there are remains of eggs, with very occasional portions of embryos. From fossilized teeth information about their food is deduced and the type of rocks in which the fossils are preserved tell of the geography and climate. There is a good collection of Dinosaurs in London and others in Europe but by far the finest collections are in Canada and the United States for the types of geological beds which preserve the bones are more amply represented there. Dinosaurs lived for a hundred million years and then vanished, dying without descendants. Towards the end of their era there were wide changes in topography, climate and the nature of plants, all of which made demands on a stock aeons old in habits. They had their shortages of food, shelter and, most potent of all, shortage of brain. Dr. Swinton concluded by describing his visit to the world's largest telescope on Mount Palomar in California. With it man can see systems incredibly remote, whose light takes one hundred and forty million years to reach the earth. "Light that left the outer nebulae when the Dinosaurs were alive and were masters of the world now gleams upon their honoured bones," he said.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me: and as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say unto you ....

Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now; but thou shalt follow me after wards. (John 13: 33, 36.)

◇ ◇ ◇

If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever....

These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you. (John 14: 15, 16, 25.)

Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you ....

I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. (John 16: 7, 12-14.)

No Witch Hunt

(Brantford Expositor)

The Minister of Justice, Mr. Garson, has made it clear that the Federal Government's plan and policy is to discharge from any post of confidential work any civil servant suspected of disloyalty. He has indicated, however, that it is equally part of the Government's policy not to jeopardize a dfscharged employee's chances of getting other employment.

Trustworthiness of employees in governmental departments should be well-established and beyond doubt, of course. However, suspicion of disloyalty is not necessarily or inevitably a proof thereof, and it seems fair and reasonable that an employee, even though evidence look rather strong against him, should not be condemned for insufficient cause. Similarly there should be no "witch hunting".

Moslem-Christian Tension Growing Across Lebanon

By D. I. MURR

BEYROUTH, The Lebanon, June 20 (AP).—Moslem-Christian tension is growing in The Lebanon — the only Arab country with a high ratio of Christian residents.

In recent months pitched battles have taken place in the countryside, with up to 1,000 villagers armed with rifles, machine- and tommy-guns on each side. The Lebanese army has been called out to put down disturbances.

Nine persons were killed and about 25 wounded in a clash this Spring in the Bekaa Plain near the ruins of the famous Pagan temple at Baalbeck, dedicated to Baal, the sun god.

About six months ago the Lebanese army suffered nine dead and eight wounded while attempting to settle a Moslem-Christian dispute in the same area.

Acquire Arms

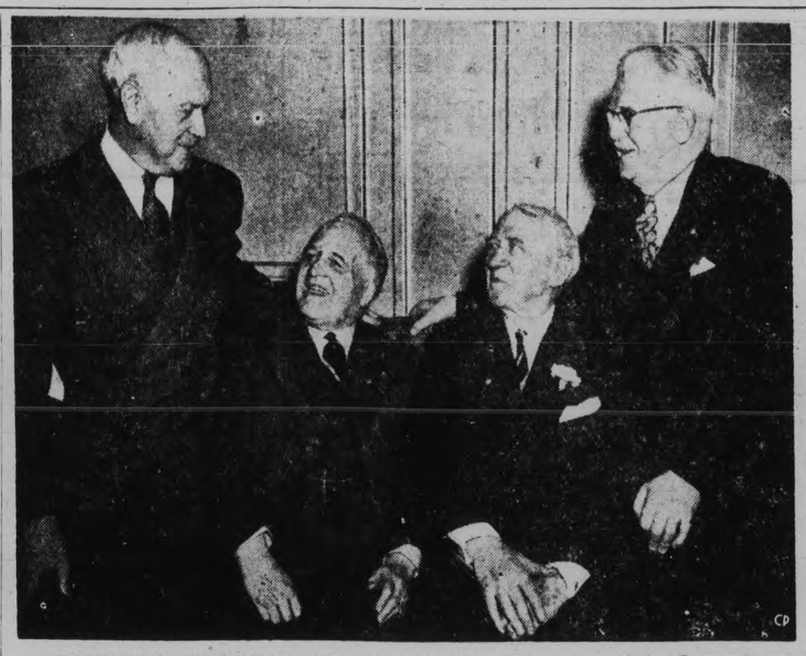
Further religious outbreaks are feared because of the chip-on-the-shoulder attitude of both sides. Both Moslem and Christian groups apparently have secretly acquired large quantities of arms.

The Lebanon now is in a delicate balance with approximately half Moslems and half Christians.

The Lebanese constitution — adopted when several decades of French rule ended during the last war — recognizes the religious split which dominates internal politics.

The President of the Lebanese Republic must be a Maronite Christian. The Prime Minister is a Sunni Moslem. The President of the Chamber of Deputies is a Shi'a Moslem. The Vice-Premier is a Greek Orthodox. Similar divisions occur down the line to lesser posts.

Villages Battlefield



The latest Moslem-Christian fighting took place around two small villages called Accoura and Yammouneh. Accoura is a Christian village and Yammouneh is Shi'a Moslem.

Disputes have been going on there for more than 50 years over the use of grazing grounds. The Ottoman Government, which ran this part of the world until the First World War, set up commissions to fix boundaries and stop the fighting.

Quarrels also have arisen over the division of hashish crops. Hashish, a drug similar to marijuana, has a big market in Egypt, although its use is forbidden by law. Lebanese law also forbids its cultivation. Despite the law large amount of hashish are grown in the Lebanon and smuggled into Egypt.

Bethany Women Review 25 Years Missionary Work

BETHANY, June 20 (ENS) — The evening auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society reviewed the past 25 years, at its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Donald Lowes. Mrs. T. J. Jackson presided.

The scripture was read by Mrs. B. Taylor. A letter of thanks was read for a bale of clothing sent recently for overseas relief; also a letter from Mrs. Bernard Preston requesting a donation to help with expenses of sending a delegate from this section of the Peterborough Presbyterial to the summer school at Whitby.

Watchtower Heralds reporting were Mrs. C. Rowan for Africa, Mrs. T. Jackson, Trinidad and Mrs. G. Waddell, Korea. A piano instrumental by Mr. Norman Lowes was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Jackson led the program prepared to celebrate the silver anniversary of the United Church Missionary Society.

Mrs. Clarence Rowan gave an account of the progress during the first five years, 1925-1930, stating these were difficult years as the organizing had to be done and bringing three denominations together to form one society meant many perplexities and adjustments, also the heavy immigration to Canada made ocean ports and railway centres busy places for the Department of Strangers' workers.

Members Increase

Mrs. Mervin Porteous reported on the years from 1930-1935 New organizations had sprung up, older ones had increased their membership and missionary givings reached an all time high in 1929. But the drought in the western provinces and the depression affected the work seriously. Givings decreased 30 per cent. A 15 per cent reduction in the salaries of missionaries and staff was necessary in overseas work. The society celebrated its 50th anniversary in Korea and its 60th in Japan.

Mrs. G. Waddell told about the years 1935-1940. One hundred and eighty home missionaries serving from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island had reported enthusiastically on their work. In the home missions hospital these were days of great growth in medical work. Newsflashes from overseas fields in China, Korea, Africa, Japan and Trinidad were both alarming and encouraging as the days were dangerous, but the opportunity great.

Mrs. C. Rowan described the years 1940-1945 as critical yet thrilling. Givings increased 20 per cent. New and serious responsibilities called for Christian leadership to Japanese Canadians in the relocation centres of British Columbia, ministering to hundreds of young men and women caught up in wartime services. Sunday schools in the Home By Mail and Air Vacation Schools and cam pprograms opened up to serve people in sparsely settled areas.

Post War Work

Mrs. Porteous told of the proceedings from 1945-1950. War brides and newcomers from Europe had been welcomed. Work in Japan and Korea was reopened soon after VJ Day and the independence in India opened up new fields of influence for Indian Christians. Many more missionaries were requested by the leaders of the younger churches.

"What of the Future?" was dealt with by Mrs. Waddell, who said that the Christian church stands upon the threshold of unlimited opportunities for service to Christ and His Kingdom. "As members of the United Church of Canada we are called to share in making Canada a Christian nation and spreading the Gospel [illegible]y to every rural community. Overseas missions must claim a much greater part of our attention, prayers and givings. The churches of India, China and Africa must be strengthened, which calls for more devoted study and service on the part of every member of the Women's Missionary Society."

The hostess, assisted by her daughter Miss Margaret Lowes, served refreshments.

Bill To Curb Press Killed In State Senate

BATON ROUGE, La., June 20 (AP)—A bill to curb press criticism—offered after a newspaper had called Louisiana legislators "trained seals"—was killed in the State Senate Monday.

Early this month the New Orleans Item printed an editorial likening legislators to "trained seals" and "lackeys" of Governor Earl K. Long.

The Senators summoned publisher David Stern and Editor Clayton Fritchey to face possible contempt charges and 10-day jail sentences. The newspapermen refused to retract or apologize.

The bill would have required newspapers to print "in the same prominence" replies by persons criticized in news stories or editorials. Violators would face $3,000 fines and 90-day jail sentences.

Find Canned Goods Didn't Poison Guests

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., June 20 (CP)—The report of an investigation into mild food poisoning suffered by 18 persons at a wedding breakfast in nearby Bow Island May 29 said they "were not poisoned through the use of any canned goods."

First reports of the incident, based on the opinions of those stricken, was that the poison came from canned peas.

It was found by investigators that canned vegetables used in salads could not have been responsible. Cause of the poisoning was not determined.

The investigation was conducted by the RCMP, the Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge, Alta., and three Medicine Hat doctors.

Use Salvaged Timber To Ease Shortage

TORONTO, June 20 (CP) — Timber salvaged from northern Ontario's Mississagi forest will be used to overcome a lumber shortage reported in the Toronto area.

The timber was cut following the Chapleau forest fire of 1948. Frank MacDougall, Deputy Lands Minister, said Monday that the lumber being produced by more than 20 mills in the Mississago area is being shipped into regular trade channels at North Bay.

It may exceed 250,000,000 board feet, he added.

Some dealers here said Saturday that lumber has become so scarce that they may have to ration it to customers. Several of them blamed the volume of export to higher-priced markets in the United States.

Ashby's Victors In 10th Heat Over Electrics

Ashby's edged CGE girl softballers 6-5 in 10 innings at the Bowl last night in a swell struggle. The youngest player in the loop, 12-year-old B. Callan of Ashby's, got the winning run as well as playing a bangup game defensively, she and E. McFadden starring in the one-hour tilt. M. Batley and M. Hodson went best in the field for CGE, who deserved at least a tie but for late errors. M. Hodgson and D. McFadden both pitched good ball, with the latter getting almost perfect backing.

E. McFadden and B. Callan each had two hits of the seven gained by the Ashby lasses. M. Batley and M. Boyce got two apiece of the seven for CGE colleens, and R. Boyce clouted a homer in the first frame with two aboard. The fans enjoyed this tight tussle, a nice one to win but a tough one for Electrics to lose.

By The Associated Press

It took Stan Hack's Springfield Cubs 50 days to do it, but today they're on top of the International League.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

According to the OLA senior "A" standing issued yesterday, the Petes are alone in second place with five wins in six starts. Three are tied atop with six wins, these being Brampton and St. Kitts—with no losses—and Owen Sound with one reverse. Hamilton, Mimico, Toronto and Weston are well back, so far. The leading Brampton Excelsiors pay a visit to the Petes at Miller Bowl on the morrow at 8.45 p.m., and this will be the stiffest test of the young season for the Creighton crew. Yeah, it'll be a tight and rugged scrap all the way and the Petes will have to be at their best to take it. A hefty gallery assured.

Jerry Fitzgerald is handling daytime drills now for the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association teams in Miller Bowl. Open workouts from nine a.m. to noon and from two p.m. to five, with summer schedules drawn up shortly as the schools will soon be out. Barney Dundas has an open bantam workout tonight at 6.30, and Rowan Chute has one for the midgets at 7.45. On Thursday, the peewees go at six, and the juves at 7.30 under Fitz. No night activity tomorrow or Friday on account of senior games. Owen Sound plays our juniors here at 8.30 Saturday eve. We believe the senior tilt Friday is a postponed one being worked in, and the Petes go to St. Catharines next night.

In The Canary's Perch

Riding high with the men's City Softball League schedule half over, Johnny Russelle's potent Mutuals have eight wins in as many starts. Next comes UEW with five victories and three reverses. East City has won three and dropped five, while Orphans are still on the prowl for a verdict. Top three teams make city playoffs, schedule ending the second last week of July. Sawoffs start about Aug. 8, each being best of seven. Tonight's tussles at the Bowl: Orphans vs. the UE crew, and Mutuals vs. East City. Thursday, it's Orphans vs. Mutuals, and UE vs. East City.

Bill Moher, a displaced Peterborough chap in Mimico, writes: "Jack Lesie, official scorer and hard-working officer of the Viaduct League, had some nice comment to make the other night about the Petes. He said they were tops because they weren't always making changes in their lineup. Regardless of their views, they take the umpire's decision without holding up a game with a useless rhubarb. And in Dalton, they have one of the best ball players in the entire league, not forgetting Menzies' hitting. That kind of comment I really like." And the Oshawa scribe rates the men o' Murphy a smart, hustling club. They appear popular around the circuit.

Chips Off The Diamond

More diamond patter on minors, intermediates and seniors up this way. Senior Petes dropped a real toughie in New Toronto last e'en, 6-5. Other week-end games had Oshawa edging New Toronto on Sunday in seven innings, while Aces took two, Staffords and Dovers dropping decisions. Our intermediates go to Bowmanville tomorrow, instead of having the fray here—this arrangement having been made some time back when the seniors were slated for here. The Murphy men are away tonight but have no game tomorrow. PMBA-ers decided to carry on when promised more diamonds, and they'll go with 10 teams. North, south and east are in peewee and bantam, the north and east are in midget, while the east and south are in juvenile. No interest at all in the west end. Bantams open it Saturday a.m. in the Bowl.

Couple of colleens' softball jousts at the Bowl last chilly eventide with Ashby's yanking out a 6-5 verdict in 10 chukkers, a dandy duel, whilst Westclox walloped Woollens by some hefty score or other which went seven frames. Jean Vass did some hard hitting and Bea Morrow was also dynamite at the plate. It got pretty cold and one-sided, so proceedings halted in the seventh. Games tomorrow there starting at seven: Woollens vs. Westclox, and CGE vs. Marines. On Friday, it's Westclox vs. CGE, and Marines vs. Ashby's. An item tomorrow will list the girls' all-star team selected for sports centenary week.

Petes Defeated In 6-5 Tilt By New Toronto

NEW TORONTO, June 20 — The Petes dropped a 6-5 Viaduct Major League ball decision here to New Toronto last night. It was the best game seen here this season with the largest crowd on hand, the crowd praising both clubs highly after the tight tussle. It helped to make up for last Friday's fiasco when Dovers walked off the field, refusing to play an exhibition game when the league ruled they arrived too late to start a league fray.

The Petes loaded the bases in the first on two occasions with Lowery and Menzies getting hits, as walks were drawn by Garvey, Dadson, Edger and Estlick, three runs resulting. In the second, Kitchen walked and Phelan drove him in. Whitehill got a big hand for a fine pickup and throw to first.

Four Pitches

In the fourth, Gunner Whitehill retired the side on four pitches. Lowery featured in the fifth with a running catch. Edger singled in the sixth, Estlick sacrificed and Lowery bingled home Edger. New Toronto got to Whitehill in the sixth with four hits to tie it up and the fans went wild. Kitchen was called safe on a doubtful one at first. Plunkett relieved with one away in this inning. In the eighth, a walk, a balk and two hits sent two more scampering home for New Toronto. Garvey came up with a fine pickup and throw this frame. Lowery walked in the ninth, and scored on hits by Menzies and Wilson.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The annual men's handicap singles got under way last evening and, as often is the case when so many are entered in a competition of this kind, there was some good bowling and some not so good. Some of the boys played two games. It's far too early to make any guesses as to the winners. The next round is set for Monday, July 17.

On Friday night we are having the first couple of rounds in the "Novice" singles competition. All competing are requested to be at the greens at 7.00 o'clock sharp.

Tomorrow night, at 7.30 o'clock, the mixed doubles tournament, the draw to be made off the board.

Notices have been sent out for the Liftlock Gold Trophy doubles for Wednesday, July 12.

Our next open tournament is set for Saturday, July 1, for the Ovaltine Trophy. We believe it will be mixed doubles; however, we'll have more information in a day or two.

King Edward Wins

An outburst of 13 runs in the seventh gave King Edward a 26-12 victory over Confederation for intermediate school softball honors in the southend. The victors now meet Queen Mary at the Bowl tomorrow for the city title. The game last night was close till the last frame, being 13-12 at the end of the sixth, after King Edward piled up an early lead. Sutherland hit a homer in the seventh with the bases loaded, and Rusaw hit two four-ply clouts that frame. Teams:

King Edward: Curtis, Rowe, Halcrow, Sutherland, Ferguson, Keeting, Rusaw, Simmons, Saunders, Beggs.

Confederation: Druery, Brown, Goldie, Jones, Rose, Chesney, Freelove, Floyd, Parnell.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The winner of the Laurent Dauthuille-Tuzo Portuguez fight at Montreal tonight will get a shot at the world's middleweight title, promoter Raoul Godbout said Monday.

The Montreal promoter said that such a championship fight was "99 per cent certain" to be staged in Montreal this summer.

Dauthuille of France, who registered a victory over Jake Lamotta last summer before he captured the middleweight crown, takes on Portuguez in a 10-rounder that will pave the way for the winner to move into top challenging ranks for the world title.

The Frenchman was considered by the International Boxing Club of the United States as an opponent for Jake Lamotta, June 28 at New York. Lamotta was originally scheduled to fight Rocky Graziano for the title, but the bout was called off after Graziano reported he had suffered a fractured thumb. However, the IBC named Tiberio Mitri of Italy as a replacement for Graziano and postponed the New York battle until July 12.

Godbout said Monday that he had "positive assurance" from the National Boxing Association that a world middleweight championship bout would be staged at Montreal.

At Chicago, Don Millar, vice-president of the United States Trotting Association, Monday said the USTA has filed a motion to quash a $1,200,000 damage suit brought by a Buffalo, N. Y., lawyer.

Millar said it is "his understanding" that the motion will be heard July 10 in Buffalo.

The suit was filed May 24 by John J. Carlo, part owner of harness-pacing tracks in Illinois, Ohio and Michigan.

Carlo alleged the Association violates the anti-trust laws and is a "monopoly, combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade between the several states and Canada."

As a result, he alleged, he and his associates have been "wrongfully prevented from engaging in harness-horse racing in 1949 and 1950."

H. A. (Jimmy) Jones, trainer for the west coast contingent of Calumet Farm's racing stock, said Monday at Albany, Calif., that Armed, an older star of the stable has been retired.

At present Armed is third on the all-time money winning list, behind Calumet's Citation and second-place Stymie.

He has won $817,475, making him the champion money earner of all the geldings in turf history.

Jerry Kesselring, Kitchener amateur, shot a sizzling six under par 65 over Kitchener's Westmount Golf Club course Sunday to smash the course record. Kesselring tied the previous mark—67—10 days ago.

Kid Gavilan, the Cuban middleweight, outpointed Bobby Mann of Trenton, N. J., Monday night in a 10-round feature bout at Hartford, Conn. Gavilan weighed 155; Mann 154.

By The Canadian Press.

Charlie Grimm, famous first baseman, was released by St. Louis Cardinals of the National League to Little Rock of the Southern League 32 years ago today. He was sold to Pittsburgh in 1919 and after six years with the Pirates was traded to Chicago, becoming manager of the Cubs Aug. 2, 1932, succeeding Rogers Hornsby.

Westclox Girls Gain Win Over Woollens

Westclox girls hammered out an 18-0 league softball victory over Woollens last evening at the Bowl. It was called after seven frames because of the cold weather. The Woollens failed to give L. Derry much suport, the latter and R. Naylor going best in the field for them. J. Vass and B. Anderson stood out for the Clockers, all of whom went well, with M. Downer fanning nine in seven frames and giving but six hits.

J. Vass was the big hitter for the winners with two homers and two singles in five appearances. B. Morrow was almost as good with four singles in five, and M. Hawthorne had a homer and single. B. McInroy led the losers at bat with three singles in three tries. Woollens couldn't do anything right in the field as the score mounted.

The teams:

Woollens—S. Harris lf, B. McInroy 2b, J. Walling cf, M. Laing 2b, C. Ferguson ss, L. Derry p, D. Dunk rf, J. Lawson c, R. Naylor 3b.

Westclox—A. Anderson cf, B. Morrow ss, J. Vass 3b, M. Hawthorne c, B. Anderson 2b, M. Selkirk 1b, J. Hardy rf, A. Prudelance lf, I. Bullock lf, M. Downer p.

Central Victorious

Central senior school softballers defeated Prince of Wales yesterday 12-7 to go into finals against the winner of Queen Mary and Confederation—that game being today in the Bowl. The final will be Thursday or Friday of this week. Prince of Wales scored two each in the first and fourth frames and three more in the sixth. Central tallied four in the first and were held down then till they broke loose for eight in the sixth.

Downer was wild in the sixth and his support fell down, too. He and Evans each had three hits in four times up. For the winners, Delahaye, Gardner and the outfield looked good, with Mongraw placing the best hit of the game. Teams:

Prince of Wales: Heron, Evans, Downer, Brown, G. Speirs, Pagett, Coit, Whitney, Dummitt, Lowell, B. Speirs.

Central: Gardner, Patterson, Delahaye, McIntyre, Brooks, Mongraw, Noble, Matthews, Rowley, Rowe, Heffernan, Craymer.

Umpires—Messrs. Druery and Wilson.

Dodgers Cool Off NY Giants Batter Pitchers To 8-5 Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tip to the National League clubs—don't bring a winning streak into Ebbets Field. The unsympathetic Brooklyn Dodgers are sure to catch it.

It's uncanny the way the devil-may-care Dodgers cool off the "red hot" clubs.

First it was Philadelphia. The eager Phillies stormed into Ebbets Field May 30 in first place as a result of winning five of their previous six starts. The Brooks immediately polished them off twice to knock them off the top perch.

Then it was St. Louis. The Cards came into Brooklyn last Friday leading the league by 3½ games. The Dodgers thrashed them three straight times.

Monday night it was New York. The Giants moved in with four victories in their last five starts.

Brooklyn collected 10 hits off five Giant pitchers for an 8-5 victory.

Errors Help

Ralph Branca pitched his first complete game for the Dodgers since August 1, 1949, although he was tagged for 12 hits. Four errors helped get Brooklyn as many unearned runs. Branca started with a rush, striking out 10 Giants in the first five innings. But he was lucky, to finish.

The victory, Brooklyn's fourth in a row, moved the Dodgers into a first-place tie with the idle Cardinals. Each team has won 32 and lost 20.

Boston Braves fell three games off the pace Monday night when Cliff Chambers, of Pittsburgh Pirates, bested Lefty Warren Spahn in a game enlivened by a skirmish between Chambers and Boston's Earl Torgeson. The latter rushed Chambers in the third inning after he was grounded by a close pitch. The two wrestled to the ground before the umpires and players of both teams separated them.

Torgeson was ejected from the game. Chambers had hit Torgy on the back with a pitched ball in the first inning of Sunday's second game.

The only other scheduled game in the National—Cincinnati at Philadelphia—was rained out.

In the only American League game, Chicago White Sox nipped Washington Senators 4-3 in 11 innings. Outfielder Marv Rickert's home run in the 11th enabled Randy Gumpert to gain his first victory of the season. He pitched two scoreless innnings of relief

Report Slump In Betting, Blame Taxes

TORONTO, June 20 — (CP) — Ontario race tracks, the most heavily taxed on the North American Continent, are taking a nasting at the pari-mutuel wickets this spring. And you can get odds that the reasons for the slump are the provincial government's 12½-per-cent levy on the tote—and the bookies.

Figures from three 1950 meetings at Toronto—Dufferin, Woodbine and Greenwood—show that $6,354,406 has been wagered through the mutuels, a decrease of $912,682 from the corresponding 1949 period when the tax was 10 per cent.

Here is the three-track wagering for 1950, with 1949 figures in parenthesis, as released by the Federal Department of Agriculture which controls pari-mutuel betting in Canada:

Dufferin, 14 days: $3,012,180 (12 days: $3,316,170); Woodbine, seven days: $2,291,740 (seven days: $2,629,382); Greenwood, five days: $1,049,586 (five days: $1,321,536).

Ontario's total tax is 21½ per cent—12¼ per cent to the government on the tote and a graduated take-out of from nine to five per cent plus "breakage" on $2 bets by the operators. This is 6½ per cent more than the highest total take-out on United States tracks

Tigers Trounce Toronto 20-16

HAMILTON, June 20 (CP) — Hamilton Tigers bounced from behind a 16-15 deficit to score five goals in the final period and defeat Toronto Riversides 20-16 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior game Monday.

It was Hamilton's third win of the year. Toronto has yet to enter the winning column.

Stu Scott paced the Hamilton squad to a rather listless win, driving home five goals. Captain Blain McDonald scored four while Dorney and Grainger netted three each.

Frank King shone for Riverdales, who put up a hard fight before dropping out in the last frame. King scored four goals, Howse had three, and Hill, Delippa and Timspon two apiece.

"AMERICAN INVASION"— "Yankee invaders" may have been the cry 138 years ago if a force like this paraded into a stockade in Upper Canada. But last Sunday these United States soldiers, dressed in uniforms of the 1812 period, crossed the Niagara River to Niagara-on-the-Lake and were welcomed to General Brock's bastion on its official re-opening. Fort George is expected to become a major tourist attraction.

Handless Man Now A Welder

EDMONTON—(CP)— The encouraging new vista of a happy useful life has been opened up for a 34-year-old Edmonton man, handicapped since a childhood feed mill accident deprived him of both his hands.

R. Arthur Olsen now is working as a trained welder with an artificial hand. His new lease on life started recently through the co-operative efforts of the Canadian Red Cross which supplied him with an artificial hand, the Provincial government which sent him through a welding school at Calgary, and the National Employment Service which found a job for him.

$310,000 Gifts Cut Drastically By UK

LONDON, June 20 (Reuters)— Gifts of more than £100,000 ($310,000) in cash or shares to two British automobile chiefs are to be reduced to about £4,500, the House of Commons resolved on Monday.

The gifts were made by their companies to Leonard Lord of Austin Motors and Sir John Black of Standard Motors, an an undertaking never to work for any other motor firm.

The payments, when they were made, were tax-free.

Coming at a time when British workers are being asked to agree to the government's pegged wage policy, the payments caused an outcry from the Labor party and the trade unions.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who had warned that such gifts might be taxed retrospectively, brought in a proposal in his April budget to do so. Monday night it was approved.

Canada Broadens Citizenship Act

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP) — Canada is broadening her citizenship act to keep up with this age of air travel.

Apparently with an eye to recent activities of the stork in catching up unexpectedly the high-flying airplanes, the government is widening the citizenship act to provide that anyone born on a Canadian plane can automatically claim Canadian citizenship.

This was one provision in amendments to the act introduced and given second reading in the Senate Monday night. The bill was sent to a committee for further study.

Explaining the bill, Senator G. K. Hugessen (L-Quebec), said the airplane provisions was one of the few changes in substance to the Citizenship Act which came into force in 1947. At present only those born in Canada or in a Canadian ship are automatically Canadian citizens.

Make Great Strides

TORONTO, June 20 — (CP) — Tim Buck, Canadian Communist chieftain, returning from a three-month trip to Russia Monday night, told a Labor-Progressive Party rally that Russia and her satellites are making great strides towards reconstruction and want only peace. He said, however, that the Soviet is prepared in event of war to defend herself against capitalistic foes.

Must Defer Hearings

TORONTO, June 20 — (CP) — Lack of courtroom accommodation is expected to result in deferment of more than 1,000 non-jury cases when summer sessions of the Ontario Supreme Court are closed, the York County Law Association said Monday in a brief. The brief, urging new court accommodation, will be presented to York county council Wednesday.

Need More Capital

VANCOUVER, June 20 (CP)— James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said Monday there is need of more risk capital to develop Canada's natural resources. He told the national convention of the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce that the real problem is to attract ordinary Canadian savings, presently languishing in banks, isurance or boards.

Approve Pension Plan

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 20— (AP)—The Studebaker Corporation Local of the United Auto Workers (CIO) voted unanimously Sunday for a non-contributory $100 monthly pension plan worked out by the automobile company and the union. The vote was announced Monday by James D. Hill, union president. Company stockholders will vote later.

Escape From Fire

ROSENFIELD, Man., June 20 (CP)—Twenty-three passengers and a driver emerged Monday from a blazing bus near this Southern Manitoba town. The bus was travelling to Minneapolis from Winnipeg when its right rear tire caught fire. The bus was destroyed.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

Commencing Thursday, June 22nd

HALL'S

This year the City of Peterborough celebrates its 100th Anniversary. We're celebrating with them for we're older than the City.

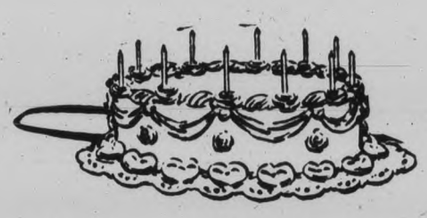
It's Hall's 25th Anniversary

1950—the twenty-fifth anniversary of Hall's being taken over by WALKER STORES LTD. We've kept the old name — a good one — an honored one in the City. We trust under the management of the past twenty-five years we've not in any way tarnished its reputation but have helped it to shine with increased lustre.

It's Hall's 62nd Anniversary

1950—the sixty-second anniversary of Hall's on George Street. Under the name "HALL & INNES" the Dry-goods section of the old Store on Simcoe Street was transferred to Hall's present site, locating in a store building mentioned by the newspaper of 1888 as being one of the finest in Canada. Doubtless many in Peterborough remember the high rounded windows, the heavy brass guardrails and perhaps the twenty and twenty-two inch planks in the basement floor.

It's Hall's 118th Anniversary



1950—the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the forming of the NICHOLLS & HALL partnership to operate the General Store at the northwest corner of Water and Simcoe Streets. Here they sold groceries, drapery, haberdashery, iron-ware, lumber, grain and feed, oils and even operated on the premises the Bank of Montreal. Out of the businesses of Nicholls & Hall, Hall & Innes and Richard Hall have come to Peterborough such advantages as the Nicholls Park, Nicholls Hospital, the Hall Benevolent Trust, etc., etc.. So, we the present operators have no troubled consciences when taking money back out of the pockets of you, the present citizens of this 100-year-old City.

COME THURSDAY MORNING—9:00 o'clock

YOU'LL HELP YOURSELF

WHEN YOU HELP US TO CELEBRATE

Every Department throughout the Store offers attractions too good to pass. We've bothered our Business Friends—We've hunted bargains—We've almost robbed the Factories to get you lots of things to make you remember Hall's Anniversary Sale.

Did You See Our BIRTHDAY CAKES In The Window?

Would You Like To Have One Yourself? Then See Here!—

THURSDAY, THERE'LL BE A BOX BY THE MAIN FLOOR ELEVATOR DOOR. AFTER DOING YOUR BUYING WRITE YOUR NAME ON THE SALES SLIPS AND PLACE THEM IN THE SLOT — YOU WON'T NEED THE SLIPS AGAIN AS THERE ARE NO RETURNS OR EXCHANGES ON SALE GOODS ANYHOW.

At the close of Thursday's business, Miss Nora Killen, who has been with us for the full twenty-five years that the Walker Stores have been operating, will draw a sales check and the name of the Customer whose check is drawn will be placed on the twenty-five year Birthday Cake in the window. If the address is on the slip we will deliver it.

Other slips will remain in the box Friday and Saturday's sales slips may also be placed there. Saturday evening, Mr. Roy Davidson—another of our 25-year veterans will draw out a slip and the buyer whose name appears will get the 62nd Anniversary Cake.

The largest cake — the 118th year birthday cake, will be given away Thursday. Watch the window and the Hall's advertising for the story on this Cake. It should be interesting

AND DON'T FORGET THAT THE SALE VALUES ARE REALLY GOING TO OPEN YOUR EYES. SEE TOMORROW'S PAPERS!

Fire Breaks Out In Bridgenorth Store

BRIDGENORTH, June 20 — (ENS)—A fire in the store house at the back of Ray Phillips' general store at 9.30 a.m. today was quickly extinguished by members of the newly organized fire brigade and damage to the store was avoided.

Flames lept up to the roof while garbage was being burnt. Mr. Phillips' car and truck, which were in the building, were moved out and the flames were put out before the fire took a serious hold on the building. Only damage to the building is a hole in the roof.

Although the residents have already organised themselves into a fire fighting group, the pumper, which is on order, is not expected to arrive until next week.

Police Pick Up Two Youths In Car Theft

Two Peterborough youths are lodged in police cells today charged with theft of a car from the rear of the King George Hotel Monday night.

The youths appeared in court before Magistrate W. R. Philp, pleaded not guilty, and were remanded until Wednesday on bail of $500 each.

They are William Burns, 390 Queen St., and Albert O'Dette, 352 Armstrong Dr., and police say Burns is on suspended sentence.

The car is owned by D. O. Taylor of Quebec, who is staying in the city. He reported it missing Monday night.

Provincial Constable R. H. Lawson stopped the car about two miles south of Blackwater and arrested Burns and O'Dette. A Lindsay girl, whom the boys had picked up in Lindsay, was with them, but was released.

O'Dette told police he stole the car and picked up Burns on George St.

$500 Scholarship Awarded Nurse

Miss Marion Parks, 97 Crescent St., has been awarded the city of Peterborough's scholarship of $500 in the public health department of the University of Toronto. She is graduating from Civic Hospital and will spend a year in public health study on the undertaking that she will subsequently be available for at least one year in the nursing service of the city's health department.

Miss Parks is the third local nurse to accept this scholarship. Preceding her were Miss Veronica O'Leary, graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital three years ago, and Miss Elsie Crawford, graduate of Civic Hospital.

WINNER of the city's $500 scholarship entitling her to take a public health course in the University of Toronto is Miss Marion Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parks, 97 Crescent St. Miss Parks is a graduate of 1950 Class of the Civic Hospital—Roy Studio Photo.

It may be recalled that during the years of shortage of nurses on war service, Mr. James Dutton as chairman of the Board of Health and also an alderman, proposed the scholarship plan for the purpose of attracting more young nurses to public health work. His proposal was that the city offer $500 annually for an indefinite number of years to one nurse from either of the city's hospitals, on condition that she take the year's course in public health at the University.

Another condition was that the scholarship winner should return to Peterborough and work on the staff of the city's department of health for one year.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, recently informed The Examiner that Miss O'Leary and Miss Crawford are still engaged with the city.

Niagara Falls YM Secretary Named To Succeed G. Roper

Charles D. Forsyth, general secretary of the Niagara Falls YMCA, was appointed Monday night by the board of directors of the YMCA to succeed G. H. Roper, general secretary of the local YMCA, who is retiring in September. Mr. Forsyth is expected to assume his duties at the YMCA in advance of the fall program.

A student of Edmonton High school and a graduate of the University of Manitoba, Mr. Forsyth first joined the YMCA in October, 1928, in Edmonton. In 1936 he was transferred to Winnipeg where he was the assistant boys' work secretary. From 1940 to 1947 he served as the boys' work secretary in Winnipeg. Since then he has been the general secretary at the YMCA in Niagara Falls.

35 Years' Service

Mr. Roper has been on the staff of the local YMCA since 1915. The announcement of his retirement was made at the annual meeting in January. He first came to Peterborough as a YMCA staff member in 1905 while G. H. Williamson was secretary. He stayed here only a year when he returned to Toronto for the completion of his education.

In 1909 Mr. Roper went to Brantford as physical director of the YMCA there. After six years he came to Peterborough as physical director. Shortly after his arrival the general secretary, C. V. Meserve, went to the United States. Mr. Roper first acted as temporary general secretary and was later appointed permanent secretary.

Mr. Roper considers the greatest change in the YMCA since he came to Peterborough the addition to the building in 1930-31. Despite the depression an objective of $128,000 was surpassed by $14,000. The addition to the building placed the local YMCA building in the forefront of YMCA's in the country. The pool, Mr. Roper believes, is one of the best YMCA pools in Canada.

Mr. Roper notes that once again the membership is outgrowing the facilities, particularly in the gymnasium and social recreation programs.

Quartet Of Autos In Road Tangle

Three cars and a truck were in an accident early today on the Chemong road, just north of Highway 7. There were no injuries but damage totals $550.

It all began when Albert Young, McGill St., decided to turn his old-model car around. By accident he backed it into the ditch.

Harry Blewett, of R.R. 1, Peterborough, whose farm is near the scene of the accident, then started to pull Young's car out of the ditch with his truck. Before he succeeded the southbound car of Richard Baldwin, Stewart St., ran into the left side of the Blewett truck.

Provincial Constable J. G. Healey investigated.

Brigade To Chimney

HASTINGS, June 20 (ENS) — The Hastings fire brigade responded at noon today to a call from the James Metcalfe estate, on the Norwood Road, 2½ miles north of here. It was reported that the fire was confined to a chimney blaze. Chief Iden Bond made the trip with several of the firemen on the brigade's pumper.

Union Orders Strikers Back

SYRACUSE, N.Y., June 20 — (AP)—The International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO) moved Monday to end a dispute that has made 3,000 General Electric workers idle.

Local 320 of the union ordered 50 punch-press operators back to their jobs and instructed them to give what ie called "a fair day's work."

GE had accused the operators of conducting a slowdown and had laid off 3,000 employees in its television receiver division because, it said, assembly lines had become stalled.

Union officials said the operators still seek an hourly wage boost from $1.19 to $1.27½. GE claimed last Wednesday that the slowdown resulted from its refusal to grant such an increase.

Open Negotiations

NEW YORK, June 20—(AP)—General Electric Company Monday turned down a request for a stop-gap labor agreement as it opened negotiations for the first time with the new International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO).

James B. Carey, of the union, proposed an interim agreement while negotiations proceeded to cover 54,000 GE employees.

The Peterborough Club of the Associated Canadian Travellers purchased and donated Saturday playground equipment to the children's shelter and St. Vincent's orphanage. The club also held its annual picnic at the Oval where it entertained the children from the shelter and the orphanage.

30 Years With Smelting Co. 25 Years Examiner Reporter

MARMORA, June 20—(ENS)—An Examiner correspondent for more than 25 years, W. J. Cottrell has been retired from the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company. Mr. Cottrell ended his 30 years of service to this company last Saturday.

Born in the village of Cheddar, England, Mr. Cottrell came to Canada in 1912 and settled in Madoc where he became the lay reader of the Anglican Church. He enlisted in 1915 and went overseas with the 2nd Battalion, Infantry. During his service he was wounded and received his discharge in 1919. At this time he became lay reader at the Marmora Anglican Church. He joined the Deloro firm in this same year and has been with them ever since. At the time of his retirement, Mr. Cottrell was a clerk in the silver department of the company. He is a member of the Deloro Quarter Century Club.

Under Three Editors

As well as his full time job with the Deloro Company, this gentleman had successfully fulfilled his duties as Marmora correspondent for the Examiner for more than 25 years. He has served on this paper under three editors, Ernie McKeely, John R. Heron and G. Wilson Craw, which is a record seldom achieved by city reporters. During this time he has retained his popularity with the residents of Marmora as well as the admiration of the editors.

W. J. COTTRELL

Mr. Cottrell first became associated with this paper when he acted in the place of Margaret Clare now the wife of the Bishop of Algoma, Rt. Rev. W. L. Wright, who was ill. From this time, he has developed his correspondence from small bits of news to a well established daily coverage.

In addition to his other duties, Mr. Cottrell is a past county master of LOL Centre, Hastings, past chaplain of Marmora AF and AM 223, and recorder-treasurer of Marmora Council, No. 279 Reliable Life Insurance Society (formerly Canadian Order of Chosen Friends). He also belongs to the Canadian Legion, Branch 237. As well as his position as lay reader, he has served as assistant superintendent of St. Paul's Anglican Church.

Mr. Cottrell will continue to reside in Marmora, and to be his district's correspondent for the Examiner.

Cabin Owner Complying With City Laws

As owner of tourist cabins at 85-89 Lansdowne Street, Gordon A. Hamblin was complying with the city bylaws affecting them, T. J. Carley, KC, asserted to the council Monday night.

"He bought the property and business in 1947 for a considerable sum, and has spent other money on improvements," Mr. Carley said. "Each year he has taken out a permit to operate a lodging house, and he has endeavored in every way to observe the requirements of the city."

The tourist cabins on the south side of Lansdowne St., east of Lock St., were built by the previous owner when that property was part of North Monaghan township. After annexation several city councils have looked askance at the cabins in the possibility that they might come into use as dwellings.

At one time there was some other question about them and their rental, and city councils have been concerned about them as being contrary to the building bylaw. But, Mr. Carley argued, the building bylaw was not retroactive.

The legal committee recently recommended to the council: "That the building inspector and sanitary inspector investigate the tourist cabins at 85-89 Lansdowne St., and submit a report to the council advising whether or not all existing regulations are being complied with."

The report of that committee was presented last night by Ald. Adam Sands and was adopted.

Reference Said Unfair

Meanwhile, Mr. Carley told the council that Mr. Hamblin felt the committe reference to him was was not fair.

He said Mr. Hamblin had put in separate sanitary arrangements as required by Sanitary Inspector McPherson in April 1947.

"He keeps a register showing that the cabins are used by tourists, and he is giving a service to the city because hotel accommodation is at a premium. His register is open for inspection and you can see it. He feels that he is engaged in a legitimate business, and he should not be held up as a law violator when he is not violating any law. He has never had any complaints; the police have never visited him, and you can find out from them that he is running it in a proper way."

Receives Protests

Ald. T. D. Miller said he mentioned the cabins at the legal committee meeting in the opinion that they had been refused a permit, and did not comply with sanitary requirements. "People in the vicinity have been calling me for weeks asking me what we intended to do about the situation. If they are operating within the bylaw I'm quite satisfied. Our motion asked for information on that point. I have no axe to grind. As long as people in the vicinity are treated fairly, that is my only interest."

Mr. Carley said the permit to operate a lodging house did not expire until March, 1951. "If any persons have a complaint, they should take it up with Mr. Hamblin. He'll abate it, if there is anything objectionable."

Mayor Swanston said Mr. Hamblin was violating the building bylaw.

"You can't violate a bylaw that is not retroactive,' Mr. Carley replied. "If the cabins were erected before that part of North Monaghan was taken into the city, he is not violating a city building bylaw because he allows a house that was there to stand."

"We'll look into the matter," Mayor Swanston said.

ISSUES WARNING

CITY HALL PICNIC

City Hall staff picnic should be on Saturday instead of Wednesday afternoon, Ald. E. C. Braund suggested to the council Monday night. He said the employees were now getting Saturdays off, and should take that afternoon instead of closing the city hall offices some Wednesday p.m.

G. V. Kaye of the Canadian Forestry Association will be the first guest speaker at the Y's Men's Club's boys' camp on Clear Lake July 3. He will speak to the boys on conservation. On July 19 the Red Cross Society will hold a demonstration of water safety at the camp.

HORSE GALLOPS AWAY

Residents of the Weller-Park St. district were astonished to see a bread wagon horse galloping wildly up Weller St. shortly after 1 p.m. today. The Canada Bread wagon was run onto the curb at the intersection and the horse continued his unscheduled gallop. He was later recaptured.

Company Renews Request To Build Service Station On Parkhill-Water Corner

Three familiars of council affairs arrived in conventional at the city hall Monday evening. They were: Imperial Oil application for a permit to build a service station at the northeast corner of Water St. and Park Hill Road, Requests of Ferguson cleaners for a permit to put up "a trim and tidy building", to quote Ralph Standish, and carry on business on the north side of Hunter St., east of Mark St. Another reference to the Lansdowne St. cabins and protest of owner, Gordon Hamblin, against council implications that he was trenching upon some bylaw.

Council approved the suggestion of Mayor Swanston that "we deal with the three of them at a special meeting of the committee of the whole."

Mr. Standish apepared for E. C. Ferguson appealing for renewal of the building permit granted by a previous council and later cancelled.

"The building would have been there now if it had not been for wartime shortages," Mr. Standish said.

Mr. Ferguson intended to put up a building for a business that was needed in Ashburnham.

"There is one small group opposed to any commercial building going there. What we could put up there is a jail, tavern, public lavatory, fire station or produce market."

This petition has been in and out of council and town planning committee deliberations, and is now back again on the council's doorstep.

Bosley Adds Support

Imperial Oil's request was repeated by J. G. Dunlop, Leaside, manager of the company's Ontario division, reinforced by W. H. Bosley, Toronto, realtor who bought the George St. gasoline station from the company for the new city hall site. Further aid was forthcoming and without arrangement from N. J. McElderry, KC, who asked the council on behalf of Mrs. Walter Ferguson not to block her sale of that Parkhill Road corner to the oil company.

Mr. Bosley confirmed the statement of Mr. Dunlop that the company had been most co-operative when negotions were begun for the purchase of the gas station on George St. in the public library block.

"The Imperial Oil Company building was the first one the city wrecked in clearing off that block," Mr. Bosley said. "I told Mr. Dunlop that if there was ever anything I could do to help when he was looking for a new location I would be glad to assist."

That locality has been zoned as neighborhood commercial, and it was difficult to understand how three of the corners could be classed as commercial and the fourth not.

Agree To Sell

Mr. H. G. Mason who was most affected by the proposed service station had agreed to sell part of his property to the company Mr. Bosley said.

Ald. Braund: "Did Mr. Bosley notice that there are service stations on three corners now, as if people up that way had two or three cars in the garage and needed a fourth station?"

Mr. Bosley: "You can't say that one man can come in and another has to stay out."

Ald. Braund: "Surely there is some other place the company can get!"

Mr. Bosley: "Water St. has been thoroughly canvassed. A gas station is less objectionable than a bank. The one is set well back from the sidewalk line. The bank is at the sidewalk."

Ald. Burrows: "If Mr. Mason has changed his mind, it does not follow that the other residents of that vicinity have changed theirs."

Mr. Bosley: "Nobody's property will be depreciated one penny by reason of a gas station at that corner."

Ald. Burrows said there was still opinion adverse to it.

Mr. Bosley said the properties overlooking Inverlea Park were not affected at all, and three others on Water St. had no ground for complaint.

Council Never Approved

Ald. Herbert Young said the Council had not approved the corner site, but only had given approval of its reference to the Municipal Board.

Mr. Dunlop said he had no opportunity of learning the names on any opposing petition to the Council, but 40 to 50 property owners in that immediate area were interviewed, and it was found only three or four objected to the Imperial Oil project. Others objected, but they were far removed from the Park Hill Road corner.

The company had paid $80,000 in taxes in Peterborough since coming here in 1923, had maintained its property in attractive condition, and did not make it a practice to seek an outlet for its products in any location where it was not wanted.

Mr. Dunlop left with the Council a sketch of the proposed station, and said it would open that corner to visibility of traffic.

An argument mentioned by Mr. Bosley referred to locations of valuable apartment houses in Toronto with nearby service stations which he said were a convenience to them.

Mr. McElderry requested the Council to give consideration to Mrs. Ferguson and her right to sell the corner property when an opportunity was presented to her.

"After all," he said, "commercial locations do crop up in the growth of a city and have to be recognized. This has to be recognized as a commercial corner."

Mr. McElderry recalled that there had been some opposition to the Imperial Oil station on George St. south of the Public Library, but it turned out to be a well-kept place of business and to some extent enhanced values and appearance in that block.

Liquor At Root Your Trouble Youth 22 Told

Termed "one of the youngest alcoholics" in the city, Weldon Finn, 22, of 407 Dublin St., was sentenced to three months in county jail by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, today.

Remarking that Finn had a number of convictions for drunkenness, His Worship said "You are an alcoholic, nothing more or less. And you are one of the youngest alcoholics in the city.

"When you come out of jail, you will be confronted with the decision whether you will be an alcoholic," Magistrate Philp said. "If some change is not made, you can write your career off. It seems unfortunate both for you and your family that you have done nothing to prevent this condition."

The magistrate suggested Alcoholics Anonymous as a means of halting Finn's alcoholism.

Finn protested he had not had time to become an alcoholic, as he had spent much of the past two years in jail. His Worship commented that Finn's actions showed he was an alcoholic, and that "liquor is at the root of all your troubles."

Eligible Boys Turned Down Girls Want Married Men

DEAR MISS DIX: What is the fascination that married men seem to have for some girls? I know a young woman who is handsome, intelligent, attractive in every way and who could have her choice of several eligible young men, but she ignores them and wastes her time on married stupid and middle-aged and men, many of whom are dull and whom she would not look at if they were single. Just at present she is breaking the heart of a wife by having a flirtation with her husband, and he has nothing about him to attract any girl. How can you explain this vagary of the inconsistent sex?

Dorothy Dix

AN ONLOOKER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The lure of the married man for certain girls is the same old one that got the first woman in trouble. He is forbidden fruit. That is what makes her desire him and cause her to prefer him to all the nice safe eligible young men of her acquaintance.

Lacks Glamor

There is no thrill in meeting a single man downtown and having lunch with him in a respectable restaurant with everybody looking on and saying approvingly that that would be a nice match. But it is glamorous and romantic to meet a married man at some hole-in-the-wall place for dinner, with the chances of being discovered and starting a scandal.

Then there is the girl who specializes in married men because she thinks that it proves her superior powers of fascination to be able to take a man away from his wife.

She misjudges her prowess, however. The easiest animal in the world to bag is a married man who is bored with domesticity and who knows that he is protected by his marriage certificate from getting hurt.

Then there is the girl whose vanity demands that she be admired by all men, married or single, rich or poor, a gentleman or a boor. She would prefer a single man to flirt with, but if he isn't around a married man will do, just as she would make eyes at a blind man if there were no man around who could see how attractive she was. And, finally, there is the cruel girl who gets a sadistic pleasure out of flirting with a married man just because she enjoys seeing his wife writhe in tortures of jealousy.

But the girl who has affairs with married men gets her punishment because she nearly always plays around with other women's husbands until the chances of getting one of her own are gone.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: You say that the breakfast hour is the most dangerous hour of all for the wife and the one when she most neds to watch her step. What is the dangerous hour for the husband if he wants to keep his wife in love with him and glad she married him?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, son, the breakfast hour is just as perilous for the husband as it is for the wife, because the picture he leaves of himself in his wife's mind is the one she is going to carry with her all day.

You see, the trouble with domestic work is that it doesn't use more than one lobe of a woman's brain and that leaves her all the balance to think with. So whether she goes singing about her dishwashing and sweeping and cleaning and mending, etc., etc., and thinking what a darling hubby is and how lucky she was to get him, or whether she is disgruntled and grouchy and spends the day pickflaws in him and wondering whatever made her marry him, depends altogether on the way he left her in the morning. So whatever else you do, be a little ray of sunshine in the house at breakfast.

The next most important hour in a husband's life is that one that comes immediately after dinner, and the success or failure of his marriage depends upon how he employs that. If the minute he finishes dinner and puts on his hat and steps out alone, the divorce court is in sight. What a woman marries for is companionship. Her idea of a happy evening at home isn't spending it alone, nor even after the baby comes does she find watching an infant sleep a hilarious experience.

So, son, keep your eye on the clock. Watch the fatal hours. Take as much trouble to entertain your wife in the evening as you would a lady visitor. And step out with her as often as you can to some place of amusement.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very much in love with a man who loves me, too, but I have never let him propose to me because it is impossible for me to ever have children. Should I tell him? It seems to me the only honorable thing to do.

DISTRACTED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is the only honorable thing to do. If you tell your man that you cannot have children, it will not necessarily break off your love affair. Many men do not care for children, and it may be that he loves you so much that he prefers you even childless to any other woman.

But give him a chance to decide the question himself.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

I wonder how many Canasta players know the story of the goat who repeatedly charged at full speed into a stone wall, knocking himself unconscious several times an hour. A bystander asked the goat's owner, "Why does he do it? Is he blind?"

The owner answered, "He ain't blind. He just don't give a hang!"

When I see the way some intelligent and otherwise prudent players go all out for a frozen pack, I came to the conclusion that they also don't give a hang. For the benefit of those readers who don't enjoy charging into a stone wall, I offer the following advice: Don't compete for a frozen pack when the opponents have a far better chance to win it.

For example, suppose you and your partner each have only six cards, while the opponents each have ten cards. Both sides have melded, and one of the opponents now freeze the pack. Should you try to win the discard pile?

Not if you're in your right mind. You need a terrific combination of good luck for your side and stupid play by the opponents to get that pack. Just console yourself with the thought that you can't win very hand. Let the enemy take the pack and get their own wild card back. What can't be cured must be endured.

In such a situation, try to give the pack away early. Make the most dangerous discards immediately.

There's no great harm in losing a small discard pile; but you don't especially want to lose a really big one. Even if the opponents manage to win several small piles, that is better than letting them win one big one that contains just as many cards. Every time an opponent picks up the pack, he gives up the chance to draw from the stock. By making him pick up several small piles you make him give up several draws from the stock—from which he might get additional wild cards or red threes.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—I had three jacks and two wild cards on the table. The pile was frozen. I had two jacks in my hand to take the pile in case a jack was thrown. The player at my right threw a jack, and I wanted to take it. The opponent said that I would then have eight cards in my canasta of jacks. They claimed that seven was the limit. Was this correct?

A—No. You need at least seven cards to make a canasta, but there is no rule against having more than seven.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—Both sides had melded. The pack was frozen. A ten was discarded to me, and I put a pair of tens down on the table. I then added the ten from the discard pile. I wanted to continue to melt some of the cards in the pile, but the opponents said I could meld only the tens at that turn. I could put the discard pile in my hand and could meld from it at my next turn—but not at that turn. Were they right?

A—No. You were entitled to put the pile in your hand and continue melding at that same turn.

Q—Are you allowed to take the last card of the stock and meld out? If so, are you allowed to make a discard as you meld out?

A—Yes to both questions. You are allowed to take the last card of the stock and meld out; and you may or may not (as you choose) discard at this play.

Q—Are you allowed to freeze the pack only against the opponents—or is a frozen pack frozen for everybody?

A—A frozen pack is frozen for everybody.

¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine Minute Rice and milk in saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat. Remove from heat. Mix together, eggs, sugar, salt, nutmeg. Add hot rice mixture slowly, mixing well. Turn into 1½ quart baking dish. Place in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 35 minutes. Stir several times during first 20 minutes of baking. Makes 6 servings.

CARAMEL MINUTE RICE

Prepare same as Baked Rice Custard (above) but substitute same amount of brown sugar for the granulated sugar in the recipe.

TANGY ORANGE MINUTE RICE

¼ cup butter
1 cup diced celery
3 tbsps. chopped onion
1 package Minute Rice
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sugar
1 cup water
¾ cup orange juice
1 tbsp. grated orange rind

Melt butter in saucepan, add celery and onion; cook until vegetables are tender but not browned. Add Minute Rice, salt, sugar, water, orange juice. Bring to boil. Cover remove from heat, let stand 10 minutes. Add orange rind.

Now all the orange flavor is in the rice! Wonderful with ham, chicken or duck. Makes 6 servings.

Something delicious, something easy to fix — that's the great "want" of every housewife, when it comes to planning meals!

So it's easy to understand the sensation that has been caused by Minute Rice — the wonderful pre-cooked rice that has opened up a new kind of "magicookery" in homes all across Canada! Women everywhere are discovering the "Minute Rice" way to quicker, more interesting meals.

Snowy-white, tender, tempting, Minute Rice makes all your favorite rice puddings more delicious than ever before. And it cuts work and cooking time to a fraction — saves marvellously on time, effort and costly fuel!

CAREER GIRL'S DINNER PARTY real hit — thanks to Minute Rice! "Friends are so flattering about my dinners", says one successful secretary "And I admit, with Minute Rice magicookery, my meals are interesting and on time, even after a busy day at the office".

Grand Alternative for Potatoes

There are other thrills in store for you, when you adopt Minute Rice into your menu plans. Minute Rice offers a delightful change from the usual dinner potatoes—quick, easy and delicious to serve with stews and creamed dishes and à la King mixtures . . . and with fish main-courses of many kinds.

It will also inspire you to countless thrifty "made-up" main courses. And it does such interesting things for soups!

Just add water and bring to the boil

Minute Rice is pre-cooked. All the tedious, time-taking work is done. There's no washing . . . no rinsing . . . no draining . . . no steaming. Only one pan is required—no sticky pot or sieve to wash.

For snowy-white cooked rice at its best, you just add Minute Rice to water, and bring to the boil. No further cooking is required.

At grocers' all across Canada. Every woman should keep a couple of packages of Minute Rice on the kitchen shelf.

6—In Memoriams

CLAYTON—In loving memory of Richard Henry Clayton, who passed away June 20, 1949.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.
—Sadly missed by Luella, Edna, Melville.

CLAYTON—In loving memory of Richard Henry Clayton, who passed away June 20, 1949
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear
Too far away for sight or speed,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Sadly missed by Florence, Maurietta and Elva.

CLAYTON—In loving memory of our son-in-law, Richard Henry Clayton, who passed away one year ago today:
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and kind in heart and mind;
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
—Sadly missed by mother and dad Elliott.

Montreal Mail Takes 48 Hours

Changes in mail delivery services which are being worked out by the post office this week, resulted in some south end residents receiving a morning delivery only on Monday and today instead of the morning and afternoon delivery.

Because of the elimination of the afternoon delivery, mail from Montreal takes 48 hours instead of 24, the mail arriving in Peterborough around 7 a.m., not being ready to be taken by the carrier in time for the morning delivery.

A group of residents living south of Lansdowne St. are protesting against discontinuing the afternoon delivery and the possibility of presenting a petition has already been considered.

Post Office officials told the Examiner today that because two new routes were being opened in the city, several changes in deliveries, affecting mostly residents in the south and east of the city, were necessary.

Full details of the changes were not available today, it was said, as the scheme had not been worked out.

When the Post Office started the two extra routes this week, only one carrier was added to the staff. The local office had applied for three new men but the department allocated only one.

Five Cars Damaged In Three Accidents

Five cars were slightly damaged in three city accidents Monday.

Gerald Healey, 1025 Monaghan Rd., was driving west on Dalhousie St. and crossing Stewart St., when his car was in collision with a southbound auto driven by Ross Bertrand, 178 Auburn St.

Right front fender and front bumper of Healey's auto were damaged, and the left front and rear fenders on Bertrand's car were slightly damaged.

The left front door and left fender of a car driven by Mrs. E. Inman were damaged Monday by a dairy wagon. Mrs. Inman was holding the door open while a grocery store employee placed her purchases inside.

The wagon, driven by Jack Donaldson, Welsh St., caught the door with its right rear wheel, forcing the door backward.

Cars driven by Clarke Staples, 111 Rubidge St., and Harley Weir 773 Rubidge St., met in collision Monday afternoon on George St. near McDonnel. Weir was driving south on George St., and had passed McDonnel, when his car was hit on the right rear fender by Staples' auto as it pulled out from the curb. Damage was slight.

Two Hundred Attend Fergus Scott Funeral

Some 200 people attended the funeral at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, on Monday of Fergus Joseph Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Scott, RR 10 Peterborough, who drowned on Thursday in the canal three miles south of Lakefield, while endeavoring to swim from the east to the west bank.

The funeral took place from the residence to St. Joseph's church for solemn requiem mass. The celebrant was the Rev. J. J. McCarthy, the Rev. G. F. Sullivan was deacon and the Rev. Leo Leahy, sub deacon.

At the church and at the cemetery, the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's formed a guard of honor.

Pallbearers were Gordon Bradfield, Clement Leahy, Leo Maloney, John Scott, Gerald McMurray and Gerald Coughlin.

The Rev. J. J. McCarthy said graveside prayers at St. Joseph's cemetery.

Obituary

MISS CECELIA WILSON

Miss Cecelia Wilson, 77, of 592 George St., died on Monday in hospital following a short illness. She was born in Peterborough daughter of the late William Wilson and Ann White, and has lived in the city a lifetime. She leaves one brother, Clarence Rubert Wilson of Toronto. Miss Wilson was a member of George Street United Church.

Funeral service will be held on Wednesday at the Nisbett Funeral Home at 2 p.m. The Rev. H. G. Douglax of Knox United Church will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

POOR FLOODLIGHT POLES

Sad news for baseball fans and players will be reported at the Recreation Commission meeting this evening. Five of the ten 90-foot wooden floodlight poles brought into the city several weeks ago from the port of Montreal have been inspected by the Utilities Commission men (which is in charge of erecting them) and found imperfect. They have fissures which make them less sturdy than they seem, and the advice is: "Don't instal them." So five replacements will have to be brought in. This will delay the floodlighting of Riverside Park by several weeks, but the hope is to have the lights on by July 15.

Donald Duncan Resigns Boys' Secretary

Donald Duncan, boys' work secretary, tendered his resignation from the staff of the YMCA Monday night at a meeting of the board of directors. It was accepted to allow Mr. Duncan to accept the position of boys' work secretary at the London YMCA. He will commence work in London September 1.

At London he will be succeeding Kenneth Gowie who is joining the staff of the University of Western Ontario. Mr. Duncan will direct the boys' program and a community program, sponsored by the service clubs of London.

Mr. Duncan joined the staff of the Peterborough YMCA in 1944 when Maxwell Singleton, the boys' secretary, left to accept the same position in St. Catharines. Here he has attended to the administration of the boys' program. His work during the past several years has included the formation of the Hi-Y clubs as well as the organization of teenage groups.

During the summers of 1948 and 1949 Mr. Duncan was camp director of the Y's Men's club's boys' camp on Clear Lake.

Mr. Duncan's most recent achievement has been the formation of two Neighborhood-YMCA groups in the city. This is part of a scheme to have as many boys as possible participate in the YMCA activities. Groups have been formed in the southern and northern sections of the city.

Mr. Duncan, son of Mrs. G. H. Duncan, 168 Dublin St., obtained his education at Queen Mary school and at PCVS. Since 1945 he has been taking a correspondence, extension and summer school course through the University of Western Ontario. He hopes to receive his B.A. upon completion of the work this summer.

Mr. Duncan is married to the former Goldie Shaw and has two children.

22 Candidates Confirmed By Bishop

NORWOOD, June 20—(ENS)—The Sacrament of Confirmation was administered to 22 candidates from Norwood and Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Hastings, by His Excellency the Most Rev. Gerald Berry, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough, in St. Paul's, Norwood, on Friday.

Bishop Berry stressed the necessity of virtuous parental example and precept in the formative years of a child, stating that such an example can never be entirely lost upon the future adult, come what may, in his later years.

Bishop Berry was accompanied by the Rev. J. F. Coughlan, B.A., of St. Peter's High School, Peterborough. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by the Rev. F. M. Grant, D.E.T., of Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, assisted by the Rev. C. J. Carroll and the Rev. F. Coughlan.

Study Achievements Of WMS In 25 Years

MILLBROOK, June 20 (ENS)—St. Andrew's W.M.S. met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Percy Stinson. Mrs. W. E. Ball, first vice-president was in the chair and had charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Laurence Winslow sang.

Mrs. David Lunn and Miss Gertrude Clarry continued with the study begun at the previous meeting of what had been accomplished by the missionary society of the United Church since its inception 25 years ago.

Mrs. W. E. Ball gave an account of the history of the local society during the past 25 years. The hostess served candy.

Roseneath Teacher Receives BA Degree

ROSENEATH, June 20 (ENS)—James Potter, teacher at S.S. No. 3, Alnwick township, received his B.A. degree at the graduation exercises at Victoria College, Toronto, graduating with second class honours in languages and music.

Mr. Potter has accepted a position on the staff of the Creemore High School, beginning his duties in September.

He served with the RCAF during the war and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Potter, Warkworth.

Batting—Marv Rickert, White Sox—homered in the last of the 11th to give the White Sox a 4-3 victory over Washington Senators. Rickert also singled to open the ninth and eventually scored the tying run on a long fly to Nelson Fox.

Pitching—Cliff Chambers, Pirates—yielded only four hits — all singles—in besting Warren Spahn in a pitching duel as Pittsburgh defeated Boston Braves 1-0.

Would Like Provinces In Contact With Senate

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP) — Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario) said Monday night it was "necessary and essential" for the provinces to have a greater stake in Canada than they have in the past and he would like to see them "given a measure of direct contact witht he Senate."

He told the Senate that Senators should see to it that the provinces and provincial interests were expressed in the Upper Chamber and "unity of democratic purpose promoted throughout the land regardless of race of creed."

Senator Lambert did not elaborate on his suggestion for "direct" provincial contact with the Senate. He was speaking on a motion by Senator Arthur Marcotte (PC-Saskatchewan) urging that when an amendment to the Canadian constitution was to be made requiring consent of the provinces, it only be done by "act or resolution of the Legislature or Legislatures of the provinces concerned."

New Zealand Tourist Outsmarts Trickster

LONDON—(CP)— Ever heard of the man who "sold" the Sydney bridge. Lucky for John McNamara, of Wellington, New Zealand, that he had.

John was admiring the foundations in Trafalgar Square when a middle-aged man ambled up to him and engaged him in conversation.

"When he learned I was a colonial," John said, "he told me the fountains were to be dismantled and were for sale. I roared with laughter and the confidence trickster had the decency to run away."

Midgets Flock For Role In Tarzan Film

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD, June 20 (AP)—Southern California's "little people"—dwarfs and midgets—have been busy in a movie the last several days. By grapevine, word spread through Midgetdom that they were needed to people a Johnny Weissmuller picture called "Pigmy Island."

Along came Marion Nichols, a produce company bookkeeper to don a leopard skin and body make-up. Little Angelo Rossitto deserted his news-stand. "The world's smallest cowboy fiddler," 52-inch Buster Resmonda, joined up with his diminutive wife Hazel.

The little actors' pay was $22.23 a day.

One day 65 worked — all wearing black wigs, the women in gay sarongs, some with animal-tooth and bone necklaces. Ordinarily, Waine Johnson works on a ranch. His little wife Lillie is the cook. Mary Brown is a bookbinder. Jeanette Fern dances in night clubs as "The Miniature Sally Rand."

Old Stuff

For one of them this was old stuff. Billy Curtis — four feet, two inche stall and 42 years old—has been in pictures 12 years. He said about 15 little people earn a regular living in films. Most of the work is standing in for child actors while electricians rig lights and the youngsters get their required schooling.

For featured-actor roles, like his presnt one as a pygmy leader, Billy receives $750 a week. Between such assignments he stands in and doubles in dangerous stunts for the child. Bobby Driscoll apparently plunged 36 feet from a teetering beam into a firemen's net in "The Window." Actually it was Billy, who says he got $1,500 for the leap.

Cigar Smoker

Wearing long blonde curls and a dress, he hung out a 25-foot-high window as a double for Lora Lee Michel. His disguise was so good that one day the assistant director told him, "All right, Lora Lee, we're ready." Billy turned around with a cigar in his mouth and said drily, "Okay." He's proud that he has cut his cigar consumption from 22 to eight a day.

Demand Crown As Ransom For Vogeler

VIENNA, Austria, June 20 (AP)—Hungary is demanding the ancient crown of St. Stefan as ransom for Robert A. Vogeler imprisoned United States business man, it was learned here today.

Reliable sources said the Communist - controlled Hungarian government has offered to swap Vogeler in an even trade for the symbol of Magyar royalty. The crown is nearly 1,000 years old.

The negotiations were said to have reached a point where Vogeler's release from prison may be effected within a few weeks.

The famous crown was taken from Hungary by the Nazis during the war and later was found by U.S. troops in Germany. It is believed now to be somewhere in Western Germany, probably Wiesbaden.

The informants said no other demand had been made by the Hungarians in conversations which began immediately after Vogeler's arrest in Budapest last November on charges of espionage and sabotage.

The U.S. has consistently refused to give the crown to Hungary's present Communist government, despite repeated demands for it.

Vogeler, 39, an executive and roving European representative for the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Edgar Sanders, a British associate, were convicted by a Hungarian People's Court last Feb. 21. Vogeler was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment and Sanders to 13 years.

New Markets For Crops Now Envisioned

By FORBES RHUDE

TORONTO, June 20 (CP)—A prospect of great new markets for farm crops was invisioned at the conference today of the Chemical Institute of Canada.

Dr. Henry L. Cox of Argo, Illinois, said North America's huge production of grains has provided the surplus of raw materials needed for further industrial development through use of agricultural products. He added:

"However, 90 per cent of the corn raised today is used for feed on farms or for fattening animals, and only eight per cent to make industrial products such as starch, corn sugar, syrups, adhesives, oil and feeds.

"Industrial development now is needed to bring about the demand for grain crops to supply continuing sources of raw materials which cannot be depleted like minerals, petroleum and coal.

Co-Ordinate Work

'A larger food supply, better foods, and an increase in the standard of living will result when research chemists in industry, universities and departments of agriculture co-ordinate their work for successful development of large new outlets for grain crops."

Dr. K. A. Clendenning of the National Research Council, Ottawa, said that by using radio-active and heavy isotopes, scientists now are learning many new facts about how green plants use sunlight to turn carbon dioxide into carbohydrates and other organic compounds.

This ability of plants to build up compounds of high energy content is called photosynthesis, and all the world's supply of food, fuel and fibre is produced by this process. However:

"Although photosynthesis provides almost all the energy at present being used by men, it is an inefficient process as only a small percentage of the light energy absorbed by the plant is actually used in producing food. As our knowledge of photosynthesis increases, we should be able more fully to utilize the available energy of sunlight."

And what a variety he offers — apple, cherry, raisin, coconut, lemon, pumpkin, blueberry, mince, and other mouth-watering fillings — in crisp, rich, buttery pastry. Serve your family a different delicious pie every day.

Flood-Fighters Win Battle Plug Breach In Vital Fraser River Dike

200 Desperate Army-Civilian Workers Fight Under Glare of Searchlights To Save 1,500 Acres of Rich Farm Lands

VANCOUVER, June 21—(CP)—A night-long battle was won today by flood-fighters who plugged a breach in a vital Fraser River dike at Harrison Mills. Homes and rich farmlands were saved from a muddy torrent. Under the glare of searchlights, 200 desperate army-civilian workers battled throughout the night and shortly after dawn came victory. At stake were 1,500 acres of farmland, some of the richest in the Fraser Valley, about 40 homes and vital communication links. The 1950 edition of the British Columbia floods was on a big push.

Harrison Mills, 40 miles east of here, is the meeting place of the Fraser and Harrison Rivers. The Harrison was the major threat.

The dike was breached at one point Tuesday. Flood waters were being held in check by crews of civilians and army workers tossing tons of rock, sandbags and hay into the breach.

The situation, critical last night was reported slightly improved early today when a stiff west wind subsided after building up tremendous pressure against the dike works.

Rush Equipment

Additional equipment was being rushed from Vancouver and all valley points.

Two other sore spots developed early today in the Harrison Mills area as heavy, dike-weakening seepage was reported.

If the dikes go, Canadian Pacific Railway traffic would be threatened and the vital Lougheed Highway would be cut.

The Fraser, meanwhile, was held in check in most areas by an $11,000,000 chain of dikes built after the 1948 floods, guarding the valley.

The midnight reading at Mission, where the official level is recorded, was 23.96 feet, well above the 20-foot flood level but a drop from the 24.07 reading at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The situation was almost unchanged at Harrison Hot Springs resort town 75 miles east of Vancouver. Harrison Lake was still rising, but at a slower pace than during the last few days.

Dollar Earnings Rising In Britain Cheering Report

LONDON, June 21.—(AP). — Gold and dollars jingled into Britain's treasury at a record post-war rate in the second quarter of 1950, reflecting steady progress toward recovery, reliable sources said Tuesday.

Informants in touch with the treasury predicted the total gold and dollars—which belong not only to Britain but the whole sterling area—would top $2,300,000,000. This would represent an increase of about $316,000,000—greatest single quarterly jump since the war.

The total would easily top the minimum safety level of $2,000,000,000 which the government set itself in 1948. It also would show that the sterling area, for the second succesive quarter, has earned more dollars tha nit has spent.

Details probably will be given to the House of Commons by Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, early in July, when the final quarterly figures are available.

Britain's gold and dollar reserves, which stood at $2,241,000,000 March 31, 1948, had sagged to about two-thirds that amount at the time of pound devaluation last September. Since then they have risen steadily

By the end of 1949 they had moved up to $1,688,000,000. In the first three months of this year they jumped to $1,984,000,000.

5-Year Pact Granted By GM Heads

$55-Monthly Pension Given In Settlement Welfare Benefits Too

TORONTO, June 21—(CP) — An agreement, unprecedented in Canada because of its five-year term, was signed Tuesday night between General Motors Corporation of Canada and the United Auto. Workers Union (C.C.L.-C.I.O.) The contract provides wage increases, a $55 monthly pension at age 65 and welfare benefits.

Some 6,500 unionists in the company's plants at Oshawa and Windsor are affected. The contract comes before a union meeting today at Oshawa for approval.

Following 90 hours of almost continuous bargaining sessions, the company and union announced signing of the agreement. Both sides called in top negotiators from Detroit before settlement was reached.

William A. Wecker, GM president and general manager, said: "We look forward to a period of five years without work interruptions . . . The settlement should mean facing the future with confidence."

Safeguards Workers

George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, said:

"Although the agreement is to run for five years it includes factors guaranteed to safeguard the welfare of the workers automatically each year . . ."

The agreement provides an annual increase of three cents an hour, effective immediately. The union estimates that the wage-increase and other clauses mean an increase of 14 cents an hour for the first year, climbing to more than 26 cents at the end of five years.

No general basic-wage figure could be obtained to the differing work classifications.

The new contract also provides:

1. Hours of work are to be progressively reduced from 44 to 40 a week over five years.

2. Increased life insurance, accident and sickness benefits are provided under the company plan at no addition cost to employees. The company will share the cost of hospital and surgical care for employees and members of their families.

3. Employees with 15 years or more service receive three weeks' paid vacation annually.

4. All non-productive workers (the union estimates 45 per cent are in this category at Oshawa) will receive a general increase of five cents an hour, in addition to the three-cents boost.

5. Wages will continue to be adjusted quarterly in line with changes in cost of living, based on the Dominion index.

The pension plan permits the company to reduce its contribution by a maximum of $10 a month under certain circumstances. It provides that if a government pension plan without a means test is introduced, employees will be permitted to receive a total of $100 a month from both sources without any reduction in the company payment. But insofar as the government pension exceeds $45 a month, the company's contribution will drop to keep the total sum received by the pensioner at $100.

Wrong Child Kidnapped Latest Theory

Quebec Reporter Believes Girl Abducted, Not Eaten By Bear

MONTREAL, June 21 (CP)—Le Canada in a front-page story from its Quebec correspondent today said that three-year-old Nicole Renaud was not devoured by a bear but was the kidnapped victim in a case of mistaken identity.

Nicole disappeared from a summer cottage at Chateau Bigot near Quebec City June 3 and for a week was the object of a search by more than 800 persons.

When no trace of the child was found, police said she had probably fallen prey to a bear.

Today, the French-language daily reported it had learned Nicole was kidnapped but that it was her companion, Nicole Bilodeau, also 3, who was the intended victim.

This information was furnished provincial solicitor general Antoine Rivard yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Renaud who requested that the case be reopened, said the newspaper.

In Quebec Mr. Rivard said the parents "had no new information."

Both Capt. Henri Charland, joint deputy-director of the Provincial Police and Lt. Martin Healy, stated today they believed the little girl was devoured by bears."

On the other hand a Quebec Zoological Gardens expert said he did not believe a bear ate the child.

Say Bullet Intended For Bride

Doctor Says Coat Saves Woman's Life Police Blame Jealousy

FORT COULONGE, Que., June 21—(CP)—Quebec Provincial Police said today that jealousy was the motive behind the shooting which broke up a wedding reception and sent one of the guests to hospital with a wound in the arm. Fort Coulonge is 70 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The guest, Mrs. Reginald Pare, 27, of Fort Coulonge, was shot in the left arm Tuesday night by a man said by witnesses to be wearing a brown suit. The shooting occurred at a wedding reception in honor of Sam Frost, 20, and Irene Gervais, 19, both of Fort Coulonge.

Intended For Bride

Police said they believed the shot had been intended for the bride. It barely missed a four-year-old boy Mrs. Pare was holding in her arms.

Police said they have rounded up a number of suspects for questioning. They refused to disclose their names.

Mrs. Pare was taken to hospital at nearby Shawville, Que., following the shooting. Hospital authorities said her condition was satisfactory.

Police said that when the shot rang out the bride collapsed and had to be given restoratives.

Father of the groom, Joseph Frost, had erected an open-air dance platform in front of the house and guests were celebrating

Attlee Demands Full Support On Schuman Plan

LONDON, June 21 —(CP)— Prime Minister Attlee today demanded full support from Labor members of parliament against a Conservative - Liberal challenge on the government's Schumann plan policy.

At a private meeting he told the rank and file they must give complete backing to whatever attitude the government adopts.

Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservatives, teamed up with Liberal Leader Clement Davies last night on a motion demanding Britain join current six-country talks in Paris about the plan for pooling the coal and steel resources of western Europe. The motion will be debated Monday.

Attlee already had ruled out British participation on the ground it would commit Britain to a new high authority with power to impose its decisions on governments. He said Britain wants to take a good look at the plan in its final form before committing itself.

The Churchill-Davies motion left a loophole. It proposed that Britain reserve the right to hold aloof from the Schuman plan if it considers decisions made at the Paris meeting to be "impracticable."

The Labor party now has a voting majority of seven in the House but four members are ill and may not be able to attend the crucial session. Under these circumstances, any unusual absenteeism — or abstention by party members who think Britain should take a more positive attitude toward the Schuman plan—could be disastrous.

15 Zoot-Suiters Plead Guilty

KITCHENER, June 21 (CP)— Fifteen youths, members of a zoot-suit gang picked up by a sudden Kitchener police swoop last Saturday, this morning pleaded guilty to charges of unlawful assembly. They were remanded a week for sentence.

Five of the group also pleaded guilty to carrying offensive weapons. A joint charge of conspiracy against the 15 was dismissed and the charge of carrying offensive weapons against the 10 who pleaded innocent was similarly dismissed.

Three members of the gang, which was leaving for a descent on Crystal Beach when police moved in, asked for trial by a higher court. They were D'Arcy Tanner, William House, and Walter Slusarek.

Alleged by police to be leader of the gang, Ronald Ashley obtained a week's remand without plea on request of Walter McGibbon. He is faced with the three charges which were read out to the 15 others today, plus an additional count of counselling the committal of an indictable offence.

4 Young Kidnappers Jailed For 6½ Years

TORONTO, June 21 (CP). — Four youths who kidnapped and robbed a taxi-driver and tied him to a tree near Elmvale were sentenced today to a total of 6½ years.

Ronald Gilmour 20, and Ronald Evans 19, each was given two years. Robert Bickle 18, was sentenced to 18 months; James Crosken 21, to a year. All pleaded guilty.

The cab driver, Russell Chapman, said the four hired him in downtown Toronto early June 9. Gilmour shoved a knife against his neck, and ordered him to drive north, Chapman said. Near Elmvale, they took over the cab, stole his watch, cigarette lighter, and $7 in cash, and bound him to a tree.

Bonarlaw Man Killed In Car Accident

A Bonarlaw man was killed early today and two companions injured when their car was crowded off Highway 62, on the northern outskirts of Madoc.

Charles Nobes, 49, was killed almost instantly when he was thrown from the car.

Bill Hewitt, 34, also thrown from the car, is lying unconscious in Belleville hospital with undetermined injuries.

And the third Bonarlaw man, Charles Gordanier, 34, has minor injuries.

The three Rawdon township farmers were driving south on Highway 62 when a northbound car came up the highway on the wrong side of the white line. Gordanier, driver of the vehicle containing the three men, told Provincial Police he was crowded off the highway and was forced into the west ditch.

Thrown Distance

Nobes and Hewitt were found some distance from the smashed car—a 1950 model which Gordanier has had only for a few weeks. Gordanier remained inside the vehicle despite the impact.

When Dr. S. R. Beatty of Madoc arrived a few minutes after the accident Nobes was dead and Hewitt was unconscious. The latter was immediately taken to Belleville hospital. Early today he was still unconscious.

Provincial Corporal Jack Hatch and Provincial Constable Hector Gould of Madoc investigated.

Nobes leaves his wife, the former Freda Bateman, his widowed mother, Mrs. Thomas Nobes, also of Bonarlaw; and two sisters, Mrs. Ross Carmen of Marmora and Mrs. Smith Fraser of Bonarlaw.

He had no children.

He was born in Rawdon township and farmed there during his adult life. He was a member of Springville United Church.

Thornhill Man Winner Of New Design For Nickel

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Stephen Trenka of Green Lane, Thornhill, Ont., today was named winner of the design competition for a new Canadian five-cent piece. Finance Minister Abbott announced today that Mr. Trenka's design had been accepted for the new coin which will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the isolation of nickel.

When Mr. Trenka submits a satisfactory plaster model from which a die can be made he will receive first prize of $1,000. His design is a representation of a nickel refinery with "Canada" at the top, "Nickel" and the figures "1751-1951" at the upper left and the figure "5" and the word "Cents" on the upper right. At the bottom are three maple leaves.

The coin will bet 12-sided as at present and this particular design will be minted in 1951 only

Honorable Mention

Four other Canadians won honorable mention and prizes of $250 each.

Norman D. Storey, Toronto, with a Canada goose design; Charles F. Comfort, Toronto, a cluster of maple seed pods; Fritz Brandtner, Montreal, head of grain design ;Steven Myer, Montreal, in collaboration with Sydney Massari, Montreal, nickle-mine design.

Announcing the results, Mr. Abbott said:

"Since the beginning of this century, the world has been largely dependent on Canada for its supplies of nickel. Today, this country produces nearly 90 per cent of the world's supply, consuming only about 5 per cent of her own production.

"Accordingly, it was considered appropriate that Canada should commemorate this important anniversary in the history of the metal which has become so beneficial to her economy."

High Pressure Canal Campaign

OTTAWA, June 21 (CP)—The biggest delegations to come out of the Maritimes since the days when "Maritime Rights" were cried through the land was descending on Ottawa today to try to get Nova Scotia turned into an island.

They are mustering to urge construction of the Chignecto Canal and spokesmen disclosed today that they now have the blessing of all four Maritime provincial governments.

A chartered plane loaded with delegates will fly into the capital late today to add zest to a blitz that will be climaxed tomorrow with presentation of a brief to Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the Cabinet. More than 50 farmers, fishermen, lumbermen and manufacturers will be on hand to back the presentation.

An advance party has been in the capital for the past two days, talking up their project in the places where they think it will do the most good. This evening they will entertain members of the Cabinet, of Parliament, of the press gallery and others at a reception.

It is the most determined attempt in years to put over a project that has been an issue in the Maritimes since confederation.

Its advocates contend an 18-mile canal across the Isthmus of Chignecto, near the N. S.-N. B. border, would cut 500 miles off the distance between the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Bay of Fundy.

3 Women Fired Get $300 Each

CHICAGO, June 21 — (AP) — Whether or not they were fired for "the lost art" of swearing, three women are $300 richer today.

The case of cusswords ended yesterday when the women collected $300 apiece from their former employer, the Indianapolis Glove Company of Marion, Ind.

The women were discharged in 1948. They filed unfair labor practices charges with the National Labor Relations Board.

Mrs. Edna Ruggles claimed she was fired because of union activity, but the company said it was her "excess and loud profanity". Her case drew country-wide attention when the NLRB trial examiner lamented in his findings that "swearing is a lost art".

The other women, Mrs. Louis Smith and Mrs. Delaphine Moriarity, claimed they also were fired for swearing. The company said a lack of work was responsible.

The women were not reinstated to their jobs. Mrs. Ruggles now operates a restaurant in Marion. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Moriarity are housewives.

King's Nephew Sells Estate

LEEDS, Yorkshire, England, June 21 (CP)—The Earl of Harewood, a nephew of the King, Tuesday started selling off one-third of his ancestral estate at auction to pay inheritance taxes.

Most buyers were his old tenants—farmers and trades people. The vast rural estate near Leeds, including farms, houses, cottages and a post-office and tavern in one village—for decades has been owned by the Harewood family.

The villagers, many of them employed by the Earl in his capacity as lord of the manor, rented their small dwellings, some of them at rates so low they were considered "token" rents.

But the 27-year-old Earl announced last year that 7,000 of his 22,000 acres would be put on the block. He said he was forced to break up his holdings by "the burden of death duties" (inheritance taxes.)

Mrs. Dionne Denies Triplets Expected

CALLANDER, June 21 (CP)— Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the quintuplets, today denied reports that she is expecting another child.

One rumor was that X-rays had indicated Mrs. Dionne would become the mother of triplets. She said she is expecting neither triplets nor a single birth.

"The reports are completely false," Mrs. Dionne told a reporter. "There is absolutely nothing to them."

Join Pool Or ERP Cut Senate Plan For Britain

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) —Leading Republican Senators drafted a proposal today to strip $340,000,000 out of Britain's recovery funds unless the Labor government joins in a pool of Europe's coal and steel.

The penalty proposed against Britain would be in the form of an amendment to the Economic Co-operation Administration Act which sets the rules for the European Recovery Program.

A draft of the plan is being passed around among Senators as the first step toward placing the proposal before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

In its present form, the amendment would cut Britain's Marshall Plan Aid to half during the time Britain "fails to participate in the Schuman plan for pooling western Europe's coal and steel."

Britain's share of Marshall Plan funds authorized by Congress is $685,000,000.

The British Labor party's executive committee has shown a marked coolness toward the pool plan, advanced by Foreign Minister Schuman of France. Prime Minister Attlee has said that the government is not now ready to take part in the pool, although it is "fully prepared" to seek closer economic integration of Europe.

"We frankly want to put pressure on Britain to join the pool," said one Senator—who asked that he not be identified by name.

Convict Douk Leaders Of Flouting Laws

NELSON, B.C., June 21—(CP) —The leader of a British Columbia Doukhobor colony and his secretary were convicted last night of conspiring to encourage their people to disobey the laws of Canada assemble when nude, refuse to send their children to school and commit adultery.

The charges were grouped under the heading of seditious conspiracy and it took an assize court jury 70 minutes find Michael (the archangel) Verigin and his aide, Joe Podovinikoff, guilty.

Sentence, which could run as much as two years, will be pronounced later.

Verigin is leader of the troublesome Sons of Freedom Doukhobor colony at Hilliers on Vancouver Island. Krestova, near Nelson in the B.C. interior, is the Sons of Freedom headquarters where a rash of burnings and nude parades broke out in April.

Plan Tighter AtomSafeguards

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) —High Canadian, British and American officials are meeting here to plan tighter safeguards around atomic secrets.

Officials attending the sessions were close-mouthed and the A.-KE.C. did not say when the new series of conferences began.

However, the recent arrest of three Americans by FBI agents have brought new Congressional demands for tighter control over atomic secrets.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, has called for 300 more agents to hunt down spies. Hoover testified that Red spies are trying to steal secret data on atomic research, jet propulsion, radar and germ warfare methods.

Speculation surrounding the present atomic meeting centred on two major points:

1. That the three powers are considering joint machinery for maintaining common standards of security on a more rigid basis than heretofore.

2. They must solve the security problem before they can get on with talks begun last fall toward a closer atomic partnership.

Strike Settled

WINDSOR, June 21—(CP)— Settlement terms were agreed upon today between Canadian Industries Limited, and hourly-rated employees, members of Local 195, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.). The men left their jobs at 9.30 a.m. today to attend a mass meeting at which union negotiators presented their recommendations.

Had Lighting Paradise Now Must Foot Bill

BRIGHTON, June 21 (CP). — Brighton's low-cost brightly-lit past is catching up with it.

Some 150 of the 2,000 residents of this village—10 miles west of Trenton, have been billed by the local Hydro Commission for electricity used up to 10 years ago. The bills range from $30 to $100.

A public meeting on Tuesday night demanded settlement of the billing issue. Scotty Broughton, town councillor, said if the trouble is not ironed out "we will ask for the Commission's resignation."

Manley Yerwood, newly appointed manager of the Hydro Commission, had the bills distributed after a check on meters showed discrepancies in meters and readings over the years.

Brighton townsfolk contend faulty meters or reading were not their fault and they should not now be asked to pay.

$200,000 Fire Sweeps Garage In Guelph

GUELPH, June 21 (CP)—Fire swept through the Heffernan Motor Company Garage in downtown Guelph Tuesday night, causing damage estimated at $200,000.

No one was hurt. There was no night staff in the building.

Origin of the blaze was unknown. But flames spread quickly through the one-storey brick building, destroying several automobiles inside. Firemen retrieved about half the 20 cars stored in the garage.

The blaze was prevented from spreading to adjoining buildings. Some smoke was noticed in a theatre at the rear. Patrons left the theatre, but the show was not halted.

Australia's Labor Party Takes Election Challenge

CANBERRA, June 21 (Reuters) —Australia's Labor Party today accepted a government challenge and adopted a course liable to entail dissolution of both houses of parliament and new elections.

The issue is a bill now in parliament to dissolve the Communist party. It is sponsored by the government—a coalition of Liberal and Country parties.

Prime Minister Robert Menzies threatened the Labor opposition that if it carried out threats to amend the bill in the Senate, where Labor has a majority, he would advise the Governor-General to dissolve both houses and would go to the country on the Communist issue.

The bill lays the onus of proof on the Crown only if the person "declared" Communist appeals and is prepared to give evidence on oath.

The Labor party wants the onus of proof to be on the Crown in all cases

Today a Labor caucus decided to use its Senate majority and amend the bill, thereby preventing it from becoming law this session.

In effect, it is inviting the government to carry out its own threats—submit the bill again in its present form at the next session, have it again amended by the Senate and then have parliament dissolved and an election fought on the onus-of-proof question.

Sweeping Review Planned On Poiicy

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) —Sweeping reviews of American foreign policy under way in Washington and Tokyo have torn wide open the dispute on whether the United States should help Chiang Kai-shek defend Formosa.

Official informants emphasized today that present U. S. policy is against any military assistance to Chiang in his island stronghold. The fact that policies are being reviewed, however, at least opens the possibility of a reversal of this position.

Several factors apparently will enter in the final U. S. attitude toward Formosa. Perhaps the most important of these will be Gen. Douglas MacArthur's views if MacArthur strongly favors strengthening Formosan defences and if this is reflected formally in some new decision of the joint chiefs of staff, the pressure on the administration to change its attitude will be great.

Government Prepares To Ban Import Of Ships Built In United States

Plan Designed To Aid Canadian Industry Won't Affect U.K. Ships; May Invoke Law Against Japanese Vessels

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Legislation empowering the government to prohibit the import of United States ships into Canada was approved by the Commons shipping committee today after several members disagreed over the scope of the ban. The prohibition was included in a Canada Shipping Act amendment enabling Transport Minister Chevrier to refuse Canadian registry to any ship not built in Canada. The minister said it was aimed particularly at the import of old vessels from the U.S.

Some committee members complained that the measure—aimed at helping Canada's shipbuilding industry—did not go far enough. Others claimed it went too far.

Transport Minister Chevrier disclosed to the Commons shipping committee Tuesday that this is the purpose of a 2½-line clause in a bulky series of amendments to the Canada Shipping Act which already have passed the Senate. The clause gives the Minister the power to bar from Canadian registry any ship built outside Canada. He said it was not planned to use it against shipping built in the United Kingdom.

The objective, he told committee members, was to prevent Canadian ship operators from bringing in old U. S. tonnage—often "dilapidated"—for use on the Great Lakes and coasts.

To Aid Shipyards

While Mr. Chevrier did not tell the committee the purpose of this ban, he later told reporters that the idea was to assist Canadian shipyards, which could be expected to fill orders for new vessels of the type now bought second-hand from the U. S.

Mr. Chevrier said that up to now the government has been unable to keep out the U. S. imports.

Though he was unable to say how much additional construction might fall to Canadian yards as the result of the move, the Minister said there was a substantial amount of U. S.-built tonnage in the Canadian coastal and lake trade. Applications for the purchase of American vessels were being made every week.

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) suggested before the committee that some restrictions be placed on the entry of British vessels into the Canadian coastal trade.

However, the Minister said nothing could be done about this while the British Commonwealth merchant shipping agreement remained in effect.

He made it clear that he did not intend to use against British built shipping the discretionary powers which would be given him to refuse Canadian registry to all ships built outside of Canada.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes VC, (PC-Nanaimo) suggested they might be used against Japanese tonnage. Mr. Chevrier did not indicate disapproval of that.

Find Weed Seeds Valuable Now

TORONTO, June 21 —(CP)— Weed seeds that have been reducing the value of western grain may be worth something.

Screenings from coarse grain crops of wild mustard and stinkweed have been found to yield oils which are a possible raw material for edible and industrial uses.

This was outlined today to the conference of the Chemical Institute of Canada in a paper by Dr. N. H. Grace, Dr. H. J. Lips and A. Zuckerman of the National Research Council, Ottawa.

Up to 100,000 tons of these weed seeds are found with the prairie grain crop, though the amount probably will be reduced through the use of weed killers.

Oil from wild mustard and stinkweed seeds resembles oil from rapeseed, a crop readily cultivated on the prairies. They can be used as sources of edible fats and for many industrial purposes such as blown and sulphates oils, plasticizers, lubricants and raw materials for making valuable chemicals.

Four University of Saskatchewan research chemists stated that farmers can hope to benefit from increased knowledge of the manner in which plants take up fertilizer.

Conscription Issue Sparks Stormy Debate

OTTAWA, June 21 (CP) — Charges that the Progressive Conservative party attempted to force conscription in the Second World War plunged the Senate Tuesday into probably its hottest debate of the session.

The charges by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario) ended in a verbal tussle between Senator Roebuck and Senator R. B. Horner (PC-Saskatchewan).

For the first time in weeks Senate Speaker Elie Beauregard called for order as crossfire erupted on second reading of a bill to give Trade Minister Howe power to stockpile war materials and take other independent steps for Canadian defence.

Senator John J. Haig of Manitoba, Progressive Conservative leader, led a parade of opposition speakers against the measure, termed "dictatorial." Liberal Senators replied and one—Senator Vincent Dupuis (L-Quebec) —said the next war probably would start "with an atomic bomb" and there would be no time to call parliament to put the country on a war footing.

Take Exception

Senator Iva Fallis (PC-Ontario) and Senator Horner took exception to Senator Roebuck's charge about the Progressive Conservative attitude on conscription. Senator Horner demanded a withdrawal but none was forthcoming.

Later Senator Horner, obviously incensed, termed Senator Roebuck's charge a "base lie" and a "slander."

Called to order, he was asked to withdraw his remark.

"I'll withdarw when he does," retorted Senator Horner and sat down.

The bill was given second and third reading along with measures consolidating the military codes of the armed services and bills to amend Canada's Citizenship Act and approve new Canadian-United States taxation agreements.

Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader, in moving second reading of the defence supplies and projects bill noted that Canada at present is living in peace. But she was by no means free from the threat of aggression.

Too Powerful

Senator Haig protested that the bill made "one man all-powerful." He believed the Minister should get the approval of the Cabinet and possibly parliament itself because "war is not going to come that quick."

Senator T. A. Crerar (L-Manitoba) a one-time Liberal Cabinet Minister, supported the opposition. He did not see any immediate prospect of war and was against concentrating power in the hands of one man in peacetime.

Senator Roebuck said he could not get as alarmed as others about the bill. He believed there would be conscription in the next war and the leader of the opposition would approve of that.

Senator Haig said he had never said that.

Then Senator Roebuck said the record of the Progressive Conservative party showed it tried to defeat voluntary enlistment in the last war to bring on conscription.

Senator Horner demanded a withdrawal and promptly moved several seats farther away from Senator Roebuck.

"Take him outside," called a Liberal Senator as the Speaker called for order.

Gold Stocks Jump Into Trading Light

TORONTO, June 21 — (CP) — Gold stocks jumped into the trading limelight as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Leading senior and junior gold producers forged ahead for the first time in recent weeks.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,963,000 shares.

Senior gold producers advanced fractions and leading juniors showed gains ranging up to 10 cents. For several weeks traders have ignored producing golds as market attention centred on western oils and the more speculative golds. In recent sessions, the average price level of producing golds has slipped to the lowest point in a year.

The remainder of the market found mild support following a steady decline Tuesday.

Leading industrials recovered fractions and individual issues were active. Westeel jumped $4 to a new high at $65 following reports of a stock split.

Base metals brightened quietly with Falconbridge Nickel pacing the gainers and western oils held firm in brisk dealings.

Power Plant Opened By Frost

PINE PORTAGE, June 21 (CP) —Hydro will play a big part in new expansion of Northern Ontario industry, Premier Frost said today as an 80,000-horsepower development was officially opened here.

"This new plant will give further guarantees of low-cost power in abundance," he said in an address prepared for delivery. "From the lakehead to the Manitoba boundary, industry can be told, 'Locate here and we can give you cheap power in abundance.'"

The big Pine Portage project, on the Nipigon river 80 miles north of Port Arthur and Fort William, is the second of three Ontario Hydro Commission developments put into operation this month.

The Mississagi development near Thessalon was opened a week ago. Next Wednesday, at Des Joachims, 40 miles northwest of Pembroke, a plant second only to Niagara Falls will be producing hydro power.

7,000 In Ontario Have Pension Cuts Restored

TORONTO, June 21 — Some 7,000 aged pensioners in Ontario, whose pensions were cut because of federal insistence that the province take a less-lenient interpretation of the regulations, are to have their old pensions restorer, for the time being at least. Those caught in the tightening up were pensioners with small nes' eggs in the form of property or income from tenants. Ontario enforcement of the regulations had been such that most of these people were able to get maximum pensions. The letter of the federal law requires that a fraction of the assessed value of a home, or of income from tenants, must be deducted from the pension.

Announcement that Ontario's former interpretation is to be restored was made by Welfare Minister Goodfellow Tuesday. Representations had been made to Ottawa, he said, and as a result the basis for determining income from property owned by a pensioner prior to Jan. 1, 1950, will again be used.

This, however, is conditional on the Ontario authorities conducting a survey in the province to determine the relationship between property assessments and rentals being paid, he said. He was of the opinion that some modification of the Ontario formula for applying the regulation covering property income would be necessary.

Will Co-operate

Ontario officials are anxious to co-operate with the federal representatives in this matter, Mr. Goodfellow said, and changes in the method of determining income will result only from a study of the situation existing not only in Ontario, but in other provinces as well.

Discussions between representatives of the provincial and federal governments had pointed up certain differences in interpretation of the federal rgulations by Ontario officials and other provincial authorities.

British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba deduct 5 per cent of the assessed value of homes as income. Quebec deducts 5 per cent on property where the pensioner's equity is $3,000, and 1 per cent more for every $1,000 above that.

The Ontario system—the one now to be continued—was to regard as income 10 per cent of the assessed value of the home owned by the pensioner. From the 10 per cent, however, it allowed, deductions to be made for depreciation, upkeep, insurance, water and hydro rates, and taxes. As a result, little remained as income to be subtracted from the maximum pension.

when the crack of the bullet threw them into panic. Some guests fled.

"I was standing on the dance floor with my son. I heard a loud report and felt a shot enter my left arm. I thought one of the gas lanterns had exploded.

"When I took off my coat, the bullet fell out on the dance floor. I had no idea who they were shooting at or who did the shooting. But the people at the dance told me that they saw a man with a brown suit running from the dance floor."

Dr. S. E. McDowell of Shawville said that if Mrs. Pare had not worn her coat, the bullet would have penetrated her heart.

"I feel that the lining of the coat acted as a stopper for the bullet," he said.

Faces Charge Indecent Assault Of Ten-Year-Old

Charged with indecently assaulting a 10-year-old girl, Arthur Dolan, 42, of Toronto, was today remanded for judgment until June 28 by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in city police court.

The girl testified Dolan had assaulted her indecently several times and that she didn't know it was bad. "Mother hadn't told me about that stuff," she said.

In argument, defence counsel Gordon Farquaharson said it was "most dangerous to convict without corroboration of the child's evidence."

Letters, purportedly from Dolan, who once boarded at the child's home where the assault is said to have taken place, had been introduced as evidence. One of the letters was sent to the child.

J. A. McKone, principal of a business college, testified as a handwriting expert and said he believed the letters, three in number, had been written by the same person.

Mr. Farquaharson quoted authorities as saying the evidence of handwriting experts was not altogether dependable. Crown Attorney John Bradshaw said this was rubbish, "the evidence of such experts is used almost daily in courts."

Mr. Bradshaw said he believed the evidence was "ample for a conviction."

Doctors Would Like Prepaid Medical Plan

HALIFAX, June 21—(CP)—The medical profession is working to establish a Canada-wide system of prepaid, voluntary medical care plans, Dr. J. F. C. Anderson, Saskatoon, retiring president, told the Canadian Medical Association convention here today. It is hoped to accomplish this by correlation of present provincial plans, he said.

Medical care plans should expand their coverage, and with government assistance, be brought "within the means of those citizens who now find it difficult or impossible to pay the necessary premium," he added.

Attempts were being made to find ways of extending coverage to individual subscribers and rural groups.

Dr. Anderson urged that medical care services be brought in by stages, with hospital care first on the list.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Fourteen thousand track fans packed the Melbourne, Australia, stadium. It was 1934 . . . year of the city's centennial. To celebrate the event, crack collegiate athletes from Canada, Australia and New Zealand were competing in a special sports festival.

Canada's 12-man team—largest of its kind to represent the nation abroad—took top honours. They won 8 of 11 events and shattered three Australian track records. Later, in New Zealand, they repeated their feat . . . taking 10 out of 12 top honours to make a clean sweep of the Dominions down under.

Close teamwork and sportsmanship have earned many firsts for Canada's track stars. Sportsmanship and teamwork help you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada . . . unlimited.

Raising Level Sturgeon Lake

LINDSAY, June 21.—Summer residents on the shores of Sturgeon Lake have the assurance of Chief Engineer T. J. Ryan, Trent Canal, Peterborough, that the level of the lake will start moving up again in a few days.

For some weeks now the resort and cottage owners around the lake have watched with apprehension the level of the lake fall and remain consistently below normal level. They recalled the algae scare last summer which was partly attributed to stagnant water in shallow inlets, and they anticipated trouble getting their boats out. But, according to Mr. Ryan, there is nothing to be unduly concerned about and he promises the situation will be remedied within a few days.

Mr. Ryan explains that once the spring freshet on the Scugog is over Sturgeon Lake must rely on the waters to the north for summer levels. The Scugog River and Emily Creek are the only two streams feeding the 9,000 square-acre lake and these do not supply sufficient in the summer season.

It is the lakes to the north which are the reservoirs for the system of the Trent in the summer and these are being tapped now, Mr. Ryan says, to raise the level of Sturgeon Lake. The Burnt and Gull River are being called on heavily now to let reserve waters down into the lower system.

Tobacconists Hit

PRAGUE, June 21.—(AP). — Czechoslovak tobacconists will be "gradually liquidated and transferred to the socialistic sector," the newspaper Svobodne Slovo says today. The paper also says: "Sales of tobacco products will be arranged in a manner to suit the requirement of our way of socialism."

Car Loses Wheel

CAMPBELLFORD, June 21—(ENS) — Pedestrians scattered hurriedly on Tuesday morning at the intersection of Bridge and Queen Sts. when a front wheel came off a car as it slowed down for the intersection.

The car came to an abrupt top with little damage, but the wheel continued on across the intersection, completely ignoring the red traffic signal. It came to rest on the sidewalk.

Miss C. Atkinson Celebrates 92nd Birthday

WARKWORTH, June 21 (ENS) —Miss Carrie Atkinson of Warkworth celebrated her 92nd birthday on Tuesday at the home of her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Atkinson and family in Percy township.

Miss Atkinson is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Atkinson and was born on the Atkinson homestead in Percy township. She has lived in this vicinity all of her life with the exception of a two-year period spent in California when she was on an extended visit there many years ago.

Miss Atkinson is the sole survivor of her immediate family. Three brothers and a sister have predeceased her. They were Mrs. Thomas Macklin of Fenella and Thomas, Ambrose and John Atkinson, all formerly of the 5th Concession of Percy township.

She has five nieces and six nephews living—Stewart, Warren and Hayden Atkinson of Percy; Howard Macklin of Fenella and Thomas and Howard Atkinson both of Western Canada; Mrs. Arthur Hardinge, Cobourg; Mrs. Harry McCleary and the Misses Dorcas and Helen Atkinson all of Toronto and Miss Edith Atkinson of Percy Twp.

Miss Atkinson also has many great-nephews and nieces and a host of friends who extend to her best wishes for many more years of health and happiness.

Miss Atkinson is a member of St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth, and a life member of the W.M.S. She has lived in this village for many years and is well known.

Her health is very good for one of her advanced age and she attends St. Paul's United Church whenever possible and enjoys being out in the village among her many friends.

Her greatest difficulty is failing hearing.

TOKYO, June 21.—(AP). — Mrs. Etsu Sugimoto, 76, author of "Daughter of a Samurai," died last night.

DONAT COSTE, a hopelessly crippled freelance writer, recently signed a contract for the publication of his first novel L'Enfant Noir. His novel, which he began four years ago, has a French-speaking Negro as it's principal character. The setting, he says, is the area around Levis, Quebec. Coste, who is 48, has been totally paralyzed since the age of 17, hospitalized for 13 years and spent an additional 8 years in a wheel chair.

Board Of Health Orders Outdoor "Privies" In South End To Be Modernized Or Moved

The Specialists's hair would curl if he could hear the plans of the Peterborough Board of Health.

In the south end are four outdoor toilets, or "privies", to use The Specialist's own term. The board has decided that these must go.

A paradoxical point is that one of them is owned by a plumber. City Clerk A. E. Outram suggested that proper plumbing be installed by the city and that the plumber be billed for it.

"Would you have another plumber do the job?" asked chairman J. A. Dewart.

Sanitary Inspector Ronald MacPherson said the department might have a tough time making the plumber re--vamp his facilities. "We told him a year ago he would have to change and we thought he had, but he hasn't."

The board decided further inspection would be made and that eventually the privies would have to be removed.

Lack Of Funds Cut Holiday Plan

COBOURG, June 21 (ENS) — Plans for a civic holiday program this year have been abandoned by the civic holiday committee, mostly because the necessary funds do not appear to be forthcoming. The idea of a huge four day civic holiday program was conceived during 1948 while plans were being laid for the commemoration in that year of Cobourg's 150th birthday.

In that year one of the biggest celebrations in the town's history took place and so successful was the event that it was hoped to make it an annual affair—an old home week every year for Cobourg.

Thousands of local and out-of-town people took in the holiday weekend in 1948 and last year, but this year the civic holiday committee experienced difficulty in getting plans for the 1950 celebration started and it was finally decided to pass it up.

The Kiwanis Club has indicated that it will hold its annual carnival on the civic holiday and will also sponsor sports and band concerts. However the program will not include the Legion drumhead service, which was held last Sunday instead of in civic holiday week. As the ferries are no longer running, there will be no Shriners' excursion to Cobourg and as far as is known the Calithumpian parade will not take place.

In Tree Five Days

JACKSON, Minn., June 21. — (AP).—The body of Ralph Johnson, 12, hung in a tree 75 yards from his home for five days before his sister discovered it yesterday. Police said the lad had accidentally been strangled by a piece of rope as he was climbing out of a playhouse in the tree. Branches and leaves hid the body from view.

CAS Governors Visit Society's Children's Home

The Board of Governors of the Children's Aid Society held their monthly meeting Tuesday at the Shelter, Princess St. and took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the house. The meeting was held in the children's play room, attractively decorated with nursery wall paper and tea was served after the business meeting.

A report of the Association of Children's Aid Societies of Ontario announced that Mrs. J. G. Wharry had been re-elected a vice president. She was elected to the position for the first time last year.

T. T. Rodger, chairman, reported that a new 1950 car had been purchased and another was in process of being bought. The old car had been disposed of.

The report of the superintendent, Miss Rachael Young, presented in her absence on holiday, stated that the society was sending six girls to the YWCA camp for a ten day period and 15 boys to the YMCA camp for two weeks.

Organizations which had made it possible for the society to send the children were the Kiwanis, Welfare League, Business and Professional Women's Club and the Agnes Neill and Major Bennett chapters of the IODE.

596 Children Involved

Atotal of 422 cases involving 596 children were under the society's supervision during May. Of this number 33 came to attention during the month. Police, teacher, neighbor, doctor, relative, minister, lawyer and priest were sources of referrals and others made personal application. Delinquency of children, drinking, non-support, martial incompatibility, desertion and divorce were the problems presented. There was on request for investigation in regard to the use of Family Allowance.

Five children were taken into care, two being made wards and three placed for adoption. In addition, adoption of a child already in a home was requestion. Adoptions were completed for five children, three of whom were wards. Two children who were in boarding homes were placed for adoption and two children returned to their parents who had satisfactory homes.

Six unmarried parents were contacted, three requiring assistance in planning for their children. Only one requested financial assistance from the father of the child.

Children from the Shelter enjoyed the YWCA pageant, for which Mrs. L. Yeotes again provided tickets. The New Science of Geriatrics

Elsewhere on this page today we publish an article by W. R. Givens on a subject which has often engaged the attention of this newspaper—the subject of employment for the old, and the folly of retiring men and women at sixty-five. It is a problem which will have to be faced soon, for as the life expectancy of the average person increases, a greater proportion of the population of this country will be made up of old people, and because of the advances in modern medicine those old people will be, in the main, hale and hearty. Are they to do nothing? Are they to be pensioned by the state? Are they to be a charge on the tax-paying group between 21 and 65? Or are we going to find work for them which they can do, and which will make them self-supporting and self-respecting?

• • •

It is time that the attention of the world was turned toward the problems of old age. For the past fifty years medical science has interested itself in the problems of children, their upbringing, their feeding and their psychology. This branch of knowledge has been called pediatrics. Only recently has any attention been given to the special problems of the old—their occupation, their feeding and their psychology. This latter study is called geriatrics. If it can do as much for old people as pediatrics has done for the young, the world will be a vastly better place.

• • •

At present we hear a great deal about the old age pension and about the misery which results when age and poverty are brought together. But poverty is not the only affliction of old age. Loneliness and neglect are even more common than poverty. The old need understanding and affection quite as much as the young, and they are anxious to have a place in the world and to be useful. But our economic system and our idiotic and unreasonable cult of youth for its own sake has given rise to the notion that the old are incompetent, boring and useless.

• • •

This is not so. There are plenty of jobs in which the old are as good, if not better than the young. Where steadiness and accuracy count they have special qualifications. There are old people who are bores, of course. But are there no young bores?

• • •

Intelligent attention to geriatrics will repay any nation which is ready to give a new direction to its economics. Let us get rid of the notion that complete retirement is the greatest boon that life can bring. Let us try to divide our work in such a way that the old can support themselves and maintain their self respect. Very few old people want to be pensioners. Let us do something to make it possible for them to earn their keep at work for which their experience fits them.

Canada An Agricultural Nation?

"Canada, the Granary of the World". "Farming, the Backbone of the Nation". These and similar slogans are still current. They may be true. It is interesting to note, however, that only one out of five workers in Canada today is employed in agriculture; in 1900 two out of every five were so employed. On the other hand, one worker in six in 1901 was employed in manufacturing; today one in four is a factory worker. Other statistics in point are: in 1871 eighty per cent. of the population of Canada was rural; in 1941 (the last census year), 54 per cent of the population, more than half, was urban. Today there are more urban people in Canada than the total population of this country forty years ago.

Obviously the farm vote is becoming less important in Canadian affairs, though our legislators, political parties and vote-seekers may not yet have caught up with the significance of the statistics.

The Virtue of Common Sense

The Christian church, from very early times, has insisted that all the virtues must be practiced with common sense, and has almost raised common sense itself to the level of a virtue. We are reminded of this by a news item about a child of four years old who fell into Lake Ontario on Sunday evening last; while the child floundered and cried out in alarm a crowd of nearly a dozen people looked on and shouted for somebody to do something; at last a boy of 17 hurried up, and quickly pulled the child out of the water. The onlookers explained that they had not wanted to get themselves wet.

These people lacked common sense. It is unpleasant to get wet in one's Sunday clothes, but it is far worse to let a child drown, or suffer the fear of drowning. Clothes and shoes can be dried. A drowned child cannot be brought to life. It is better to lose one's best suit than to be guilty of inhumanity. Apparently there was no danger; a depth of water which may be fatal to a small child is nothing to a grown man, even if he is not a swimmer.

Every year news reports of this kind appear in the papers. People refuse to do the most ordinary acts of kindness or humanity because they are afraid that it may cause them some small loss or inconvenience. Common sense—which theologians call prudentia—should tell us when to forget our clothes or our immediate comfort and obey the dictates of common humanity.

Handwriting As A Hobby

In many of the universities and schools of China our Western handwriting is taking the place of the Chinese characters, because it is faster and easier to write. As a result of this movement an exhibition of English handwriting through the ages is being sent to China; it begins with some manuscripts of about the year 100 A.D. and comes down to the present day. We wish that when the Chinese have seen this exhibition it could be shown in Canada, for there is very little interest in handwriting here, and people who write legibly and beautifully are uncommon.

When handwriting is mentioned, somebody is always ready to say: "Oh, but nowadays handwriting is of little importance; we all use the typewriter". This is like saying: "Embroidery is unnecessary; we can all work the sewing machine". The mechanical invention has rendered unnecessary much drudgery which used to be done by hand; it has not robbed hand work of its value.

Handwriting is an interesting hobby. It requires a fair amount of work to achieve a small degree of proficiency in it, as any hobby does, but it provides an entirely disproportionate amount of pleasure. We all have personal records which we keep by hand; it is a pleasure to make them into things of beauty by writing them with skill, so that they are legible and pleasantly laid out on the page. There is a satisfaction in doing any everyday action well, and we all do a little writing every day, even if it is only to write our names a few times, or to make a note of something that we should do, or have already done.

Our Ontario schools have, of recent years, adopted a very good method of teaching children to write. If some of these children can be persuaded to carry their studies in this field a little farther than the schools can take them, they will have a hobby which will give pleasure to themselves and to many other people.

The Use Of Golf Courses

Golf courses are commonly brooded over by even ardent golfers because they are a waste of good, productive farm land. In fact, many of the courses in this part of the country were once flourishing farms, cleared from the wilderness of a hundred years ago, and worked over by three or four generations of patient, industrious sons of the soil. Now the grain and pasture, orchard and root-crop have gone to grass. A hundred acres or more have become mere playthings.

But the courses have use. They are pleasances within reach of the cities, parks on the edges of drab streets and factory sites. There is another, newly-important use, in these conservation-conscious times. Off the fairways trees and shrubs have been planted; here and there are carefully-protected meadow streams; and each golf course has usually a real thicket, where wild-flowers, ferns, bracken and birds flourish. The golf courses are better preservatives of top soil, spring freshets, and the water table than most of the farms out of which they have been created.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A naturalist says that mosquitoes can get all the food they need without biting people. Well, it's a compliment of a kind to know that we are on the luxury list.

From The Critic's Notebook

I LEAP OVER THE WALL, by Monica Baldwin (Hamish Hamilton).

IT is rather late to be reviewing this book, which is already familiar to great numbers of readers. However, as it is likely to be read with interest for many years to come, a few months delay can do no harm. It is the autobiography of an Englishwoman who passed twenty-eight years of her life as a cloistered nun, and then obtained permission to return to the world. It contains a great deal of information about nuns and nunneries which is curious and interesting, and anyone who reads it with attention and sympathy will find that it adds greatly to his respect for the religious life.

It was my special good fortune to read it within a fortnight of finishing Thomas Merton's book "The Seven Storey Mountain", which is about a young American who, after several attempts to find peace of mind, entered a Trappist monastery. There is about Merton's book a repulsive spiritual vanity—a know-it-all religiosity—which is chilling. About Monica Baldwin's book there is a humility, a good humour and a real undercurrent of deep religious feeling which removes the bad taste left by Merton's book.

Miss Baldwin entered the cloister in 1914 and left it in 1941. To discover how much the world changed between those dates you must read her own story. It was a strange chance which brought her back into the ordinary world in the worst part of a great war, and it says much for her strength of mind that she never, apparently, regretted the comparative protection of the nunnery. She tells how she made her way in that strange new world, and as she does so she contrasts the life she left behind with the life which she embarked upon in middle age. It says much for the sweetness of her disposition that she is never spiteful or sharp about either.

Monica Baldwin is not a particularly able writer. She has not the gift of compression or of very exact expression. But she tells her story without affectation, and because it is such an interesting story she has written an uncommonly interesting, moving and illuminating book. R.D.

BRIDAL JOURNEY by Dale Van Every. (The Copp Clark Co. Ltd.).

THE action of this story takes place towards the end of the American struggle for independence and is therefore, naturally, full of the perfidious red-coated English, perfidious Indians and equally perfidious Americans. But these only serve as a background to the main theme which is the eventful journey of the bride Marah Blake who, on her trip to her fiance's new station, is captured by an Indian brave and taken, not as a scalp, but as a living prisoner to his camp where his braves and the English are taking war council together. Ill-treated and half starved by the Indians Marah is not molested, as the warriors fear that association with women during battle will sully their purity and bring them ill-luck; but she is constantly tormented and beaten by her captor's evil old mother. The news of her capture eventually gets to her fiance, Colby Gower and he sends a cousin of his, part Indian himself, to her rescue. The Indian refuses to ransom her as he intends to burn her, so that her rescue eventually becomes a race against time. How Abner Gower attempts to achieve this in the very heart of enemy country and their subsequent adventures together is the climax of the story and I will not reveal it and spoil the book for those who read it. There is a romantic interest in the story but its many vivid descriptions and passages of incredible brutality mark it primarily as an adventure story—and a very good one. S.S.T.

PRINCE ISIDORE, by Harold Acton (Methuen).

THIS is a book of a type which is unfortunately rare in our day, for it is written solely to amuse, and its style is elegant and literate. Most novelists at present are trying to be "significant"—however poorly Nature has endowed them with perception or wisdom; it rarely occurs to them that to be amusing on a high level is to be significant in a rather special way.

In 174 pleasant pages Harold Acton relates the history of Prince Isidore of Pizzofalcone, a Neapolitan nobleman unfortunately possessed of the Evil Eye. Prince Isidore is a well-disposed and indeed high-minded man, with no desire to do anyone harm, but he belongs to the dreaded class of "jettatore", and his glance is likely to bring ill-luck even to those whom he wishes well. A girl upon whom he bestows his earliest love quickly shrivels into a premature senility; a lady who admires him suffers humiliating mischances until she gives him up; his supposedly potent son-in-law—but I must not skim the cream from the story in a review. You really should read "Prince Isidore" for yourself; it is a little gem of delightful pseudo-history.

The book is very nicely produced, in a manner befitting its contents, and it is illustrated lavishly with those brilliant scribbles which Feliks Topolski calls illustrations. R.D.

PINEY, by Zachary Ball (McClelland & Stewart Ltd.).

THIS is the story of a boyhood in the American backwoods. It is a sordid, miserable background with a scarcely-human population. Piney Corbin's father, tried for a manslaughter which he committed in self-defence, is sentenced to hang; having spent all his meagre savings on his own defence he has nothing left to leave to Piney, who is to be an orphan at the age of fourteen. Wanting to do the best he can for the boy he bequeaths him to his only relative — an uneducated, avaricious cousin Spang Mauley. Mauley only accepts him because he will be free labour for his own small holding and for what he hopes to salvage from the Corbin home. Piney, accompanied by his dog Bulgar, a mule called Poke and one pig, moves in to Mauley's place and finds only one friend there, a boy his own age, Doff Wayne, whose mother boards him there to be free of him. Together the boys try to make their existence at the farm bearable, against overwhelming odds since their living companions include not only the wretched Mauley and his peculiar wife, but also Mauley's half-witted brother Jug. After a series of misadventures culminating in the death of Piney's beloved dog, Doff is reclaimed by his mother, for evil purposes only, and Piney is left alone with his revolting guardians. The climax comes when Doff runs away and Mauley, who wants to get the reward for returning him to his mother, accuses Piney of helping him hide. In a fit of terror Piney hits Jug on the head and leaves him unconscious and he too runs away. With true literary licence Doff and Piney meet on the road and together make for Louisiana and Dave Lochry, a man who once befriended them at a carnival near the farm. They reach the house-boat in which he lives safely and manage to tell him their story before the hated Mauley catches up with them. Then a tornado strikes and Doff is killed, thus leaving Piney to live with Dave, who conveniently wishes to keep him. A lot of points in this story are incomprehensible; for instance, surely the State of Missouri makes some sort of inquiries about the guardians appointed for its orphans? However if you like the sort of story built about boys, dogs, and Dickensian characters with Punch-and-Judy show appellations you will probably enjoy this without questioning its dubious points. Personally I don't and didn't.

KEEP IT FLYING

Too Many Brains Put Out To Grass

(By W. R. GIVENS)

DESPITE that there never has been greater need than there is today for intelligent, sustained, and courageous thinking and leadership, as well as for technical skill and scientific and industrial workers it is a fact that more than 65-year-old brains are being put out to pasture in this age than ever before in the world's history. Not alone great industrial corporations but banks, insurance companies, some universities, and scores of other institutions—even our armed forces—have "fallen" for this, one might say, bloodletting custom.

This fact is all the more astonishing when we learn from medical sources as well as from actuaries and statisticians that the span of life has increased somewhere between eight and ten years in the last four or five decades; and that today men of 65 are much younger in spirit as well as in physical and mental capacity than were men of 65, let us say ten or twenty years before the turn of the century; and in many instances are fully able to "carry on" for some years before they are put out to grass. Thus the economic loss to the world is enormous because of this failure to recognize the longer expectancy of life and the continued usefulness of the Lost Legions.

It is not possible to state definitely what country instituted the downhill drift, though considering the great industrial expansion in the United States and in a lesser degree in Canada one might hazard the guess that the great American Republic was first to succumb to the pressure put upon it to assure that "youth must be served", and that the oldsters should step aside when the zero hour of 65 struck. Not the efficiency of the men but their age—that was the final test put upon those who were to be forced to walk the plank.

IF we cross the water to Germany we may see how this ridiculous age pattern was first brought into being—that is, where age was the decisive factor and not efficiency. Years ago that great English magazine "Punch" presented the pattern in bold outline with its memorable drawing, "Dropping The Pilot", representing the swashbuckling, mail-fisted egoist, Emperor Wilhelm, turning adrift in a small boat, Germany's greatest and strongest man—Bismarck. The loss to Germany was incalculable, and, as later events proved, was disastrous to all the world. Nevertheless it was then that the pattern was designed—and when men in the newer world, deploring the pattern, seemed nevertheless to feel that it had to be copied, even though the replacements for the banished fell short of expectancy in many instances. The shortage, too, was aggravated by the dreadful loss of so many promising youths in the world war. Another factor that presently entered into the picture was the development of a certain lackadaisical approach to their work, on the part of some youths, coupled with an unsettled spirit, (quite understandable) following their terrible experiences and sacrifices at the front, making it difficult for many of them to adjust themselves to the changed conditions, incident to their indoor work and regularity of hours. This combination naturally affects efficiency to some extent and accentuates the economic loss, caused by the absence of the still capable men who have been sent into the wilderness.

When we think of these hosts of capable men ruthlessly cut adrift—industrialists, bankers, professors, scientists, research workers—it can readily be seen how great must be the wastage and loss. Indeed one estimate recently published is to the effect that if the retirement age had been fixed at 70 rather than at 65, the number of efficiently employed older men would have been increased by one million and would have added over one-tenth to world production and thus given greater general employment.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN this connection it is well to remember that age retirement is not compelled by any state or national law but is a purely voluntary act on the part of the corporations and institutions that feel called upon to adopt it. Hence we find that hundreds of thousands of men, free agents, conducting their own businesses and masters of their souls as well as of their destinies (in so far as any man can control his own destiny), have not been compelled to climb down from the bandwagon when it reached the sixty-fifth milestone. If one takes a look backward even for only 25 years it will be found that the number of such men is legion, but infinitely greater is the number of those who have been sacrificed. Singularly enough we could assemble a long list of present day 65 year "holdovers", beginning significantly enough with the President of the United States, Harry Truman, and the Premier of Canada, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, to say nothing of Premier Attlee, Winston Churchill, Lord Beaverbrook, Jan Christiaan Smuts and, not pausing for station announcement, that high-minded soul behind the iron curtain in Russia, Stalin, planning what he will do with the world when he is fully astride of it, as he apparently believes he may be some day, unmindful of what happened to such men as Napoleon, Kaiser Wilhelm, Hitler, Mussolini, and other such "world conquerors".

THERE is still another phase of the matter to be considered so far as workers in industrial organizations are concerned—that is, the difference between the kind of training and development given the apprentice of yester year and the apprentice of today. Twenty-five years ago, more or less, the industrial beginner, because we had no such giant organizations as we have today, was given an all-round training, working his way from the bottom up in numerous departments and well able to fit into any part of the organization. Today however, there is not the same kind of finished, general development because of the assembly lines, where men may be kept for days on end, each merely a link in the moving chain, not having or learning any other part of the workings of the organization. To be sure the worker is playing a necessary and important part and helping to round out the complete machine, but he is not receiving the general training that the beginner of other years received and ipso facto, can not be expected to possess the same general qualifications which result in ultimate knowledge. Thus when we drop the discards over the precipice into the valley, it is a matter of doubt if men to replace them are anywhere nearly as well equipped as the derelicts, or as fully available. Whether there is any point in that argument, it is at least worth considering.

It is further to be remembered that helpful as unionism has been in giving the worker higher wages, pensions, better working conditions and a real and worthily won place in the sun, it is nevertheless true that his development is in a measure retarded by the fact that he is closely regimented by his leaders who take it upon themselves to do most of the thinking for their followers, and to that extent, at least, retard their growth and development. By and large, however, there is no question that the lot of the workers today is infinitely better than it has ever been. And for this great uplift unionism must be given full credit, for it has brought home to capitalists and industrialists as never before (and somewhat belatedly), the one outstanding fact that the workingman is a human being and as such, entitled to share in the fruits and abundance of the good green earth and its riches. If there is here and there any mistaken idea on the part of some of the more youthful recruits that "the world owes them a living", we can safely trust to Time, that remorseless, ageless, ever-working entity, to effect the necessary reform. In the end they will all learn that, after all, the magic formula is Work.

AND what of the future? Well, that is in the lap of the gods; but under the circumstances and considering the ever-growing need in this sorely troubled world for our best brains and our best thinkers we may finally Stop, Look and Listen and then proceed with more moderate haste in the "weeding out" process.

Letter To The Editor

FOR DRY LAKEFIELD

Sir: I would appreciate some space in your paper to address those who will be voting in Lakefield on this coming Wednesday, June 21st, to decide whether we will provide another outlet or outlets for the liquor interests.

I understand that some of our business men favour this proposal, hoping it will increase the tourist business but since it has been estimated that only four cents in every tourist dollar is spent on beverage alcohol, this argument seems to fall short of the mark. Tourist trade is at its maximum for the two summer months but there will be twelve months in the year that this accursed traffic will be draining the cash from the stores of the village. There is only a limited amount of money to be spent and if it is spent in the liquor store or other outlet, it will not be available for necessary articles, such as shoes, clothing, groceries and meats, etc. I have been in the grocery business for nearly forty-two years and I say, without fear of contradiction, that the liquor business has been my worst enemy. I have seen good cash customers changed into bad credit ones, who finally stop dealing with you, when further credit is refused. There is only one business, another outlet for the sale of liquor will benefit and that is the liquor business.

So much for the dollars and cents side of the question. What about the moral and spiritual side? When you ask me to mark the ballot YES, you are asking me to make it easier for my friends and neighbours and their children to become drunkards. I read in my Bible: 'Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that puttest thy bottle to him....drink thou also....and shameful spewing shall be on thy glory.' Habakkuk: 2, 15, 16. 'Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.' Proverbs: 20, 1. 'Who hath woe? who hath sorrow? who hath contentions? who hath babbling? who hath wounds without cause? who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine....at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.' Proverbs 23: 29-32.

I have seen liquor sold under all forms of so-called liquor control; but the present system is the worst of any yet. The proper name for it is de-control. But why should the Government want it curtailed, when it is extracting annually over sixty million dollars out of the 'dear' public, all under the polite name of 'The Liquor Control Act'?

In closing, I would entreat all voters who value the morals of the youth (and others) of our fair village to get out on Wednesday, June 21st and VOTE NO, and in so doing, keep Lakefield dry! This is not a political issue; it is a vote for right or wrong.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper, I am,

Yours very truly,
T. C. YONGE.

Shirley Temple Own Boss, Ends Contract

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 21 (AP) Shirley Temple now is her own boss.

The 22-year-old former screen moppet ended her contract with producer David O. Selznick and now will make her own decisions. It is the first time she has been able to decide her film fate.

"I've read six scripts in two weeks," she crowed. "I'm having a lot of fun."

From the age of four, Shirley has always had her scripts picked for her. She reigned as the crown princess of 20th-Fox for nine years and brought in millions for the studio.

BO Dropped

Her box office pull began to drop when she outgrew the "cute-little-girl" roles and in 1941 she parted with the studio. After a couple of pictures for MGM and Edward Small she signed with Selznick.

The producer brought her back to popularity as a shapely young woman. The parting was friendly.

I asked her what kind of pictures she wants, now that she is a free agent.

Good Story

"Anything with a good story," she answered. "I have found two I like...and there is a chance that I may play a Japanese girl for an independent producer."

She disclosed that she had an offer to sign a contract with Warners. She turned it down.

Shirley appeared to be enjoying her romantic independence as well. Her boy friend from Hawaii, Charles Black, is in town and they are still dating.

Truman Hits Back As GOP Scores Government Aims

By STUART UNDERHILL

NEW YORK —(CP)— Government intervention in economic spheres does not mean socialism, says President Truman.

He has been saying it often in recent months, hitting back at the Republican party, which is waging its 1950 political campaign with the slogan "Liberty against Socialism."

Mr. Truman, says the Republicans, is pledged to a "program for a planned economy modelled on the socialist governments of Europe" and "dictated by a small but powerful group of persons who believe in socialism."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," the President said in a recent address. "The record shows that government action in recent years has been the salvation of private enterprise."

Some of Measures

Here are some of the measures advocated by Mr. Truman which the Republicans say would "destroy freedom" and which they describe as "a socialist handout program:"

1. Repeal of existing labor legislation in favor of a law that would strengthen the principle of collective bargaining.
2. A civil rights law aimed against discrimination.
3. A farm program that would guarantee farmers' incomes no matter the level of agricultural prices.
4. Compulsory health insurance.
5. Expanded social security especially for old people and unemployed.
6. More federal aid for housing, especially for middle class homes.
7. Strengthened anti-monopoly laws.
8. Continued rent controls.
9. Federal aid to States for education.

Hope for Best

Typical of Republican comment is that of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who said that Mr. Truman's program is to "promise everyone everything and hope to back it up with government money."

Such a "handout" state would "wreck the United States" and lead to bankruptcy, inflation and depression.

Mr. Truman calls his critics opponents of progress. In a recent address at Butte, Montana, he said:

"We have learned that in a dynamic, highly industrialized economy such as ours, the federal government must use its strength and resources to prevent violent cycles of boom and bust."

The 1923-33 depression had showed what happened if a government stood on the sidelines. A government which takes positive action "can supplement and support the efforts of private business in such a way as to keep our economy steadily expanding."

To Protect Jobs

"The strength of the government is being used now—and so far as I am concerned, it will continue to be used—to protect your jobs and improve your welfare," he added.

"Perhaps our most important single economic goal is to see that there are enough jobs for those who need them."

Heavy government spending is under unremitting criticism from the Republicans. Their protests reached a crescendo when the President said he expects a deficit of $5,000,000,000 in the 1951 fiscal year beginning July 1—the third big deficit in a row.

He insisted his program was financially sound and provided "a solid basis for moving toward budgetary balance in the next few years". The budget, calling for expenditures of $42,000,000,000, provided for "essential activities on a minimum basis and no more."

Quick Work

BOISSEVAIN, Man. —(CP)— The abundance of spring moisture here prompted fast growth, wheat and shoots were seen above the ground as soon as three days after planting. Farmers in the district had all their grain in and seeding finished by the second week in June.

Prodigals

WALGETT, Australia (CP) — Many Aborigines in this New South Wales district are earning £1,000 ($3,100) a year working among sheep, fencing properties and rabbiting. Some use tamis for commuting, paying up to £10 for each trip.

Angler's Heaven In Montreal, Fishing Banned

MONTREAL —(CP)— There's a fisherman's paradise right in Montreal's "back yard" these days but there is one big restriction—no fishing.

The scene of this angler's nightmare is the new provincial hatchery located in suburban Lachine. Behind a sturdy steel fence, muskellunge, bass and wall-eyed pike are carefully nursed to a size big enough for provincial lakes.

The muskies, main product of this "factory," are brought along through a series of crib-like hatcheries until they are big enough to be placed in pools. Some of them are more than four feet long, weighing up to 35 pounds.

Then, as the demand arises, they are shipped out to "market".

In charge of this new hatchery is Gustave Prevost, head of the Provincial Biological Bureau. It was largely through him that the bureau, co-operating with the city of Lachine, started construction.

By the time the hatchery is finished, it will be equipped with a three-storey building housing laboratory and offices, a series of small hatching tanks and a large artificial pond for the "big fellows."

The hatchery will close again this fall but will operate all-year-round when installation is completed.

Orphans Beaten By UEW In Nifty Game

UEW gained a close 6-4 decision over Orphans at the Bowl last night in the opener of the two finest games of the men's senior softball season to date, before the largest crowd.

Gordon went the route for Tom Walton's Union squad and, though touched for 11 safeties, kept them well scattered and aided by timely support afield (particularly in centre and Legrow with four in left) squeezed through to victory. Dormer's boys made a strong bid in the sixth with a great rally, to net three runs as Orphans led by Crowley, Lewis, Turner and Richardson, really belted the pumpkin. UE with six runs in the first three could not quite be headed. Sanderson's fine relief work of two hits, no walks and no runs for Orphans in the final five was the game's outstanding feature.

Local Juniors Lose Out To Westonites

In a scheduled junior lacrosse game Weston Lions defeated the visiting Peterborough Juniors 15 to 6. All the Petes tried hard but were outplayed by a heavy, more experienced team.

Batley led the Peterborough marksmen with three tallies, Vincent, O'Rielly and G. Robinson notched singles. Chard with six goals and Chapman with five were the main goal scorers for Weston.

Checking was close throughout the game but was kept well in hand by Referee Lou Vipond. With seven minutes remaining in the final quarter, Chard in goal for Weston became angered when checked by Batley outside the goal crease and retaliated by slashing the Peterborough player over the head with the goal stick. Chard was immediately tossed out of the game and a five minute penalty assessed the Weston team, this was served by Brown.

Petes: Nicholls, Beavis, Killingbeck, G. Robinson, Whitnell, B. Robinson, Wyatt, O'Rielly, Shearer, Batley, Burns, Hickson, Russelle.

Crescents Paste Athletics 15-5

By The Canadian Press.

Owen Sound Crescents have moved into top spot in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior race.

Crescents handed St. Catharines Athletics a 15-5 drubbing Tuesday to move two points ahead of Athletics and the idle Brampton Excelsiors. It was Athletics first loss of the year.

Slater was top scorer in Owen Sound's winning effort, potting six goals. Woods and G. Gillespie had two each. For Athletics Bibber O'Hearn notched a pair.

At the other end of the league ladder, Mimico Mountaineers won their first game of the year when they trounced Weston Lions 19-5 at Weston.

Eddie Sandford, hockey star with Boston Bruins of the National League, made his debut on defence for the Mountaineers.

Leading the Mimico team to victory was Johnny Hewitt with five goals. Bill Horwood got four, Donny McPhail three, and Arch Dixon and Don McKay two each.

LAURENT DAUTHUILLE, of France (left) was expected to rule a light favorite when he faced Tuzo Portuguez, of Costa Rica in the 10-round main bout at the Montreal Forum ring. Dauthuille may land a world middleweight championship fight in Montreal this summer if he scores impressively against Portuguez. He won by a TKO.

Dauthuille Wins TKO Decision Over Portuguez

MONTREAL, June 21.—(CP).—France's Laurent Dauthuille earned a sixth round technical knockout over Costa Rican Tuzo Portuguez here last night. The decision may wind up in a courtroom.

Dauthille, who Referee Leo Fisher claimed was the victim of low blows, was awarded the bout at 1.38 of the sixth round after he had his opponent on the ropes for 30 seconds of free-belting. But Manager Allie Zack claims that the referee "was too hasty and din't take into consideration Portuguez' style of fighting."

Dauthuille, who weighed in at 159½ against Portuguez's 160½, was on the receiving end of four low blows in the fifth round which almost ended in a Donnybrook before the issue was settled by the referee.

A crowd of 7,000, which contributed a gross gate of $19,289 for the 10-rounder, was brought to its feet in the last two savage rounds as the fighters blazed away toe to toe.

The near-Donnlybrook occurred when Fisher took the fifth round from Tuzo because of low punches. The Costa Rican, who does not understand English, attacked the refree, hitting him several times in the face. Fisher retaliated with a couple of bare-knuckle rights that cooled off Portuguez.

The crowd swarmed around the ringside waiting for the Montreal Boxing Commission to take action but Referee Fisher called for the fight to continue.

By the end of the past hockey season, Civic Arena had receipts totalling $45,963, and the big item was more than $15,000 realized at the refreshment booth. Cost of the booth was nearly $12,000, the total arena expenditure being $31,625. Now, the profit down there for the season was $14,337 and they had a nest egg of $3,400 from the year before, for a total of about $17,737. The management handed over $10,000 to the city, a pretty good reason why those who objected to having the arena are keeping very quiet on the subject these days. Senior hockey was a big item the past winter, turning in $14,438 to the arena.

Brampton OLA-ers Here

It'll be Brampton Excelsiors vs. the Petes in an OLA senior "A" fixture at 8.45 tonight in Miller Bowl. That should be a dandy with the loop leaders against the hot Petes. A Toronto item says: "Jerry Kendall has a Mann Cup contender wearing Excelsiors' colors this season. They have two solid scoring front lines and the addition of Lew Landess from the west has bolstered Brampton's defence, while other homebrews are greatly improved over last year." Well, we'll see this evening if the weather is reasonable. Yes, we'll see, and so will some 2,000 others, as senior lacrosse has a big following in this borough now.

* * * * * *

The COBL has declined sadly with the withdrawal of Oshawa and the Petes to enter the stronger Viaduct Major League. Scribe George Carver of Belleville remarks: "What actually is needed if senior ball, as it is tabbed by its executive—and with which we with a lot of others disagree—is to live up to its alleged calibre, is the insertion of a few good ball players in both Picton and Batawa." He writes at considerable length of ill feeling, etc. It might be that the executive isn't on its toes since Eddie Murphy and the Oshawa skipper aren't on deck this year. Of course we have no love for the present COBL executive as it has neglected though reminded several times—to pay us the regular fee for being league scorer last semester. A fine way to impress the press, huh?

Dovers Got The Verdict

The Viaduct Major League is tightening up plenty with some of the so-called weaker clubs building up and starting to go places. Toronto Dovers edged the Petes 3-2 in a fine fixture last e'en up in Toronto, getting the winning run in the final frame. Plunkett and Henderson each hurled good ball, and Dovers kept cutting off threatening rallies with fast double-plays. Men o' Murphy outhit and outfielded them a bit but left runners stranded too often. They were real tired after their second lengthy hike in a row, but they can rest now till they meet Staffords here Saturday. Standing is in elsewhere and shows quite a scramble developing. Lowrey was hit in the second and had to retire but should be okay today.

Best double-header of the men's softball season so far was served up to a large gallery last p.m. UEW climbed higher in second place with a 6-4 win over the battling but luckless Orphans. A dandy dish with each side committing but two miscues as they fought it out. A nice one to gain and a tough one to drop. East City—with Haddy Eakins in okay form — cracked Mutuals' winning streak with a 6-5 nod, Red Sullivan's triple in the seventh making for the winning marker. First loss in nine starts for the Russelle crew. The UEW pack have six wins and three negatives and East City four and five. Games tomorrow: Orphans vs. Mutuals, and UE vs. East City.

EDMONTON, June 21 (CP) — First RCAF plane to be equipped with jet-assisted take-off motors, a search-and-rescue Dakota, took off Tuesday in only 1,000 feet. The plane normally required a 3,000-foot take-off run. The aircraft was being tested in acceptance flight before being put into service.

East City Wins Close One Over Mutuals

Haddy Eakins and Red Sullivan combined to end Mutuals winning streak in the nightcap of last night's senior set of softball games at the Bowl. The score was 6-5 and the game clinching wallop came in the seventh when with O'Heron and Scriver aboard and Mutuals leading 5-3, Sullivan drove a long triple off Foster's glove in deep centre and scored himself as a wide throw evaded Hawkes at third, with what turned out to be the winning run.

Eakins twirled a fine game, struck out eight and passed but two, allowing three earned runs. His speed and control were excellent. Hunter pitched well for Mutuals too, but six walks hurt his cause, although the game might have gone either way as the teams battled evenly to the finish.

Toronto Dovers Beat Petes In Exciting 3-2 Ball Game

	P.	W.	L.
New Toronto	12	10	2
Aces	14	9	5
Oshawa	13	7	6
Petes	12	6	6
Staffords	12	3	9
Dovers	13	3	10

The Petes dropped into fourth slot by half a game last night when Toronto Dovers squeezed out a 3-2 Viaduct Baseball League victory over the Murphyites at Millen Stadium. It was a seven-inning scrap, the nightcap of a twin bill which saw Oshawa take the opener by an 8-1 count against the Aces.

Centre fielder Joe Lowery was hurt in the second and had to retire suffering mild concussion when hit on the head by a throw to second as he successfully stole the base. Ed Murphy went into bat for him next heat and played left, shifting Estlick over to centre, and Whitehll replaced Murphy near the finish of the exciting fixture, before a fair-sized crowd.

Five-Hit Ball

Doug Plunkett pitched five-hit ball and fanned five in the seven heats, while Jack Henderson of the homesters gave seven hits and whiffed six. He walked five to Doug's three, and the Petes had only one miscue. Pat Wilson led at bat with two for four, as Ed Murphy got one for one in his shorter sojourn. Estlick hit a double for the visitors. None of the victors got more than one safe blow. They cut down a number of Peterborough threats with three fast double plays, the Petes having one.

Garvey scored in the first on a single, steal and Wilson's safe blow to right. In he third, fourth and fifty, they had runners in scoring positions when twin killings cut them off, but one run scored in the fifth when Dalton walked, went up on a wild pitch, took third on an out and home on Menzies' single. They had the bases loaded in the seventh but lacked the punch for the winner.

How It Happened

Godfrey of Dovers counted in their second on a walk, a sacrifice by Lipka, a wild pitch and a hit by Cairo. Their second one tallied in the sixth on hits by Hastings and Cornack along with an out to centre. In the last of the seventh, two were out when Shadlesky beat out a hit, moved up on a balk, took third on a wild pitch and raced in on an error. Menzies' throw to cut him off after he left third was a little off and the winner counted. Cairo earlier was out at first on a bonehead, thinking a fly back of short was caught and leaving, though the ball had dropped safely.

Bisons Showing More Life, Take Twin Bill

By The Associated Press.

Buffalo Bisons' front office went against the book last week when it changed managers in mid-stream. The brain trust appointed Ray Schalk, former great Chicago White Sox catcher, to replace Frank Skaff.

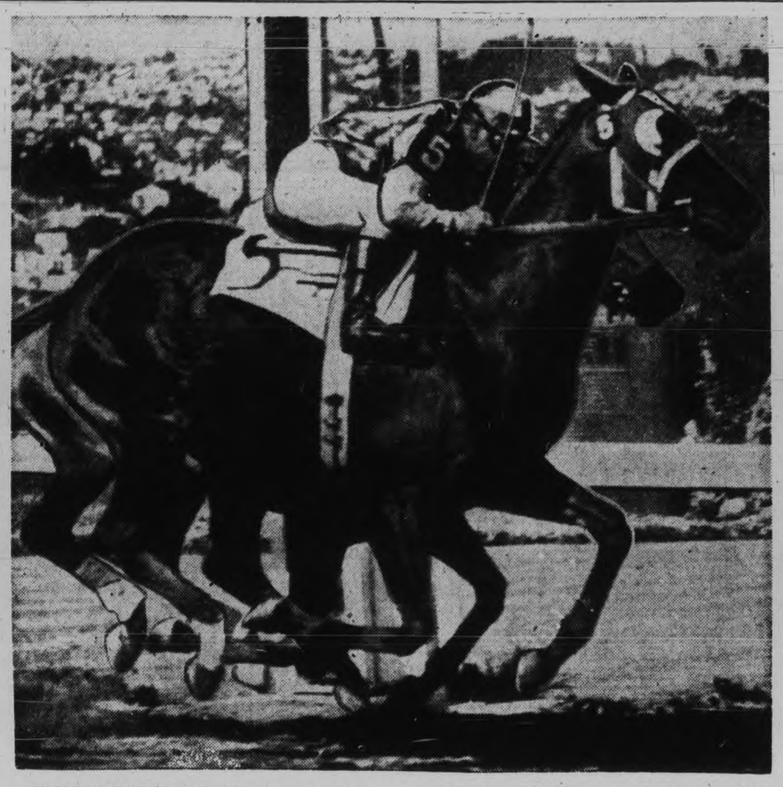
The Bisons, defending league champions, were in last place at the time. They're no better off today, but Buffalo partisans have at least, some new hope. Last night their team won its first doubleheader of the season.

Buffalo downed Baltimore 17-6 and 5-4. The second game was halted after six innings because of rain.

The Buffalo batsmen smacked five Baltimore hurlers for 11 hits in the opener, with third baseman Cy Block getting four. Walt Nobick hit a "grand-slam" home run to make Clem Hausmann's fourth victory an easy one.

Ernie Silverman spaced five hits to pick up his second triumph in the nightcap.

Split Twin Bills



Meanwhile, the battle for first place continued at a red-hot pace. Both Springfield, the leader, and runner-up Rochester split doubleheaders.

Springfield edged Toronto 2-1 in the second game after dropping a 4-1 decision in the opener. Ben Taylor's ninth inning single with the bases filled gave Springfield its margin in the nightcap. Jack Brittin stopped the Cubs with four hits in the first game.

Rochester shaded Jersey City 1-0 in their first game on Steve Bilko's home run in the fifth inning. The Little Giants took the afterpiece 8-7 on some lusty hitting by catcher Neil Watlington. Watlington smacked a double and home run, driving home four runs.

Montreal moved into fifth place by twice defeating Syracuse 10-2 and 5-2. Al Epperly, making his first start after 23 relief appearances, went the distance in the opener for his fifth victory. Montreal got 15 hits in the nightcap, including a homer by Al Gionfriddo.

George Schmees hit three doubles in the first game, Chuck Connors hit a single, double and triple in the second game, and Gionfriddo had six hits for the night.

COMING THROUGH with a tremendous stretch drive after trailing the five-horse field until the far turn, NOOR (5) is shown beating out CITATION for the third straight time in last Saturday's $10,000 handicap at Golden Gates Fields, Albany, California, with a world-shattering time of one minute, 46 4/5 seconds for the 1⅛ mile distance, which clipped off 4/5 of a second from the old mark, jointly held by Indian Broom, Shannon II and Citation's stablemate, Coaltown. Johnny Longdon, who served his apprenticeship on Western Canada tracks, piloted Noor to his brilliant victory.

As Yanks Trip Cleveland DiMaggio Gets 2,000th Hit

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Joe DiMaggio owns 2,000 big league hits and Stan Musial has 1,500.

Each slugger attained his immediate goal last night but Di-Mag's was the more self-satisfying.

Joe's two hits drove in three runs and led New York Yankees to an important 8-2 triumph over Cleveland Indians. The victory, coupled with Washington's 4-2 triumph over Detroit, boosted the runner-up Yankees to within one game of the American League-leading Tigers.

Stan slammed one hit—a home run—but it didn't prevent New York Giants from gaining their first victory of the season over his St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2. The defeat knocked the Cards out of a first place National League tie with Brooklyn. The Dodgers thrashed Cincinnati Reds 8-2 to take a game lead over the Redbirds.

Boston's Red Sox and Philadelphia's Phillies, third in their respective leagues, gained some ground. The Red Sox won over Chicago White Sox 5-3 while the Phils toppled Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3.

Shut Out Athletics

St. Louis Browns, behind Ned Garver, shut out Philadelphia Athletics 1-0 and Chicago Cubs won a 10-inning struggle over Boston's Braves 4-3.

Needing two hits to become the third active major leaguer to reach 2,000 hits, DiMaggio singled with the bases loaded in the third inning. He singled again in the seventh to drive home his third run.

Joe thus joins 41-year-old Luke Appling of the White Sox and 40-year-old Wally Moses of the Athletics as the only active performers with 2,000 or more hits. Appling, now in his 20th season in the majors, owns 2,733 hits Moses in his 16th year, has 2,064 DiMaggio, 35, is in his 12th active year.

Ty Cobb, one of baseball's immortals, holds the record for base hits with 4,191 in 24 years.

Little Chico Marrero stopped the Tigers with four hits in registering his second decision over them.

George Kell extended his hitting streak to 20 straight games, doubling in the second Tiger run in the eighth.

Brooklyn collected only six hits against three Cincinnati hurlers but half of them were home runs. Gil Hodges came with the bases loaded to highlight a six-run third inning. The Dodgers have hit homers in 14 straight games.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Tiny Ben Hogan reached golfdom's top flight eight years ago today with a dramatic victory in the Hale America Open at Chicago for his first major win. Hogan, who won the National Open for the second time early this month, finished with a 17-under-par, 72-hole total of 271. Jimmy Demaret led by two strokes at the 68th hole, but Hogan picked up five strokes on the last four holes to take top honors.

The Ontario Racing Commission Tuesday at Toronto suspended two jockeys and two owner-trainers for "conduct prejudicial to the best interests of racing." The Commission declined to give details.

Suspended indefinitely are jockeys C. E. Bright and V. Polk and owner-trainers A. Graffagnini and William Russell. The alleged misconduct took place at the Thorncliffe Park meeting.

Two horses were placed on the stewards' list, banning them from racing until restored to good standing: Hey Day, an 8-1 shot which Bright rode to an $18.90 victory Monday, and Youville, a $33 winner last Tuesday when ridden by Polk.

Graffacnini, whose home stable is in New Orleans, is owner of Hey Day. Mr. Russell is Youville's trainer; his wife owns the horse.

Two Argonauts of the Big Four announced Tuesday night they have signed two football stars from United States colleges.

The two are Warren (Whistling) Braden, a quarterback and tackle George Gilchrist. Both were Negro all-Americans last year, Braden with Louisiana University and Gilchrist with Tennessee.

Their signing brings to three the number of former Negro all-Americans who have signed with Argos. Last week they signed Marvin Earl Whaley, formerly with Morgan State College. All three played in the same college loop that produced Herb Trawyck Montreal Alouettes' line star.

The Ontario Golf Association Tuesday at Toronto announced the names of 32 golfers eligible to play in the Willingdon Cup test at Thornhill Golf Club June 26.

The Thornhill test is the second of three trials to select three of Ontario's four participants in the interprovincial team championships at Saskatoon. Fourth member of the Ontario team will be last year's Ontario amateur champion. Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, who shot lowest in the London Hunt Invitation Tournament last week.

The third Ontario Willingdon test is the qualifying round of the Ontario amateur at the Toronto Golf Club July 5.

The Jonkopings, Sweden's leading amateur soccer team, Tuesday night defeated the Manchester Uniteds, one of England's top professional teams, 3-1, at Chicago.

The Manchester team Tuesday night closed a 12-game tour of the United States and Canada, during which the squad won eight games, tied two and lost a previous decision to an English international team in Montreal, 4-2.

Two former eastern football players have signed to play the coming season with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, Ralph Misener, Bomber president, announced at Winnipeg Tuesday.

They are Jimmy Loreno, 22, halfback last season with Hamilton Wildcats, and Alan Wiley, 22, centre last year with Sarnia Imperials.

Wiley, who also plays guard, tips the scales at 215 pounds and is five feet 11 inches tall.

The playing schedule for the American-zone Davis Cup matches was announced at New York Tuesday. It pits Mexico against Cuba at Havana July 7, 8 and 9 and Australia against Canada at Montreal July 14, 15 and 16.

Australia and Mexico, the two favorites, will play in the American-zone final at Mexico City on July 28, 29 and 30 if they win. In the event of an upset, new arrangements will be made.

Final Arguments On Power Plan Given Hearing

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Final arguments were scheduled today before the United States power commission on New York State's proposal to develop, with the Province of Ontario, the huge power potential of the St Lawrence river.

The proposal, which has been before the commission for nearly two years, was initiated by Governor Thomas E. Dewey after the United States senate refused—early in 1948—to approve legislation that would have authorized construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and its related power project.

Dewey said, in effect, that as long as Congress refuses to approve the dual St. Lawrence project, it is up to New York and Ontario to do everything possible to develop the river's power potential on their own.

Annual Production

Engineers estimate that the St. Lawrence, in the vicinity of Massena, N. Y., and Cornwall, can produce annually more than 13,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy.

Testimony given at an earlier commission hearing showed that the power development would cost New York and Ontario $463,374,000.

Following the hearing, Glenn R. Law, the commission examiner, recommended that the application be rejected and that the matter be referred to congrss with a suggestion that the federal government develop the water resources.

The commission counsel took an opposite stand. He recommended that New York be granted the licence.

Save 100 Million

The commission's legal staff contends that New York, by developing the power now, would save the government $100,000,000 to $200,000,000, because some of the construction would aid "and in no ways hinder" the further development of the river for navigation (seaway) purposes.

Assuming tha the commission would approve the New York application, further approval must come from the international joint commission, which regulates uses of boundary waters.

Shriners Hold 5-Hour Parade

LOS ANGELES, June 21—(AP)—With three days of pranks and parades behind them, a few of the 135,000 fun-loving shriners in convention here settled down today to transact a little business as little as possible.

Host Nobles of Los Angeles laid caim to the biggest parade in shrine history, a five-hour procession yesterday of 14,000 marching and mounted men.

More than 50 brass bands, a dozen squeaky oriental bands and a score of drum corps spaced at intervals in the impressive cavalcade blared and throbbed hour after hour as the precision-trained patrols passed before 50,000 spectators.

A band from Toronto travelled 3,000 miles just to play "God Save The King."

Report New Kidney Working Very Well

CHICAGO, June 21—A woman who now has another woman's kidney is continuing to do extremely well, hospital officials said today.

She is Mrs. Howard Tucker. The operation, described by doctors as the first of its kind, took place Saturday. A kidney was taken from a woman who had died a few minutes before, and transplanted into Mrs. Tucker's body. Her own kidney had to be removed because it was disease-stricken.

Further tests must be made, doctors say, to determine whether the transplanted kidney is really working or whether Mrs. Tucker's remaining kidney is taking the load.

Caviare Catch

BERLIN, June 21 — (AP) — Leaders of the Evangelical (Protestant) church here said today they would demand damages from the Communist government of East Berlin for the demolition of the Georgeenkirche (St. George's church) Sunday.

Church authorities maintained the tower was firm and that they had plans to rebuild the church.

"Dapper Don" Dies In Prison

ATTICA, N. Y., June 21 — (AP)—"Dapper Don Collins," a suave international crook in prohibition days in the United States, goes to a prison grave today—unless someone from his gaudy past claims his body.

"Dapper Don" died of a heart ailment Sunday in state prison here. He was 70.

As a young man, he made one known try at an honest living. He rode a bicycle in a cage full of lions.

Then he went to New York City and began a "career" highlighted by escapes involving charges of swindling, smuggling, blackmail and just plain stealing.

A fortune slipped through his fingers when he was dodging detectives on both sides of the Atlantic—not always successfully. He served seven prison terms between 1908 and 1939.

In his heyday as a trans-Atlantic smuggler, "Dapper Don" lived high. But by 1939 he had sunk to cheap swindling and drew 15 to 30 years for stealing $200.

BRIG. R. W. MONCEL, DSO, OBE, who was the youngest brigadier in the Canadian Army when appointed to 4th Canadian Armored Brigade in August, 1944, has been promoted from the rank of colonel on appointment as Senior Canadian Army Liaison Officer in London, England. He succeeds Brig. E. C. Plow, CBE, DSO, who is returning to Canada for a new appointment.

Not Like Douks We're Canadians Mennonites Say

YARROW, B.C.—(CP)—It was a Mennonite Bill Dick talking:

"Yes, there seems to be a lot of misunderstanding about our way of life. Some people think we're something like the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. We aren't Some people say we're Communist. We aren't. We're Canadians."

Young Bill Dick is one of the partner-owners of a modern hardware store here. About 60 miles from Vancouver.

Mennonite farmers here inherited their green thumbs and their diligence from their Dutch forbears. Given a few acres and a spade, they'll make every square foot of soil pay dividends.

That is one reason Yarrow has the appearance of wealth and well-being. Another reason is thrift.

Taboos Eased

Smoking, drinking, dances, movies and cosmetitcs are taboo according to the strict tenets of their religion. There was a time, not long ago, when cigarets could not be bought here. Strict Mennonites would not enter a store which stooped to sell tobacco. But many younger men now smoke and some of the girls add a touch of lipstick when they go into nearby Chilliwack.

The Rev. John Julius Klassen receives a salary of only $50 a month, but with the yield of his healthy garden he gets by nicely.

This area was first settled in 1928 when settlers took over some 700 acres. Some came from Mexico, others from Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Originally Dutch, the Mennonites' forbears were invited to Russia to farm the rich Ukrainian soil. They refused to bear arms in their adopted land and, when persecuted for this, emigrated to Canada, the United States and Mexico.

Prefer Stealing Books About Sex

VICTORIA, BC — (CP) — There's a good reason for keeping books on sex under lock and key at the Victoria Public Library.

Prof. E. G. Jones of Victoria College says some people are so shy about sex matters that they would rather steal a book of this type rather than be seen checking one out at the library.

These people, he said, never received proper sex instruction during their youth.

There's another reason for keeping them locked up. Librarian Margaret Clay says some people are so prejudiced against technical or fictional books which discuss sex that they would burn them as heretical literature if they could get their hands on them.

Among these are many middle-aged men who in their younger days led "very unconventional lives."

"To keep the peace and to save expenses the books are locked up," she says. "But if we had our way we would place them on the open shelves."

B-A Guarantees
ITS NEW 88 and 98 GASOLINE

B-A laboratories absolutely guarantee its newly developed and perfected 88 and 98 gasolines. At no time in the history of B-A has such a fine, high octane gasoline been produced. Forty years of constant research have resulted in B-A 88 and 98 gasolines. New B-A 88 gasoline for excellent performance with economy. New B-A 98 gasoline for peak performance in any car.

Mr. M. S. Beringer, Vice-President—Manufacturing, says:

"As a result of the great progress made in the last decade in petroleum technology, we as refiners are able to meet the challenge created by motor engineering developments. Using the most successful of the new refining techniques, we have been able to produce gasolines which will keep pace with automotive design trends for years to come. We believe they are the best gasolines you can buy."

R. F. A. Smith, Refinery Manager, says:

"This new refinery we've just completed is not only one of the biggest gasoline producing units in Canada, it's one of the most modern in the world. I've been in the gasoline business for over 15 years and I've seen a lot of gasolines. But I've never seen anything like these two new gasolines our great expanded refinery is producing. You'll see the difference in your car's performance too."

D. L. Campbell, Manager of Refineries, says:

"We have recently completed the construction of a great new plant, designed and erected with only one object—to produce the highest quality motor fuels. We are convinced that your use of these gasolines will convince you that we have achieved our objective."

R. E. Irwin, Chief Chemist, says:

"These fine new gasolines have been laboratory and road tested at every stage of manufacture. They will give your car greater control of power, at both high and low speeds, than you have ever before experienced. We commend them to you with our unqualified approval."

Prospectors Still Pan For Gold Along Fraser

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Early summer's warmth has melted mountain snows and rushing streams plunge down to join the mighty Fraser in its dash to the sea.

It is now that some 700 prospectors take to the sand bars of the river to sift the current-propelled mud for tiny gold-flecked specks.

Worn from the mother-lode high in the hills by the swift water, these particles of pay dirt are whirled and tumbled until the pace of the current slackens and they sink to the bottom or drift onto sand bars, to be covered with layers of silt.

In the old days of the Cariboo, the prospectors labored over pans of mud from dawn to dusk, washing off the coarser gravel in stages until there was nothing left but a heavy, black layer of fine sand on the bottom of the pan. If he was lucky, there were traces of gold.

After washing, or panning, a cubic yard of dirt and weighing the gold to see if there was enough to make his work worth while, he decided whether to set up his sluice boxes or to move to another spot.

Little Change

The prospector uses almost the same equipment today. He uses the same type of pan and sluice box and keeps his gold dust in a leather poke or bottle.

Chances are his luck won't be as good as it would have been 94 years ago. Some men, however, still take between $2 and $5 worth of pay dirt from the river every day—when their luck is good.

In the Lytton and Hope areas, some 100 miles east of Vancouver, there are still Chinese prospectors who work the sand bars for gold. Many of them are descendants of the Chinese workers who settled in the area after the white man had exhausted his claims and moved.

Many old-timers still talk of a lost mine of fabulous wealth tucked away in the recesses of the rugged ranges which spawn the Fraser's tributaries.

They turn old eyes toward the lofty crags and gaze toward the silver ribbons of water slipping down a slope.

Up there, somewhere . . . someday . . .

Special Work For Dogs In RCMP

EAST BAY, NS —(CP)— The RCMP have a school here for giving police dogs post-graduate courses in such things as catching criminals and sniffing out moonshine.

Three dogs—Wolf, from Moncton, NB, Prince II, from nearby Sydney, and Silver, from Truro, NS—recently put on a demonstration for visitors.

The well-drilled graduates, two German shepherds and a Doberman-Pinscher, were trained for a year in tracking, attacking and searching. Wolf demonstrated his jumping prowess and Silver showed his ability to track.

Wolf then snooped out a batch of cached liquor and disarmed a quarry without injury. One of the principal chores of the dogs is to find missing persons, and many a youngster who has wandered into bush or swamp owes his life to the Mounties' dogs.

Howe Predicts A Good Year

OTTAWA, June 21 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe looked into the future Tuesday night and said he saw a good year ahead for Canada.

In a speech on the CBC broadcast "The Nation's Business," he said 1950 will be an even better year than 1949 and reported there is reason to believe Canada will be able to retain her overseas markets easily.

There also was reason to "hope" he added, that "before too long" Canadian trade with the United States will be "unrestricted and in close balance." At the moment, trade with the United States, where Canada traditionally has a deficit, is "rapidly being brought into balance."

Mr. Howe reviewed efforts to overcome the imbalance of trade with Britain and other sterling countries and said that while he could not report "that the problem of the Canadian dollar-sterling balance is fully solved, I can report that great progress has been made."

Wind Damage

Find Ottawa Bridge Has Half-Inch Sag

OTTAWA, June 21 (CP)—The Alexandra Bridge linking Ottawa and Hull will probably be reopened to rail traffic Friday, Canadian Pacific Railway officials announced Tuesday night.

Rail traffic across the structure was halted Tuesday to allow workmen to correct a half-inch sag in the centre of the bridge that spans the Ottawa River almost directly behind the parliament buildings.

Automobiles and buses are continuing to use the bridge.

Earlier Tuesday it was reported that the bridge had sagged as much as three inches.

Rail officials said the sag was discovered during a routine check Monday and that railway traffic was stopped Tuesday to speed repairs.

450 Students Expected Grade IX at PCVS

An increase of 30 students in Grade IX is expected in September over the registration last September, Howard Moebus, head of the vocational guidance department, said today. The enrolment in Grade IX during the past term was 420, approximately one-third of the total registration.

During the past week the pupils of the Grade VIII classes of the city schools visited the PCVS to become acquainted with the surroundings.

Forty-six Grade VIII city pupils have signified their intention to enter the new course for students planning to take only two years of secondary education, said Mr. Moebus. Of the others, 163 have chosen the general course, 15 the home economics course and 36 the industrial arts course.

Pupils from schools in the Peterborough High School area will visit the collegiate Friday afternoon. They will be shown the opportunities offered them in the four courses. About 150 pupils are expected to take advantage of the visit. They will make their choice of departments for their first year of collegiate.

Three Arrested On Highway After Car Theft

A car reported stolen from Oshawa during the night was recovered early today at the junction of Highway 28 and the Cavan Road and three men were arrested by Cpl. L. A. McClure and Constable Al. Russell of Peterborough headquarters of the provincial police.

The three arrested men are John E. J. Grzybouski, 27, Cyril Wallace Evenden, 25, and Jack Conrad Frayne, 22, all of Oshawa.

Some ten minutes after the radio message announcing that the car had been stolen was sent out, Constable William Daniels of Oakville, driving north on Highway 28, reported he had seen the car abandoned near the Cavan Rd. Highway 28 junction.

Cpl. McClure and Constable Russell drove out from Peterborough and on their way to the spot where the car was abandoned, met a pedestrian who was thumbing a lift. When questioned, the man said he was going to Oshawa and the police held him for questioning.

Further along the highway, the police cruiser came to two men, also thumbing a lift. When questioned, they said they were going to Oshawa and they were also held for questioning.

The three men were brought to Peterborough and placed in the city jail until the arrival of Oshawa city police, who took them back to Oshawa this afternoon.

The car was found abandoned at the place where the Oakville constable reported having seen it earlier.

Too Much Sugar Can Cause Blindness

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Health Minister Martin said Tuesday night in the Commons the government would like to extend its blindness control program to all the provinces.

Speaking during study of his departmental estimates, he said the department now co-operates with two provinces in the extension of medical and surgical aid to blind persons.

G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) said he would like to see a campaign to help people threatened with blindness. It was not generally known, for example, that too much sugar in the blood could cause blindness.

Mr. Martin said the Department has a pamphlet along those lines under consideration.

Duck Visits Electrical Store Sparrow Chooses Men's Shop

What's up? Is the housing problem affecting the birds too, or are they trying to take over the local retail business? The actions Tuesday of a stray sparrow and a cheeky young orphan mallard duck give rise to these queries. Maybe the Peterborough Business Men's Association should give the situation the once over. The problem may yet get bigger than whether or not to close on July 1.

Here's how it all started.

Early Tuesday afternoon Irving Cipin, proprietor of the Esquire Shop, was showing a customer some shirts. Several times the sales chatter was interrupted by a whirring sound. Finally the source of the noise was discovered. It was a sparrow flitting about the tie rack.

The door was shut and Mr. Cipin was at a loss to know how the bird got in.

Perhaps the color combination was too much for him; in any case after a thorough inspection of the ties, the sparrow swooped for protection under the radiator and sulkily refused to budge.

So much for that obstinate chappy.

And the duck?

Where he came from is an even bigger mystery. He was found behind a washing machine in Ken McCannan's electrical appliance store.

The tiny mallard—a pear-sized bundle of brown fluff hatched not more than a couple of days—was quite unconcerned when disovered by Ken Grainger, a clerk. Apparently he had no quarrel with his new-found lodging place.

"He's too young to fly and its hard to imagine him marching in the door to look at the wares," remarked Ken to his boss. Mr. McCannan shrugged his shoulders too; he had no explanation.

"And why behind a washing machine"? continued Ken. Was there any significance in that.

The silence seemed ominous.

Today rattled retailers all along George St. kept glancing toward their doors to make sure the bird invasion didn't continue.

Parking Meters Put Further Back At Intersections

City street corners will be freer of parked cars when the Board of Works has completed its task of removing parking meters which are placed too near the corner.

This week Board of Works men have been removing all meters which are within 80 feet of the corner of the street, following a recent city bylaw providing that all corners where there are traffic lights, shall be free from parking for a distance of 80 feet.

Clearing street corners is one of the Police Commission's Methods of combating some of the problems arising from the heavy traffic in the city.

When Inspector Vernon Paige of the Toronto Police Department visited Peterborough to help the Police Commission solve some of its traffic problems, he suggested a long space be left at street corners and the Commission accepted his advice and passed it on to city council for the necessary bylaw to be passed.

Hunter and Water St. intersections and Brock and Water Sts. are some which have been cleared this week.

Parking Meters Are Top City Collections

Parking meters are consistently leading in the report of collections at City Clerk Outram's office as shown in the figures for May. They were: licenses $877.50; miscellaneous $1,293.31; police court $1,582.72; parking meters $2,697.83

Total receipts from the meters since they were put into operation May 12, 1947, was $80,853.38.

Peterborough's parking meters have now been in use three years, and the next metering move that is being considered is to set up twelve-hour machines on the market, in order that the municipality should receive revenue value from that central block.

The council has been asking itself why it should tolerate a market deficit, with incommensurate returns, instead of insisting on "making it pay."

In the property committee report Monday the following words in brackets was struck out of the 12-hour metering clause, which was otherwise adopted: "That an order be placed for 100 12-hour dual parking meters from E. A. Horton Sales Company to be placed on the market square (when the market has been located elsewhere).

The qualifying section of the clause was not necessary to its purpose and import.

Plan Centennial Sports Week

Plans are well under way for the Centennial Sports Week, sponsored by the Recreation Commission from August 28 to September 2, Alex Sinclair, recreation director, reported to the commission Tuesday night.

An all-star team from the Ladies' Softball League will open the week's activities with an exhibition game with a Toronto team. An old timers' game will be held Tuesday night in the men's softball doubleheader and will be followed by an all-star men's team against a Toronto club.

Wednesday open doubles lawn bowling tournament will be held for the Black Memorial Gold Cup. In the afternoon a special playgrounds' day will be held and in the evening a baseball game.

Thursday night will see soccer return temporarily to Riverside park. A special game is being arranged to be held under the lights. The Peterborough lacrosse team hopes to have a playoff game in the bowl for Friday night's entertainment. This game will be preceded with a demonstration by the minor lacrossers.

The Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club will close the week's program with an aquatic show in the Lions pool. In the afternoon there will be a cricket match and a combined meet, featuring track and field work, motor cycles and bicycles.

During the week the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association plans to hold a fish derby. The golf and tennis clubs will be featuring tournaments.

U.S. Club To Visit Here

Peterborough Kiwanis Club is playing host to 25 members of the Watertown, N. Y. Club on Thursday. The visitors will conduct the luncheon meeting and the speaker will be Attorney Harold White, Kiwanis Governor for the State of New York.

The members of the American club are expected to arrive at 11:30 a.m. At noon a reception will be held in the Kawartha Room at the Empress Hotel. In order to show the visitors some of the surrounding district, a short drive to Burleigh Falls, Young's Point and Chemong Park has been arranged to take place after the luncheon.

Hospital Space Sufficient For City 70,000

Peterborough's hospital accommodation is satisfactory for a city with about 70,000 population, Dr. R. A. Kelly stated in his monthly report to the Board of Health. The city's population is at present 36,000.

Completion of the Civic Hospital and the annex at St. Joseph's Hospital has brought accommodation up to more than 400 beds.

Attendance at child hygiene clinics during the month of May was 449, an average of 26.4 per clinic, slightly above the average for May of 1949.

Communicable disease cases reported during the month totalled 112, of which 59 were of German measles. There were 22 cases of mumps, 14 of whooping cough, 14 of chickenpox and three of measles.

Motorbikes High On Accident List

COBOURG, June 21—(ENS)—Motorcycles are being numbered more frequently in the list of traffic accidents. In Port Hope four people were admitted to hospital in one week. In one accident, a motorcycle proceeding so close to the car ahead that the two-wheeler was not visible in the rear vision mirror of the car, went out of control when the two vehicles collided and ended up in the debris of a verandah.

Two went to the hospital from the accident, one of them being a girl who had been on the pillion.

Last Saturday two young men went to hospital after their motorcycle left a sharp curve in Port Hope.

Two weeks ago in Cobourg a young sport on a motorcycle did a sharp turn to impress his girl friend on the pillion but forgot the kickstand was down and did a pivot instead on the kickstand, he and his gril friend hitting the dirt to the accompaniment of brush burns.

Local police look with a jaundiced eye on young lads who drive up and down the main st. with exhausts popping, particularly those who roar through the main st. late at night.

Word from the police office is that motorcyclists will have to drive more carefully and with more regard for the ear drums of others. Four of them already have been warned.

Masonic Service Held For Late J. A. McIntyre

Pallbearers were H. Renwick, R. Drumond, S. Comrie, H. McIntyre, W. McFarlane and W. Hope. Members of the Masonic Order attended the service in body and held a graveside service at Little Lake cemetery.

U.S. Firm Publishes Reprints In England

LONDON — (CP) — A United States publishing firm is going to produce books in England for export to Canada.

Pocket Books, Inc., of New York, through Marshall aid, is establishing a subsidiary in Britain. The Bank of England will allow its to repatriate from Britain the $125,000 it will have to invest originally, plus profit to the extent of $93,750.

Proceeds after that will have to remain in the United Kingdom, unless a new arrangement is reached or controls are relaxed.

The new company will publish low-cost reprints of primarily British titles.

Besides saving on Britain's dollar imports, and supplying Britons with low-cost books, a statement said "the project is expected to result in substantial exports, including those to Canada and other hard-curency areas."

Guarantee For Cost Of Work Opening Up Subdivision Is Sought By City Council

Subdivision planners will have to deposit in advance of breaking ground a cheque for the estimated cost of the municipal works such as streets, sewers, etc., if the council adopts the recommendation of a special committee. Experience with subdivisions, pressures of the owners and promoters, costs devolving immediately to the ratepayers, and various other factors of exigency and necessity have turned the thinking of the council toward setting up a regular procedure in such enterprises of expansion and also of investment.

Ratepayers have witnessed with something like amazement the growth of the city in recent years. Although the information has been provided to them, they have probably not paid attention to the council reports of the cost of such residential developments.

The cost also applies to the Utilities Commission who supply watermains and services, electric light lines and connections.

Study Made Of Question

City council has suggested this change of attitude from time to time in their committee discussions. Recently they asked a staff committee composed of heads of departments, to study this proposal which essentially is intended to shift the cost from the general body of ratepayers, and also to separate speculative from investment undertakings.

The report was on the council file Monday, but Mayor Swanston advised that each member should receive a copy by mail for study.

The following is a summary of the recommendations: The planning board should be requested to withhold approval of a plan of subdivision until the owner has signed an agreement with the city and deposited such monies as are required to pay in cash for all such improvements as are required by the council.

Requirements Sought

Before opening or improving a street or a registered plan, or a street deeded to the corporation (as a means of getting it opened and ready for use), the council shall require certified petitions for such works as: laying a sewer; opening and grading streets; constructing storm drains; paving a street with an oiled gravel roadway including curbs and gutters, both sides, minimum width normally 28 feet; constructing a boulevard between the back of curbs and the street line by grading only.

Where there is no existing outlet for the required sanitary sewer or storm drain, the council may waive the requirement for it.

If a construction bylaw for required subdivisional works is not approved by the Municipal Board because of the lack of housing development (not enough houses on a particular street) the whole of the estimated cost of such works, as estimated by the City Engineer, shall be deposited with the City Treasurer before any such works are undertaken. If final cost is less than the estimate difference shall be returned to the owners.

The city shall be entitled to a fee of not more than 5 per cent for the engineering services and supervision of the above works, such fee to be paid out of the monies deposited.

There are other clauses in this report which is signed by City Engineer Chalmers, but these quotations indicate the trend of municipal thinking about costs of new housing subdivisions.

In recent years the council of Peterborough found itself in the position of having to undertake various works projects and get them finished in a hurry for the needs of the community, it is true, but also to accommodate the people interested in new housing projects.

TWO FINED

Two persons were fined for illegal possession of liquor by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC today. Joseph Racklin of Hamilton pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and $2.50 costs and Dorothy Dwyer, 745 Water St., was fined the same when she pleaded guilty.

Longest Day Chilly Comfort For Peterboro'

In astronomical charting the sun today had returned to its summer solstice.

June 21 is Peterborough's longest day of the year, likewise for the rest of Canada.

The solar beat extends from Capricorn in south to Cancer in the north. After a seeming pause of a few days, the sun will begin moving off toward the south again, reaching the equator Sept. 21.

Although this is the zenith of the year, weather was continuing cool. On the shady side of buildings, tropical raiment was not only drafty but also chilly.

A bus load of Peterborough farmers left at 7 a.m. today for Woodstock to see a demonstration of grass silage and its method and place in the harvest of hay. The demonstration was arranged by the Oxford Crop Improvement Association, whose members planned and carried out the first Grassland Day in Canada three years ago.

Gardeners report tardy growth on their land. They have escaped frost threats during the last week, but it is said that a field of barley on the flat road in Otonabee showed signs of having been nipped the other night.

And the tourist business of the Kawarthas is waiting for the sunshine. There's nothing else anybody can do about it.

Modernization Saves 100 Lives

Improved hospital facilities and a higher standard of living have probably saved 100 lives of Peterborough mothers and children during 1949, Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health, told the Board of Health at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

He based his statement on four factors: better obstetrical procedures, better hospital facilities, increased pre-natal care and a higher standard of living.

The figure of 100, he said, was arrived at by comparing mortality rates of infants and mothers in 1935 and 1949.

The department of health was put on a full-time basis in Peterborough in 1934 and in 1935 had its first complete year.

In 1935, the infant death rate was 77.87 per thousand; in 1949, 27.54 per thousand. Maternal mortality in 1935 was at the rate of 8.85 per thousand, and in 1949, dropped to zero. Stillbirths occurred in 1935 at the rate of 33.2 per thousand and in 1949 at the rate of 17.09 per thousand.

URGE SUB-FIRE STATION

A letter from Mr. Lorne Beebee, secretary of Peterborough and District Labor Council urging the construction of a sub-fire station in the southern section of the city, was referred by the council Monday to its fire, water and light committee.

University Of Alberta Keeping Abreast Of Building Boom

EDMONTON — (CP) — The University of Alberta is keeping abreast with the building boom in Edmonton.

Four large new buildings and an addition to the university hospital are expected to be completed this year at a cost of about $6,750,000. This will bring the cost of post-war building on the campus to more than $8,000,000.

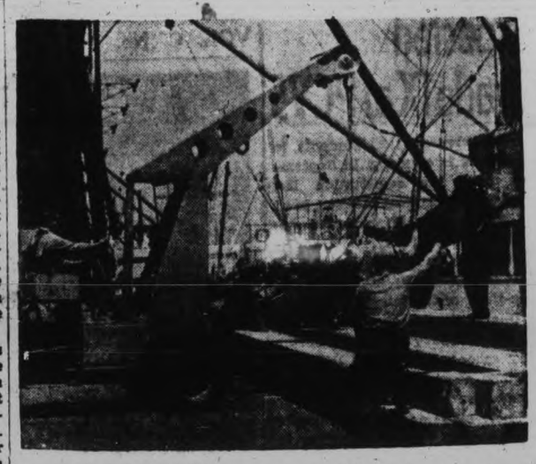
Scheduled for opening at the end of the year is the Rutherford Memorial Library. Named in honor of Alberta's first premier, A. C. Rutherford, it cost an estimated $1,750,000. The library will consolidate existing faculty and main libraries on the campus and house the university's extension library. Capacity of the four-storey structure is 265,000 volumes and 800 to 900 readers.

The students' union building, dream of university students for the last 25 years, is expected to be ready for summer-school students in July.

Built at an estimated cost of $470,000, the building will contain a men's and women's lounge, a mixed lounge and a faculty room, along with offices for student publications and administration. A recreation room is being constructed in the basement. This is the first unit of a proposed three-unit student centre. Other units will house a gymnasium and auditorium.

Hospital Addition

Costliest building on the campus is the $2,500,000 addition to University Hospital, expected to be completed in December. It will provide facilities for modern obstetrical and children's wards.



Alberta's latest tuberculosis sanatorium is the Alberhart Memorial Hospital, being constructed for approximately $1,500,000. The four-storey building will provide facilities for about 400 patients. With all beds in rooms boasting a southern exposure and supply and preparation rooms on the north side, it will be sound-proof throughout.

A $400,000 public health building is to be ready in September. It will house facilities for the provincial laboratory and be a centre for cancer research on the university campus.

Other buildings and extensions completed since the war include two large four-storey wings on the medical building at a cost of $850,000 and a $65,000 university works department building.

Proposed construction for which plans have not yet been drawn up include an agriculture and biological science building, an engineering building and administration and fine arts building.

Several classrooms and offices still are housed in prefabricated structures and quonset huts erected during the unprecedented influx of veterans after the last war.

Stalin Closes Language School

MOSCOW, June 21 (AP)—At a single blow, Prime Minister Stalin Tuesday demolished the entire School of Language Study—the followers of N. Y. Marr—which ruled among Soviet scientists for years.

The Soviet leader said the the conduct of the leaders of the Marr School of Philology—language study—has been equivalent to sabotage. It was time that Soviet philology freed itself from the "mistakes" of Marr and liquidated the "Arakcheev regime" in that branch of science.

(Arakcheev was a harsh military ruler whose name is synonymous in Russia for oppression.

(Up tonow Marr, who died in 1934, had ben regarded as the founder of Marxist-Leninist linguistic doctrine.

(Soviet censorship apparently would permit no interpretation of the statement by Stalin, but it may be connected with possible resistance in some areas of Soviet sway to the Russianizing process. The fact that Stalin himself spoke out on the matter indicates it is one of tremendous importance to the Russians.)

REGINA, June 21 (CP)—Captain Romeo Longpre of the Montreal city police force said Tuesday night he is certain Thomas Rossler, 45, taken into custody Saturday, is the man who shot and killed RCMP constable Alexander Gamman in Montreal May 25. Shrunken Head Demand Running Ahead of Supply

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, June 21—(AP)—Demand is running ahead of supply in the shrunken heads market. Fakes are available, but the real thing—the orange-sized, long-haired human head from the Jivaro Indians in Ecuador—is scarce. This grim economic note comes from Julius Carlebach, who collects primitive art and objects.

Carlebach recently sold the last of eight authentic shrunken heads he had in his shop. The price ranged from $60 to $150.

The "best ones," he explained, were about the size of an orange, had hair hanging down about 10 inches and still retained "very impressive features." He said the heads were about 50 years old.

Now the collector is having difficulty replenishing his stock because the government of Ecuador no longer permits the handiwork of the Jivaros to leave the country.

Secret Process

"If you know anybody who has any," says Carlebach, "tell them to come see me. I'll pay well. But the heads have to be from the Jivaros. They are the only head hunters who shrink them. It's a secret process."

The longer the hair, the bigger the price. In an authentic product, all bone matter has been removed and the surface has achieved a leathery condition, though still retaining the features.

"But there are a lot of fakers in this business," Carlebach warns. "Even the Jivaros themselves. The fakers use some kinds of animal skin or furs, and only the experts can tell the difference.

"One way to tell is studing the eyebrows. A real one will have eyebrows with hair slanting in opposite directions. This is very hard to fake. A phony almost always has the hair going in the same direction."

Although he's out of shrunken heads, Carlebach still has two Tibetan wine cups in stock. They're made from human skulls and sell at $75 each.

2 Ships Hit Mines Running Blockade

HONG KONG, June 21 (AP)—Two ships hit mines and sank Monday with a loss of possibly 15 lives while trying to run the Chinese Nationalist blockade of Shanghai, the Royal Navy said Tuesday.

The navy was checking on a report that more than 50 survivors of the two ships had been picked up by one of its patrol craft.

The lost ships were the 800-ton Valve, which flies the flag of Panama, and the Greek coaster Santos. (Shiping records list a Santos at 4,855 tons. This is large for Chinese coasters, but it may be the same one.)

A British patrol vessel picked up survivors.

HAVELOCK, June 21 (ENS) — Pink and white peonies made an attractive setting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Holland on Sunday for the celebration of the 40th wedding anniversary of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart of Rylstone.

20 Lady Godivas Plan Bathing Suit Protest March

LONDON, June 20 (Reuters)— Twenty near-nude bathing belles will march of the Borough of Westminster unless the London County Council removes a ban on "Bikini" swimsuits.

The Bikini (blown-to-a-shred) bathing suit is the briefest possible two-piece. At London's open air pool at Hampstead Heath bathing attendants have refused admittance to swimmers unless their costumes conform to regulations.

Regulations insist on an all-in-one suit for women, which may be backless.

Men older than 14 must wear "slips or drawers" beneath their suits or trunks—but only on mixed bathing days. One regulation states "men's costumes may be lowered to the waist if held by belts."

Another grievance held by swimmers is a rule forbidding them to sunbathe on the surrounding beach unless fully clothed.

Last week swimmers staged a protest at the pool. Now they plan more drastic measures—a march to the county hall in Westminster.

A petition which has been circulated among Hampstead residents carries several hundred signatures.

Among them is that of philosopher Dr. C. E. M. Joad, who has used the pool for 30 years.

"I don't consider the human body to be wicked," he said. "As I am not a human steak, I don't take pleasure in grilling my own in the sun, but why other people should not be allowed to do so I can't conceive."

All Father's Fault If Junior Ill Fed

TORONTO, June 21 — (CP) — Junior isn't getting the right food these days, and it's all father's fault.

Dr. E. W. McHenry, professor of Public Health Nutrition at the University of Toronto, addressing the women's session of the Chemical Institute of Canada conference Tuesday, said a recent survey of 8,000 Toronto school children showed that most of them are poorly fed. The reason: Ignorance and indifference among parents. "Father sets the food patterns and influences Tommy's diet," he said.

$543,000 Publicity Defended By Martin

OTTAWA, June 21 — (CP) — Health Minister Martin defended Tuesday in the Commons his department's plans to spend about $543,000 on publicity during the current fiscal year.

Replying to opposition criticism of the size of the proposed expenditure, Mr. Martin asked members to name one pamphlet or one film put out by his department which they considered uncessary.

Mr. Martin said no film or pamphlet is put out by his department without prior consultation with the province. Two conferences a year were held with the provinces on the matter of publicity.

Declares Fuchs Knew All Top A-Secrets

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Klaus Fuchs, the British atomic spy, knew all the top secrets not only of atom bombs but of the hydrogen bomb.

William A. Laurence, New York Times science reporter, tells the Fuchs story in the Saturday Evening Post under the title, "The Truth About the Hydrogen Bomb."

Before the first atom bomb, Laurence was at Los Alamos, New Mexico, talking to Dr. Hans A. Bethe, who headed physicists at the bomb-making plant. Atomic scientists were talking even then about the hydrogen bomb. Laurence asked Bethe if this bomb were really possible. Bethe replied yes, and that it could be made equal to a million tons of TNT and "even more than a million."

Twenty thousand tons of TNT was the rating of the atom bomb.

"And there in our midst," Laurence continues, "stood Klaus Fuchs. There he was, this spy, standing right in the centre of what he believed at the time to be the world's greatest secret. As he confessed five years later, he betrayed to the Soviet the most intimate details he learned —as a member of the innermost of inner circles—not only about the A-bomb but about the H-bomb as well. His associates at Los Alamos today sadly admit that Fuchs made it possible for Russia to develop her A-bomb at least a year ahead of time."

Simplification Of Customs Act To Aid Exports

By STUART UNDERHILL

NEW YORK, June 21—(CP)—Red tape which hinders the flow of foreign goods into the United States may be cut after Congress considers a bill to simplify customs procedure.

The bill contemplates no changes in tariffs, but would clarify regulations that have been subject to conflicting interpretation.

Many foreign shippers, including Canadians, have been harassed by vagaries in duties. Sometimes they ship goods, anticipating one rate of duty, only to find that they have to pay a higher rate.

Much of this uncertainty will be cleared away if Congress approves the Customs Simplification Act. Its progress has been slowed by a heavy legislative program and it may not be dealt with before adjournment July 31.

The bill is supported by the National Council of American Importers, whose executive vice-president, Harry S. Radcliffe, said recently:

Imports Increase

"If customs red tape were so simplified as to permit an importer to figure his final obligations to customs with reasonable accuracy at the time he places his orders abroad, our imports would increase under present economic conditions by at least $1,000,000,000 a year."

The bill naturally has opponents. A large section of the U.S. business community is against any step that would make it easier for foreign shippers to sell in the American market.

Minor technical steps have been taken to clear away confusion over customs duties. The Customs Simplification Act goes farther.

Some of its objects:

1. To simplify and make more equitable the formulas for appraising merchandise for assessment of ad valorem duties.
2. To eliminate "special-marking" requirements and to require only such markings as will indicate to the ultimate consumer the country of origin of imported merchandise.
3. To provide for uniformity of treatment.
4. To eliminate the incurring by importers of undervaluation penalties without fault on their part.
5. To permit correction by customs officers of admitted errors without appeal to the courts.

Speculation Rife On Future Of Judy Garland

HOLLYWOOD, June 21.—(AP).—Little girl, what now

That was the question on Hollywood's lips today as it recovered from the news that Judy Garland, a child star who lost none of her lustre with maturity, cut her throat in a fit of despair over her career.

Miss Garland's studio, M.G.M., suspended her Saturday after she failed to show up for a rehearsal with Fred Astaire. Monday night, during a conference about her problems with her husband and advisers, she ran into a bathroom and slashed her throat with a broken glass. Her doctor said the wound is superficial.

Some say this means that the star, who also has had marital and health troubles recently is washed up at 29. Others contend that M.G.M. would never cut adrift an actress whose recent films have grossed about $5,000,000 each.

Since May, 1949 Judy has been receiving treatment for a nervous condition. In addition, she had to combat a tendency toward plumpness.

Causes Embarrassment

Judy has frequently said she wants to continue her career. Her studio considers her one of its biggest attractions. Yet it has replaced her in three films in two years because she "caused us embarrassment, delay, inconveniece and loss of morale among co-workers."

Just what is the trouble has been the subject of speculation and rumor. This much is fact:

The first indication that she and M.G.M. were having trouble was her removal from the cast of "Barkleys of Broadway" in 1948 because she was "physically unable to play the role."

In March, 1949, Judy announced she and her second husband, Vincent Minelli, director of some of her best films, were separating. They now are reconciled.

In May, after a month of costly shooting on "Annie Get Your Gun," she was dropped for "not reporting to work." M.G.M. sent her to Boston for a "long rest" and financed medical treatments. Two months later Judy was back, 15 pounds heavier.

She rested six months, made "Summer Stock," which is getting good reviews, but was suspended again Saturday for "continually delaying" rehearsals for "Royal Wedding".

Britain's Depressed Areas Cause Parliament Concern

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, June 21 (CP)—Britain's depressed areas, whose bitter experiences between the First and Second World Wars still influence political thinking, are again a source of official concern.

Lord Lucas, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Transport, warned the other day in the House of Lords that Britain is losing the fight against unemployment in these areas, despite finding work for 200,000 persons.

The jobless in these between-the-wars black spots, now called development areas, number 144,500, or about one-half of the total unemployed in Britain as a whole.

"A disturbing factor," said Lord Lucas, "is the anticipation that this unemployment will increase."

Encourage Industries

Lord Lucas was moving second reading of a bill designed to encourage new industries in areas where they are needed most.

On a brighter note, he said that since 1945 jobs have been found in development areas for 200,000 workers and new factories have been built, or are projected, at an estimated cost of £111,000,000 ($344,100,000).

Near Jarrow in Durham, one of Britain's notorious centres of unemployment during the inter-war period—books have been written about the Jarrow story—he saw 13 factories in an area which was "absolutely derelict" before the war.

Nearby, in Darlington, Lord Lucas added that he visited a wool-spinning mill which was one of the world's finest. It cost £6,000,000 to build and ultimately will employ more than 3,000 persons.

One Side of Picture

But that is only one side of the picture, he continued. Future prospects are disturbing, he told the Upper House.

Baron Bilsland said in his maiden speech in the House that unemployment in Glasgow has remained "obstinately stationary" at between 20,000 and 25,000 since 1945. Lord Adams, on the other hand, said his district of West Cumberland, once the worst-distressed area of all, has reduced the unemployment figure from 25 per cent to one per cent.

What now are called development areas include England's northeast coast, principally the industrial Tyneside region; West Cumberland; South Wales and Monmouthshire; the industrial areas of Southwest Scotland; South Lancashire and Merseyside.

All are districts whose employment has depended largely on one industry.

OTTAWA, June 21 (CP) — Citizenship Minister Harris on Tuesday night told a delegation representing the North American Indian Brotherhood that the government intends to proceed in parliament today with the New Indian Act. The 60 delegates said they wanted time to study the bill, but Mr. Harris told them it was apparent from their arguments for and against specific provisions that they already were already familiar with it.

Hopes To Line Up More Rotary Clubs

DETROIT, June 21 (AP)—The incoming president of Rotary International Tuesday announced one primary goal for the organization during the next year: add one new club a day to the 7,100 already in existence.

Arthur Lagueux, French-speaking investment banker from Quebec City, outlined his aims at a press conference at the Rotary convention.

Lagueux said he hopes to open the organization's ranks to more young men during his administration.

He plans an extensive tour of the world. First he will visit clubs in every province in Canada, then possibly go to Alaska before touring the United States.

Lagueux, 49 today, is the fourth Canadian to hold the Rotary International presidency, but the first French-speaking one.

Tasmanian Siamese Twins Joined Together at Head

By A. T. BRADLEY

HOBART, Tasmania (Reuters).—While the searchlight of press and radio has now moved away from the Siamese twins of Northwest Tasmania, the problem of their future remains.

The twins, joined at the head, are now home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Smith, of Natone, and the centre of the family's life.

They are being bottle fed on much the same diet as their mother used for her other five children, but unless they can be separated there seems little chance that they will ever leave their bed.

They will not be able to stand, and even crawling would mean one learning to go backward as the other went forward.

They are separate personalities. Kathleen Rose is darker and livelier than Lexi Irene and one is often awake while the other sleeps.

Making Progress

In spite of their handicap, Mrs. Smith is confident that they are making good progress.

Both she and her husband are prepared to agree to an operation to separate them if specialists think it possible. Much depends on the result of an examination to be made by a Melbourne brain specialist, Dr. Graeme Robertson, when he visits Launceston, a Northern Tasmania city during the next few weeks.

Parents' Dilemma

The Smiths are uncertain what action they will take if the specialist decides against an operation.

"It would be hard to part with them," Mrs. Smith said.

The Smiths are determined that the twins shall not be commercialized. They have refused to allow any photographs to be taken.

Dr. C. Duncan, government pathologist, said that although the birth of Siamese twins was a tragedy for the parents, it was of great scientific interest to the medical profession. This type of twins, known as symmetrical inclusion twins, is rarer and few survive birth.

Conjoined twins, Dr. Duncan explained, arise from a single ovum or egg, and for that reason the children are always of the same sex. The death of one involves the death of the other in a short time.

Dr. Duncan added that surgical separation has been effected successfully in very few cases, and only where the union is over a small area. It seems unlikely that surgery can help the Natone twins unless the skull bones are fully formed and separate.

Twins have been born on both sides of the Smith family. Mrs. Smith has twin sisters and one of Mr. Smith's brothers is the father of two sets of twins.

Mrs. Smith said that she and her husband would keep the twins. In no circumstances, she declared, would they consent to the twins being placed in a home.

British Critics Pan Actress For Recent Roles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— Jean Simmons has discovered that a big build-up can mean an equally big let-down.

Once the darling of the film critics, hailed as potential first lady of the British screen, 21-year-old Miss Simmons now is being panned instead of praised.

What she needs now, the critics say, is less publicity and a few good stories. Her latest film, "So Long at the Fair," brought this criticism to a head.

Jean first blossomed as a star in "Great Expectations." Then came her resounding success as Ophelia in "Hamlet." The J. Arthur Rank organization, suddenly realizing it had a really talented actress on its hands, gave her the star-dust treatment.

World Her Oyster

There was a big party on her 21st birthday. She played the night-club circuit, moved into a Mayfair apartment and drove round in a shiny automobile. Her pictures appeared on all the front pages; showing a carefully-cultivated blonde streak in her dark hair.

Meanwhile, the let-down was looming. Pictures like "Uncle Silas," "The Woman in the Hall," "The Blue Lagoon" and "Adam and Evelyne" did little to boost her reputation.

An old Story

"So Long at the Fair," released early this month, is an old story about a girl and her brother arriving in Paris for the 1889 exhibition. The brother vanishes, leaving the girl alone in Paris ignorant of the French language and the city.

The newspaper reviewers all agreed that this was no vehicle for Miss Simmons. Milton Shulman, formerly of Toronto, wrote in the Evening Standard:

"I went along expecting to see a more mature, more experienced and more moving Jean Simmons. I saw instead a Jean Simmons who had barely advanced one step from the 17-year-old ingenue who delighted us with her promise."

Takes it Seriously

The Evening News called "So Long at the Fair" one of the most exasperating films the Rank organization has made. The Daily Express termed it a "five-finger exercise" for an actress. The Glasgow Herald said it would make a name for no one.

Miss Simmons apparently took these criticisms seriously. She is said to have telephoned Basil Dearden, director of "The Blue Lamp," a recent British hit at the box office. Dearden provided the script for a film tentatively entitled "Cage of Gold," now in production.

"This is for me," Jean told reporters, promising them that the dead-end phase of her career now is over. The critics said they would wait and see.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

"What is the proper way to discard when the pack is frozen?" asks a Kansas City fan. "Should you play safe even if that means breaking up your hand? Or should you hold on to as many pairs as possible even if that means making a dangerous discard?"

I wish I could give a simple answer to that question. I hate to keep saying, "It all depends. Yes; but, on the other hand, no." Unfortunately, there is no simple answer.

Before you plan your discards, you must ask yourself one very important question: Which side is going to get this discard pile eventually?

At the very end of a hand, the chances are that nobody will get the pack. Then your object is to discard safely at all cost. Of course you'd like to get the pack, but you don't dare risk letting it get away from you. Therefore both sides usually make the last few discards as though walking on eggs.

When the pack is frozen early, you must expect that one side or the other will get the pack sooner or later. You must decide immediately which side is the favorite.

If your side is favored, you must strike a balance between safety and enterprise. You musn't give the pack away with a careless discard, but it would be foolish to break your hand up entirely unless you have reason to believe that your partner will save the day for you. If you are quite sure that your side is favored, you can afford to discard cards that match the melds of the enemy (when such discards are safe). You can even afford to toss wild cards into the pile. After all, they will eventualy come back to you.

If the opponents are favored to win the pile, keep that fact in mind. Throw only what you are willing to have the opponents pick up. It isn't at all safe to throw cards that match the enemy's melds. They will eventually get those cards and make canastas with them. It certainly is not safe to throw your wild cards into the pile. The opponents may thank you for such a fine present, but your partner will not.

Q. Can you play six-hand Canasta with three different couples, with each couple as a partnership? We have been told that you have to play as two partnerships of three people each.

A. Both ways are possible. When you have three couples, the logical way is to let each couple be a partnership.

Q. A player has taken the pack and added the top card to a meld. May he then ask permission to go out? Or, having made a meld, must he use his own discretion?

A. He must use his own discretion. He is not allowed to ask his partner's opinion on the matter. If he melds and then asks permission, he must meld out.

Q. The pack is frozen before either side melds. South discards an ace. West puts down two aces from his hand (he needs only 50 points for the first meld) and wants to take the discard pile. North and South say he cannot do that. They say that he must meld from his hand first before he can ever take the discard pile. In other words, if he puts down three aces or two aces and a wild card from his hand at this turn, he can later take the discard pile. Is this correct when the pack is frozen?

A. It is not correct. West was entitled to take the discard pile with his pair of aces. It is not necessary to have a meld down on the table before you can take the discard pile. You are allowed to take the pile for your initial meld, whether or not the pack is frozen.

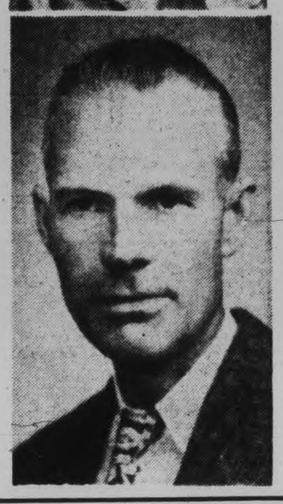
HALL'S 25th Anniversary SALE

Yes, It's 25 Years SINCE WALKER STORES LIMITED COMMENCED OPERATING OUR STORE



There weren't so many of us at that time but during the twenty-five years the "Walker Store" group originated by Sir James Woods of Gordon MacKay and Company, has extended activities until, to-day, there are almost fifty stores operated by Walker Stores Limited in Ontario alone.

The present Manager has been with the Store throughout the twenty-five years. He has made a good many friends during this long period in the one place. He still thinks Peterborough the best City in Canada. And of course that "Hall's" is your best Store in that good City.

Mrs. G. VanNest came to Richard Hall & Son straight from School. When the Store Management was changed, she remained, working with Mr. John McIntyre in the Piece-Goods Department. She left for awhile, then returned to the Ready-to-Wear Floor. In 1948 Mrs. VanNest took charge of Hall's Ready-to-Wear and Millinery. Here she is handling our problems—both merchandise and buyers—so well that the growing Ready-to-Wear business shows obvious proof of her efficiency.

For twenty-five years Miss Nora Killen has helped carry our troubles in many activities of the Store. At the present time she oversees several of our busiest Main Floor Departments and her careful handling is one of the main reasons you can depend upon getting such interesting prices and tempting variety of Hosiery, Lingeries, Smallwares, Travelling Goods, etc.

Mr. Roy Davidson came to Hall's a short while before Walker Stores Ltd., commenced operations at 353 George Street. As with all the rest of the Store, his Department has seen many changes until, at present, Roy feels he can safely invite you to come to the third floor and see as an attractive a showing as you will find anywhere.

1950 is a big year for your Ontario Hydro

On June 21, the Pine Portage Generating Station on the Nipigon River will swing into operation to supply 80,000 new horsepower to speed the development of Ontario's store of forest and mineral wealth. This is the second of three new generating stations being officially opened this month by the Honourable Leslie M. Frost, Prime Minister of Ontario, to provide all Ontario with 216,500 additional horsepower immediately, and a total of 616,500 new horsepower by the end of 1950 or early in 1951.

Ontario Hydro extends sincere thanks to the men of labour throughout the province, to our suppliers for meeting the demands made upon them, and to local Municipal Systems and consumers for conserving electricity for production purposes. Their assistance was of inestimable value in speeding to completion the 1950 portion of our huge expansion program, which will ultimately provide all Ontario with over 1,600,000 additional horsepower.

June 1950, is an important month for Ontario Hydro. On June 14, the Tunnel Generating Station near Thessalon was put into operation, supplying 56,500 horsepower to further the development of Ontario's vast mineral and forest resources. On June 21, the Pine Portage generating station will commence supplying 40,000 of 80,000 new horsepower to the Lakehead area. On June 28, the first of eight generating units of the giant new Des Joachims Development on the Ottawa River will be put into operation supplying the first of 480,000 new horsepower to meet the record demand for electricity in both Southern and Northern Ontario.

Hydro-electric power safeguards the continued prosperity of this province and we are proud of the part played by the Commission's personnel in bringing these plants to production in record time in the face of difficulties arising out of the shortage in manpower and materials.

Loyalty and Unselfishness Virtue in a True Friend

DEAR MISS DIX: What is a true friend? How should we go about selecting our friends?

A GROUP OF SCHOOLGIRLS

ANSWER: I think about the best definition of a true friend ever given was that of the little boy who said that a true friend was somebody who knew all about you and still liked you.

For all of us have many faults and weaknesses and peculiarities.

Dorothy Dix

We do many things we should not do and leave undone many things that we should do, and a true friend is one who does not remember our sins against us, but goes on loving us in spite of them. If there were not those who were capable of doing this, we would have no friends because none of us is perfect.

Must Be Dependable

As to the qualities a true friend should have, I put loyalty first. A real friend must be one upon whom you can depend in fair weather or foul. Someone you can trust. A friend must be one who rejoices with you in your triumphs and weeps with you in your sorrows.

A true friend is unselfish. She puts your pleasure and happiness above her own. A true friend respects your individual rights and privacy. She does not pry into your secrets or gossip about your affairs. She does not consider that friendship is a graft and that she has a right to ask favors of you and use your things as if they were her own. A true friend is one who is always within call when needed, but never underfoot and in the way.

As to how to go about selecting friends, that is something that is mostly a matter of luck. Most of our friendships are accidental. We meet some one in a casual way and we are just attracted to her, perhaps for no reason that we can explain, and a tie of friendship is formed between us.

It is a matter of congeniality, because it is impossible to be friends with any one whose thoughts and tastes and habits are different from ours. We enjoy those who read the same books that we read, who play our games, who like the same movies, and who talk our speech.

Like every other good thing, friendship calls for self-sacrificing and persistent work. You must always be putting fresh fuel on the flames to keep it alive, but it is a fire at which you can warm your heart as long as you live, and it is worth all it costs.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 28, going to be married soon, and my fiance and I have planned to have a home of our own, but I am the last child of my family to get married and my mother is not willing for me to leave her, although my father is living. I have helped support the family for many years longer than the other children and I now feel that I have a right to my own home and to live my own life. My mother married when she was very young and left her mother. Why shouldn't I have the same privilege? What would you suggest we do?

ANSWER: Pay no attention to your mother's selfish desire to keep you with her, but go along and establish your own home. That is best for you and your husband, and in the end it will be the best for your mother also because it will save the inevitable conflicts and misunderstandings that are sure to occur when two families try to live together.

There are many reasons why a young couple should set up their own home instead of going to live with their parents. One is that it domesticates them. Many a bride who would put on her hat and walk out on him after a spat with her husband, stays because she can't bear to give uup her kitchen curtains and the new divan they are paying for on the installment plan.

An especially every young couple should be by themselves during the first year in which they are getting adjusted to each other, so that they can have all their fights in private without either of their families standing on the sidelines hearing and sicking them on each other.

There are a million reasons for going to housekeeping when you get married and not one against it. So don't let Mother keep you from doing it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Should two children aged 10 and 7 be left alone at night while their parents go out to meetings, bridge parties, etc.? I say they are not old enough to be left alone. My husband says they are. He goes out frequently. It is very seldom that I go out any other night except Thursday to my bridge club.

A PERPLEXED MOTHER.

ANSWER: I think it is a terrible thing for a mother and father to go off and leave two small children alone in the house. A thousand catastrophes could happen for which you would be responsible if you left them alone when too little and ignorant to know how to take care of themselves.

I certainly think your husband should be willing to stay at home one night a week with the children, but if he isn't, your duty is plain. Stay with them unless you can get some reliable person to take care of them.
